POOL-ROOM FOR WOMEN.

"The" Allen Runs a Gambling-House for Both Sexes.

NO FEAR OF A POLICE RAID.

Openly Proclaims His Defiance of a Threat to "Close Him Up."

POLICEMEN ON GOOD TERMS.

The Notorious Ex-Divekeeper Transacts Business Unchecked in Capt. Eakins's Precinct.

A pool-room for men and another for women, both running wide open, with nearly an attempt at concealment, but a few hundred yards from Police Headquarters and within less distance of the Mercer street station-house, where Capt. Joseph B. Eakins is in command.

CAPT. JOSEPH B. EAKINS.

Commander of the Fifteenth Precinct. The proprietor of the place is none other than the notorious "The" Allen, whose face is certainly familiar to every patrolman in that precinct at least.

Not alone is this, but Allen directly boasts of his immunity from interference, and his henchmen are evidently on the best of terms with the policemen of the precinct. As one of the frequenters of the place put it, in conversation with an "Evening World" reporter:

"Afraid? 'The' ain't got no use for anything like being afraid. The Lexow Committee ain't running things in this town now. The police is looking after New York all right, all right. Everything was dark a few weeks ago, but the police is out for the stuff, and they're getting it, too."

Capt. Eakins's ward man is William J. Peterman, and the special deputy ward man is James A. Dourigan. It will be remembered that when "The Evening World" exposed the orgies at Columbus Hall, on the Bowery, opposite Fifth street, Capt. Eakins and these ward men claimed to be entirely ignorant of the character of the place, in spite of the complaints which had been lodged against it.

Allen Defies Interference. How amply secure from molestation at the hands of the police "The" Allen considers himself is illustrated by a happening which is being reported in some of the papers. A man who had frequented his pool-room in some of the streets, and who was ousted with little regard for his feelings, either bodily or mental, as he rolled off the stool onto the pavement outside, he gave vent to his wrath in a series of threats. Allen stood on the stool and declared with an oath in the manner of a man who knows his ground:

"If you think you can close me up, why, go ahead and do it. I'm fixed solid enough, and you can't even get a hearing."

The patrolman on post stood and chatted with the doopkeeper of the pool-room but a few minutes later, while tools, broken-down gamblers, criminals and freshly dressed women passed through the portal where they were holding the conversation.

As for other pool-rooms which have resumed business since the adjournment of the Lexow Committee, this place makes absolutely no pretense of being the true character of the place beyond a flimsy pretext which is not calculated to impress the minds of the boards and printed tickets. The former are replaced by "percentage cards" tacked to the wall, and which are blank tickets on which are recorded the bets and odds.

Police Officer Nugent a Patron.

A telegraph wire is on the premises, which is furnished information of the running and preliminary statistics of the game, scratches and track betting. These items are being received. This same wire serves another customer, perhaps unknown to the public, who is a man hardly less notorious than "The" Allen himself. It is a policeman Nugent, of Manhattan Bank building and Jersey City "Butcher-Cart" building fame.

Nugent conducts a pool-room further down town, and having no wire receives the information from Friend Allen's establishment, connecting by telephone at the corner drug store with his own place of business.

"The" Allen's pool-rooms are at 145

SWORE HE'D GET EVEN

Modest-Appearing Miss Willis Railroaded to the Island.

Accused by Marks of Accosting Him on Broadway.

She Denied It, and Said He Tried to Make Her Acquaintance.

A woman, who gave the name of Dora Willis, and said she was twenty years old and lived at 209 East Twenty-seventh street, was arraigned in Jefferson Market Court to-day and was put under $500 bail by Justice Hogan. In default of bail she was sent to the island for three months.

She was charged by Joseph Marks, of 262 West Thirty-sixth street, with accosting him on the street.

Marks called Policeman McCormack, of the West Thirtieth street station, at about 10:30 o'clock last night and asked him to arrest Miss Willis. The policeman complied, and she was taken to the Thirtieth street station, where she was detained all night.

At the station-house Marks declared that he and a friend had been repeatedly annoyed by Miss Willis and a young woman who was with her. He said he had followed her to have her arrested, but could not find a policeman. Last night, he said, he started to get a policeman and the girl ran away when he found Officer McCormack.

Miss Willis, who was neatly dressed and modest in demeanor, told a different story.

She had been annoyed by Marks and his friend when she was alone, and had tried to avoid them.

Last night she was spoken to by the two men when she refused to have any conversation with them. They had threatened to get even," and had called a policeman before she could get away. Her companion escaped.

Miss Willis said she had no relatives except an aunt in this city and that she lived with friends on East Twenty-seventh street. She said she worked in a dry-goods store, but refused to give the name.

Later she told the matron of the police station that she worked in Ridley's. She went for a friend last night, in court to testify against Marks, and she had no friends in court, and had nothing to say except to deny Marks's story and tell her own.

She steadfastly refused to give the name of her walking partner, saying that it would cost the girl her position and ruin her character.

Miss Willis was kept in a reporter after being taken into the prison. She said she did not wish to talk about the matter.

A MILLIONAIRE SUED.

Banker Taylor's Wife Begins Divorce Proceedings.

Cruelty and Abandonment Said to Be the Grounds.

Her Lawyer Says She is Almost Starving and Wants Alimony.

Mrs. Elizabeth C. Taylor has begun an action in the Supreme Court for a separation from her husband, Henry A. Taylor, a well-known banker and railroad financier, of 80 Broadway, who is said to be worth about $3,000,000.

The case was on the motion calendar in Supreme Court Chambers this morning.

BOY TRIED SUICIDE.

Twelve-Year-Old George Palermo Made Two Attempts.

He Got a Bottle of Poison and Was About to Drink It.

Under Punishment for Stealing $10 from His Sister-in-Law.

George Palermo, twelve years old, of 46 Grand street, was a prisoner at Jefferson Market Police Court to-day, charged with attempted suicide. It is alleged that he twice tried to kill himself by drinking carbolic acid yesterday.

George lives with his brother and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Margaret Palermo, at the number given, where they keep a little cigar and candy store. His father is in Italy, and he has made his home with his brother for five years.

On Saturday, Mr. Palermo says, George stole $10 from her, of which he afterwards returned. As a punishment, she kept him on a short diet for two days, and the boy grew despondent over his misdeed.

Yesterday morning he found a bottle of carbolic acid, and was starting to drink it when he was stopped by his mother, though not before he had burned his lips and mouth.

The boy watched his chance, and last evening found the acid bottle again, and would have drunk it to empty it. Then Mrs. Palermo called Policeman Kelly, of the Eighth Precinct, and had her brother-in-law arrested.

George has been in reformatories several times for larcenies. His mother is an insane patient at the asylum on Hart's island.

The boy was turned over to Gerry Agent Grier for examination.

IS MRS. BEDELL A SUICIDE?

Husband Deserted Her Two Weeks Ago Because He Had No Work.

Mrs. Mamie Bedell, a handsome young woman, about twenty-eight years old, died yesterday at 13 Whipple street, Williamsburg, under circumstances that strongly point to suicide.

Her husband, John Bedell, a sign painter, but he had been out of work for some time, and two weeks ago yesterday he informed his wife that times were too hard for him to support her, and she would have to look out for herself. Then he disappeared.

A few hours later the furniture was seized by an installment house, as Henry Creamer has suggested that a doctor be sent for, but the doctor refused to take her.

Mrs. Bedell remained at the house and every day would go out and look for work. Yesterday morning Bleinstein, a doctor, was called to see her, and he found her in a state of collapse. She died at 10 o'clock, and her husband was not present.

"Oh, I will not trouble you very long," replied Mrs. Bedell, with a hysterical cry, as she lay on the bed.

Late yesterday afternoon the woman complained of being sick, and Mrs. Creamer had her called to see her.

She was taken to the hospital, and she died at 10 o'clock.

MEN BLOWN TO BITS.

Terrible Explosion in Stockton Colliery No. 8.

Miners' Bodies So Mutilated as to Be Beyond Recognition.

Sticks of Giant Powder Go Off in the Midst of a Gang.

(By Associated Press.) HAZELTON, Pa., July 17.—Another mine disaster occurred at Stockton No. 8 to-day, which in detail is the most shocking which ever took place in the Lehigh coal fields.

Two hundred sticks of giant powder exploded in the midst of a gang of miners, and not enough of their bodies was left intact to recognize them.

Stockton colliery is about one mile east of this city, and is operated by Linderman & Skeer. The mine is but part of a series of openings which that company operates in the valley, and is surrounded by hamlets in which the miners live.

On account of its isolation from the main breaker, it has been customary to send the dynamite and other explosives in boxes to No. 8, and distribute them to the workmen at the bottom of the second shaft as they appear in the morning on their way to work.

Charles O'Donnell had charge of this department, and it was his duty to distribute to the company miners and starters the dynamite and caps.

The first men to go down into the shaft this morning were the drivers, and these are the only ones to return alive from the opening. How many men or who they were who followed in the next car is not definitely known, and for this reason the exact number of men killed will not be known until a list of the living is taken.

The drivers went into the stables to harness their mules, and it was while thus engaged that the explosion took place. Charles Shugert says he saw about a dozen men standing about O'Donnell receiving the powder a moment before the explosion took place.

The drivers were hurried about promiscuously with fright, and, fearing an explosion of gas had taken place and a collapse of the entire mine was about to follow, they simply waited for death. It was in this position they were found by some miners from No. 2, who hastened through the subterranean passages to No. 8.

As soon as lights were seen the demoralized drivers hastened to the bottom of the shaft. There a terrible sight met their gaze. Strewn over the twisted and torn timbers were fragments of human flesh and bones and limbs of the unfortunate miners.

The men were too sick to attempt to remove the remains of the dead, but rescuing parties were quickly formed, and headed by Supt. Roderick a corps of miners descended into the mine.

It is believed that at least a dozen men were blown to pieces.

INVESTIGATING ASYLUMS.

State Lunacy Commission Resumes the Work To-Day.

The State Lunacy Commission resumed its investigation into the abuses alleged to exist on Ward's and Blackwell's Islands this morning in the Park Avenue Hotel.

Leopold Eidlitz, the architect in charge of the construction of the new building being erected under the recent appropriation of $500,000, would be requested to complete the work properly.

He admitted that buttresses were constructed at Islip at a cost of $7,000 without advertising, notwithstanding that it is a rule that no city work over $1,000 in amount shall be let without first being advertised.

WHAT CHANCE HAS HE GOT?

THE DEAL IN FORCE.

Kerwin's Appointment Checks United Opposition to Tammany.

Every Chance for a Split in the Republican Party.

Good Democrats Turned Down by Platt-Gilroy Methods.

The deal is on. Boss Platt, instead of making war on Tammany, is creating strife and discontent in his own party. His action in calculating the Senate has resulted in a straight Republican ticket by the Platt-Reid-Millholland faction and a split in the Republican party.

Platt's reward for preventing opposition to Tammany was the appointment yesterday by Mayor Gilroy of Platt's man, Gen. Michael Kerwin, as Police Commissioner.

A few days ago there was talk of a compromise with the Bliss-Patterson faction. To-day the cry of the Plattites is for a straight ticket—no compromise.

Gen. Kerwin has always carried out his action in calculating the Senate. He may be relied upon to do so in the future. While the Police Board is bi-partisan in name, it is believed that it will be Tammany in fact and ruled by Tammany as much as it ever was.

No one can be found to believe that Platt's appointment of Messrs. Murray and Kerwin out of a pure sense of justice is a move to divide the Republican ranks. It is a move of history that no Republican was ever without a deal.

The appointment of Police Justice Taintor, Meade and Smith was the result of a deal. The election of Rufus G. Cowing as chief of last year's election was the result of a deal.

The appointment of Judge Andrews, as chief of the Police Department, was the result of a deal.

Tammany is in absolute control of the city government. No one, not even an ash-barrel inspector, can be appointed without the consent of Tammany.

From ten to twenty Tammany applicants for every office without exception are submitted to the committee of Tammany Hall.

In connection with Kerwin's appointment the Wine and Spirit Gazette, organ of the wholesale liquor dealers, makes the following statement in its last issue:

"The Mayor's appointment of Kerwin as Police Commissioner is a move to divide the Republican ranks. It is a move of history that no Republican was ever without a deal."

IT IS WARMER; NOT COOLER.

Mr. Duan's "Thingometer" Gets Mixed Up with the Wind Gauge.

If He Gets It Fixed in Time It Will Be Warmer To-Morrow.

Prof. Duan missed it slightly in his calculations yesterday when he predicted cooler weather for to-day.

At 10 o'clock this morning it was as warm as at any time in the previous twenty-four hours, and the mercury was still climbing, with every prospect of exceeding yesterday's record by from 6 to 8 degrees.

Mr. Duan's face wore a tired sort of an expression. He said he had forecasted and foretold and predicted; had been running all morning from the "thingometer" to the wind gauge and back again to a lot of other scientific instruments with unpronounceable names in an effort to scare up a cool wave, but all to no effect.

His friend, old Sol, persisted in shinning with a full head of steam on, and he was powerless to do anything.

In the mean time the humidity was attending strictly to business. At 6 o'clock this morning it registered 75 degrees, and at 10 o'clock it registered 82, which is as high as it has been in the last ten days.

The weather was generally fair all over the country this morning. Last night showers fell in the Southern States, and a lot of other scientific instruments were going about six miles an hour.

The forecast is for fair weather to-day, and to-morrow and slightly higher temperature to-morrow.

FOG IN THE LOWER BAY.

Steamer State of Nebraska Anchored Inside the Hook.

A heavy fog hung over the lower bay this morning, seriously interfering with ocean navigation. The Allan line steamer State of Nebraska, from Glasgow, passed Sandy Hook at 12:30, and was obliged to anchor inside the Hook on account of the fog. She remained there until 5:30, at which time the fog lifted sufficiently for her to proceed to the city without danger.

The experience of the French line steamer La Champagne, which struck on the beach near Fort Hamilton on Sunday morning, May 6, in endeavoring to pass the Hook, has been a lesson to all captains very anxious, and they prefer to come to an anchor rather than run the risk of losing their passengers and crew.

Capt. Brown of the State of Nebraska, reports that his vessel was detained in the fog for nine hours on July 12, between lat. 40.10 N. and long. 74.10 W. A number of fog-bells were used.

The steamer Knickerbocker from New Orleans, which is being detained outside of Sandy Hook by fog.

CONFERREES CLASH.

Tariff Disagreement Likely to Be Reported.

Republican Members to Be Called in at 2 To-Day.

Reports May Be Made This Afternoon or To-Morrow.

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, July 7.—The adjournment of the Democratic members of the Tariff Conference Committee, at 12 o'clock, and the determination to call the Republican members at 2 o'clock to-day, is believed to mean that a report of a disagreement is to be made, and it is thought the report to the two houses will be made either late this afternoon or to-morrow.

It is understood that the report will indicate a general disagreement, and will show that it has been impossible for the Conference to come to an understanding without receiving renewed instructions from the two Houses.

It is understood that there are wide differences between the conferees all along the line of the bill, including sugar, coal, iron, the metals, woolen, cotton and glass schedules especially.

It is also stated by those in position to know that the House members of the Committee have taken a broad position in favor of the House bill, and that while they originally manifested a disposition to make concessions on the less important changes in the bill, they have latterly been very obdurate and stand out for a majority of the House provisions.

It is understood that the House members have taken a broad position in favor of the House bill, and that while they originally manifested a disposition to make concessions on the less important changes in the bill, they have latterly been very obdurate and stand out for a majority of the House provisions.

Immediately after the adjournment, one of the members of the conference said that it seemed that the Senate and House were farther apart than when they began the bill. The House members flung out the iron ore, coal and sugar rates of the Senate bill, and the Senate conferees were as firm in demanding that the bill in these particulars must remain as the Senate fixed it.

Named by the President.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The President to-day sent to the Senate the following nominations: David A. Wells, of Connecticut, to be Second Secretary of the Legation of the United States at London, Eng.; James H. Jackson, of New Hampshire, to be Consul of the United States at Sherbrooke, Quebec.

HARVEST FOR PICKPOCKETS.

They Attended a Jersey City Parade and Got Lots of Plunder.

Edward Farmer, of 60 King street, Jersey City, to-day, charged with being a pickpocket, the Lyceum Solatity of St. Peter's Church paraded last night, and pickpockets reaped a harvest.

Mr. Farmer, who is a native of Warren street, lost his pocketbook, and Miss Kate Callahan, who was with him, thought a man who tried to take a pocketbook from her throat. His companions repeated him.

Peter McCabe, of the Grand street, lost his gold chain, and Mamie Dowling, of 125 Stoullon street, her pocketbook. Samuel Graham says Farmer took McCabe's chain, and followed him to the Park street ferry, where he laid him out. A colored boy named Albert Scott was also arrested on suspicion. He was held for examination.

Freda Mueller Assault Case.

LONG ISLAND CITY, N. Y., July 17.—The hearing of the case of alleged criminal assault was held for trial at Long Island City to-day before Justice Ingram. The defendants are Charles Desmond, Philip Delle, Joseph White, Owen Quinn, Louis Miller and James Clark. The defendants were granted separate trials, and the case of Owen Quinn was called. The case is still on.

LAST EDITION.

VIGILANT VICTORIOUS.

Britannia Lost Her Bobstay and Retired from the Race.

That Made No Difference.

It Was Near the Finish and Our Boat Was Far in the Lead and Sure to Win.

Captain Carter Was Injured.

There Was Plenty of Wind and the English Cutter Was Beaten at Every Point.

(By Associated Press.)

LANGOR (Belfast Lough), July 17.—Vigilant won to-day for the first time in foreign waters. When the course had been sailed over twice and Vigilant was far in the lead the bobstay of Britannia was carried away or she sustained some injury to hermast, and her foresail was lowered, her topsail taken in and the struggle given up. Vigilant went over the course and finished winner.

There is no doubt Vigilant would have given a most decisive beating to Britannia had the accident not occurred.

While the injury to the British cutter takes some of the glory of the victory from the American yacht, it is admitted on all sides that in such a wholesale breeze as there was to-day she can beat Britannia.

This was the second day's racing of the regatta of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club. Early in the day there was a strong squally westerly breeze, which promised to give Vigilant all the wind she needed.

The contest was for the Rear Commodore Cup, valued at $250, presented by R. G. Dunville, with $125 added by the Club. The second yacht gets a prize of $75.

The course was the same as the one sailed over yesterday, quadrangular, and had to be sailed over three times, the total distance being fifty miles.

The exact time which Vigilant, under her new trim, allows Britannia is not yet known, and will not be made public until the American yacht is measured at Kingstown.

All the yachting men present here to-day pronounced the breeze to be exactly what Vigilant wanted. It was blowing strong from the West with occasional squalls, which drove the racers through the water in a splendid manner and greatly increased the interest taken in the event.

We Go Right to the Front.

The yachts started at 11:00 a. m., carrying 100,000 lbs. of whole mainsails. They went through the line beam for beam, with Britannia on the weather.

Vigilant broke tack at once for the beat to Carrickfergus, Britannia holding inshore, on the starboard tack, for a quarter of a mile.

Vigilant undoubtedly had a breeze in which she revolved, and was fast leaving Britannia astern, showing up in the most handsome manner and raising the hopes of her many admirers.

Vigilant was leading easily when the yachts turned the second mark-boat, off Carrickfergus. In the following times:

Vigilant 11 50
Britannia 11 50 55
Vigilant consequently was 1m. 5s. ahead at this point on the first round, and was pulling steadily away from the cutter.

The two yachts reached grandly along the Antrim coast under big jib-topalls, and at Kilsoll Vigilant led by more than two minutes.

The wind was then increasing, and the American yacht was ploughing into the water in magnificent style.

Increasing the Lead.

The racers on the first round turned mark-boat No. 3 off Black Head as follows:

H. M. S. Vigilant 12 14
Britannia 12 16 20
Thus Vigilant was 1m. 50s. ahead at this stage of the race, and had gained 45s. on the second leg.

Vigilant continued to work out her legs, led on the fetch to the South Breeze, where she had increased her lead considerably.

Mark No. 4, the South Breeze, was turned on the first round in the following times:

H. M. S. Vigilant 12 27 20
Britannia 12 29 10
Vigilant, therefore, was 2m. 44s. ahead at this point, and had gained 54s. on the third leg.

The wind was still fresh and veered northward as Vigilant stayed to come home on the first round, and both yachts were able to fetch the Commodore's boat after a short leg on the port tack, the
