

Work as a Parkhurst Detective. WORLD REPORTER RECEIVES AN APPOINTMENT AS SPECIAL AGENT FOR THE BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION OF CRIME AND POLICE. EVIDENCE FOR PARKHURST. SEE TOMORROW'S SUNDAY WORLD. CHASING RIVER PIRATES. ONE OF THE SUNDAY WORLD'S YOUNG WOMEN SPENDS AN EVENING WITH THE HARBOR POLICE. WEATHER FAIR, COOLER. TO-MORROW'S SUNDAY WORLD.

PRICE ONE CENT.

ONE WEEK AS A PARKHURST DETECTIVE---A WORLD Reporter Relates His Strange Experiences in THE SUNDAY WORLD TO-MORROW.

EXTRA. 2 O'CLOCK. CITIZENSHIP FOR SALE!

Naturalization Papers Articles of Commerce in Mulberry Street.

BOUGHT BY THE EVENING WORLD

Two Documents That Will Be Used as Evidence Against Banker De Vito and Others.

PERJURERS DO THE PADRONES' BIDDING.

Law Outraged, Dummies Sent to Court and Thousands of Aliens Made "Citizens" at $15 a Head.

There are men in this city who make a business of buying and selling citizenship papers.

Man who obtains these papers surreptitiously and by fraud.

Who sell these papers to aliens whose residence in the country has been too short to enable them to become citizens.

Who, by later impressing these "citizens" with the fact that they have been sent to court, are enabled to control them through their fears and drive them like sheep to the polls on election day and vote them as they wish.

Who, when these aliens arrange to return to the countries of their nativity, buy back these papers at a big discount and then sell them again to new arrivals in the country.

Who carry on this nefarious business so boldly and with so little attempt at concealment that there is every reason to believe that they enjoy the confidence of and have been promised protection by the political leaders, to whom they throw the blame thus illegitimately made.

Who not only procure naturalization papers by fraud for money for residents of this city, but also operate in Kings County, and perhaps in other counties throughout the State.

Who use dummies to represent the men who desire to secure these papers, who do not hesitate to procure the commission of perjury by these dummies and by dummy witnesses, who swear falsely to the identity of the dummy applicants for papers.

Who run their naturalization bureaus as adjuncts to their business as padrones, and who, by the hold obtained, through the fear of the holders of the papers, bleed their patrons in many and nefarious ways.

"The Evening World" has procured evidence against some of these dealers in fraud and perjury, and it has submitted this evidence to Police Supt. Byrnes, of New York, and to Superintendent of Police Campbell, of Brooklyn. These officers of the law have the matter in hand and will probably have the most notorious and flagrant offenders in custody in a short time.

Some of the papers procured by fraud and issued through these naturalization bureaus are in possession of "The Evening World."

The manner in which they were obtained as evidence against the men who fraudulently procured them is told below.

HOW IT WAS DISCOVERED.

Thousands of Italians "Naturalized" at $15 a Head.

The man who seems to be the chief of this gang of rascals is Vincenzo De Vito, saloon-keeper, banker, padrone and Tammany politician. His bank is at 31 Mulberry street.

Italians are particularly susceptible to the influence of such men as De Vito and bring to bear upon them. No other immigrants to this country are so anxious to become citizens as are the Italians. They have been told they cannot work on any of the Government jobs unless they are naturalized. How they get naturalization papers is immaterial to them. De Vito and others of his kind have become rich and powerful making "citizens" of these immigrants.

The same naturalization frauds are now being perpetrated as were common in the days of Tweed. Fifteen dollars is the price for citizenship papers. The very same men who were once the dupes of Tweed are now set at defiance. The very same men who were once the dupes of Tweed are now set at defiance. The very same men who were once the dupes of Tweed are now set at defiance.

With Supt. Byrnes, of this city, and Supt. Campbell, of Brooklyn, lies the rest. It remains for them to arrest the guilty parties, as well as those high in station who are said to be responsible for the crimes. Both of these officials have spoken in no hesitating manner. They have promised to leave no stone unturned to get at the root of the evil.

There is nothing throughout the length and breadth of the country which is the same as this. There are more than the rights of citizenship in the Republic of the United States. It is something which appeals to every alien, who, fleeing from the oppression and the misery of other countries, finds a harbor here. The honest alien treasures his citizenship papers.

What, then, must be the feelings of native or naturalized Americans who have purchased papers. They have bought and paid for them just as they would for any other article of merchandise. To do so they had to take into their confidence men who were in the same walks of life and of the same nationality as the dupes.

The story of the purchase of these documents will be found below, as well as affidavits from the men who procured them. These affidavits and the citizen papers are now in the hands of the police of this city and Brooklyn. In securing this evidence, and in turning it over to the proper authorities, "The Evening World" has performed its full duty. It discovered the frauds and unearthed them up to that point where it was necessary for the police to be called in.

DEFIES THE SENATE.

Fisher Refuses to Obey the Lexow Committee's Summons.

The Election Official May Be Punished for Contempt.

New York's Police Investigation Resumed This Morning.

A lot of new evidence, it is said, has been brought to the attention of the Lexow Investigating Committee since its last session, and when the Senators met this morning to resume their inquiry into the police interference in elections in this city, there was a host of witnesses on hand. It was announced that thirty had been summoned for to-day.

Lawyer William A. Sutherland was busy all day yesterday with his colleagues, Henry Grasse, in arranging the programme for to-day's hearing. A number of witnesses, who have been subpoenaed for previous hearings, but who have failed to attend, will, it is said, be unseated for contempt if they continue to ignore the call of the committee. It is said that the investigation of the police with regard to their alleged conspiracy with Tammany will be continued for the remainder of this month and a greater part of April.

Mr. Sutherland says that no limit has been placed on the number of witnesses to be called by the committee with evidence until they say that they have had enough. There would be plenty to keep them busy for six months if they could stand it.

The first witness called this morning by Mr. Sutherland was Peter D. Fisher, of 22 East Fifty-third street, said to have been an election officer in the Forty-fifth Election District of the Tenth Assembly District.

Mr. Fisher did not respond. He had been subpoenaed twice before. Mr. Sutherland said, and as he had not appeared, moved that he be proceeded against criminally for contempt, and be summoned to appear before the bar of the Senate.

Sergeant-at-Arms was instructed to arrest Fisher if he did not appear before the close of the session, or at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. "We propose to make an example of this man," said Mr. Sutherland, and the authority and dignity of this committee.

The penalty for such an offense is imprisonment for one or more days, or $50, or both.

Mr. Nicol said he would do all in his power to "corral" Mr. Fisher, if the committee would inform him who Mr. Fisher was.

"We do not want to 'corral' him," said the Chairman, "but want him to obey the mandate of the Senate."

Mr. Sutherland inquired if there had been any interference to keep Fisher from appearing. He said he had seen the counsel for the committee. "I know there had been none."

The witness was John Marz, of 24 Division street, a ballot clerk in the First District of the Third Assembly District. He said he saw two men in a police booth that morning, and asked a policeman to go in and separate them.

"What did the officer say or do?" asked Mr. Sutherland.

"He told me to shut up, and then he walked away."

In the afternoon the witness recognized the man who had challenged his vote. He was allowed to vote and the policeman refused to arrest him.

The Tammany captain present, Harry Johnson, blackguard and Republican poll clerk, Goldstein, and the Chairman of the Board of Inspectors said:

"What difference does it make who votes on that name?"

GAGED IN BY FIRE.

Tenants Wait, Panic Stricken, Until Removed by Firemen.

The Blaze Caused by a Hat Trimmer's Carelessness.

Kroonenberger Saves His Child at the Risk of His Life.

The carelessness of a man with a lighted match caused a fire and a panic in a double-decker tenement-house at 258 Cherry street at 5 o'clock this morning.

On the third floor, in the rear, Isaac Weinstein, a hat trimmer, lives with his wife, three children and two helpers, Abe Scheff, twenty-one years old, and David Hesse, twenty-four years old.

Scheff woke up just before 5 o'clock. It was quite dark in the little room, so he got up, lighted a match and looked at the clock. Seeing that it was too early to begin his day's work he threw the lighted match on the floor and returned to his bed. The lighted match fell in a heap of untrimmed hats, which were a mass of fluff in an instant.

Weinstein, who slept in the same room, awakened suddenly to find his bed on fire and the room like a roaring furnace. Jumping from his bed with a wild yell, he dragged Scheff from his bed, and then ran into the next room for his wife and children.

Scheff took the still sleeping Hesse in his arms and ran down the stairs, with Weinstein and his wife and children close after him. In the meantime, a policeman in the street had seen the smoke pouring from the front window and turned in an alarm. The janitor of the building, Barney Heyman, aroused the other tenants.

In the rear of the third floor, opposite the Weinstein's, lives John Kroonenberger, with his wife and four children. Five of the children of the house when Kroonenberger remembered that his three-year-old son, Isaac, had been left in his room, rushed out into the street from those who had gained the street, the man ran to his room.

By this time the fire was well on its way. The flames were still on the fourth floor of the building, unable to get down, and the firemen were carrying down a ladder. The members of the other families escaped to the roof, thence to adjoining buildings.

Scheff, the man who caused the fire, had not been seen since he fled. When he realized that the money would be destroyed he became frantic. He tore his clothes and ran out going into the fire. When restrained, he fought fiercely with firemen and policemen.

The flames were confined to the third and fourth stories, and did $500 damage. When the fire was under control, Scheff cried as he raked over the ashes where his bed had been and did not find his son.

HON. MRS. FIELDING MISSING.

London Police Think She May Have Killed Herself.

LONDON, March 24.—The police of Oxford are engaged in investigating the mysterious disappearance of the Hon. Mrs. Fielding, who has been missing since Monday last.

When last seen Mrs. Fielding was strolling in the direction of the University Park, and the police, in view of the fact that the lady had been depressed through the recent loss of her husband, the Rev. Charles Fielding, uncle of the Earl of Denbigh, believe that she may have committed suicide. The river has been dragged, but no trace of Mrs. Fielding has been found.

CROKER IN SAN FRANCISCO.

The Tammany Boss Still Reticent on New York Politics.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 24.—Richard Croker, the Tammany boss, arrived here last night from Southern California, and registered at the Baldwin Hotel, where a suit of rooms had been reserved for him.

Croker refused to talk on political subjects, but evinced considerable interest when he was asked to give a number of "dramatized" here from New York.

A HORSE WHO COULD COUNT.

Some Interesting Experiments Made by a Russian Doctor.

A Russian doctor has been experimenting to find how far some domestic animals can count. The intelligence of the horse, says an exchange, is a mathematical matter, and it is surprising that the cat or the dog.

THE PADDLER'S LAST PULL.

If Politics Can't Save Him Brockway Will Have to Go.

FOR THE KOSSUTH FUNERAL.

More Than 6,000 Hungarians Already in Turin.

Bodies of the Dead Patriot's Wife and Daughter Exhumed.

(By Associated Press.)

TURIN, March 24.—The coffins containing the bodies of the wife and daughter of Louis Kossuth were exhumed yesterday from the English Cemetery at Genoa, and accompanied by Count Karolyi, arrived here this morning.

The two coffins, which were covered with flowers, were met at the railroad depot by the sons of the dead patriot, Louis and Theresia, who followed the bodies to the cemetery, where they remained until removed, with the body of Kossuth, to Buda-Pesth, on Wednesday next.

It is estimated that 6,000 Hungarians have gathered in this city eager to pay their last respects to the National hero, and every arriving train swells the number of Hungarians who have come to Turin in order to take part in the funeral.

"THE KING SHOULD MOURN."

So Shouted a Crowd That Tried to Cross to the Royal Palace.

(By Associated Press.)

BUDA-PESTH, March 24.—During the night the authorities received information that the students and their supporters intended to cross the river to Buda for the purpose of hoisting a black flag on the palace of the King of Hungary.

The Kiraly Palota, or royal palace, stands but a short distance south of one of the two great bridges which span the Danube from Pesth. The approaches to this bridge and the bridge itself were occupied by a strong force of cavalry under orders to prevent any crowd from passing over. The Margarethen Bridge, a considerable distance up the river, was also guarded.

Measures were taken to prevent the mob from crossing the river in boats, and in addition to these precautions, troops were stationed everywhere about the grounds surrounding the palace. Late at night a crowd proceeded to the Kettin Bridge, the one near the palace, and was turned back by the cavalry without much trouble. Some of the mob shouted: "The King should mourn," showing that it was the intention of the crowd to proceed to the palace and hoist a mourning emblem.

ARRESTED MR. HAIDEN.

Watchman Herb Accuses Him of Assault and Sneak Him.

Jacob Haiden, of the firm of Aalbach & Haiden, contractors, was arrested today in an action brought by Marcus Herb to recover $2,000 for personal injuries. Mr. Haiden gave bail without being locked up.

Herb alleges that on March 17, 1894, he was employed as watchman of the premises, 890 Tanton avenue, by Christian Buchta.

INSANE OVER POLICY.

Young Joseph Weston Went Crazy Because He Couldn't Win.

Robert Walsh Accused of Taking a Dead Friend's Money.

Charged with Stepping Over the Body to Get $300.

A charge of stealing money from the room in which was the body of a dead friend was made in Yorkville Police Court today against Robert Walsh, formerly a commercial traveler, but now out of work, who gives his residence as 218 East Fortieth street.

The complainant was the widow of Patrick Burns, who, until his death on Feb. 4, ran a liquor store at Eighteenth street and First avenue.

For a year Burns had apparently no more intimate friend than Walsh. When the latter was out of work the saloon-keeper supplied him with money, and when Burns died suddenly on Feb. 4 Walsh was promptly on hand to mourn.

He assisted in preparing the body for burial. While Mrs. Burns was out he is accused of stepping over the body to a closet where he knew money was kept and taking from a drawer there $300 in cash.

The money was not missed until after the funeral, and then Mrs. Burns was at a loss to account for the theft. Walsh did not put it on she thought the purpose, it was thought, of consoling the widow.

He went there last Thursday, and while he was there Mrs. Burns went out to get him some refreshments. While she was away Walsh, it is alleged, went into her room and from a drawer took $200 in cash and a gold watch which Burns had worn.

He did not remain long after Mrs. Burns departed, and Mrs. Burns noticed that he threw his overcoat over his arm and did not put it on. She thought this rather strange, but made no comment. She missed the money and the watch the following day.

Mrs. Burns then reported the matter to the East Twenty-second street police, and Detective Farrell was placed on the case. When he learned of Walsh's visit and his manner of leaving, he suspected him. Following up this clue, he learned that on Feb. 5, after the $200 was stolen, Walsh had deposited $100 in a saloon-keeper named Martin, at Tenth street and Third avenue.

Farrell found Walsh there yesterday and turned him under arrest, accusing him of the theft. The man was indignant when charged with the crime, but he soon won a confession from him. He took the detective to his home where he brought out $100 in money and the gold watch. The watch had been hidden beneath a lot of wood.

Farrell took the money and the watch to the Yorkville Court today he was held for trial.

OVER A CORPSE TO STEAL.

Robert Walsh Accused of Taking a Dead Friend's Money.

Charged with Stepping Over the Body to Get $300.

A charge of stealing money from the room in which was the body of a dead friend was made in Yorkville Police Court today against Robert Walsh, formerly a commercial traveler, but now out of work, who gives his residence as 218 East Fortieth street.

The complainant was the widow of Patrick Burns, who, until his death on Feb. 4, ran a liquor store at Eighteenth street and First avenue.

For a year Burns had apparently no more intimate friend than Walsh. When the latter was out of work the saloon-keeper supplied him with money, and when Burns died suddenly on Feb. 4 Walsh was promptly on hand to mourn.

He assisted in preparing the body for burial. While Mrs. Burns was out he is accused of stepping over the body to a closet where he knew money was kept and taking from a drawer there $300 in cash.

The money was not missed until after the funeral, and then Mrs. Burns was at a loss to account for the theft. Walsh did not put it on she thought the purpose, it was thought, of consoling the widow.

He went there last Thursday, and while he was there Mrs. Burns went out to get him some refreshments. While she was away Walsh, it is alleged, went into her room and from a drawer took $200 in cash and a gold watch which Burns had worn.

He did not remain long after Mrs. Burns departed, and Mrs. Burns noticed that he threw his overcoat over his arm and did not put it on. She thought this rather strange, but made no comment. She missed the money and the watch the following day.

Mrs. Burns then reported the matter to the East Twenty-second street police, and Detective Farrell was placed on the case. When he learned of Walsh's visit and his manner of leaving, he suspected him. Following up this clue, he learned that on Feb. 5, after the $200 was stolen, Walsh had deposited $100 in a saloon-keeper named Martin, at Tenth street and Third avenue.

Farrell found Walsh there yesterday and turned him under arrest, accusing him of the theft. The man was indignant when charged with the crime, but he soon won a confession from him. He took the detective to his home where he brought out $100 in money and the gold watch. The watch had been hidden beneath a lot of wood.

Farrell took the money and the watch to the Yorkville Court today he was held for trial.

REMEMBER! THERE IS NO EXTRA CHARGE FOR Real-Estate Advs. IN THE SUNDAY WORLD. CIRCULATION FOR THE first 2 months of 1894. 433,167 per day.

PRICE ONE CENT.

EXTRA. 2 O'CLOCK.

THIS BURGLAR MEANT MURDER.

Tried to Chloroform Mr. Dorris, Then Clubbed and Shot Him.

THE VICTIM WILL RECOVER.

The Lyman Weeks Tragedy Nearly Repeated in Brooklyn Early This Morning.

UNAFFECTED BY THE DRUG.

This Peculiarity Prevented the Robber's Purpose, but Nearly Cost the Victim's Life.

An attempted murder and burglary was committed in Brooklyn at an early hour this morning at the home of William H. Dorris, 507 Sixth avenue, which, had it been successful, would have been as sensational in detail as the Lyman Weeks murder several years ago.

Mr. Dorris is fifty-nine years old, and lives in a modest two-story brick house with his daughter, who keeps house for him. He is employed by the Kings County Trust Company as a collector, and is daily in the habit of carrying large sums of money with him.

Yesterday Mr. Dorris went to New York to collect on some notes. He is said to have brought back about $4,000 with him. The money was placed in the Company's safe before he went home.

Mr. Dorris, as always been his habit, retired early last night. He occupied the rear room on the second floor, while the front room was occupied by his daughter Tillie. Mr. Dorris's sister, an old lady, slept on the floor below.

The house was located between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets. In the rear is a vacant lot extending back to the next street.

Used Chloroform.

About 2:40 o'clock Mr. Dorris was awakened by the fumes of chloroform. He opened his eyes quickly and found that a handkerchief saturated with the drug was being held against his nose and mouth by a strong, firm hand.

By the moonbeams which came streaming through the window, Mr. Dorris took in the situation at a glance.

He saw standing over him a man about five-nine inches in height, wearing a light-colored overcoat, who hevered his eyes and forehead.

Mr. Dorris grabbed the man's wrist, at the same time shouting:

"What do you want here?"

The burglar struggled to press the saturated handkerchief more tightly to his victim's face, simultaneously ruminating the man's pockets and a black bag which he had about $27 in money and an expensive gold watch.

Mr. Dorris by this time became thoroughly awake, and raising himself halfway up, resting in the bed upon his knees, attempted to clutch at the man's throat.

Struck with a Revolver.

The burglar wrenched himself from the grasp of the victim, and, holding Mr. Dorris by the throat he struck him twice on the head with the butt of his revolver, and then he gave a slight cry and fell back on the bed half unconscious.

He raised himself again on his elbow and tried to get at the intruder.

The burglar backed up to the middle of the room, and pointing the revolver at his victim said:

"I will fix you," and fled.

"The bullet struck Mr. Dorris in the fleshy part of the thigh and passing through lodged itself in the bedding.

The burglar did not wait to see if he had completed his work, but running downstairs, made his escape through the back basement window and across the lot in the rear of the house to the next street.

In the mean time Miss Tilly had heard the commotion in her father's room following by the pistol shot.

She jumped out of bed, and throwing open the front window cried loudly for help.

Policeman Annot, of the Fifth avenue station, answered her summons. When he arrived, closely followed by two other officers, the burglar had made good his escape.

The Victim Unconscious.

When Surgeon Spencer, of the Seney Hospital, arrived in answer to an ambulance call sent by the police, he found Mr. Dorris lying on the bed, having been heavily from the bullet wound.

His skull was slightly fractured from the blow of the pistol and at first it was believed that his condition was critical.

A search of the premises revealed the chloroform-soaked handkerchief on the bed, and the revolver which had been taken from the burglar's pocket. The man evidently was thoroughly acquainted with the house, as he went straight to the back room, and it was found that Mr. Dorris was lying in bed with his