

EXTRA. THAT BIG LOAN IS OFF. Whiskey Trust Could Not Raise the $5,000,000 Here. Nelson Morris, of Chicago, Would Not Indorse the Notes. Sage Gave It Up, and Now the West Has Been Appealed To.

The Distilling and Cattle-Feeding Company, commonly known as the Whiskey Trust, have failed, so far as this city is concerned, at least to effect a loan of $5,000,000, which was wanted by the Trust to enable it to take out of bond the whiskey which is now stored in bonded warehouses before the Gorman law goes into effect at 12 o'clock to-night.

According to that report Russell Sage and John T. Terry, of 54 Exchange place, had supplied the bulk of the money, and the report said that Mr. Sage was to receive a commission of $200,000 over and above the legal rate of interest on the money supplied by him.

Mr. Sage told a number of his friends in the "street" that the same as he did not find the close of the Whiskey Trust a good one, the collateral offered to him by the trust was not sufficient to make the loan.

There had been very heavy trading in Whiskey stock all day, and by the close of the day 120,000 shares had been bought and sold. The price of the stock had advanced to $24, a half a point off Saturday's closing price.

ELDORADO, LIMITED. HE HOLDS $1,250,000. Employees to Run the Spectacle on Weehawken Heights. Manager Schwartz in Jail and Salaries Nowhere. An Indignation Meeting Evolves a Co-operative Plan.

As the season for outdoor theatricals approaches its close Eldorado's troubles seem to multiply. At 1 o'clock this afternoon there was a scene of great turmoil on the pretty heights of Weehawken. Manager Henry E. Schwartz, the responsible head of Eldorado, was missing, not of his own volition, though, and he was anatomized by a horde of respectful creditors in the persons of special policemen, calcium light operators, ticket-takers, performers, scene shifters and figurants in the living pictures.

It was an open-air meeting, and the half hundred employees of the Schwartz Company, which conducted the spectacle at Eldorado, all had an elegant chance to fire off their opinions just as they pleased.

In passing, it might be mentioned that Henry Schwartz was put in jail in Hudson County on a complaint of the Springer-Weltz Company, of this city, for certain irregularities in his "show paper." He will have a hearing to-morrow morning before Justice Lippincott, in Jersey City.

Now, when Schwartz disappeared the only leg that Eldorado stood upon was a hodge-podge of employees, and they were, on an average, a week's wages apiece, and that was the occasion of this afternoon's open-air indignation meeting.

BRITANNIA TO LAY UP. Prince of Wales Withdraws His Yacht from All Regattas. The Gouls Will Insist that She Defend the Cape May Cup. Howard Will Take a 30-Rater Centreboarder Over Next Year.

WEYMOUTH, Aug. 27.—Capt. Carter, commander of Britannia, has received a telegraphic message from her owner, the Prince of Wales, instructing him not to race Britannia again this season in any of the regattas. The action of the Prince of Wales is due to the accident by which, on Saturday last, Chief Officer Simons and Caterer Roper, of Britannia, and Engineer Brookman, of the steam yacht Tabara, were drowned.

Howard Gould was informed of the substance of the despatch sent by the Prince of Wales to Capt. Carter. Mr. Gould said: "So far as the Cape May Cup is concerned, Britannia will certainly insist upon contesting for it. As I understand the conditions, Britannia must defend it. She cannot transfer that privilege to Satanita without the consent of the New York Yacht Club. If Britannia does not contest against us she must give up the cup."

Regarding the yachting season of 1895, Mr. Howard Gould remarked: "I expect to come over here next year with a new Herreshoff twenty-rater. The matter is not definitely settled, but that is my present intention. Of course, if there is a challenge issued for the America's Cup things may be more lively at home, and it is probable that I shall remain there, as it is quite likely that my brother, George will build a cup defender. As for myself, I am satisfied that there is much more sport to be had here over a twenty-rater than out of any other boat."

Mr. Gould was asked if his new yacht would have a centreboard, to which he replied: "Of course, I suppose so. An American boat must have a centreboard, although they are often in the way here."

EXTRA. WON BY THE SAGE. Brookdale Stable's Two-Year-Old Takes the Autumn Maiden Stakes. DERFARGILLA'S CLOSE CALL. Flirt Was Featen by a Head and Florence Was but a Neck Away.

(Special to The Evening World.) RACE TRACK SHEPHERD BAY, Aug. 27.—The Saratoga contingent arrived here in full force to-day to swell the ranks of the regulars. After a big day like the Futurity the attendance is generally slim, and Monday is noted as the worst day of the week. Despite this double handicap the attendance here to-day was surprisingly large. This was in a measure due to the excellent card, which promised some very interesting sport.

The opening event was a dash of five furlongs, and Derfargilla went to the post an even money favorite, carrying the money of her owner and the Saratogans. The mare landed the money, but it was a very tight fl. Flirt, the second choice, and Florence, a long chance, hung to her all the way, and through the stretch they fought it out stride for stride. Doggett, on Derfargilla, did not dare to go to the whip, but riding hand with hands and feet just managed to win. Jockey Brown, whose license was suspended by the Stewards at the Parkway race, was riding her.

BURNS SEEKS HIS LIBERTY. Claims the Governor Could Not Make His Pardon Conditional. (By Associated Press.) ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 27.—A case involving queer questions of constitutional law has just been filed with the Court of Appeals. The facts show that James Burns was convicted on May 20, 1889, of robbery in the first degree and sentenced to Auburn Prison for thirteen years. In February, 1890, the sentence was commuted by Gov. Flower. This commutation contained conditions that if Burns was convicted of a felony within the next ten years, or drank intoxicating liquors, he should be sent to the State Prison for the remainder of the term of his sentence. In June, 1893, he was arrested in Rochester for the robbery of a store, and was sentenced to the State Prison for a term of one year. He was then sent back to prison.
