

ONLY ONE WEEK MORE

The Lexow Committee Will Then Adjourn Until Fall.

Mr. Goff Needs Rest After His Great Labors.

Efforts to Make Political Capital Out of the Adjournment.

There is no probability that the Lexow Committee will continue its present Summer session after the close of the coming week.

Mr. Goff, the counsel of the Committee, has decided that an adjournment shall then be taken until the Fall, and the majority of the Senators will acquiesce in that course.

It is barely possible that two or three extra days may be consumed in finishing up the work in hand, and clearing the decks preparatory to resuming the inquiry in the Fall, but that will be the extreme limit of any extension of the present session.

There were rumors to-day of a disagreement between Mr. Goff and Chairman Lexow as to the advisability of continuing the sessions of the Committee through the dog-days, but there is no misunderstanding upon this point.

While I am personally in favor of continuing the sessions as long as there is any work for us to do or any evidence to hear," said Chairman Lexow to an "Evening World" reporter, "and have told this to the committee, which Mr. Goff's views on this matter must be considered, and I can say that I do not expect the committee to continue its session after next week."

Mr. Goff was not in his office this morning, and it is said that he had gone out of town for a rest.

He needs it, said a gentleman who is in close relations with him, "and it is a wonder to me that he has not broken down under the strain before this time."

"Not counting the two months which he spent in preparing the evidence to be presented to the committee, he has been working practically night and day for the past five weeks that the committee has been in session."

"He has given his personal attention ever since the testimony was taken, and has neglected his health and personal affairs to continue in order to make a success of his work."

That he has accomplished wonders every man will admit, and no one doubts upon adjourning simply because it would be madness for him to continue his labors during the present hot season.

The object in trying to force the Committee to continue the hearings through July and August is very apparent, according to the "Evening World" and its friends. It is an effort on the part of Tammany Hall, he said, "to put Mr. Goff in a bad way."

It is well known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

It is also known that he is worn out with his work, and, as a matter of fact, it was decided by the committee, at the morning of April 11, he became ill, and his health has not recovered since that time.

DIVER SAVING HIS FIRE.

At the Proper Time, He Says, He Will Answer Everything.

Declines to Resign Now in the Face of Charges.

Police Justice Patrick Diver had cleared away the small docket of the Morrisania Police Court this morning and was sitting behind his tribune smoking and fanning himself when an "Evening World" reporter called.

The judge looked hot, but serene, his face being readily explained by the furnace-like temperature of the courtroom, but his serenely offered a pretty sharp contrast to the popular notion of what might be the mental state of man charged with such grievous and such a heavy responsibility.

The reporter read him this morning "World's" editorial caking for his resignation, and the judge smiled and smiled again, until it seemed that nothing but fun, wit and humor could be found in such a proposition.

"Well, Judge, why don't you resign?" was asked.

"Would you ask a public official to resign because of charges preferred by a newspaper?" was the answer given in answer to the judge's meeting the query with another.

"Would you like to offer some defense?"

"In the proper time and place I will have my say," said the judge.

"If I should resign now, the very newspapers that clamor for me to do so would turn on me and say that I had resigned in a fit of pique."

"I am not responsible for the actions of the 'Evening World' newspaper," said the judge.

"If the members hold a show-up or a picnic I can't help it, I will be there," said the judge.

The judge then repeated with a confident smile that he was ready for any ammunition for the proper occasion, when he would blow his detractors kites at one broadside.

ACCUSES HIS CAPTAIN.

Sailor Heyne Says Capt. Merriman Needlessly Assaulted Him.

Capt. Merriman of the American ship Commodore T. H. Allen, was arrested at the Barge Office this morning by Deputy United States Marshal James A. Solomon. A warrant is also out for his son, Robert Merriman, Jr., first mate of the Allen, but the officers are experiencing some difficulty in locating him.

When the captain was arrested, he was accused of assault on the high seas. Charles Heyne, a sailor, is the complainant in the case.

Heyne charges that while he was at the wheel on board the Commodore T. H. Allen, while running in the harbor, on the morning of April 11, he became involved in a dispute with the captain, and his son, who were both on board.

The captain abused him unmercifully, and Heyne claims that the vessel in a difficult position, and that he was not allowed to respond to her. In this he is supported by several witnesses.

The United States Commissioner Shields and the United States District Attorney have agreed to appear for examination Thursday.

ONE OF SEVERAL SUITS.

Numerous People Have Actions Against Justice Taintor.

The suit for $10,000 for false arrest and imprisonment which Justice Taintor brought against Police Justice Taintor, is only one of several which it is said will be brought on the same grounds.

The claim is made that Justice Taintor without proper evidence issued a search warrant, and that the arrest was made at the same time.

The United States representative of the Manuel Garcia Clear Company induced Justice Taintor some time ago to issue a warrant which induced the arrest of cigar-box makers and label manufacturers, claiming that the Manuel Garcia Clear Company was the owner of the stores, and in one of the searches young Sommerfeld was arrested.

TROOP A STARTS HOME.

A Hot Departure on Horseback From State Camp.

STATE CAMP, PEESKILL, June 23. The thermometer registered 88 in the shade at the State camp at noon. The soldiers suffered very much from the heat during the morning drill, which, notwithstanding, was fairly executed.

The amount of water was also good, and the troops started for home at 10 A. M. The troop will ride horseback all the way to the city. They will put up tonight at Tarrytown, and expect to arrive in New York to-morrow noon.

Private Walker, who was overcome by the heat yesterday, is in the hospital, but is doing well.

Capt. Lloy's in behalf of the Commissioned officers of the separate companies, and the adjutant, are today to grant commissions to third lieutenants where there were over eighty men in a separate company.

EXCOMMUNICATED BY HIS BISHOP.

CHILD FALTERS FLOORS.

DAILY IN PRISON GARD.

Begins His One Year's Sentence in the Penitentiary To-Day.

The Ex-Roundman Assaulted Mamie Hannan's Mother.

Ex-Roundman Matthew F. Dailey, who on March 26, 1892, was accused of assaulting Mamie Hannan in Joe Heller's Broome street saloon, is again under arrest, and by the time "The Evening World" readers learn the news he will have donned the striped suit of the convict and be lodged behind bolts and bars in the Blackwell's Island penitentiary.

Dailey will then begin to serve the one-year term for assault in the third degree made up in Mrs. Annie Hannan, mother of Mamie, upon which charge he was tried and convicted, after a jury had pronounced him of the crime of assault upon the daughter.

The Court of Appeals handed down a decision yesterday affirming the conviction of Dailey, and a bench warrant was immediately placed in the hands of Detective-Sergt. Jake Von Gerichten for execution.

The police has kept an eye on the ex-policeman. They knew that he was with his family at Atlantic Highlands, and two officers were sent there last night while Von Gerichten remained in the city.

Last evening the detective found him at 255 Elizabeth street, the home of his mother. He had just come up from the Highlands.

Dailey was taken to Police Headquarters, where he remained last night. This morning he was taken to the District-Attorney's office and there formally turned over to the sheriff. In a few minutes he was on his way to the penitentiary.

Dailey, dressed almost elegantly in a light suit and natty straw hat. He appeared unbothered, but to the reporter he was pretty hard to use an innocent man concerned.

The important witness against Dailey, an ex-policeman, was not present. In fact, the only witness who was present was Lizzie Lawler, who was found and taken to the court, with her name to his diary.

Dailey was appointed a patrolman on April 11, 1892, and was promoted to sergeant on the 15th of the same month. He bore a good record.

There is a suit pending against him for $1,500 counsel fees, brought by Fried & House, who defended him in the trial for assault upon Mamie Hannan.

CAUGHT A BOY BURGLAR.

Young Newman's Father Also Arrested for Rescuing Him.

A boy burglar was arraigned in Essex Market Court to-day. He was Harry Newman, fourteen years old, of 8 Suffolk street, and was accused of having entered the apartments of Morris Spira, at 22 Norfolk street, in company with another boy, and stealing $75 worth of property.

The boy was caught by a patrolman while on the way to the station-house with him the boy's father interposed, and the father was arrested for rescuing his son.

The father said that he was not aware of his son's crime, and that he was only along the street he interfered and set him free.

Justice Hogan held the boy and his father for further examination.

A CUSTOMER THE BURGLAR.

Fishman Surprised to See Hausman in Court.

Max Fishman, who keeps a window-shade store at 428 Third street, was greatly surprised when he discovered to-day that a man, accused of having burglarized his place, was a customer who had been dealing with him for the past two years.

The man said he was Marks Hausman, 118 E. 108th street, and that he had been dealing with him for the past two years.

Early this morning Hausman broke into Fishman's store and was caught by a patrolman while in the act of carrying away $5 worth of property.

The defendant denied that he was a burglar. He said that he intended to pay for the goods that were found in his store, and that he was only in default of $1,000 bail for trial.

PICKPOCKET AT THE PARADE.

Mrs. Abert Loses Her Purse and Has Charles Hulsaph Arrested.

Mrs. Charles Abert, of 302 East Forty-third street, was complainant in Yorkville Police Court this morning against Charles Hulsaph, thirty-one years old, of 714 East Nineteenth street, who she charged with having stolen her pocket-book.

Mrs. Abert, with her two little boys, Fourth avenue and Twenty-second street last night, when she fell a yard in her pocket-book and lost it.

On looking around she saw the accused for the first time, and calling a policeman had him arrested. He was held for further examination.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT.

Burglars Merski and Epstein Surprised by a Policeman.

Jacob Merski, twenty years old, and Louis Epstein, twenty-three years old, both of 53 Hovey, were held for examination on a charge of burglary by Justice Hogan, in Essex Market Court to-day.

Policeman Nell, of the Eldridge street station, arrived this morning in the act of making a house call, and discovered the two men in Nathan Kasha's cigar-store, at 127 Canal street, making a bundle of boxes of cigars, and captured them on the roof of the building.

Four Escaped Prisoners Afloat.

STURGEON BAY, Wis. June 23.—After making a fruitless trip in the fog across Lake Michigan a steamer returned to this port and increasing its crew by the addition of a steam galleon, again started in pursuit of the jail-breakers.

John F. Dascoroff Dead.

NORFOLK, Va. June 23.—John F. Dascoroff, member of Congress from the Norfolk district, died at his home in this city last night, aged sixty years.

IT WAS HEAT, NOT LAUDANUM.

Meyer Was Huddled to Beliefs as an Attempted Suicide.

Found Unconscious in His Room with an Empty Bottle Beside Him.

Filled anxiety, excited by the finding of an empty laudanum bottle, mistaking a case of heat prostration for an attempt at suicide, has landed George Meyer, a German cabinet-maker, at 307 Avenue C, sixty-three years old, a prisoner in Bellevue Hospital. He will be kept there until he is discharged on medical certificate in a police court.

Meyer is a very clever workman and makes all kinds of pretty inlaid articles, which sell well, and enable him to keep his wife, his widowed daughter, Mrs. Bauer, and her three children in comparative comfort.

He was brought in a prisoner because he was found unconscious in his room, with an empty bottle of laudanum in his hand.

The heat of the east side overcame Meyer last night just as he had completed the making of a cabinet, and he used up all the laudanum he had on hand.

He left the empty bottle and cork lying on his bench and staggered to his bed, on which he fell unconscious.

Towards to clock his wife went to arouse him, but without success, and called in her daughter. The latter happened to be in the room, and she found Meyer at once jumped at the conclusion that her father had attempted suicide.

The police were called, and Meyer was taken to the hospital. He was found unconscious in his room, with an empty bottle of laudanum in his hand.

His daughter, Mrs. Bauer, called at Bellevue Hospital this morning and reported her father's condition. With true German pluck Meyer said: "All right, my dear, I was mucky."

BRIDGE JUMPER DESCRIBED.

Clerk Dushane Remembers Selling Him a Necktie.

The body of the unknown man who jumped to his death from the Brooklyn Bridge yesterday has not yet been recovered.

His identity is as yet not known, and the only person capable of giving an intelligent description of the man is Edmond Dushane, a clerk in Ira Ferro's furnishing store, 23 Park row.

In the coat which the bridge-jumper was wearing, and which was found in the water, and a check slip showing the amount of the purchase of a necktie, were found and taken to the police.

The check slip was marked "D. This is the initial of Dushane's name. In the afternoon he found an advertisement of a health lift.

Clerk Dushane said this morning that he remembered the man, because he appeared to be nervous and in a great hurry. The unknown came into the store about 10 o'clock in the morning and purchased a tie of light reddish material for 25 cents. He did not buy anything else.

The man was of slim build, weighing perhaps 130 pounds. He was short and wore a coat of dark material. He had a mustache and wore a derby hat.

A Bride Commits Suicide.

DANVILLE, Ill. June 23.—Mrs. Montgomery, a young bride, committed suicide yesterday, by going to Williamsport, Ind.

ROBBED HIS BENEFACTOR.

Bradley and Companions Charged with Stealing Henderson's Horse.

Thomas Bradley, twenty-three years old, of 170 West 10th street, was charged with robbing his benefactor, James Henderson, of his horse, and with stealing $100 worth of property.

The horse was a bay, and was worth $100. It was stolen from Henderson's stable, at 170 West 10th street, on the morning of June 18th.

Bradley and his companions were charged with stealing the horse, and with stealing $100 worth of property.

The man said he was Marks Hausman, 118 E. 108th street, and that he had been dealing with him for the past two years.

Early this morning Hausman broke into Fishman's store and was caught by a patrolman while in the act of carrying away $5 worth of property.

The defendant denied that he was a burglar. He said that he intended to pay for the goods that were found in his store, and that he was only in default of $1,000 bail for trial.

PICKPOCKET AT THE PARADE.

Mrs. Abert Loses Her Purse and Has Charles Hulsaph Arrested.

Mrs. Charles Abert, of 302 East Forty-third street, was complainant in Yorkville Police Court this morning against Charles Hulsaph, thirty-one years old, of 714 East Nineteenth street, who she charged with having stolen her pocket-book.

Mrs. Abert, with her two little boys, Fourth avenue and Twenty-second street last night, when she fell a yard in her pocket-book and lost it.

On looking around she saw the accused for the first time, and calling a policeman had him arrested. He was held for further examination.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT.

Burglars Merski and Epstein Surprised by a Policeman.

Jacob Merski, twenty years old, and Louis Epstein, twenty-three years old, both of 53 Hovey, were held for examination on a charge of burglary by Justice Hogan, in Essex Market Court to-day.

Policeman Nell, of the Eldridge street station, arrived this morning in the act of making a house call, and discovered the two men in Nathan Kasha's cigar-store, at 127 Canal street, making a bundle of boxes of cigars, and captured them on the roof of the building.

Four Escaped Prisoners Afloat.

"MEDICINE" CAUGHT THE EEL.

But the Colored Man Couldn't Hold Him After He Got Him.

Lively Free Show on the Troy Line Pier This Morning.

Among the crowd of spectators watching a knot of fishermen on the Troy line this morning was an elderly African American, who wore an antiquated pig-hat, a long linen duster and a penicive loak.

He was waiting for the boat for Havestrain, and from his occasional comments on the ill luck of the fisherman it was evident that he knew a thing or two about entrapping the finny tribe, although it subsequently was developed that he wasn't an adept at unhooking his catch.

Not even a nibble had agitated the lines for half an hour, and the man and brother occasionally vented his displeasure at the slow progress of the day by a vigorous "hump." Finally one of the anglers wandered across West street to pilot a schooner across a bar between the pier and the water.

He was waiting for the boat for Havestrain, and from his occasional comments on the ill luck of the fisherman it was evident that he knew a thing or two about entrapping the finny tribe, although it subsequently was developed that he wasn't an adept at unhooking his catch.

Not even a nibble had agitated the lines for half an hour, and the man and brother occasionally vented his displeasure at the slow progress of the day by a vigorous "hump." Finally one of the anglers wandered across West street to pilot a schooner across a bar between the pier and the water.

He was waiting for the boat for Havestrain, and from his occasional comments on the ill luck of the fisherman it was evident that he knew a thing or two about entrapping the finny tribe, although it subsequently was developed that he wasn't an adept at unhooking his catch.

Not even a nibble had agitated the lines for half an hour, and the man and brother occasionally vented his displeasure at the slow progress of the day by a vigorous "hump." Finally one of the anglers wandered across West street to pilot a schooner across a bar between the pier and the water.

He was waiting for the boat for Havestrain, and from his occasional comments on the ill luck of the fisherman it was evident that he knew a thing or two about entrapping the finny tribe, although it subsequently was developed that he wasn't an adept at unhooking his catch.

Not even a nibble had agitated the lines for half an hour, and the man and brother occasionally vented his displeasure at the slow progress of the day by a vigorous "hump." Finally one of the anglers wandered across West street to pilot a schooner across a bar between the pier and the water.

He was waiting for the boat for Havestrain, and from his occasional comments on the ill luck of the fisherman it was evident that he knew a thing or two about entrapping the finny tribe, although it subsequently was developed that he wasn't an adept at unhooking his catch.

Not even a nibble had agitated the lines for half an hour, and the man and brother occasionally vented his displeasure at the slow progress of the day by a vigorous "hump." Finally one of the anglers wandered across West street to pilot a schooner across a bar between the pier and the water.

He was waiting for the boat for Havestrain, and from his occasional comments on the ill luck of the fisherman it was evident that he knew a thing or two about entrapping the finny tribe, although it subsequently was developed that he wasn't an adept at unhooking his catch.

Not even a nibble had agitated the lines for half an hour, and the man and brother occasionally vented his displeasure at the slow progress of the day by a vigorous "hump." Finally one of the anglers wandered across West street to pilot a schooner across a bar between the pier and the water.

He was waiting for the boat for Havestrain, and from his occasional comments on the ill luck of the fisherman it was evident that he knew a thing or two about entrapping the finny tribe, although it subsequently was developed that he wasn't an adept at unhooking his catch.

Not even a nibble had agitated the lines for half an hour, and the man and brother occasionally vented his displeasure at the slow progress of the day by a vigorous "hump." Finally one of the anglers wandered across West street to pilot a schooner across a bar between the pier and the water.

He was waiting for the boat for Havestrain, and from his occasional comments on the ill luck of the fisherman it was evident that he knew a thing or two about entrapping the finny tribe, although it subsequently was developed that he wasn't an adept at unhooking his catch.

Not even a nibble had agitated the lines for half an hour, and the man and brother occasionally vented his displeasure at the slow progress of the day by a vigorous "hump." Finally one of the anglers wandered across West street to pilot a schooner across a bar between the pier and the water.

He was waiting for the boat for Havestrain, and from his occasional comments on the ill luck of the fisherman it was evident that he knew a thing or two about entrapping the finny tribe, although it subsequently was developed that he wasn't an adept at unhooking his catch.

Not even a nibble had agitated the lines for half an hour, and the man and brother occasionally vented his displeasure at the slow progress of the day by a vigorous "hump." Finally one of the anglers wandered across