LAST EDITION HOUSE FIGHT OVER REPEAL.

Closure Rule Probably to Be Applied to Get a Vote To-Day.

SILVER MEN FILIBUSTERING.

Wilson Moves the Previous Question to Shut Off Amendments.

BRIDGE BILL TO CONFERENCE.

House Refuses to Concur in the Amendments Made in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The spectators' galleries were crowded when twelve minutes after noon, to-day, House bill No. 1 (the Wilson Repeal bill), with the Voorhees amendment, was laid before the House and the amendment read by the clerk.

Immediately Mr. Wilson (Dem., W. Va.) moved that the Senate amendments be concurred in and on that motion demanded the previous question.

Mr. Bland (Dem., Mo.) rose and addressed the Chair, and Mr. Wilson proceeded to press a vote at the expiration of the half hour, but would consent to a postponement of the vote until such time as the bill would be permitted to proceed under the rules without asking for the previous question. Let the debate go on, and when the gentleman from West Virginia thinks it has proceeded far enough he will call for the yeas and nays.

Mr. Bland said that the reason he felt compelled to ask that the previous question be now ordered was that if he permitted the bill to go to debate the way would be opened for all sorts of amendments and he would lose control of it.

Mr. Stockdale (Dem., Miss.) asked whether or not there were any risks on this floor, except to friends of the bill. He recognized that he and his friends were in the hands of the gentleman from West Virginia, and that whatever they secured was by his grace.

Mr. Bryan asked Mr. Wilson if by the reason why the demand for the previous question was made was that if the House would not be permitted to vote upon amendments, was that one reason.

Mr. Bryan said he wanted the Journal to show that if Mr. Bland would not vote to a majority of the House, he would vote to a majority of the House, he would vote to a majority of the House, he would vote to a majority of the House.

Mr. Bland—I accept no proposition. The Wilson bill must insist on my demand for the previous question.

The Speaker was proceeding to put the question when Mr. Bryan moved to adjourn. Lost—23 to 180.

Mr. Snodgrass (Dem., Tenn.) moved that the House take a recess until 11 A. M. Lost—21 to 180.

An effort was made to secure the yeas and nays, but it was defeated by a majority of the House. Another motion by Mr. Bryan to adjourn was voted down—23 to 180.

The filibusters were unable to muster a sufficient number of members to call for the yeas and nays, and they were restricted to varying forms of the motion to take a recess and to adjourn.

JENKINS WAS SHORT $1,200. Cause of the Removal of Sing Sing's Postmaster.

No Criminal Intent Shown, Therefore No Arrest.

John Jenkins is no longer Postmaster of Sing Sing, which fact has caused much gossip in that locality. His removal is due to an unexpected visit from Post Office Inspector Shopp, who called during Mr. Jenkins' absence.

An investigation of the office showed a shortage of $1,200. The Postmaster's bondsmen were called on, but declined to make the amount good.

George Jenkins, brother of the Postmaster, and Treasurer of the town of Osewiting, which includes Sing Sing, came forward with the sum. A telegraphic report from the inspector resulted in the immediate removal of the Postmaster.

Mr. Jenkins is about thirty years of age, and has resided in Sing Sing nearly all his life. He was deputy to Col. McAlpine, and about two years ago was appointed Postmaster by President Harrison.

He was interested in the affairs of the Seventy-first Regiment, and spent considerable time in this city at the armory.

His friends claim that while he was peculiarly careful in the management of the office there was no criminal intent shown, which accounts for the fact that no arrest was made.

John H. Dunscomb, one of Mr. Jenkins' former bondsmen, is now acting as temporary Postmaster.

Mr. Jenkins was in the city to-day, and his friends confessed that he was a victim of his own negligence, and had been at home when the inspector called. His office his bondsmen and relatives would not have been called upon to make good the shortage.

AFTER CHAMPION BOB'S CASH. Mrs. Fitzsimmons Asks for Alimony and Counsel Fee.

A motion for alimony and counsel fee brought by the wife of Champion Middle-Weight Pugilist "Bob" Fitzsimmons, pending the decision of his suit for divorce against his wife, was argued by Counselor Hummel before Judge Gildersleeve in Special Term of Superior Court this morning.

Mr. Hummel submitted affidavits to the effect that the complainant had won $27,500 in prize money during the past year, and had received over $30,000 in presents from admiring friends who had profited by his victories in the prize-ring.

A motion was opposed by Counselor House, of Friend & House, attorney for the pugilist. He submitted affidavits to the effect that the defendant's assets were $32,000 in notes given by the Crescent City Athletic Club, with New York, $10,000 in cash, and $100,000 of the $400,000 purse for his fight with Jim Hall.

These notes, he contended, were practically worthless, and he submitted affidavits to that effect from attorneys in New York and other cities, who said they were given for collection.

Mr. Fitzsimmons' hands were worth $75,000 for expenses and $50 per week alimony.

Mr. Hummel submitted by Mr. Hummel named the following persons from whom the champion won purses, with their names and the amount received: "Billy" McCarthy, $2,000; Arthur Upham, $10,000; Jack Dempsey, $12,000; Peter Jackson, $10,000; and others.

MORE CRANKS LOOSE. A Russian Demands a Ticket Home and Smashes a Window.

Kink-Brained Persons Seek Vanderbilt, Webb and Depew.

Justice Voorhis, in the Essex Market Court, to-day committed Moses Schanick, twenty-one years old, a Russian shirt-maker, to the island for five months.

Schanick entered the railroad ticket office of Louis Scharlich & Co., at 231 Grand street, last evening and demanded $100 and a passage ticket to Russia.

In his hand he carried a large, new penknife and a small newspaper bundle. He talked incoherently for several minutes, and had a dangerous, insane glare in his eyes.

When refused what he demanded he became enraged, and going into the street, unwrapped the bundle, which contained a brick, and hurled it through the plate-glass window valued at $65.

Policeman Edwin Kelly took the crank into custody. The crank became violent and scratched and kicked Kelly until he was compelled to bring his club into use. On being told that he would get his ticket and money if he accompanied the policeman he went along. A few scraps of paper and three memorandum books, all covered with figures, were found on him, besides the knife.

In the delirious street violence early this morning he became violent and scratched and kicked Kelly until he was compelled to bring his club into use. On being told that he would get his ticket and money if he accompanied the policeman he went along.

The man is below medium height, of blond complexion, has a suspicion of a mustache, and short cropped hair. The firm of Scharlich & Co. say he refused $5,000 broke a plate-glass window, also worth $65. At that time he escaped.

THREATENED THE CAPTAIN. Brooks Thought He Was Meant and Had the Crank Arrested.

John O'Donnell, who says he lives at Oyster Bay, L. I., was a prisoner in the Harlem Police Court this morning. He was thought to be a crank, and Capt. Brooks, of the Twenty-ninth Precinct Police Station, had passed part of the night congratulating himself on his escape from death.

Bridge last night brandishing a revolver and muttering that he wanted to kill the Mayor and the Mayor's family. He was taken to the police station and held in a cell.

Brooks, who is followed under the name of Leonard, was taken to the police station and held in a cell. He was thought to be a crank, and Capt. Brooks, of the Twenty-ninth Precinct Police Station, had passed part of the night congratulating himself on his escape from death.

CRANK AFTER DEPEW. He Got Satisfaction at the Grand Central Station.

PEEKSKILL DEPOT, N. Y., Nov. 1.—Chief Detective Humphrey, of the New York Central Railroad, passed here this morning en route to Grand Central Station to investigate a crank movement there yesterday. The crank entered Mr. McCoy's office and said he was a police officer, and that he wanted to arrest him as one.

As he went out he said that no complaint would be made against him, and he would have to be a captain of police with his cap on.

A colored man entered the Grand Central Station yesterday, and wanted to see Mr. Depew. He said he wanted to borrow $1,000 to go to Cuba. He was put out of the building and told to move out.

LILLIAN RUSSELL'S TURN NOW. A Chicago Crank Writes that Her Brother is in Need of $400.

DANGEROUS CRANK CAUGHT. Wants to Be President and Threatens to Kill Senator Mitchell.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 1.—A rather dangerous sort of crank, who has for some time been sending letters of advice to Gov. Penney and to "The Government of Portland and Oregon," was captured shortly after noon Monday.

He is Charles Langleger, a German, of age, and has a sandy hair, and a mustache. The letters, which fall into the hands of Mayor Mason, and which were to his apprehension, is a voluminous affair.

He writes to the effect that he is a reformer, and that he is going to run on an independent ticket for the Presidency of the United States; that he has been elected to the office, and is the only man living who can safely guide the Government through the present crisis.

He thinks it will be necessary to kill Senator Mitchell, who, he says, is working against the interests of the West. He has a letter to the effect that he is going to run on an independent ticket for the Presidency of the United States.

STICKS TO HER CRANK STORY. Mrs. Haas Nearly Fainted When Held for Examination.

Martha Anna Katharina Haas, who for two years past has made miserable the life of Dr. L. Radway, of Warren street, by writing dozens of letters claiming him as her husband and demanding the mythical children that had been spirited from her, was held for examination as to her sanity in the Tombs Police Court this morning.

Her brother, who is a physician, and her father, who is a doctor, were present. The physician went to the Tombs Court and obtained a warrant for the woman's arrest.

After her husband had left her, she looked in the directory for the name and address of Dr. Radway, and she wrote him, and thought the one who now appeared as complainant should be held for examination as to her sanity.

She had recently got into the habit of staying away from her home, 23 West Houston street, and while the family were out of the house, she would go to the office of the Mayor in Chicago, asking to be added to the Committee.

She had a letter to the effect that she was a police officer, and that she wanted to arrest him as one. She was put out of the building and told to move out.

SADIE COULD NOT VANISH. IT'S BAD FOR BAHAN. DANA LEAVES IN DISGUST.

Justice Martin, in the Tombs Police Court this morning, had a hard time trying to decide whether or not nineteen year old Sadie Weinberg was of unsound mind. The girl at first showed no evidence of insanity, although her brother insisted that she was a terror to the rest of the family, and that all were afraid of her.

She told Justice Martin she could leave court unseen. Notary Who Certified to Nominations in Trouble. Charge of Perjury in the Third Degree Against Him.

LAST EDITION COLLISION ON THE "L."

A Brooklyn-Union Train Crashes Into Another at Fulton Street.

Passengers Badly Frightened—One Woman's Narrow Escape.

Later an Engine is Thrown Off the Track—Traffic Delayed.

A rear-end collision occurred at the Fulton street station of the Fifth Avenue "L" road in Brooklyn about 6 o'clock this morning. The shock of the collision threw the passengers from their seats to the floor, and in the rush to get out of the cars which followed one young woman had a narrow escape from death. It was a marvel that not one of the cars was thrown down to the street.

The accident happened at an extremely dangerous point, where the sharp curve ends, just before the downtown station at Fulton street is reached. The indirect cause of the collision was the stopping for repairs to the engine which drew the train due at the Fulton street station about 6:30 o'clock. A screw in the boiler-plate had become loose.

This happened just after the train had drawn out of the station. The rear engine had been tested the day before when the train came to a stop at Fulton street station and the engine was stopped at the station.

The distance between the rear of the train standing on the platform and the coming locomotive was too short to allow of applying the brakes in time. A male passenger sitting near the front door was seriously cut about the face by flying glass. His nature was not learned.

In the excitement which followed women screamed, because hysterical. One young woman, Miss Annie Liden, of Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn, employed in Bennett's Park Road restaurant, was thrown from the car and landed on the platform. She was not injured.

Another young woman, Miss Liden, of Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn, employed in Bennett's Park Road restaurant, was thrown from the car and landed on the platform. She was not injured.
