

CAUGHT THE CROOK.

Bank Burglar Tangney Under Arrest in New Orleans.

Detective O'Brien Sent to Bring Him to New York.

He Took Part in the Bungling Robbery at Pawling.

Inspector McLaughlin has received a telegram from the Chief of Police of New Orleans notifying him of the arrest of Patrick Tangney, a notorious crook, and this morning Detective-Sergeant John J. O'Brien started for that city to bring the prisoner to New York.

Tangney has the reputation of being one of the most dangerous crooks of recent times, and one of the cleverest with whom the police have had to deal since the days of "Jimmy" Hope. He combined the inventive talent of "Jimmy" Hope with skill in execution, and he became famous among crooks as a brilliant thief.

Besides being an expert pickpocket, he was a skilled bank robber, and in many of the big hauls that have been made in various cities during the last few years the police were certain that they detected his handiwork, but were unable nevertheless to trace the crime directly to him.

His last job in this line was performed about a year ago at Pawling, N. Y., where he was discovered, and not only was the safe blown open, but the whole front of the bank building was blown out.

Tangney and his confederates got away with a large sum of money and valuable bonds, but their identity was discovered and they were indicted for the robbery.

He was subsequently arrested here in company with "Harry" Turley for robbing Louis Mandella, an actor, of 54 Grand avenue, Brooklyn, of a gold watch and chain on a Grand street car.

An officer tried to arrest them at the time, but Tangney pulled his gun and got away. Detective O'Brien arrested both soon after. They were admitted to bail and left the State.

Gloucester, Mass. He was brought back and sentenced to two and a half years in prison, on his plea of guilty, by Recorder Smyth.

Tangney was not heard of until he was arrested a few days ago in New Orleans for picking pockets.

The bondsmen of the two crooks were Louis Schaefer, of 119 Suffolk street, and Edie Burke, who participated in the robbery. They showed up about the middle of the day and declared that if he went on the bonds he, Burke, would be responsible.

Inspector McLaughlin next turned Tangney over to the Pawling authorities.

TRIED TO SELL A HIRED RIG.

Rosenberg Thought He Bought a Horse and Wagon While Drunk.

Louis Rosenberg, aged thirty, who gave his residence as 127 West 12th street, was a prisoner in Yorkville Court this morning, charged with stealing a horse and wagon from Stabileman Van Houten, of Nyack, N. Y. Rosenberg says he is a dry-goods merchant, and that while in New York he stops at 46 Chrystie street.

He came here a week ago, and last Saturday went to Nyack. He hired the horse and wagon from Van Houten and started out with a party of friends. They all drank heavily, he says, and continued their drive until they reached New York.

Rosenberg then took the rig to the sales stables at Sixty-first street and First avenue, where he left it to be sold. In the mean time an Houston notified the New York police, and Detective Weller, of the East Sixty-seventh street station, located the stolen property at the sales stables, and when Rosenberg called there yesterday to get the proceeds of the sale, he was arrested.

In court Rosenberg said that he was so drunk on Saturday that he did not know where he got the horse and wagon and concluded that he had sold for the rig. He was held for examination.

GOLD, WATER AND GAS.

Combination "Find" Results from Digging an Artesian Well.

(By Associated Press.) EDGEWELL, N. Y., May 18.—The artisan well here in which water was struck last Monday morning is throwing an immense stream intermixed with beach sand, pieces of rock quartz, wood, lignite coal and other specimens. It was accidentally discovered that the water was heavily impregnated with gas, and it was with difficulty extinguished.

A six-inch connecting pipe was then run outside, and the gas can now be lighted and extinguished at will. In the lateral pipe the water occupies the upper half, while the gas is in the lower, and when lit, the singular spectacle is presented of fire burning on water, as the flames extend on the stream about three feet from the end of the pipe.

The well is about 1,200 feet deep. A man dug out of the sand in front of where the water erupts a piece of gold bearing quartz about half the size of a man's double fist. This contained a large amount of gold, some particles being larger than the head in a common pond. There is great excitement here.

EXPLOSION HURTS FIVE MEN.

Cupola of a Buffalo Company's Foundry Wrecked.

(By Associated Press.) BUFFALO, May 18.—A serious explosion occurred in the cupola of the Buffalo School Furniture Company's foundry yesterday afternoon, and five men were injured.

John Schneider, Fred Besser, Samuel Henry, Fred Ogge and George Schneider were badly hurt. About seventy-five men were working in the foundry at the time, and great commotion followed the explosion.

The molten iron was thrown about the foundry, and the men named were both cut and burned by the flying metal. They were taken to Fitch Hospital. All of the injured men are married except one.

The metal used by the Company is mostly scrap iron, and many think that some of it must have been charged with some sort of explosive material. One man is so badly injured that he will die. The explosion completely wrecked the cupola and damaged the foundry.

SMOKER STARTED THE FIRE.

Boy Saw a Baseball Spectator Drop a Match Into Shavings.

(By Associated Press.) BOSTON, May 18.—Investigation proves that the big fire of Tuesday was due to the carelessness of a spectator on the baseball ground "bleachers," who thoughtlessly dropped a blazing match into some shavings under the seats after lighting a cigar.

Jimmy Lawley, the boy who told Fire-Inspector Billings during the fire that he saw the man drop the match, was found last night by the police. Jimmy, who is about fourteen years of age, gained admission to the grounds by crawling through the fence and was lying under the seats when he saw the match dropped.

Some brilliant play attracted the boy's attention just then and he did not notice the fire until he felt the heat. He then rushed to the police, but the blaze spread so rapidly it could not be handled with the facilities at hand.

Will Strike if Senate Isn't Signed.

(By Associated Press.) CLEVELAND, May 18.—President M. M. Garland, of the Amalgamated Association, speaking of the probability of a strike of iron and steel workers, said today that judging from the past it will be pretty safe to conclude that if all mill owners refuse to sign the scale there will be a National strike.

SCHOOL-HOUSE AND OTHER BUILDINGS WRECKED NEAR PERU.

(By Associated Press.) PERU, Ind., May 18.—Reports from the country show great destruction by last night's storm. South of this city a large brick school-house and five barns were leveled, with smaller buildings, trees and fences.

In the city a large flour mill was unroofed and great damage done to smaller buildings and trees. The Lake Erie night train experienced great trouble with fallen trees. The storm was the worst in years. No loss of life has been reported.
