

A PLAGUE OF TRAMPS.

Trains on the Pennsylvania Road Held Up Daily.

Freight Crews Powerless Against the Army of Unemployed.

"The Queen" of the Hoboes Captured and Locked Up.

It is a very easy and simple matter to steal a train on the Pennsylvania road, between New York and Philadelphia, according to information given in "Evening World" reporter this morning by an official of that Company in Jersey City and by several of the men of the freight train crews.

"What are train crews of five or six men to do against gangs of fifteen or twenty young toughs, who get on their trains as they try to get the tramps off, they have trouble, and as likely as not are stoned by them. Then, if the roughs are put off the forward cars, they will get right on the rear cars again. No, although our men have orders to put the tramps off, as a matter of fact they cannot always do it, and so they are virtually helpless against the army of unemployed."

Yesterday a report came in that a gang of 150 tramps had taken possession of a freight train near New Brunswick and had with them a young woman whom they called "The Queen."

Detective Andrew McGovern of the report was utterly false, but afterwards acknowledged that "fifteen or twenty tramps" had taken possession of the train at East Newark, New Jersey, and had with them a young woman named Sadie Hockman had been with them.

The young woman told the Justice in New Brunswick that she wanted to go to Philadelphia, and had boarded the freight train at East Newark, New Jersey, and had with her a young woman named Sadie Hockman, and had with her a young woman named Sadie Hockman, and had with her a young woman named Sadie Hockman.

"Hundreds of tramps go over this road every day, and don't do anything with them. Twenty or thirty of them will get on the train, and they will show their faces if they try to put them off. They are getting worse all the time, and the more they get over to the officers in the New Jersey towns now and then, it does no good, as the tramps are getting better, but turn them loose, and tell them to get away."

"When a gang board a train we just let them go. Talk of holding up trains in the West! Why, it is done every day on all the roads. It is done and nothing is thought of it. We are used to it."

ADMINISTRATRIX IN JAIL.

Judge Truxax Will Decide Whether She Was Properly Arrested.

Leonora Cline, administratrix of the estate of the late Annie C. Nicholson, was arrested last night by Deputy Sheriff Walgreen, and lodged in Ludlow Street Jail, upon an order issued by Surrogate Arnold, adjudging her in contempt of court.

The administratrix was arrested in the failure of the prisoner to pay to George Nicholson and James Magdalen $100,000, which she had promised to pay to them for the production of Mrs. Cline in court, in order that her imprisonment may be required immediately.

INSANE PATIENT TRANSFERRED.

Lucy De Forest Belle, the young Boston woman who has created considerable commotion in the house Pavilion at Bellevue Hospital, was transferred last night to the insane asylum at Westchester, where she is being treated.

JOHN BEDELL'S SACRIFICE.

The Stern Old Loyalist Died That His Daughter Might Wed His Enemy.

"A renegade! A rebel against his king! A black-hearted traitor! You dare tell me that George Winthrop loves you! Son of a canting, lying Esra Winthrop! By the eternal, I'll shoot him on sight if he comes this side!"

POLICEMAN EBERT SCORED.

He Will Be Tried Before the Commissioners Next Wednesday.

Charged with Brutally Beating Young Martin Ryan.

Police Officer Henry Ebert, of the Delancey street station, received a lecturing this morning that should leave a lasting impression upon his memory. "If our men try to put the tramps off, they have trouble, and as likely as not are stoned by them. Then, if the roughs are put off the forward cars, they will get right on the rear cars again. No, although our men have orders to put the tramps off, as a matter of fact they cannot always do it, and so they are virtually helpless against the army of unemployed."

Police Officer Henry Ebert, of the Delancey street station, received a lecturing this morning that should leave a lasting impression upon his memory. "If our men try to put the tramps off, they have trouble, and as likely as not are stoned by them. Then, if the roughs are put off the forward cars, they will get right on the rear cars again. No, although our men have orders to put the tramps off, as a matter of fact they cannot always do it, and so they are virtually helpless against the army of unemployed."

Police Officer Henry Ebert, of the Delancey street station, received a lecturing this morning that should leave a lasting impression upon his memory. "If our men try to put the tramps off, they have trouble, and as likely as not are stoned by them. Then, if the roughs are put off the forward cars, they will get right on the rear cars again. No, although our men have orders to put the tramps off, as a matter of fact they cannot always do it, and so they are virtually helpless against the army of unemployed."

Police Officer Henry Ebert, of the Delancey street station, received a lecturing this morning that should leave a lasting impression upon his memory. "If our men try to put the tramps off, they have trouble, and as likely as not are stoned by them. Then, if the roughs are put off the forward cars, they will get right on the rear cars again. No, although our men have orders to put the tramps off, as a matter of fact they cannot always do it, and so they are virtually helpless against the army of unemployed."

Police Officer Henry Ebert, of the Delancey street station, received a lecturing this morning that should leave a lasting impression upon his memory. "If our men try to put the tramps off, they have trouble, and as likely as not are stoned by them. Then, if the roughs are put off the forward cars, they will get right on the rear cars again. No, although our men have orders to put the tramps off, as a matter of fact they cannot always do it, and so they are virtually helpless against the army of unemployed."

Police Officer Henry Ebert, of the Delancey street station, received a lecturing this morning that should leave a lasting impression upon his memory. "If our men try to put the tramps off, they have trouble, and as likely as not are stoned by them. Then, if the roughs are put off the forward cars, they will get right on the rear cars again. No, although our men have orders to put the tramps off, as a matter of fact they cannot always do it, and so they are virtually helpless against the army of unemployed."

Police Officer Henry Ebert, of the Delancey street station, received a lecturing this morning that should leave a lasting impression upon his memory. "If our men try to put the tramps off, they have trouble, and as likely as not are stoned by them. Then, if the roughs are put off the forward cars, they will get right on the rear cars again. No, although our men have orders to put the tramps off, as a matter of fact they cannot always do it, and so they are virtually helpless against the army of unemployed."

Police Officer Henry Ebert, of the Delancey street station, received a lecturing this morning that should leave a lasting impression upon his memory. "If our men try to put the tramps off, they have trouble, and as likely as not are stoned by them. Then, if the roughs are put off the forward cars, they will get right on the rear cars again. No, although our men have orders to put the tramps off, as a matter of fact they cannot always do it, and so they are virtually helpless against the army of unemployed."

Police Officer Henry Ebert, of the Delancey street station, received a lecturing this morning that should leave a lasting impression upon his memory. "If our men try to put the tramps off, they have trouble, and as likely as not are stoned by them. Then, if the roughs are put off the forward cars, they will get right on the rear cars again. No, although our men have orders to put the tramps off, as a matter of fact they cannot always do it, and so they are virtually helpless against the army of unemployed."

Police Officer Henry Ebert, of the Delancey street station, received a lecturing this morning that should leave a lasting impression upon his memory. "If our men try to put the tramps off, they have trouble, and as likely as not are stoned by them. Then, if the roughs are put off the forward cars, they will get right on the rear cars again. No, although our men have orders to put the tramps off, as a matter of fact they cannot always do it, and so they are virtually helpless against the army of unemployed."

Police Officer Henry Ebert, of the Delancey street station, received a lecturing this morning that should leave a lasting impression upon his memory. "If our men try to put the tramps off, they have trouble, and as likely as not are stoned by them. Then, if the roughs are put off the forward cars, they will get right on the rear cars again. No, although our men have orders to put the tramps off, as a matter of fact they cannot always do it, and so they are virtually helpless against the army of unemployed."

Police Officer Henry Ebert, of the Delancey street station, received a lecturing this morning that should leave a lasting impression upon his memory. "If our men try to put the tramps off, they have trouble, and as likely as not are stoned by them. Then, if the roughs are put off the forward cars, they will get right on the rear cars again. No, although our men have orders to put the tramps off, as a matter of fact they cannot always do it, and so they are virtually helpless against the army of unemployed."

Police Officer Henry Ebert, of the Delancey street station, received a lecturing this morning that should leave a lasting impression upon his memory. "If our men try to put the tramps off, they have trouble, and as likely as not are stoned by them. Then, if the roughs are put off the forward cars, they will get right on the rear cars again. No, although our men have orders to put the tramps off, as a matter of fact they cannot always do it, and so they are virtually helpless against the army of unemployed."

Police Officer Henry Ebert, of the Delancey street station, received a lecturing this morning that should leave a lasting impression upon his memory. "If our men try to put the tramps off, they have trouble, and as likely as not are stoned by them. Then, if the roughs are put off the forward cars, they will get right on the rear cars again. No, although our men have orders to put the tramps off, as a matter of fact they cannot always do it, and so they are virtually helpless against the army of unemployed."

Police Officer Henry Ebert, of the Delancey street station, received a lecturing this morning that should leave a lasting impression upon his memory. "If our men try to put the tramps off, they have trouble, and as likely as not are stoned by them. Then, if the roughs are put off the forward cars, they will get right on the rear cars again. No, although our men have orders to put the tramps off, as a matter of fact they cannot always do it, and so they are virtually helpless against the army of unemployed."

Police Officer Henry Ebert, of the Delancey street station, received a lecturing this morning that should leave a lasting impression upon his memory. "If our men try to put the tramps off, they have trouble, and as likely as not are stoned by them. Then, if the roughs are put off the forward cars, they will get right on the rear cars again. No, although our men have orders to put the tramps off, as a matter of fact they cannot always do it, and so they are virtually helpless against the army of unemployed."

INSPECTOR FOX NOT AFRAID.

Still Waging War on Vendors of Spoiled Fruit and Vegetables.

Replies to a Threatening Letter with Another Big Raid.

Fruit Inspector Wilson Fox's activity among the east-side vendors has had the effect of making him a very much-dreaded and a very much-loved man. His efforts to discourage stockholders, pushed and pulled, have been made in the name of the public health, and his frequent seizures of their entire stock have met with failure, until now he has determined to arraign the offenders in court for such punishment as the law directs.

Yesterday Inspector Fox seized 200 watermelons, 3,000 pounds of fruit and a large quantity of vegetables, which he carried off to the Rutgers and West Thirtieth street dumps.

The greater portion of the seizure was taken from Ludjio Derosario, of 183 Stanton street; Nicholas Ditrona, of 72 Avenue A; Francesco Sandono, of 93 Delancey street; and Isaac Most, of 9 Buffalo street. These men have been seized in selling fruit and vegetables unfit for use, notwithstanding repeated warnings from officers of the Board of Health, and yesterday when they were found doing out the tainted stuff they were arrested. In Essex Market Court each was held for trial in Special Sessions, and was locked up in default of bail.

About a week ago a letter was received at the Health Department, threatening that unless the raids were stopped, the vendors would be organized to feel the vengeance of those who have been harassed. The letter declared that the vendors were being persecuted, that they could expect no justice in the courts, and that, therefore, they had determined to take the law in their own hands.

Nothing daunted by this threat, Mr. Fox was quite vased when his secretary yesterday told every vendor who didn't run away at his approach that unless they gave up dealing in unwholesome goods they would all be given a vacation on the island.

Most one of the prisoners, is said to be a relative of Herr John Most, the anarchist, and is also said to be a Jewish miser. He is said to be a relative of Herr John Most, the anarchist, and is also said to be a Jewish miser. He is said to be a relative of Herr John Most, the anarchist, and is also said to be a Jewish miser.

Much of the sickness among the tenement children on the east side has been attributed to the sale of spoiled fruit and vegetables, and the Board of Health is determined, if every vendor in the district is given a vacation, to break up the dangerous traffic.

A CLERGYMAN'S NEPHEW.

Fined $3 as One of a Gang Charged with Insulting Women.

Capt. Westervelt, of the East One Hundred and Fourth street station, has received a number of anonymous communications from residents in the neighborhood of One Hundred and Thirtieth street and Park avenue, complaining of the lawlessness of a gang that infest the area between the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad tracks, "rush the beer growler" all night and insult women who may chance to pass by during the evening.

Yesterday the policemen were instructed to put a stop to the nuisance. Last night Patrolman McGirr and several other policemen lay in wait for the gang, and arrested three of the members. A dozen or more escaped during the excitement.

The prisoners, on being taken to the station-house, gave their names as Frank Daniels, Robert Weston and Harry Palmer. They are all young men, and are said to be members of a gang that infest the area between the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad tracks, "rush the beer growler" all night and insult women who may chance to pass by during the evening.

These officers have been elected by the Amalgamated Brotherhood of Carriers, and are said to be members of a gang that infest the area between the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad tracks, "rush the beer growler" all night and insult women who may chance to pass by during the evening.

These officers have been elected by the Amalgamated Brotherhood of Carriers, and are said to be members of a gang that infest the area between the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad tracks, "rush the beer growler" all night and insult women who may chance to pass by during the evening.

These officers have been elected by the Amalgamated Brotherhood of Carriers, and are said to be members of a gang that infest the area between the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad tracks, "rush the beer growler" all night and insult women who may chance to pass by during the evening.

These officers have been elected by the Amalgamated Brotherhood of Carriers, and are said to be members of a gang that infest the area between the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad tracks, "rush the beer growler" all night and insult women who may chance to pass by during the evening.

These officers have been elected by the Amalgamated Brotherhood of Carriers, and are said to be members of a gang that infest the area between the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad tracks, "rush the beer growler" all night and insult women who may chance to pass by during the evening.

THE PRESS AGENT IN MANHATTAN.

Beach Weather Reports.

Here's richness. Guess who applied to Henry E. Abbey, while in London, for an engagement in Lillian Russell's company at the Lyceum Theatre? Peppercorn! No, but you may be surprised to hear that the applicant was none other than Teddy Solomon, Miss Russell's second husband, and the father of her little girl. Mr. Abbey received a telegram from Solomon, asking for an appointment. One was made, and part little Teddy appeared in person.

Here's richness. Guess who applied to Henry E. Abbey, while in London, for an engagement in Lillian Russell's company at the Lyceum Theatre? Peppercorn! No, but you may be surprised to hear that the applicant was none other than Teddy Solomon, Miss Russell's second husband, and the father of her little girl. Mr. Abbey received a telegram from Solomon, asking for an appointment. One was made, and part little Teddy appeared in person.

Here's richness. Guess who applied to Henry E. Abbey, while in London, for an engagement in Lillian Russell's company at the Lyceum Theatre? Peppercorn! No, but you may be surprised to hear that the applicant was none other than Teddy Solomon, Miss Russell's second husband, and the father of her little girl. Mr. Abbey received a telegram from Solomon, asking for an appointment. One was made, and part little Teddy appeared in person.

Here's richness. Guess who applied to Henry E. Abbey, while in London, for an engagement in Lillian Russell's company at the Lyceum Theatre? Peppercorn! No, but you may be surprised to hear that the applicant was none other than Teddy Solomon, Miss Russell's second husband, and the father of her little girl. Mr. Abbey received a telegram from Solomon, asking for an appointment. One was made, and part little Teddy appeared in person.

Here's richness. Guess who applied to Henry E. Abbey, while in London, for an engagement in Lillian Russell's company at the Lyceum Theatre? Peppercorn! No, but you may be surprised to hear that the applicant was none other than Teddy Solomon, Miss Russell's second husband, and the father of her little girl. Mr. Abbey received a telegram from Solomon, asking for an appointment. One was made, and part little Teddy appeared in person.

Here's richness. Guess who applied to Henry E. Abbey, while in London, for an engagement in Lillian Russell's company at the Lyceum Theatre? Peppercorn! No, but you may be surprised to hear that the applicant was none other than Teddy Solomon, Miss Russell's second husband, and the father of her little girl. Mr. Abbey received a telegram from Solomon, asking for an appointment. One was made, and part little Teddy appeared in person.

Here's richness. Guess who applied to Henry E. Abbey, while in London, for an engagement in Lillian Russell's company at the Lyceum Theatre? Peppercorn! No, but you may be surprised to hear that the applicant was none other than Teddy Solomon, Miss Russell's second husband, and the father of her little girl. Mr. Abbey received a telegram from Solomon, asking for an appointment. One was made, and part little Teddy appeared in person.

Here's richness. Guess who applied to Henry E. Abbey, while in London, for an engagement in Lillian Russell's company at the Lyceum Theatre? Peppercorn! No, but you may be surprised to hear that the applicant was none other than Teddy Solomon, Miss Russell's second husband, and the father of her little girl. Mr. Abbey received a telegram from Solomon, asking for an appointment. One was made, and part little Teddy appeared in person.

Here's richness. Guess who applied to Henry E. Abbey, while in London, for an engagement in Lillian Russell's company at the Lyceum Theatre? Peppercorn! No, but you may be surprised to hear that the applicant was none other than Teddy Solomon, Miss Russell's second husband, and the father of her little girl. Mr. Abbey received a telegram from Solomon, asking for an appointment. One was made, and part little Teddy appeared in person.

Here's richness. Guess who applied to Henry E. Abbey, while in London, for an engagement in Lillian Russell's company at the Lyceum Theatre? Peppercorn! No, but you may be surprised to hear that the applicant was none other than Teddy Solomon, Miss Russell's second husband, and the father of her little girl. Mr. Abbey received a telegram from Solomon, asking for an appointment. One was made, and part little Teddy appeared in person.

Here's richness. Guess who applied to Henry E. Abbey, while in London, for an engagement in Lillian Russell's company at the Lyceum Theatre? Peppercorn! No, but you may be surprised to hear that the applicant was none other than Teddy Solomon, Miss Russell's second husband, and the father of her little girl. Mr. Abbey received a telegram from Solomon, asking for an appointment. One was made, and part little Teddy appeared in person.

Here's richness. Guess who applied to Henry E. Abbey, while in London, for an engagement in Lillian Russell's company at the Lyceum Theatre? Peppercorn! No, but you may be surprised to hear that the applicant was none other than Teddy Solomon, Miss Russell's second husband, and the father of her little girl. Mr. Abbey received a telegram from Solomon, asking for an appointment. One was made, and part little Teddy appeared in person.

Here's richness. Guess who applied to Henry E. Abbey, while in London, for an engagement in Lillian Russell's company at the Lyceum Theatre? Peppercorn! No, but you may be surprised to hear that the applicant was none other than Teddy Solomon, Miss Russell's second husband, and the father of her little girl. Mr. Abbey received a telegram from Solomon, asking for an appointment. One was made, and part little Teddy appeared in person.

Here's richness. Guess who applied to Henry E. Abbey, while in London, for an engagement in Lillian Russell's company at the Lyceum Theatre? Peppercorn! No, but you may be surprised to hear that the applicant was none other than Teddy Solomon, Miss Russell's second husband, and the father of her little girl. Mr. Abbey received a telegram from Solomon, asking for an appointment. One was made, and part little Teddy appeared in person.

Here's richness. Guess who applied to Henry E. Abbey, while in London, for an engagement in Lillian Russell's company at the Lyceum Theatre? Peppercorn! No, but you may be surprised to hear that the applicant was none other than Teddy Solomon, Miss Russell's second husband, and the father of her little girl. Mr. Abbey received a telegram from Solomon, asking for an appointment. One was made, and part little Teddy appeared in person.

Here's richness. Guess who applied to Henry E. Abbey, while in London, for an engagement in Lillian Russell's company at the Lyceum Theatre? Peppercorn! No, but you may be surprised to hear that the applicant was none other than Teddy Solomon, Miss Russell's second husband, and the father of her little girl. Mr. Abbey received a telegram from Solomon, asking for an appointment. One was made, and part little Teddy appeared in person.

Here's richness. Guess who applied to Henry E. Abbey, while in London, for an engagement in Lillian Russell's company at the Lyceum Theatre? Peppercorn! No, but you may be surprised to hear that the applicant was none other than Teddy Solomon, Miss Russell's second husband, and the father of her little girl. Mr. Abbey received a telegram from Solomon, asking for an appointment. One was made, and part little Teddy appeared in person.

WHY MRS. HELLER FAILED TO TAKE THE NEW LONDON BOAT.

Released When Arraigned with Her Children in Court.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

WHY MRS. HELLER FAILED TO TAKE THE NEW LONDON BOAT.

Released When Arraigned with Her Children in Court.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

WHY MRS. HELLER FAILED TO TAKE THE NEW LONDON BOAT.

Released When Arraigned with Her Children in Court.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in Harlem Court today, charged with being intoxicated last night.

Mrs. Mary Heller, a frail little woman, aged thirty-five, with a fourteen-month-old babe in her arms and a three-year-old girl tugging at her skirt, was arraigned before