THIEVES BURGLARS IN HIS ROOM.

Charles Rec Chases One of Them Through the Streets.

He Was Armed with a Revolver and Got Arrested.

Policeman Thompson, of the Hamilton avenue station, Brooklyn, heard a pistol shot at 1 o'clock this morning and saw a man running through Conover street followed by another man who was only partly dressed.

The pursuer carried a revolver in his hand and yelled lustily for the police. The fugitive got away and Thompson arrested the man with the revolver, who said he was Charles Rec, forty years old, of 17 Conover street.

Rec said he reached home shortly before midnight and was going out to sleep when he heard somebody moving around in his room. Two men stood over him, and one of them, he says, dealt him a stinging blow in the face. They then left him, and he, Rec, went to his room, where he found a revolver and a box of cartridges.

Rec, twenty-three years old, of 152 Conover street, on suspicion of being one of the burglars who had broken into the house, had been in the company of David Rose, of 146 Conover street, who was arrested, but as Rec was unable to identify either of them, they were not held.

THEY MADE A SCENE.

Female Counterfeiters Turn a Marshal's Office Into a Hospital.

One Went Mad and the Other Had an Epileptic Fit.

There was an exciting scene this morning in the office of Deputy United States Marshal Higgart in the Federal Building in Brooklyn.

Two women, Marie Garlando, who lives in Richards street, and Mrs. Josephine Lebaron, of 1022 Atlantic avenue, had been brought down from jail to plead to indictments charging them with passing counterfeit money.

Marie is a very pretty young woman. The authorities allege, however, that she has been doing a thriving business in passing counterfeit money, and not only pleaded to indictments charging them with passing counterfeit money, but also to a charge of counterfeiting, and took part in their manufacture.

Before they were arraigned both women complained of feeling ill. They were taken to the United States Marshal's office, where they were taken to a room where Garlando was taken with a fit of hysteria.

While lying in the middle of the room, she let out a shriek which made the windows rattle, and then began tearing at her hair and screaming. The attendants of the office attempted to restrain her, but she fought them off and was reduced to submission.

Mrs. Lebaron, who had witnessed the scene, was taken to a room where she was confined, and she had an epileptic fit. She had been attacked with epilepsy. After the fit she became hysterical, but without success. An ambulance was called, and Surgeon Shattuck, who responded to the call, said she was a very sick woman and removed her to the City Hospital.

The younger prisoner was taken back to Raymond Street Jail.

VOTING IN THE EIGHTH WARD.

Krombach's Supporters Early at the Polls.

1,320 Ballots Cast in the First Hour and a Half.

Nearly all the voters in the Eighth Ward, of Brooklyn, turned out early this morning to take part in the special election ordered by Gov. Flower, and they cast their ballots for one of the four candidates for Supervisor.

The polls were opened at 6:27 and will close this afternoon at 5:57.

There was lively voting in the first hour. Krombach's Democratic nominalists having in that time polled more than half of the vote he expected.

This is accounted for by the fact that the regulars turned out early and that the other voters were holding back.

Many voters who were about the polls watching the excitement refused to cast their ballots until this afternoon. They wanted to see the Democratic candidate should receive their ballots.

At 8 o'clock there were 1,320 ballots cast, making an average of sixty to each of the twenty-two election districts.

There were 6,900 voters registered, which is about 90 in advance of the number registered at the last general election. Of this number, it is expected that at least 4,500 votes will be cast.

The early morning voters caused the Democrats to feel confident of a victory for Krombach, whose plurality they estimate at from 100 to 500.

The regular Republicans were about early electing for Augustus Fischer, the independent Democratic candidate, nominated by the Committee of One Hundred.

SUGAR REACHES 100.

Great Excitement for a Time in the Stock Exchange.

In the Early Opening Hours It Sold as Low as 88.

The stock exchange was the scene of wild excitement this morning, owing to the remarkable gyrations of American Sugar Refining stock. At the opening the price was slammed down to 88, and a good many buyers at the highest figures of yesterday became alarmed and sold out.

The stock dropped right into the laps of the bulls, who had set a trap for the bears. Slowly the price crept back to 90, and then by more rapid stages got up to 100.

At this juncture the bears became panic-stricken, and pushing to cover, bid prices up on themselves. In a few minutes the stock reached 100 amid wild shouts.

Sales were made at all sorts of figures simultaneously, and the prices slipped to 98, and then to 95, and finally to 90. Still later there was a rally to 95.4.

The dealings were on an enormous scale, and the bulls were well able to stand at this, their first really successful move against the shorts in months.

The sugar market is full of theories as to the operators who had been caught. That they include Washington as well as New York, is a theory which is being spread without saying. One of the reports was that a leading bear had settled privately for $200,000, and another for $100,000.

Naturally the bears in other stocks were frightened, and under their purchase of sugar rose 1.38 to 65.8, St. Paul 1.14 to 61.78, Rock Island 1.14 to 70.18, Illinois 1.14 to 57.78, Burlington and Quincy 1.14 to 70.78, Western Union 1.14 to 81.24, and Susquehanna Western preferred 84 to 82.24.

SMALL SUMS OFFERED.

Widow Said to Have Signed Release for $20 by Fraud.

Rumors that He Has Fled to Escape the Consequences.

Some day this week at Trenton, N. J., suits will be instituted against both the New York, Susquehanna and Western Railroad, and Broadhead & Hickey, contractors, to recover damages for injuries received in the recent collapse of the trestle at Fairview, N. J., by which so many laborers were injured.

Altogether there were eight of these suits, and the total amount involved aggregates $50,000.

The attorneys for the claimants are Ulla, Ruessman & Cochran, of the Cotton Exchange Building. Eleven victims of the accident are at present in St. Mary's Hospital, Hoboken.

Many of them have suffered amputations of their legs or arms, and have been approached by Romeo Francholino, the palmer who engaged the laborers, with offers to accept $20 or $40 to sign releases exonerating the company and contractors for $20,000,000, and to pay for her husband's funeral expenses.

Later she was informed she had signed a release for $20, and she was told that she was to receive $200,000, and she is now in Major Cochran's hands.

That lady's endeavor to have that release aside and regarded as valueless, so far as releasing any claims are concerned. It will argue that it was obtained by fraud.

It is common talk in the Italian colony that Francholino has fled to escape the consequences of his attempts to subsidize the poor victims.

Sugar moved up and down frequently, but its dealings were on a greatly reduced scale. A prominent Broadway house took 20,000 shares early in the day, but the rise to par was mainly due to the bungling way in which an order for 10,000 shares was filled by an inexperienced broker.

When he started in to bid, several brokers in the crowd saw that he was after, and with fearful results to his client. In other words, he got his order filled at 100, and he was told to pay 99 up to 100 for his last lot.

It is claimed by the bulls that the Sugar Trust has accomplished its purpose, and that it will set out to do, and will continue to make big dividends at the expense of the stockholders.

TEN HORSES BURNED ALIVE.

Fire in E. E. Garvin's Big Barn in Englewood.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., March 6.—Fire broke out at about 10:30 o'clock this morning in E. E. Garvin's large barn, owned and occupied by the same party, and discovered in the part of the big structure where the horses were kept and ten of them, besides carriages, were burned.

Several efforts were made to rescue the animals, but the heat was so intense that the efforts were found useless. The fire department finally concentrated its efforts to preventing the spread of the fire to the residence and other buildings.

The cries of the poor beasts that were being roasted alive were most pitiful. The loss is estimated at about $6,000, and is partly covered by insurance.

CHIEF OF POLICE BOUNCED.

Rahway's Common Council Finds Crane Guilty of Charges.

RAHWAY, N. J., March 6.—The Common Council of Rahway met last night as a court and jury to try the charges preferred by Mayor DeWitt against Chief of Police Crane, for neglect of duty, and for allowing a man to be brutally clubbed by a prisoner.

It was charged that Crane was guilty of extreme neglect of duty in allowing a person to escape when it was easily within his power to arrest him. The second specification alleged that he frequented saloons, to the detriment of the city.

After listening to the testimony the Council went into executive session, and after a long deliberation, by a unanimous vote, Crane was found guilty of the charges and ordered to resign his office.

Extenuating circumstances in Crane's case saved him, and he was reinstated in his office during his suspension into two weeks.

Mayor Daly will now have to appoint a new Chief of Police. Acting Chief, will probably be appointed.

CREWE MAKES A DENIAL.

Says He Never Told "Dr." Stevens He Had Diamonds in Pawn.

The trial of William Sinclair Crewe, the artist, who recently posed as a son of an English Baronet, was resumed before Judge Cowing in Part III, of the General Sessions this morning.

"Dr." Lloyd Stevens, the complainant against Crewe, alleges that the artist obtained $50,000 from him on May 21 last by false pretences.

Crewe, he testified, secured the money from him by representing he had $40,000 worth of diamonds pledged.

Stevens said that he was to the effect that he lived with Crewe at 25 West Forty-second street. Crewe was ill and without money. Stevens purchased his furniture and then installed a woman named Burling in the house to watch it. She was to keep the money and to pay for her work.

Stevens also stated that when he went to pay the $50,000 at the office of Ellen R. Murray, in the Lincoln Building, he happened to mention the diamonds to her.

"Crewe kicked him under the table as a hint to keep quiet," Stevens testified, "and he refused to be a witness for the prosecution, contradicting his testimony by saying that there was no table in her office and that the money was paid to her on a note that was due."

"Crewe took the stand in his own behalf," Stevens testified, "and he had several chattel mortgages on his furniture and borrowed the money from me. He denied that he ever got any money from the complainant on the representation that he had diamonds in pawn."

GIUSEPPI MAY DIE.

Sorrento, Who Shot Him, Is Held for Examination.

Luigi Sorrento, twenty-two years old, of 15 Carroll street, Brooklyn, was held this morning by Justice Tilden, in the Butler Street Police Court, for examination on March 8, charged with shooting a fellow-countryman, Luigi Giuseppi, of 11 Carroll street, in the neck.

Giuseppi is in the Long Island College Hospital, unconscious, and the doctors say he may die.

Sorrento was sitting on a box in Fredrick Street's grocery, at 15 Carroll street, last night, when he saw a man with an axe in his hand and exclaimed: "I want blood. Sooner or later you'll get killed; I don't care who—so look out."

As he spoke he brought the axe down on the floor near the place where Sorrento was sitting. As he lifted the axe again to deal another blow, Sorrento drew a 32 caliber revolver and fired. Giuseppi fell to the floor.

Sorrento dropped his revolver and ran out of the store. He was captured a block away.

He says Giuseppi was either drunk or crazy, and he fired the shot to save his own life.

ALIVE BUT UNCONSCIOUS.

Clara Freund's Murderous Lover's Shot May Prove Fatal.

Fourteen-year-old Clara Freund, who was shot in the head yesterday afternoon at her home, 96 Vermont avenue, Brooklyn, by her lover, Fritz Nolte, who turned the bullet on himself with instantly fatal effect, was still unconscious this morning.

The surgeons at St. Mary's Hospital, where the girl lies, said that they had not yet attempted to extract the bullet, but that the operation probably would be performed this afternoon. The story of the shooting was told in the 6 o'clock Extra of "The Evening World" yesterday.

Nolte has lived in this country four years. He was married, but his wife had left him. He was employed on a freight boat plying between New York and Boston. When the boat was in this city he spent most of his time with the Freund family.

He always had plenty of money, and seemed to be a very successful man. He was particularly friendly to Clara, and she was very fond of him. He often told her that if she were older he would marry her.

Her father always took this avowal of love very seriously.

When the steamer on which Nolte worked had tied up at her pier two weeks ago, he had a fight with Clara's father, and was severely injured. He seemed more attentive than usual to Clara, and she was very fond of him. He often told her that if she were older he would marry her.

FARLEY WAS A BIGAMIST.

But He Alleges He Married Miss Nolan While Under a "Spell."

A pretty nineteen-year-old girl excited the curiosity of the crowd in the Court of General Sessions this morning by having a long conversation with Judge Cowing.

Nolan, who was arrested last November for his unlawful marriage, was called to the stand and pleaded guilty to the indictment.

Farley, he said, has never left his first wife, and never lived with another woman.

Judge Freeman, in the Superior Court, refused to grant a new trial, and Farley's lawyer asked the Court to suspend sentence, as no harm had been done, and the defendant was remanded him until Friday for sentence.
