

KEAN HAS SKIPPED.

The Harlem River Bank Bookkeeper Gone with His Wife.

He Was Married a Month Ago, but Few Knew of It.

If His $20,000 Shortage Is a Defalcation, He Had Accomplished.

Bookkeeper J. J. Kean, of the defunct Harlem River Bank, who is suspected of having embezzled between $10,000 and $20,000 from that institution, and for whom a warrant of arrest was issued yesterday afternoon, has left town.

Detective Titus, of the Central Office squad, who had the warrant to execute, spent all last night in looking for Kean. He had been living in West Eleventh street, but it was ascertained that he had moved away from that place only a few days ago.

The detective finally traced him to a house in East Tenth street, the exact location of which has not yet been given by the police, and there he learned that Kean had gone away on Wednesday night accompanied by his wife. He said he was going out of town, and as would be gone for some time, he gave up his room.

It was not generally known that Kean was married. A friend who called at Receiver Sicks's office this morning said the missing bookkeeper had been married a month ago. He did not know the wife's maiden name.

None of the bank officials knew of the marriage, however. It had been arranged last evening that if the detective made the arrest last night, Supt. Preston, Bank Examiner Judson and William Trenholm, the accountant, should go to Police Headquarters at 130 this morning to be present at the private examination of the prisoner. After the failure to find him, however, the books were given up and the State officials remained downtown at their office in Wall street, to await further developments.

Where Kean has gone is a mystery. Detective Titus obtained no information upon this point, but it is believed that he will be easy to trace him, especially now that it is known that he is accompanied by his wife. It was learned from one of the officers of the Banking Department this morning that no application had yet been made for any other warrants. "We depend entirely upon Kean," said the official, "and he has been irregularly shown in his books. If he had been shown in his books, we would have found him by this time."

He could not have obtained any money as a result of his irregularities, because he had no private accounts. "It is barely possible that a discrepancy like this would be found in the books carrying along errors made in the past, due to carelessness, but it does not look like it."

Vice-President A. A. Farley, of the Harlem River Bank, in speaking of Kean's connection with the bank, said today that he could not believe him guilty of embezzlement, as he had been a member of the bank for over thirty years, and had always shown himself to be a young man of exemplary habits.

None of the officers of the bank, however, had ever suspected of Kean's dishonesty. He had been very reserved, and very little was known by his associates in the bank of his private affairs.

The discovery of the falsification of the books was made only four or five days ago, when the examination of the pass-books began to be made. The books were about 1,000 accounts, and 800 of the pass-books have already been examined by Receiver David B. Sicks.

It is thought that Kean must have got wind of the discovery of his irregularities several days ago, and learning that the books were to be called in by the receiver, had taken alarm and fled at once.

Charles E. G. Hinckley, of the Harlem River Bank, was one of the early callers in the office of Receiver Sicks, at 11 Wall street, this morning. He seemed to be greatly worried when he went in, and declined to talk with reporters who were present.

Supt. Preston returned to Albany this morning. He said the bank people would take no further steps in the matter, but would leave it in the hands of the police.

SAYS THEY FOUGHT A DUEL.

Quinn in the Hospital with a Gash in His Face.

Halloran Cannot Be Found, but Is Thought to Be Injured.

Patrick Quinn, thirty-two years old, of 226 West Fifty-fifth street, rushed into Bellevue Hospital at 3 o'clock this morning. His clothing was covered with blood, and there was a deep gash across the left side of his face.

After the wound had been stitched up, Quinn told that he had been slashed with a razor by Lawrence Halloran, of 23 East Twenty-sixth street.

Later in the morning Quinn was seen by Detective Farrell, of the East Twenty-second street police station. The injured man admitted that he and Halloran had had a sort of duel at Twenty-seventh street and First avenue, but refused to tell what led to it. The police were unable to find Halloran at his house.

At the corner mentioned by Quinn a pool of blood was found on the pavement, and the detectives on the case think that Halloran was also badly injured. They looked for him, but the cutting is the result of a dispute over a woman.

Quinn is a gasfitter, and has lived at the house of Catherine Haly, in Twenty-fifth street, for three years. Last night he was seen talking to a woman in First avenue, and Halloran was standing near by.

English Tourist Dies in Texas, and Police Are Investigating.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., May 19.—James Parkinson Taylor, of London, England, died in this city last Saturday, his death being attributed to paralysis of the brain. He was an Englishman of wealth and was accompanied by a man representing himself as Lieut. Mortimer Frye. When Taylor died, Frye took the train for Galveston, ostensibly for the purpose of arranging with the British Consul for the shipment of Taylor's body to England. Frye is said to be in Galveston now and to be spending money freely.

The body of Taylor was interred here temporarily. A letter has also been received from a woman in Newark, N. J., stating that she knew Taylor, who was a man of wealth and usually carried a large amount of money. No other clues were found, and the cause of Taylor's death is being investigated.

Land Attorney and His Party Narrowly Escape Lynching.

DULUTH, Minn., May 19.—An attempt was made at Tower yesterday morning to lynch Harry Mee, a Duluth land attorney, and a party with him. A bitter feeling has existed for some time between settlers and timber men, the former alleging that Duluth attorneys were making deals against the homestead claimants, either to levy blackmail or to force them to give up their claims to wealthy lumbermen. Mee has been interested in many of these contests. All the party were badly beaten.

The crowd took Mee and Morrison, put them on a cart and carried them to the street, where they were held up for the intervention of Mayor Shepard. The crowd finally dragged them to the depot at four o'clock. Mee was arrested here, and taken to the jail. He was released on $100 bail, and is now in the hospital.

Mrs. Rochetti Injured.

The Artist Hurt in a Double Runaway at New Rochelle.

NEW ROCHELLE, May 19.—Last evening a horse drawing a dog-cart owned by Henry B. Stokes, President of the Manhattan Life Insurance Company, took fright in Residence Park and ran away, throwing out the driver.

The horse rushed madly up Centre avenue and turning the Main street corner rushed into a team owned by Mrs. Rochetti, of Rochelle Park, throwing her out and cutting her badly about the head and face. Her team ran away and reduced the carriage to splinters before being caught.

UPSET A KEROSENE LAMP.

Then Mrs. Braunstein Flew with Her Child in Her Arms.

Occupants of a Five-Story Tenement Badly Scared.

Fire broke out in the rooms of Abraham Braunstein, on the top floor of the five-story tenement, 20 Avenue A, at 8:30 o'clock this morning. The fire was put out within fifteen minutes after it started, but in that time it had completely demolished every bit of furniture in the sitting-room and a good many things in the other two rooms belonging to the Braunsteins.

Mrs. Mayo living in front apartments on the floor below, and from her kitchen when the flames in the air can be seen, the kitchen door of the Braunstein apartments at the head of the stairs.

The flames were then beginning to dart out into the hallway. Some of the other tenants suffered any loss or injury beyond a scare. The damage to the furniture is $300 and to the building, which is owned by Mrs. Martha W. Folsom, about $100, the latter being covered by insurance.

Now what is the outlook for the team? As cheerless as was the leader, misty day, it is believed that the team must be put into Tierman's place. Stafford is at once the most available man, and the only one for that matter, to go into right field. He has been badly mis-cast at third base. George Davis returns to the latter position this afternoon, his ankle having swung around into form again. Doyle will continue to cover first, and when Jack says that he'll have to play that position permanently he undoubtedly will rather him.

John Burns Meets with Accident in the Second Avenue Stables.

John Burns, twenty-four years old, of 129 East One Hundred and Tenth street, was caught between two cars while he was driving a horse-drawn carriage at One Hundred and Twenty-seventh street this morning. He was internally injured.

Burns is or night duty around the stables, and while repairing one car, the other was pushed down against him. When the two cars met Burns was hemmed in between them. His body was crushed and the shock and pain deprived him of consciousness.

Five minutes later a car hand in passing the spot saw Burns in between the cars and called for assistance. A dozen men pushed the two cars apart and rescued the man. An ambulance was summoned from Harlem Hospital. Before it arrived Burns had recovered consciousness.

An examination was made by the ambulance surgeon, and he believed that the man had been hurt internally, and that he would have to be hospitalized. But Burns refused to go, and was taken to his home.

THIS IS BUNCO BASEBALL.

New York's Exhibition with Brooklyn Discouraging.

Connor Has Probably Played His Last Game as a "Giant."

Most of the spectators who watched the antics of the New York baseball team in yesterday's meeting with the Brooklyners are wondering to-day if it wasn't a game of "handshake" they fell up against. They are just beginning to feel that there was a distinct aroma of bunco about the game, and it wouldn't be any more amazing to hear that some of the spectators resorted to legal measures for the recovery of their entrance money than to learn that New York won this afternoon's game.

It isn't likely, of course, that any of the players on the team will be cast into a dunce-wood for aiding and abetting in the buncoing, but it is probable that the New York Club solicited the public's patronage yesterday to see a game of baseball, and that the spectators' money was used to pay for the game.

The contest yesterday cannot be considered serious. It was a rank burlesque. The team, collectively, has fallen into ways that are saddening to the most generous lover of the game. The team, collectively, has fallen into ways that are saddening to the most generous lover of the game.

ALMOST A SOFT COAL FAMINE.

Railway Service Reduced and Factories to Close.

Central Burning Anthracite and Bituminous Slack.

The shortage in the soft coal supply is approaching the famine point, and consequently has heretofore fancied it to their interest to deny the danger are beginning to admit it.

Reports from all parts of this and neighboring States tell of reduced railway service and contemplated closure of manufacturing.

A reporter for "The Evening World" made a tour of the railroad yards for blocks north of Forty-second street. The yards were a scene of desolation. The freight engines were being filled with anthracite or rarely bituminous slack. The Chicago fast mail went out with soft coal in its tender.

General Superintendent Van Etten, of the Central, said that the Company still had a stock of soft coal in its yards. "We are burning anthracite," he said, "wherever it can be used. We are not using wood. We were yesterday offered good coal to last us four months, at good round prices, and that is the reason we didn't take it."

Always Fighting Trusts.

But "The World" Finds the Coal Monopoly Worst of All.

The readers of "The World" may rejoice with it over the successful outcome of its fight against the coal monopoly that affects to dictate prices regardless of the times and regardless of the question of supply and demand.

TOOK PAY FOR A JOB.

Warrant Said to Have Been Issued for a Prominent Official.

Reason for the Secret Conference of Police Commissioners.

Alleged Bribery in Connection with a Position on the Force.

It became known to-day that the mysterious consultation held by the Police Commissioners yesterday afternoon was with regard to a case of alleged bribery. A well-known public character, said to be a member of Tammany Hall, is alleged to have secured a sum of money upon the promise of securing an appointment for an applicant on the police force.

The names of the parties are withheld, but it is authoritatively stated that that was the circumstance which called the Commissioners together in secret conference.

Supt. Byrnes said this morning that a warrant had been sworn out for the arrest of the alleged briber, but he had not heard that it had been served. The names, however, of the parties are withheld, but it is authoritatively stated that that was the circumstance which called the Commissioners together in secret conference.

Byrnes Restores Conroy.

The Policeman Accused by a Cab Driver on Duty Again.

Notwithstanding the fact that Capt. O'Connor, of the Church street station, reported to the Police Commissioners yesterday afternoon that he had suspended Policeman Charles J. Conroy from duty, pending his examination in the Tombs Police Court on Monday on a charge of felonious assault, it appears by the returns from that precinct this morning that Conroy has been restored to duty.

MARRIED WHILE DRUGGED.

Young Greenberg's Plea in Seeking an Annulment.

Judge Dugro, of the Superior Court, to-day appointed Isaac Greenberg, of 76 Norfolk street, guardian ad litem of his son Barnett, seventeen years old, in order that he can bring a suit to annul the marriage of the latter to Betsy Kaplan, twenty-four years old, of 241 Livingston street.

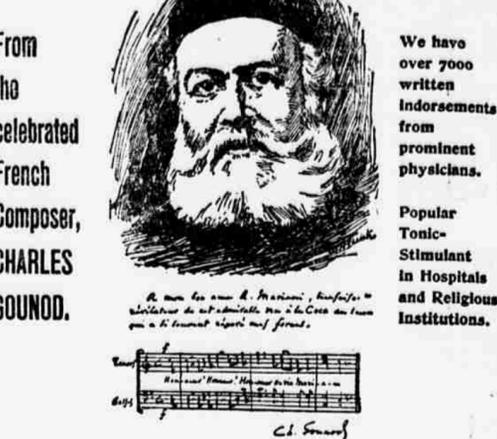

The couple were married May 1 last, and it is alleged that there was a conspiracy between the woman and a cousin of her name Jacob Lavin to bring it about. It is alleged that the woman was drugged with liquor, and afterwards threatened with violence unless he married Betsy. He never lived with her.

ELOPERS OVERTAKEN HERE. Charles L. Blair Leaves Trenton with Pretty Mattie Wordeck. They Are Captured Here by Her Father and Brother.

Charles L. Blair took the 11 A. M. train for Boston on the New York and New England Railway to-day, but not because he wanted to go. The reason Mr. Blair is an artist. He has been on an artistic mission to Trenton the past week. His works are still fresh on the fences of the Princeton turnpike, advertising cigarettes and sovereign pain-killers.

At about a mile out of Trenton on that road lives Peter Wordeck, in rooms above his way-side inn. Wordeck has a son, James, twenty-two years old, and a daughter, Mattie, aged sixteen, who is advanced for her age.

The morning Mattie's room was found empty, and Blair did not put in his customary appearance. Mattie had a neighboring girl that she was going to Boston by way of New York. The inkeeper and his son, at once gave pursuit and on reaching the city flew directly to the Grand Central Station. While there are various routes to Boston, Blair and Blair, who thereafter spent every spare minute at the tavern, Papa and Jim Wordeck did not like him.

Runaways Separated. The One with a Gun Lost His Comrade, Who Had the Money. John Sullivan, fourteen years old, a runaway from Newport, R. I., was found wandering in Central Park at 5 o'clock last night by Park Officer Tobin.

When asked what he was doing there he said he was looking for a boy friend named Eugene Fax, who had run away from home with him. Sullivan had a loaded seven-barrel revolver in his possession, but he was penniless. He said that the Fax boy had $5, on which they intended to return home, but the Fax boy had been shot. He said that they came to this city in the morning, and that they were looking for Fax. There he and Fax became parted, and he was unable to find him. Justice Murray, on receiving the information, ordered Agent Barkley, of the Gerry Society.
