Now Brockway is going.
It is too much to hope that the Coxey army will end in Pittsburg smoke.
Tillmanism is an evil in South Carolina, but the way to root it out is not by civil war.

The Chamber of Commerce should have a wide-open opportunity to argue for its Rapid Transit bill at Albany.
The Senate at Albany has come to the conclusion that Brockway is too heavy a load to carry—a sound conclusion.

There are many ways of abstracting rapid transit, and we know that the Legislature at Albany may be counted on to try the most effective way.
Certain local ice-dealers have sent out notices that their prices to retail consumers are to be doubled. Is there no way to freeze out this combine?

Sorosis has attacked the fairy story and the Santa Claus tradition. Sorosis is trespassing on childhood's realm. She had better keep off the grounds.
Now it is said that the State Legislature may not adjourn before April 25. This is a week later than the first date mentioned. What have the people done to deserve the change?

Gov. Tillman might as well drop his censorship of the telegraph. He can't suppress the news from South Carolina, and in his endeavor to do so he is only adding a useless load of worry to his shoulders.
Whenever a law requires for its enforcement the habitual employment of spies as a part of the machinery of justice, and when the employment of spies involves the subsequent calling out of the militia, it is safe to assume that the law is a bad one.

New York City asks for prompt attention to the Chamber of Commerce Rapid Transit bill at Albany. The measure has been introduced in both houses, but seems to have stopped at that point. Will the legislators kindly press their acquaintance with the bill a good deal further?
Among the results of "sensational Journalism" which may be expected in the near future are improvements in the method of holding elections in New York, Brooklyn, Gravesend and New Utrecht, and a correction in the prevalent process of easy naturalization in this vicinity.

LETTERS.

And Still Powder-Makers Are Poor.
A German statistician who belongs to the Berlin Board of Health says that the money American women spend for face powder, paint and powder would pay for putting $75 worth of fresh paint on 35,000 naked or weather-beaten houses.

A Genteel Toilet.
Men like these styles. If you don't believe it ask your brother. The model

Down Goes the Overskirt.
Early Last Winter the overskirt came back. Those daughters of fortune who have the first of everything adopted them.

The Best Oatmeal Gruel.
Pound in a mortar or roll on a board one cup of oatmeal until it is floury. Put it into a bowl and fill the bowl with cold water; stir well and let it settle.

To Remove Ink Stains.
Ink stains can be removed if treated promptly with this season's best remedy. Hold the spots over the cup and drop the water on little by little.

The Bath.
Every now and then comes a decree from a physician, "Don't bathe every day. A daily bath is weakening"—this in substance.

The Sleeveless Jacket.
A sort of jacket which has not yet appeared on the streets is sleeveless and has buttons on the shoulders.

Broiled Ham.
Cut ham in thin slices; place on a broiler and broil over a slow fire, turn until well done.

One-Button Blazer.
All the jackets and coats are called blazers this season. They are made with silk lining, canvas across the shoulders and chest.

Ham Sandwiches.
Cut stale bread very thin, butter the slices lightly and cover with a thick layer of finely chopped cold boiled ham.

Painting the Lily.
At the Ransom-Brover wedding the ushers, groom and best man wore bouquets the size of cauliflower, tied with ribbons.

Backs Up "Joe."
I am a very happy to see that there are some gentlemen left, as indicated by the letter signed "Joe." He certainly is one of many.

Harry Is Perplexed.
I would like some one of the readers to answer these questions. It is proper to take your young lady out to walk whenever you can.

Love Knows No Religion.
In answer to Pink, which the matter with you having your religion. Instead of your young lady, if you like her as a Protestant, let her be a Catholic.
