mail from one end of Long Island to the other in a stagecoach. The track was narrow. All the racing was done under the saddle. One of the trotters of that date was Lady Suffolk, owned by David Bryant. She had a record of 2:28 1/2. One of the most interesting events on this track was the annual management, was a match race for $200 between a "Hill" Sparks's black mare named "The Duke" and a "Sonsby" white trotter Snowball. Ellen Treason in a jog, Mr. Sparks at that time kept the "Duke" on the "Hill" avenue, New York, and had named his trotter after a famous actress of the day. Somerlyday was also a New York horseman. It was the custom then to have two or three days' meet several times a year. The races were charged. The simple lay down the bars and the people with the hat was passed, and what was left was put up as a horse to be trotted for. The amount would average about $10.

About the year 1853 J. C. Brantley, a young New Yorker with plenty of money, had the place and widened the track. He had racing there when he could find any one willing to trot, and the track was crowded with spectators. He would give a purse of $10 himself. The track was owned by a man named Old Dutch, who was a horse owner. Gardner, now residing at Huntington, had the track. He was a horse owner. He had a high board fence along the highway fronting the track, and under his management the people were treated to some fine racing. Mr. Brantley sold out his interest in "Hill" Bill Johnson, of New York City. It was then that James M. Brush, who had been in the track and erected several buildings on the property. He gave several races a year, but was mostly interested in running horses. A number of the wealthy citizens of the place, among whom were James M. Brush, Edward C. Carr, and others, who had spent money and paid for it by issuing bonds and notes, found a ready market among the racing people. They spent large sums of money in improvements, but the venture proved a failure for the simple reason that whenever they held their fairs they met with stormy weather, which the good church people declared was a judgment upon them for allowing pools to be sold on the races. The privilege of speeding their horses there on Sunday.

was tempting enough. A few days ago they received a letter from a gentleman who said he would like to purchase the property, but he didn't have any time to fool or dicker over the matter. He was prepared to give them $25,000, and simply wanted to know whether he could have it or not.

It is not known who the New York parties interested in the scheme are, but a committee from the association are to meet them at the law office of Brigham & Baylis, No. 31 Nassau street, on Tuesday, when the cash will be paid and the transfer of the property made. The new purchasers have agreed to put $20,000 worth of improvements on the property during the year. It is also said they have made arrangements with the Long Island City and Brooklyn carrying passengers for 80 cents the round trip. They will probably have a thirty days' meet there when they will get a stirring up that its original owners never dreamed of. But the people of Huntington are about it, as he was going to move out of the town next week.

NEPTUNUS AGAIN POSTPONED. Death First and Now Illness Interrupts the Tuckerman-Cozzena Event.

The wedding of Miss Edith Cozzena and Mr. Fleming Tuckerman, which was to have taken place to-day, has been postponed. If all goes well, it will be quietly celebrated Monday, in Grace Church Chantry. The reason of the postponement was the illness of Mrs. Frederick Cozzena, mother of the bride-groom. There has been quite a chapter of accidents since cards were sent out for this wedding, at the Church of the Incarnation. The bridegroom, look of Miss Cozzena, Mr. Edward Whitehouse, died last week, and a cousin of Mr. Tuckerman, who had been invited to the wedding, was killed by a street car about the same time.

It was passed the intention to have the marriage solemnized quietly at the appointed time, at the residence of an uncle of the bride, Mr. William Taylor. Mrs. Cozzena, however, took cold at the funeral of Mr. Whitehouse, and developed pneumonia. Mr. Tuckerman's father, Mr. Charles K. Tuckerman, was formerly Minister to Greece. His mother was a Miss Gracie, of the well-known family of this city.

He Went Into Paroxysms at His Mother's Funeral and Died in a Few Hours. Edwin T. McGinnis, the five-year-old son of a patrolman of the Holoken police force, died at his father's home, No. 105 Washington street, Sunday, in a fit of hysteria over his mother's funeral.

Mrs. McGinnis was taken seriously ill several weeks ago, and was removed to Christ Hospital, Jersey City, for treatment. The boy, the youngest of the family, was strongly attached to his mother, and grieved himself sick over her absence.

Mrs. McGinnis died a few days ago, and on Sunday the funeral took place. As the coffin was closed for the last time young Edwin became frantic and went into paroxysms. He hung to the coffin, and when it was taken to the cemetery he followed it. Neighbors who know the family well say the boy died of a broken heart. The second funeral will take place this afternoon.
