

IN BYRNES HANDS.

Charges Against Another Captain Ready for Presentation.

Belief that Max Schmittberger Will Be the Next.

All Eyes on the Grand Jury, but No Sign of Indictments.

It is probable that when Police Captain John T. Stephenson is called for trial he will have company. That company is likely to be Capt. Max Schmittberger, of the Nineteenth, or "Tenderloin," precinct.

Supt. Byrnes holds the papers constituting charges against another Captain, and Schmittberger is thought to be the man.

The pause in the trials of Police Capt. William S. Dewey and ex-Ward Men Edward Glennan and James Burns, is being filled in by James E. Osborne and E. B. Carroll, District Attorney's office, with the examination of witnesses who testify in the trial of Capt. John T. Stephenson and other police officers, who may be called upon to appear at the bar before the Commission.

It is understood that the typewritten papers sent up to Supt. Byrnes Saturday were the formal charges against Capt. Max Schmittberger.

All that could be learned about these charges is that they were made by the Tenderloin squad and that they were not based on the alleged protection of the evil in the district. The charges were not they alleged improper conduct during Schmittberger's captaincy of the Tenderloin precinct.

Charges preferred by business men against the big Captain.

It is understood that his charges in the result of a conference between Mr. William and the Superintendent, and it was said that they were to be submitted to the Police Commissioners to-day.

Commissioner Murray said in an interview with an "Evening World" reporter that he still held the same view that he did when he was called before the Commissioners to go into the business of trying the officers accused before a Law Commission was first broached.

It was opposed to such action then and I am now, said Commissioner Murray. "I was voted down then, and I would be voted down again when I propose that the officers be tried by a commission," he said.

Recorder Smyth did not appear at the Court House today. The case of Jerry, which is investigating the case of Annie Allen, charged by Nathan Arnold with sending a girl to the police station, may be in the week, take a peep at the case of some of the police precinct detectives who have been accused of impropriety.

GOFF IS BACK AGAIN.

He Will Tackle the Police Regarding the Recent Trials.

John W. Goff, with an assortment of questions on the face and the smell of the hair and on the Adirondack clasp on his garments, arrived here this morning after a month's vacation, and proceeded to his office, where he tackled a number of police precinct officers to asking the Police Department late on.

He is ignorant of the events of the past month," said he in an "Evening World" reporter. "I know nothing of what the Police Commission has done other than that they have had some of their men tried in the courts. I just know the police trials will interfere with the proceedings of the State Investigating Commission. I am not prepared to say they certainly will not have the effect of postponing or delaying the investigation. I believe they may affect the quality and quantity of the evidence which we hope to introduce and also the manner of obtaining the evidence."

"What is your opinion of the action of the Police Commission in their action in the trials of the police trials as an action inimical to the Senate Committee's investigation?" he asked. "I don't know just what has been done, and therefore can say nothing of it. I believe the Police Commission is proceeding along the same general lines on the 10 reports that have been made by the Police Board."

SAYS HE'S A VICTIM.

Policeman Lynch Claims that His Witness Was Kept Away.

Two Saloon-Keepers Charge Him With Accepting Bribes.

His Testimony Indicates a "Pull" With Liquor Dealers.

Patrolman Thomas Lynch, of the West Forty-seventh street station, was arraigned before Police Commissioner Murray to-day, charged with taking a bribe from two saloon-keepers on July 1 and 8 respectively.

Saloon-keeper Richard Adler, of 618 Eighth avenue, charged Lynch with having taken $100 from him for having secured the license in Yorkville Court of Adler's bartender, who was arrested by Lynch on the early morning of July 1, for having liquor exposed for sale on the bar.

Owen J. O'Brien, who keeps a saloon at 250 West Forty-seventh street, charges that Lynch was given a $1 bill by him for the purpose of making Lynch's influence in making a light case against O'Brien, who was arrested for violating the law on July 1.

The court records show that Adler's O'Brien was "discharged," but that O'Brien was held in custody by Lynch. Lynch denies both charges.

Adler and O'Brien, who were arrested by Lynch, deny both charges. Adler, who is the bartender of Seventh avenue and Fifty-third street, and O'Brien, who is the bartender of West Forty-seventh street, were arrested by Lynch on the morning of July 1, when Adler's bartender was arrested by Lynch. Lynch was not present at all. In this regard, Morgan corroborated Adler.

For these three men are down on the list of saloon-keepers who had been arrested by Adler in place at 12:05 A. M. and bought a glass of beer. Then arrested Adler's bartender, who had been arrested by Lynch. Adler did not go to the station-house with me, therefore he could not have given the money to Adler.

As to O'Brien, Lynch testified that he had come to him since the charge was made against him. O'Brien, who was arrested by Lynch, denied both charges.

Lynch alleged that O'Brien and Adler were in dispute with the Association. "I went to O'Brien's saloon on July 1," said Lynch. "I was in citizen's clothes and I was with a man on the side door and asked for a drink. O'Brien recognized me and refused to sell any more drinks. I went into the back room, where I heard him say: 'What did you let that fellow do?'"

O'Brien would not sell me a drink so I took up a glass full of beer standing on the bar and I asked if I could have a drink. O'Brien would not sell me a drink so I took up a glass full of beer standing on the bar and I asked if I could have a drink.

Expected To-Morrow if the Tariff Bill Becomes a Law. At the office of the Collector of the Port great preparations are being made for a grand rush to take imported goods out of bond to-morrow, should the Tariff bill become a law.

Crowds of merchants and their clerks who have imported goods in bond besieged the deputy collectors this morning with all manner of questions, and Acting Collector Couch's office was also crowded.

The policy that American made whisky can come under the Collector's jurisdiction is in cases where under the law it has been shipped in bond to Europe and brought back to this port at the expiration of the three years the six months to remain in bond there.

When the new Tariff bill was passed by Congress there was a large quantity of corn which had been imported, and very little remains to-day, and before night the remainder will no doubt be removed.

Wheat Prices Irregular. Wheat was somewhat irregular at the opening, starting with sales at an advance of about 3-8c. Improving a trifle more, and then easing off until most of the advance was lost. There was but little business on speculative accounts, local selling more of it. Best hard wheat opened at 58-5c, sold up to 58-3/4c, afterwards declining a point or two, while December opened at 58c, sold up a trifle, and then eased off to Saturday closing prices.

Corn was steady, but quiet, opening at 57-1/4c, but 1-4c higher on May, which sold at 56-5c, and then 1-4c higher, holding steady during the rest of the morning session. Oats were quiet, but nominally unchanged.

VILLAGES ARE EXEMPTED.

Bi-Partisan Election Board Bill Ordered to Third Reading.

Country Districts Favored by the Constitutional Convention.

(By Associated Press.) ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 27.—There was a very light attendance this morning in the Constitutional convention, and no clergyman appeared to offer up the usual prayer.

The special order was Mr. Lauterbach's amendment providing that the bi-partisan election boards shall be appointed in the same manner in the country as in the cities, that is, two Republicans and two Democrats.

He offered a substitute exempting the towns (at the suggestion of Mr. Dick-ey) where there is but one election district. Mr. Dickey thought that the towns officers should be allowed to continue their duties as election officers, and believed that if their functions were taken from them, they might revolt and defeat the submitted amendments.

Mr. Dean said that the amendment was to him a fatal mistake. "It would," he said, "throw into the hands of Tom Platt or Edward Murphy and Sheehan's committee the right to declare what faction could control the elections."

Mr. Andrew H. Green, of New York, asked that the Committee rise and seek leave to sit again, so that the substitute could be printed, and the members be given a chance to examine it. The amendment was lost and the discussion continued.

Mr. Lauterbach wanted the bill amended so as not to apply to town meetings where all votes were cast at one election district, and also exempting village elections. He accepted a further amendment of Mr. Abbott that the exemption should not apply to towns or villages where there were more than one election district. The amendment was adopted.

The amendment, as finally adopted by the Committee and sent to third reading, was adopted.

All laws relating to the duties of registering officers charged with the duties of registering voters, or of receiving, recording or counting votes at elections, shall secure equal representation of the two political parties which at the general election preceding that for which such boards of registration are to be formed, and the highest number of votes for all such boards shall be appointed or elected in such manner and give equal representation.

WHISKEY GOES UP AND DOWN.

Brokers Buy Wildly at First and Then Want to Sell.

Bears Knock the Bottom Out of the Sugar Market.

Naturally enough after the sensational developments of Saturday in regard to whiskey, all eyes were riveted upon that speculation on the resumption of business this morning.

An immense crowd of excited brokers gathered around the Whiskey post, and hardly had the gong sounded when fully 100 shares changed hands at prices varying from 21 to 21 1/2. The latter was a jump of exactly 2 points from Saturday's closing and the rise was based on rumors that the Trust had arranged in some way to get the money needed to take goods out of bond. These rumors met with a prompt denial, and down went the stock again. Large blocks were thrown upon the market and the decline continued until 11:55 was reached.

The break in Whiskey induced the bears to try their hand at Sugar. They quickly turned their backs on the market for that stock, which broke rapidly from 14 to 11. Many brokers in the first hour over 50,000 shares changed hands.

PLATT WILL SEE HIM.

Then Let P. Morton's Intentions Will Be Formally Announced.

Chairman Hackett Has Already Talked with Him About 'Cows.'

Chamber of Commerce Will Go It Alone as to the Majority.

Thomas C. Platt made the announcement this morning that before the week is over it will be officially known whether or not Levi P. Morton will accept the Republican nomination for Governor.

"I expect to meet Mr. Morton and have a talk with him in a few days," said Mr. Platt.

"Will you go to Rhinecliff, or will Mr. Morton come to this city?" "I don't know," said Mr. Platt. "I haven't seen Mr. Morton today on a visit to my grandchildren," added Mr. Platt, by way of explanation why he did not go down the bay to meet Mr. Morton.

"Do you think Mr. Morton will accept of not care to be interviewed on that subject until I have seen Mr. Morton?" "Everything is quiet as far as I know," that was all Mr. Platt would say for the present.

Mr. Morton arrived yesterday on the French liner La Normandie from Europe. Mr. Platt's representative, Chairman Hackett, of the Republican State Executive Committee, had a long talk with Mr. Morton, and the subject of conversation with the ex-Vice President was about cows and other poultry. Mr. Platt hadn't seen Mr. Hackett this morning.

It is set by the prophets that the nomination for Governor will be Morton on one side and Flower on the other. But as to the Majority no one will care to guess. The Chamber of Commerce political bureau distrusts all of the established political factions and will back Mr. Flower, while the Chamber of Commerce political managers, who are the anti-Fleming faction, will back Mr. Morton.

William E. Dodge, Hugh N. Camp and myself have been appointed a committee to issue a call for a conference of citizens interested in good government. The document will be given to the public in the coming days. It will have forty names so far.

It will be the duty of the anti-Fleming faction to issue their names to the conference. Mr. Schwab was asked if he would be at a meeting of citizens at which the situation will be thoroughly canvassed and a call for a conference will be made as to a nominee for Mayor.

Charles Stewart Smith is said to be the choice of the anti-Fleming faction. There is likely to be a combination labor and Populist ticket in the field. The question of an alliance with the Populists.

SAXTON GIVES IT UP.

After Seeing Platt He Said Morton Will Get the Nomination.

Senator Charles F. Saxton, of Clyde, expressed the opinion this afternoon that Levi P. Morton would be the Republican nominee for Governor. Saxton is one of the candidates for the nomination, and his candid admission that he is beaten practically amounts to a withdrawal of his name from the race.

Senator Saxton has seen Mr. Platt, and he was probably told that his chances were slim.

Among the most prominent are ex-Senator S. M. Griswold, Gen. Stewart, and ex-Congressman Joseph A. Higgins, and Dr. Alfred of the Twenty-first ward.

Ex-Congressman Joseph C. Hendrix is spoken of as the most prominent candidate of the Democrats. Ex-United States Senator Joseph A. Higgins is said to aspire for the Republican nomination for Justice of the Court of Sessions.
