

Published by the Evening World Publishing Company, 10 N. 2d St., New York.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 10, 1894.

SUBSCRIPTIONS TO THE EVENING WORLD (including postage): PER MONTH $3.00 PER YEAR $35.00

Vol. 35, No. 12,043

Published at the Post-Office at New York as second-class matter.

BRANCH OFFICES: WORLD OFFICES—Justice of Peace, 10 N. 2d St., New York; HARLEM OFFICE—12th St. and Madison St.; BROOKLYN—99 Washington St.; PHILADELPHIA, PA.—Inquirer Office, 22 Chestnut St.; WASHINGTON—101 14th St.

JULY, 1894, BROKE ALL RECORDS IN NEWSPAPER CIRCULATION. 471,740 WORLDS per day was the average for July, 1894.

July, 1894 - 471,740 per day July, 1893 - 393,833 per day Gain in year 77,907 per day

Readers of THE EVENING WORLD leaving the city for the hot months should send in their orders for THE EVENING WORLD mailed to them regularly.

And so Millholland is bet-r-r-ayed!

After Saratoga and harmony—what?

Whatever Justice Divver forgets, he should not be forgotten.

Pantatons and malaria are observed to have coincident symptoms.

The light of the cities has been too long hidden under the State's legislative bush.

Mr. Platt left no chance for a Millholland doubt as to who let that platform drop.

Thus far the wrinkled front of his has shown itself too much for the laundry of the Chinese.

The troubles of the pantata are becoming, as the perquisites were wont to become, cumulative.

Mr. Millholland is young, and there are things which he has yet to learn. Substantial progress was made with his education yesterday.

Brooklyn is stealing another march on New York. She already had a police signal and patrol-wagon service. Now she is burning garbage.

New York City will have a chance for thorough good government till her officials and her people are directly responsible to and for each other.

Politics in the Police Department is not met with more politics. The Christianian Commission will go when the better New York has its say.

A Mexican meteorologist has predicted an earthquake between to-day and Sunday for the region around the city of Mexico, but no one is sanguine enough to predict that the Senate at Washington will get the shaking up it needs.

Now that the story of Li Hung Chang and the yellow jacket takes its place in fiction with the tales of Tell and of G. Washington's hatchet, it is hard to understand how one can place implicit reliance on any news from the seat of war.

Defeated Kolbitzes hint at violence in Alabama. If they will take good advice they will let it go to a hint. The two Governors experiment has never been very successful in an American commonwealth. The Alabama Fusionists were beaten, and will stay so.

Anarchist Emma Goldman will be released from Blackwell's Island next week. She has developed a talent for nursing, and says she will study for a doctor's degree. It is unfortunate that her intention to practise medicine is accompanied by an expressed purpose to continue to preach Anarchy. She should think enough better of this, at least, to avoid the prescription of another bitter dose by the courts.

Justice Quigley, in a Brooklyn court, fined a driver $50 yesterday, witnesses having sworn that the prisoner purposely ran down a bicyclist. The Justice said: "Too much liberty is being taken with bicycle riders by drivers, and it is about time that it was stopped. Bicyclists have rights and are human beings, and must be respected. Now, I propose to make an example of you." The bicyclist and the driver have equal privileges on the highways. There is no reason why they should not cherish a mutual respect, each for the other's rights. And without, neither is to lose sight of the rights of pedestrians.

Mr. Jenks, of Brooklyn, put the home-ruy in the Constitutional Convention. Charter, he said, should be adopted by the people of the city, and if the people could not carry them out, the city should be raised and its ruins sold with the first of the month.

Justice Quigley, in a Brooklyn court, fined a driver $50 yesterday, witnesses having sworn that the prisoner purposely ran down a bicyclist. The Justice said: "Too much liberty is being taken with bicycle riders by drivers, and it is about time that it was stopped. Bicyclists have rights and are human beings, and must be respected. Now, I propose to make an example of you." The bicyclist and the driver have equal privileges on the highways. There is no reason why they should not cherish a mutual respect, each for the other's rights. And without, neither is to lose sight of the rights of pedestrians.

When the people understood their full responsibility the character of the representatives would change. This would be the true test of home rule. How willing New York is to undergo the great test of self-government, her representatives have even now failed to tell adequately to the Convention.

"IN THE HANDS OF DEMOCRATS."

Robert T. Lincoln, ex-Minister to England, is quoted as having remarked at Chicago yesterday: "We are in the hands of the Democrats, and only the Lord knows when all this distress will end."

Mr. Lincoln was wrong in his premises. We are not in the hands of the Democrats. On the contrary, the McKinley law still prevails, and Democracy, up to this hour, has had no chance to fulfill the pledges upon the strength of which its candidate was made President, and its representatives were supposed to have come into control of the Congress.

If the country had been in the hands of the real Democrats for the months past since the election of 1892, tariff reform would now be an accomplished fact, reviving industry, and commerce would have received an encouraging push and there would not be the present embarrassing condition of things in which the country's business literally knows not where it is "at."

No, Mr. Lincoln, we are in the hands of powers that were never Democratic, and while ostensible Democrats stand as the agents of those powers, blocking the way at Washington, the responsibility cannot justly be placed upon the great party which won the day in November nearly two years ago. Upon that party the penalty for the delay and the trouble of this hour may finally be visited, but the main body of Democrats stands to-day, on the tariff issue, just where it stood in campaign and election, and the man in the White House stands ready to lead the march in the direction pointed out by the voice at the polls. Following that direction, the march would be out of darkness into light. And then would we be "in the hands of the Democrats."

Practical Politics.

Yesterday's proceedings at Saratoga were thoroughly harmonious and in accordance with the views given out by the individual members of the Committee in advance of the meeting. The State Convention, to be held Sept. 25, is to consist of delegates selected in the regular way at regular parties; six days' notice is to be given, so that anti-machine Democrats will not be in a position to call the Convention a snap convention; and, whereas it is certain that consenting delegations will be sent from Buffalo and Albany, the authority of the Committee to select a contest is delegated to a sub-committee of five, who are to hear all controversies and decide in favor of the machine delegates.

It would be impossible for a Committee meeting to be more harmonious. The peace which reigned in Warsaw was not more complete than the peace which greeted the deliberations of the Committee, who represent the 650,000 Democratic voters of the Empire State.

A CITY CRUSADE.

The Twenty-fourth street situation is a most interesting one, in a question whether the majority of the residents, property owners and tenants on the street are in favor of decency and law or are upholders of vice and lawlessness.

To the question put in that way there can be but one answer.

The remoter aspect of the situation, the question whether the decent and law-abiding majority can carry out its honest wishes against the small minority of vile and vicious lawbreakers, is equally simple. Not even the indifference of the police, nor an alliance between police protection and vice, can prevail against law and decency in such a community as New York. The publicity of the reported progress of the struggle in the daily papers is in itself sufficient to make the resistance of the evil-doers hopeless.

Mrs. Ballade and her co-workers have only to push their case to insure success and to render a signal service to the cause of order and decency.

Policeman Gallagher, of the West Thirtieth street station, knew when not to "let 'em go" yesterday. A runaway horse, without a bridle, swept suddenly down upon his beat in Broadway, carrying peril to everybody along the way. The policeman did not hesitate, and his opportunity was, therefore, not lost.

With a rush and a spring, Gallagher got under the horse's neck, and held on until the animal stopped. It is such deeds as this that make up the record on the strength of which New York's police force is set down as "the finest." Who would not join in the work of freeing the great, solid body of this Department from the bonds of politics, bossism and the pantata?

It didn't need the weather reports to tell that a cold wave had struck Saratoga. The story of the "harmony" conference was a sufficient indication of the fact.

EDITORIALLY PUT.

Paradox in Human Nature.

How strange it seems that so many good people dearly love to tell such dreadful news.—Lancaster (Pa.) Examiner.

The Impossible in Romance.

The latest whimsical romance is the story that Peck is a wrong governed city than Chicago.—Kansas City Star.

The Desideratum.

Under the new law France has thirty Anarchists before the court. Tried at this rate, after a while they may be found wanting.—Philadelphia Times.

Pure Waste of Public Money.

The scheme to assign salaries to the American will not meet with the vigorous approval of the public. If members of the City Council can save fortunes out of it, a week's work seems less to pay them $2,000 a year.—Chicago Post.

Harmony with the People in It.

The main hope that remains to those who can possibly wish for harmony is that the spirit of the Democratic people may find expression in the Democratic State Convention and there lead the way to unity, fraternity and an old-time Democratic victory.—Buffalo Times.

Well, We're Watching.

The Vigilant is simply full of Yankee tricks. It let the Prince of Wales's yacht walk off with an ace just as she was about to open and a half mile big got down to sea level, and the boat is now scheduled. Try to catch the yacht crew and watch for out of the tail of the boat.

BOMB IN THE STOCK YARDS.

Chicago Packing District Startled by an Explosion.

Wagon and Boxes Destroyed and No Clue Found by Police.

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—What is supposed to be an attempt to blow up part of Packingtown occurred last night. A bomb exploded near Armour's packing-house, at Forty-second street and Packers avenue, right in the heart of the stock-yards. The explosion occurred in one of the stock-yards. Co's wagons, which was filled with empty boxes, which are left every evening for the benefit of the packers.

The report was like that of a cannon, but the only damage to property was the destruction of the wagon and the load of boxes, which were reduced to kindling wood. A search was made for some portion of the supposed bomb or anything else that might throw some light upon the mystery, but without avail, and the police were compelled to postpone a fuller investigation until morning.

It is thought by the officers that one of the men who have been hanging about the yards at night, in the hope of getting work, became desperate and tried to destroy a portion of the stock-yards, but that he was deterred by his courage deserted him and the bomb or whatever it was was placed in the load of boxes.

TROOPS OUT IN OMAHA.

Two Companies Sent to Protect Packing-Houses.

(By Associated Press.)

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 10.—After a conference lasting ten hours between the State, municipal and city authorities and the packers, in which the situation was thoroughly canvassed, the packers refused to continue business without the presence of State troops, and the Governor issued the necessary orders. The Omaha Guards and the Thurston Rifles, which have been under arms for several days here at once started on their march of disturbance.

Last night two men stood off fifty strikers with their revolvers. Two men and a boy left the Cudahy packing-house about 9 o'clock and started for their homes. One of the strikers saw them coming, and when the men reached their homes, the strikers pointed them directly at the head men.

They came another step nearer and the strikers pointed their rifles at them. The partner also leveled a revolver in the same direction. The strikers halted and called for a policeman and the crowd stopped.

NEGRO COKERS MAY STRIKE.

Will Demand, It is Said, an Advance To-Morrow.

(By Associated Press.)

CONNELLYVILLE, Pa., Aug. 10.—The mass-meeting of striking coke workers held here yesterday was one of the greatest demonstrations of the kind that the region has seen since the strike broke out. More than three thousand men were in the procession which preceded the meeting.

The speakers were Reuben Wilson, a negro, who came from Moyer, and the Southern negro employed at the Standard. Mr. Connelly, who has organized a movement to lay down their tools next Saturday and demand a 10 per cent advance. The strikers left the meeting jubilant.

THE VOSBURGH VETERANS.

They Have Taken New Quarters and Are After a Charter.

(By Associated Press.)

The Vosburgh Veterans, the remnant of the famous "American Guard" of the Seventy-first Regiment, who served under the late Col. Abram S. Vosburgh, are making great preparations for their annual dinner. The organization has just taken new quarters in the building at the southwest corner of Third avenue and Fifty-fifth street, although Geo. W. Wyckoff, the Corresponding Secretary, still receives his mail at 41 Pearl street, New York.

The new quarters have been elegantly furnished, and the members of the fifty-old veterans answered to roll-call, after Chaplain Sentis had offered up a prayer. Col. Vosburgh's name was presented a valuable collection of trophies of the battle of Bull Run. A fine cigar portfolio of John W. Wyckoff, and an elegantly framed, was presented by Lieut. H. J. Moore.

The organization was appointed to secure a charter and another to revise the by-laws.

WINE TRUST IN CALIFORNIA.

Seven Merchants Have Signed Articles of Incorporation.

(By Associated Press.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10.—At a meeting of wine-growers, H. E. Preston, President of the association recently formed to organize a trust embracing all the wine-growing interests of the State, reported that seven of the leading wine-merchants had signed articles of incorporation and forwarded them to the Secretary of State.

The company is now preparing to treat with the committee of seven wine-growers, who have been appointed to secure options on the grape crop of the State.

EARTHQUAKE IN MEMPHIS.

Buildings Shaken, but No Damage Has Been Reported.

(By Associated Press.)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 10.—Three distinct shocks of earthquake were felt here at 12:30 this morning. The shocks were of ten seconds' duration. Buildings swayed and windows rattled, but no damage was done.

Monument for Hahnemann.

(By Associated Press.)

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 10.—Sig. Tronsson, the Italian sculptor, has completed a design for a monument which is to be erected to the memory of the German physician, Hahnemann of the country. The design will be taken a Washington next and be submitted to the authorities.

Election in the Chickasaw Nation.

(By Associated Press.)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 10.—Returns from sixteen counties in the Chickasaw Nation, with Suite County yet to be heard from, give Palmer S. Moseley, the Independent candidate, the majority of votes for the Governor. Moseley's election is generally conceded.

Heinrich Conrad Arrives.

(By Associated Press.)

Among the saloon passengers who landed from the steamship Columbia, from Southampton, today, were Director Heinrich Conrad and Mrs. Conrad, Capt. Charles Fawcett, Director Ludwig Koenig, John W. Wyckoff and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fortes McCreary.

"Cutting in" a Whale.

(By Associated Press.)

The steamship George W. Childs, from New York, reached this port this morning. On August 7, she reached this port this morning. On August 7, she reached this port this morning. On August 7, she reached this port this morning.

MADE LOVE AND ROBBED HIM.

Coffee Has Emma Wilson Arrested on This Charge.

Says She Stole His Diamond Pin on an "L." Train.

(Special to The Evening World.)

EMMA WILSON, thirty-five years old, was committed for trial in $1,000 bail today by Justice McMahon in Yorkville Court on the charge of robbing William J. Coffee, a carpenter, of 219 East One Hundred and Seventeenth street, of a sapphire and diamond pin last night.

The theft, it is alleged, was committed on a south-bound Third Avenue Elevated train. Coffee was sitting on one of the side seats when the prisoner entered the car at One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street. She was well-dressed and ladylike in appearance. Coffee says she winked when she seated herself beside him, and then, with a smile, reached over and whispered, "Make love to me and get the sapphire pin."

Coffee says he looked at her in perfect amazement, and when she laid a few blocks, she threw one of her arms around his neck. He says he disengaged himself from her embrace, and soon afterward missed his pin. When he accused her of stealing it, she indignantly denied the charge and proceeded to walk up and down the length of the train.

Ninety-ninth street station she tried to get off, but when Coffee made a start to follow her he changed her mind and she returned to the car. When he was told the state of affairs he arrested the woman on the spot, although she was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by the police matron.

At Sixty-seventh street station Detective Weller, of Capt. Strauss' precinct, arrested a woman, who was identified as the woman who had stolen the pin. She was thoroughly searched by