The Sugar Trust fears no foe in Senatorial tocs.

Pantatas came high, but the boys had to have them.

Civil Justice Roesch and Police Justice Eliver may shake hands on the same side of a chain.

That will never be known as a new Plymouth Rock upon which the big Fall River liner bumped.

The rule in certain lines of law-breaking seems to have become: Be sure you have a pantata, then go ahead.

According to Gambler Clark's testimony, there doesn't seem to have been a minute that Faddy Diver wasn't in it.

June was furnishing every opportunity for mercury to rise, without the aid of the Senate in taking quicksilver off the free list.

Nobody has accused the Sugar Trust of practicing the golden rule, though its belief in the rule of gold is daily made more manifest.

No "straight" local tickets! No "deal"! No treaty of peace with corrupt forces or their allies! Honest New Yorkers for New York!

The "tariff" issues raised by the Lexow Committee are not of the sort that divide parties, but are of a kind that should finally unify good citizens.

When it comes out that a Police Justice of to-day formerly ran a "turning joint" it is, indeed, time for New York to reach a turning point in municipal affairs.

It is lucky for Justice that she is blind. Otherwise, she would be struck speechless on beholding some of her alleged dispensers on New York's police bench.

"I never spent a dollar in a gambling-house in my life," says Diver, Aq. but the allegation of witness Clark was gambling-house dollars were spent on you, "Justice" Diver.

The anti-opium fanatics in Congress have courage and persistency which tariff reformers might profitably study, with a view to applying such qualities in aid of a real cause.

"Senator Gorman has had no patience with the work of the Sugar Scandal Investigating Committee from the beginning." This is a case of basest ingratitude. The Committee showed every consideration for Mr. Gorman.

In the course of an open letter, William Brockfield, Chairman of the Republican State and County Committee, says: "I believe, also, that the great body of Republicans are willing to be good citizens first and good Republicans afterwards, and would not object to uniting with all lovers of honest municipal government to the extent of giving them representation upon the ticket." The important part of this declaration is that voicing a willingness to be good citizens first and good Republicans afterwards." That is the right spirit for this hour. It should be allowed to carry honest men beyond all party limitations in the coming municipal campaign.

Regarding the Senate Sugar investigation, which is practically closed, it is stated that members of the Committee will draw varying conclusions from the evidence taken. People who have watched as much of the proceedings as closed doors would let them will draw one conclusion. That is, that the Committee got out to find out nothing, and that when it became threatened with valuable information it discreetly retreated. When confessed purchasers of parties and of legislation imperiously refused to answer pertinent questions, the Committee took its dose and said nothing. Two newspaper correspondents who refused to reply to certain queries were followed up with great insistence because the Committee knew

THESE CARNegie FRAUDS. The Committee investigating the Carnegie armor-plate frauds has found that out of six hundred armor plates that went, were improperly treated.

Mr. Frick's reply to these disclosures, made in his recent letter to the Committee, is that the workmen who are testifying to the frauds are "spies and black-mailers." Well, they may be, but they have spilled out frauds and rascalities that ought to send those guilty of them to jail, and it is very evident that the Carnegie people would rather pay a fine than show any disposition to sell out to the Company.

Mr. Frick knows very well that the fraudulent acts of the Carnegie Company would have been there to "spy" upon the rascals. Other people will regard Mr. Frick's "spies" as public-spirited and patriotic citizens who did not choose to see the Government shamefully robbed by men upon whom every favored citizen would be glad to confer.

HOUSE AND HOUSEHOLD. New Waist, Old Skirt.

Dressmakers are weeping and chafing at getting new waists to wear with last summer's skirts. It can't be helped. Dress goods are cheap, but Cleanliness vs. Punishment. Clean up and dress up the naughty child and punish the naughty one who devotes to brain work the hours he should pass in bed, to every wit who finds he has become suddenly dull, to all who find the air damp, the time long and the atmosphere insupportable, and, above all, to those who, tormented with a fixed idea, have lost their freedom of thought.

Skirts for Cyclers. Feminine bicycle riders do not favor the use of tight and the divided skirt a practical garment, since it permits the omission of petticoats. It must correspond with the outer skirt in material, and falls full from gathers at the top, presenting the effect of very voluminous, fringed, one of the latest ideas in wheeling attire. It is composed of a Syrian divided skirt, waist and leggings. The skirt falls to just below the knees, but may be made to extend to the tops of ordinary shoes. It is gathered to a belt and falls in full folds. It is adjusted over shorter trousers, the lower edges of the skirt and trousers being gathered and finished with bands. The Syrian divided skirt is intended for misses and girls as well as ladies.

Chocolate Cake. Two cups of sugar, one cup of butter, one cup of milk, three and a half cups of flour, the yolks of five eggs and the whites of two, two teaspoons of baking powder; bake in jelly-cake tins. Mixture for filling: Whites of three eggs, one-half cup of sugar, three tablespoons of grated chocolate, one teaspoonful of vanilla, and one cup of cream. Beat all well together, spread between the layers and on the top of the cake.

Reversible Ribbon. One of the latest ribbons is reversible, with a different color each side, and another has an open-work stripe, brocaded with tiny sprigs of flowers down the centre.

Household Hints. Wood ashes very finely sifted are good for scouring knives and tinware. All rugs when shaken should be handled by the middle and not the ends. When ironing, a woman should sit instead of stand, and work in a cool room. Cauliflower used for nickles should be prepared by first boiling the vegetable. A teaspoonful of powdered borax added to cold starch will tend to give the linen extra stiffness.

Chocolate Drinking. An enthusiastic advocate of chocolate affirms in an exchange that for those who wish to keep the imagination fresh and vigorous chocolate is the beverage of beverages. However copiously you have lunched, a cup of chocolate will mediate afterwards will produce digestion.

LETTERS. [This column is open to everybody who has a complaint to make, a privilege to vent, information to give, a subject of general interest to discuss or a piece of news to communicate, and who can put the idea into less than 100 words. Long letters cannot be printed.]

Very Cutely and Carefully Put. To the Editor: I find much pleasure in reading your letter column, for it is not only a source of intelligence, but there is one of which I am deeply indebted, and which to my mind appears to be unduly neglected by the city health authorities. I refer to the absence of public lavatories throughout the city of New York.

Public Lavatories Needed. To the Editor: I find much pleasure in reading your letter column, for it is not only a source of intelligence, but there is one of which I am deeply indebted, and which to my mind appears to be unduly neglected by the city health authorities. I refer to the absence of public lavatories throughout the city of New York.

A Credit to the Sex. To the Editor: "E. M.'s" statement that typewriters do not wish to disclose their occupation to outsiders, preferring to say they are cashiers or bookkeepers, is an estimate of the dignity of their profession. Public health demands it; public policy enforces this demand. Forty-five thousand persons in this city signed a petition last year beseeching the Legislature to authorize their construction in the public parks and squares, and set on foot a petition to the Legislature to the same effect. It is a credit to the sex.

Reflections on Tip's Death. To the Editor: The great Central Park is in the dark state. Tip got the medal that turned up his heel. It was all very well for the keeper to tell how he'd given the ball that would finish it all, but he'd lashed the gall when he came near the stall, and Tip saw it all and smelt the great ball that soon made him fall where he stood in his stall. Tip soon forgot all. It was a hard fall that ended it all. For his wife to go to the city and be left with such a great rear and lay on the floor the men opened the door and feared little more his terrible rear. Of course it is said, but the Park Board is glad to think they are rid and how easy they locate their little do not get into the stall. Well, I guess that is all, but I hope by next Fall that Tammany Hall will get just such a ball that will break up the fakirs and the big money makers.

Septics and the Bible. To the Editor: "Nick Olemus" and "Eric Zero" are specimens of the know-it-all septics who believe no further than they can see. Moody says: "An ass's ass is not to be despised." I don't believe anything I can't see. I said, "You can't see your brains; how do you know you have any?" That is it; we must necessarily accept many statements as true, because we have not time nor means for investigation. I don't believe anything I can't see. I said, "You can't see your brains; how do you know you have any?" That is it; we must necessarily accept many statements as true, because we have not time nor means for investigation.

No Fashion-Plate Wife. To the Editor: A woman that will stay in bed and let her husband do the work she ought to be ashamed of herself. I don't believe anything I can't see. I said, "You can't see your brains; how do you know you have any?" That is it; we must necessarily accept many statements as true, because we have not time nor means for investigation.

For "A Disheartened Orphan." To the Editor: If the young lady stenographer and slighted hearted "A Disheartened Orphan" call at "The Evening World" office, her address, where employment is offered, will be given.
