SIMS AND HENRY NAMED. IN BROOKLYN PLAYHOUSES. Kinkel To-Day Appoints Them Charities Commissioners.

A Surprise to the Politicians of Kings County. Supervisor-at-Large Kinkel, of Brooklyn, this morning appointed Adolph Simis, Jr., and Charles J. Henry, Commissioners of Charities for Kings County.

Mr. Simis is appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late Commissioner Nolan, who was killed about a week ago by a fall from a railroad train. Mr. Henry will succeed George H. Murphy, whose term expires Dec. 31. The new Commissioners will serve four years from Jan. 1, 1914, at a salary of $200 a year.

Mr. Simis was born in Hamburg in 1866. He came to Brooklyn when he was three years old. He was educated in the Public School No. 16. He entered the Navy in 1887, was discharged at the close of the war and went West. He afterwards returned to New York and was graduated from Columbia College Law School.

Mr. Henry is about thirty years of age. He is a member of the Democratic Executive Committee of the Tenth Ward. In 1879 he was elected by the people as Charity Commissioner. He has since served two terms as such. Both gentlemen are considered to be of Mr. Kinkel's own selection. The appointment of Mr. Henry is particularly surprising to the politicians.

It was thought that the place would go to either ex-Governor George H. Lindsay or James H. Tully, both of whom were friends of the late Commissioner Nolan. Supervisor-at-Large Kinkel said, after the appointments were announced, that he thought the appointments speak for themselves. They were made without any reference to the politicians.

Marie Wainwright in "Frou-Frou" at the Columbia. "The Ensign" at the Park—"Credit Lorraine" at the Amphion.

Marie Wainwright, supported by a good company, opened the week at the Columbia Theatre in Brooklyn last night with a revival of the emotional drama "Frou-Frou." Miss Wainwright gave an excellent interpretation of the central character, and was rewarded with many curtain calls. Nathaniel Harwig, Barton Hill, Frederick Perry and Louise Muttner were prominent in the supporting company.

"Credit Lorraine" is the latest play added to the repertoire of Lillian Lewis. It was seen at the Amphion last night. The play was in the hands of a capable company, and the stage settings were effective. Between the acts Mohamed Basher, an Arab, imported for the Columbia Exposition, performed his native dances. "There's Ragin'" will be seen Thursday night.

NEW PARK THEATRE. There was a large audience at the Park Theatre last night to see "The Ensign," the naval drama which has held two successful engagements in the city. The Mason-Sidell incident figures in the play, and the story told is an interesting one. The stage settings were very effective, notably the scenes showing the docks of the man-of-war. Excellent work was done by James Lawrence, Stephen Eaton, Wilson, and Florence Storer and Daisy Lovick.

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE. "Eight Bells" returned to Brooklyn last night and will stay at the Grand Opera-House. Since the comedy was last seen here it has become considerably more so as to admit of the introduction of new specialties by the Hyman brothers and their corps de ballet. Some of the new tricks are marvellous of stagecraft. The musical features, including dances, were also well received.

THE EMPIRE THEATRE. Hallen and Hart were given a rousing reception at the Empire Theatre last night on their return with "The Idea." New music and dances have been added to the production, and the Hyman brothers were encored many times. J. Aldrich, Libbey and Miss Margaret Lee, star comedienne, and their corps de ballet, Wilson, Larry Dooley and C. B. Lawlor, supported the comedy.

"The Fire Patrol" held the boards at the Novelty Theatre last night. The stage picture of the interior of a stamping mill in South Dakota, with the ore-crushers at work, were strikingly realistic. The company was excellent.

AT THE Gaiety Theatre Hopkins' Trans-Oceanic Specialty Company held forth. Among those who were featured were the Larson family, acrobats; Melville and Stetson, duettists; Stephen Eaton, dancer; and Clayton and Jenkins in a sketch.

THE Langes Accused of Defrauding an Insurance Company. William and Minnie Langes were this morning in the hands of the Police Court, Williamsburg, held for examination on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the John Hancock Life Insurance Company out of $125.

Last Winter Langes, who then had a saloon at 99 Gerry street, took out a policy on the life of his wife, Minnie Langes. At the same time, it is alleged, he took out policies in other companies. In the latter part of May Langes sold the saloon to the John Hancock Company. A month later news of his death in a railroad accident was received. After the accident Langes was living quietly at 701 East 23rd street, New York.

Many Williamsburg Victims Appear Against Max Miller. $1,000 Bail Required on Each of Four Charges.

Max Miller, twenty-five years old, was held in the Ewen Street Court, Williamsburg, to-day on four charges of horse-stealing. During the last three months many stables in the Sixth and Twentieth Precincts have been robbed.

George Scheming, of 187 Broadway, accused Miller of stealing a horse and wagon valued at $300. Bernhard Heim, of 14 Johnson street, says Miller is the man who stole a horse and wagon valued at $125 from his stable. William Miller, of 288 Sumner street, says he lost a horse valued at $300, and he thinks Miller took it. John Koerner, of 321 Seigel street, charged the prisoner with driving off with his horse and wagon worth $100.
