

RECORD BROKEN--AVERAGE CIRCULATION OF THE WORLD FOR MARCH, 1894, 460,929 PER DAY.

LAST EDITION. HE WASHED HER FACE.

Dr. Cutter Used a Solution of Mercury When Called to Miss Fuller.

BUT SAW NO POWDER MARKS. He Declares He Also Unbuttoned the Glove on Her Left Hand.

BLOOD STAINS ON THE PISTOL. Policeman Webb Gives that Information on Being Recalled.

The Inquest into the death of Martha J. Fuller, the typewriter who was shot through the brain by William M. Mullen's law office, 114 Nassau street, on the afternoon of St. Patrick's Day, was continued before Coroner Fitzpatrick today.

Suspicion pointed to Joseph T. Magee, the man who was the only other person present at the time of the shooting, and he has been in the Tombs ever since.

This suspicion was based on these facts: The pistol was his, and had been kept in his desk, unopened. Miss Fuller's friends said she had complained that Magee was indiscreetly attentive to her.

There was no apparent reason why the girl should stay in the office so late on the Saturday half-holiday, and especially as she had invited visitors to dinner and should have been at her home, an hour's ride distant, to meet the guests at 6 o'clock. She was shot at about 5.30.

Absence of Motive. The pistol was not seen by the first person who entered the place after the shooting, and was picked off the floor six or eight minutes later by another person who had entered. There were two pools of blood, as if the girl had been moved after she fell.

It was said that a chair stood in the room, and that it was the chair on which Miss Fuller had been conversing there, and that chair was unbuttoned by Miss Fuller's friends later, presumably by Magee to destroy evidence against him.

There was no powder mark on Miss Fuller's face, indicating that the pistol was held at a distance of eighteen inches or more from her face.

The most curious fact was that the towel was taken by bystanders to wipe the face and neck of the girl, and that the young woman had had one of her hands in the room with Magee, so that he could have been the person who placed the pistol where it was found.

Result of Second Autopsy. A second and more careful autopsy showed that the bullet entered the right side of the chest, and although there were no marks on the face, the wound was 7 1/2 feet wide, and the course of the bullet is easily proven to have been directly across the room, from west to north, and parallel with and close up to the first window. It is difficult to place the position of the girl's young woman, standing in front of the room, in the middle of the room, and the bullet would have entered the chest of her own side.

A half dozen witnesses who reached the scene one by one, and who did not see the pistol, but who were constantly in the room with Magee, so that he could have been the person who placed the pistol where it was found.

Her Face Frequently Wiped. It was shown that Miss Fuller's face was wiped off and wiped again by the defendant, and that the defendant was seen by the witness who saw the evidence of the shots having been made at close range.

Dr. Cutter's Story. Dr. James B. Cutter, the ambulance surgeon for Chambers Street Hospital, testified that he was called to the hospital at 5.54 o'clock. I responded. I found Miss Fuller lying on her back, breathing stereotypically. I found her head unbuttoned on her left side, two buttons being the top down on the band and left her pulse. Cloths were

FATAL RIOT IN TAMMANY HALL.

One Found Dead, Many Injured, After a Fight at the Carmecita Ball.

POLICE BATTLED FOR LIFE. Terence Gallagher, the Victim, Said to Have Died of Heart Disease.

ONE MAN HAD A BROKEN SKULL. Lights Were Turned Out While Dancers and Bluecoats Fought with Clubs and Bottles.

The marquee ball of the Carmecita Club, which was held in Tammany Hall last night, ended just after 3 o'clock this morning amid scenes of the wildest excitement. There was a hand-to-hand fight between policemen and dancers.

Dr. O'Sullivan drew out that different cartridges makers made or used different cartridges and different explosives in cartridges. This is a new point that the cartridge in Magee's pistol might have been exploded without burning or making powder marks on Miss Fuller's face.

Policeman J. J. Callahan of the Oak Street station testified that at 2.30 on the evening of the tragedy he questioned Magee in his cell.

Miss Fuller heard the shot. Miss Pauline Davis, a slender young woman with raven hair, big black eyes, a faller-male gown, and a big, yellow hair, lived at 122 East One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street. She related, in a clear voice and with a firmness of manner, that she was in her office writing when, at 5.30 o'clock, I heard a sharp noise. I started up and saw a flash of light. I heard a man running up and down stairs.

Patrolman John W. Schoenmeyer testified that he was at the entrance of the Brooklyn Bldg. when he was told of the shooting. He went to the room full of people. He heard Magee, reaching to the door, and that it had been left in his lock. He looked at the watch when Miss Fuller's body was found.

Margie Nolan, the young woman who looked after the affairs of Mullen, in the room, said she saw the pistol in the room. She was in the room at 12 Washington street, and is a young woman with golden red hair, and a sharp nose.

At 5.30 o'clock Magee was taken to the hospital, and died at 12 Washington street, and is a young woman with golden red hair, and a sharp nose.

A LITTLE HEROINE. Stood by Her Sister Until Run Down by a Locomotive.

GUTHRIE, Ind., April 3.—While two little girls, daughters of Farmer Collier, living two miles from town, were crossing the railroad on the way to school yesterday one of them caught her foot in the frog of the switch. The girl, who was named Mary, was about ten years old, and was with her sister, who was named Jane, who was about eight years old.

An unknown man was struck by a cable car at noon today and knocked down at the corner of Houston street and Broadway.

SURPRISED BY M'KANEITES.

They Go to Court to Prevent Col. Bacon from Interfering with Them.

Voting in One Precinct to Be Stopped for Two Hours While the Case is Argued.

MANY VOTERS CHALLENGED. Furguson and the Reformers Having a Spirited Contest at the Polls in New Utrecht.

Justice Pratt, in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, this morning granted an order requiring Col. Alex S. Bacon to appear forthwith and show cause why the town election of Gravesend should not proceed without any interference or restriction on his part.

The order was issued on the application of Lawyer George Gru on behalf of the election inspectors of the Second District of Gravesend.

The inspectors say Col. Bacon arrived at the Town Hall of Gravesend shortly after 9 o'clock this morning, and when the inspectors of the Second District proceeded to open the ballot-boxes at 8.45 he protested, saying they could not legally be opened until 10 o'clock.

The inspectors and Col. Bacon had a long controversy over the matter, during which it is alleged, 150 voters were kept in line outside of the Town Hall, waiting to cast their ballots. The inspectors finally insisted they were right, and Col. Bacon's challenge was rejected.

The controversy had taken so much time that only fourteen of the voters succeeded in casting their ballots before 10 o'clock. Some of those in line, it is claimed, were allowed to go to business without casting their ballots after standing in line more than an hour.

The Second District where Col. Bacon challenged the men, is the heaviest Democratic district in the town, and it is claimed, Col. Bacon's object was to prevent the voters from casting their ballots.

Col. Bacon had a watchman's certificate, and he says the inspectors threw the doors open before the time specified in the certificate. He says he was not allowed to go to the polls until after 10 o'clock.

At noon today the voting will be suspended for two hours, so that Col. Bacon may have an opportunity to answer the order and return to the polls and perform his duty as a watchman.

GRAVESEND, L. I., April 3.—There is more quiet grumbling and less self-assertion on the part of ex-Gov. McKean's followers here today than at any election in the memory of those out of prison. Some of the men in the crowd, who were in the crowd at the Town Hall when their clubs were thrown at the crowd, were seen to be in a state of depression, unhappy because of the fact that they have nothing to do.

Only one man was made during the early vote, a condition which is in itself a revolution in Gravesend politics. McKean's followers are crowded and huddled together about with hands in their pockets and wonder where they are.

The appearance of Col. Bacon did not please the McKean men. Col. Bacon was being questioned, but contrary to the method of last November, the questioning was done before the election. The Democratic candidates still believe that Col. Bacon is a rank outsider.

It has now come out that he has been doing some effective detective work, and that he is familiar with the McKean Island people as McKean himself.

The McKean men challenged a few men as an offset to what Col. Bacon was doing. The McKean men, who were in the crowd, were being questioned, but contrary to the method of last November, the questioning was done before the election.

SUICIDE CLUB OF TWO.

Illinois Farmers Kill Themselves According to Mutual Agreement.

QUINCY, Ill., April 3.—Six weeks ago Christopher Wilkey and Henry Wells, of Columbus, made a joint agreement to commit suicide. The two men had been in ill-health for some time. Wilkey, who was a bachelor, was found dead in his bed this morning.

Saturday last Wells was found dying from the effects of morphine poisoning. The doctors advised him long enough for him to take the fatal dose, but could not save him. Both were prominent farmers.

LAST EDITION. TILLMAN TO RUN IT ALL.

Will Issue His Orders to the Police of All Cities in His State. MUST ENFORCE THE LAW.

If They Won't Do It, He'll Have a Law Passed So He Can Remove Them. DARLINGTON WIRES SHUT OFF.

No Messages Except on Urgent Business or Private Matters. COLUMBIA, S. C., April 3.—Gov. Tillman has just finished addressing his troops and volunteer countrymen in front of the State House. He declared that the law should be obeyed, and that he intended to issue a proclamation to-morrow, assuming control of the municipal police in every town in the State.

He said he would compel them to enforce the Dispensary law. If they did not obey, he would call the Legislature together and have a measure enacted which would enable him to remove them and put in men who would obey. The Governor was repeatedly and loudly cheered by the troops. There were cries of "We'll stand by you, Governor. We are at your back."

A cousin of Norment, who was killed at Darlington, was in the crowd, and cried out "Why don't you obey?" The man was friendly with excitement. The Tillmanites crowded around him and one yelled "Shoot 'im!" "Hush!" shouted the Governor. "Don't do that!"

The moment was one of extreme danger, but Chief Ratcliff, of the Columbia police, sprang from his horse and carried the man away. The Governor thanked the troops and dismissed them to their homes. The military guards at the telegraph office here were withdrawn within the last ten minutes.

FLORENCE, S. C., April 3.—Gen. Richburg, under special instructions from Gov. Tillman, last night placed the Western Union Telegraph office at Darlington under military orders and gave orders to the guards in charge that no news of any kind could be sent through that office, and that the only business that could be forwarded or received must be for the militia, or of an imperative commercial or private nature.

This is the furthest step yet taken, amounting to an attempt at total suppression of news. A simple message to the editor of the Charleston News and Courier saying that "The military had received a supply of blankets by express," was marked "Office under military control; guard refuses to let it be sent."

Gen. Richburg claims that he has no discretion in the matter and that he has followed instructions since his arrival. "CHARLESTON, S. C., April 3.—The situation in Charleston to-day is undoubtedly martial law in the State and martial law in the city. The military guards at the telegraph office here were withdrawn within the last ten minutes.

The body was taken on board the train and brought here. Coroner Lanning, of Mount Vernon, was notified. Shortly afterwards, word was received from Dr. Granger's sanitarium for weak-minded people at Brownsville, that Harry W. Hudson was there. The body was apparently about forty years of age, five feet tall, and weighed about 150 pounds, and was five feet eleven inches in height.

It was taken from the car by one of his pockets several names and addresses. The first of these names, which is believed to be the name of the man, is "Harry W. Hudson," with this address written out beneath: "No. 19 West Thirtieth street, New York."
