

Wants Filled

Over Night.

30 words for 10 cents in the World (especially Saturdays)---one night's sleep---and a situation in the morning. Often done for others; why not for you?

PRICE ONE CENT.

EXTRA. 2 O'CLOCK.

DRAYTON SUES FOR DIVORCE.

Hallett-Alsop Borrowe Named as Co-respondent in the Suit.

PAPERS FILED IN TRENTON.

The Plaintiff Asks to Have the Custody of His Four Children.

THE ASTOR SCANDAL REVIVED.

How Harry Vane Milbank Decided that the Injured Husband Could Not Fight a Duel.

The domestic troubles of Mr. and Mrs. J. Coleman Drayton are to be aired in the divorce court. Mr. Drayton began a suit for divorce on June 27, but the fact only leaked out to-day. Hallett-Alsop Borrowe is named as the co-respondent, which is not much of a surprise after the scandal which was aired so extensively a comparatively short time ago. The papers are now on file in the New Jersey State Court of Chancery in Trenton.

Mrs. J. COLEMAN DRAYTON (Defendant). Mrs. Drayton is in Europe and her mother, Mrs. William Astor, is in Newport. It is not known that any answer will be made to the suit, although Drayton asks the unserved custody of his four children.

This is the first blot of scandal on the Astor escutcheon. Whether or not it is believed in a matter of individual judgment of the merits of the case.

HER STEPMOTHER ARRESTED. Miss Carpenter Accuses Her of Stealing a Diamond Pin. Mrs. Belle Burkhart, otherwise known as Mrs. Belle Carpenter, was arrested yesterday in Philadelphia on a warrant sworn out by her stepdaughter, Miss Carpenter, of 275 West Thirty-eighth street.

NOT AN ELBE PASSENGER. Denial that the Supposed Cholera Victim Came in That Ship. John Peter Walther, the man who died at Cumberland, Md., last night, with a disease supposed to be cholera, was not a passenger on the North German Lloyd steamer Elbe, which arrived in this city Tuesday, according to the officers of the Company, and a careful review of the regular Custom-House list of passengers fails to reveal his name. It may be that Walther was an assumed name. Walther was on his way to Pittsburgh Tuesday, according to the officers of the ship on the way. He showed all the symptoms of the dread disease and died Tuesday. The health authorities at Pittsburgh have ordered the car quarantined.

Round About Town. Fire caused a damage of $65 in the first of Alexander Blake at 134 West Sixty-seventh street at 1:20 o'clock. Twenty-three years old, of 215 East Thirty-fifth street, fell overboard at pier A North River pier, near the foot of the East River, at 3:30 o'clock. The man was taken to the Chambers Street Hospital. A young man, who was seen at the cafe and resort in Fifty-fourth street, at 374 North avenue, at Bernadville, N. J., in October of the same year, and at St. Francis Midland Hotel, London, between Jan. 9 and Jan. 20, 1892. He was for complete dissolution of the marriage and the custody of the children enumerated as Caroline Astor,

The

THE EVENING EDITION

NEW YORK

Those Same 10 Words

for that Same 10 Cents-- that's the work-wanting advertiser's World order. The work following the order is the reason of The World's "Situation" supremacy.

NEW YORK, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1894.

PRICE ONE CENT.

THINKS HE WAS MURDERED.

Reese Williams's Sister Tells of His Disappearance.

Known to Have Left Ansonia with $600 in His Possession.

The police of the Greenpoint avenue station, Williamsburg, have been notified of the disappearance of Reese Williams, forty-six years old, and his relatives express a belief that he has been robbed and murdered.

Williams was a bachelor and lived with his married sister at 717 Humboldt street. On Monday last week he left his home to go to Ansonia, Conn., for the purpose of selling a plot in Cypress Hills Cemetery, which he owned.

His sister received a telegram from him the day following, stating that he would come home that same evening. Since then, however, nothing has been heard from him.

Williams's sister, who reported the case to the police, says that the missing man left Ansonia with $600 in his possession. He was not a drinking man, nor did he have any bad habits, so his relatives believe that he has been murdered.

Detectives attached to the Greenpoint avenue station are trying to locate his relatives whereabouts. They believe, however, that if he met foul play, it was in this city, and not in Williamsburg.

BOY BURGLAR CAUGHT.

Norman Accused of Robbing a Drug Store.

John Norman, sixteen years old, of 653 Union street, Brooklyn, was held for examination by Justice Tigue in Butler Street Court this morning on the charge of breaking into the drug store of Julius Neergaard, President street and Fifth avenue, early yesterday morning.

Norman is one of the hardest characters in the Battle row, as the block in which he lives is called. A report was made to the Sixth avenue police station yesterday morning that the store had been entered through a trap door from the cellar and $20 worth of goods stolen. When Detectives Raleigh and Kelly arrested William Galvin, fifteen years old, of Battle row, wanted for breaking into cellars, he told the detectives that Norman had just bought some new clothes and patent-leather shoes and was smoking good cigars. He suggested that Norman had struck a good thing at Neergaard's.

Norman was found and put on the track of Galvin, who was already in custody, to help them work up the case against him. Last night he arrested Norman. Detective Hallett-Alsop, who admitted to him that he had entered Neergaard's store, where he formerly worked.

ALCOHOL AND THE TARIFF.

Pharmacists Want Very Narrow Restrictions Adopted. (By Associated Press.) ASHEVILLE, N. C., Sept. 6.—The American Pharmacists' Association yesterday decided to make an attempt to secure very narrow restrictions as to the free-alcohol clause in the new tariff bill. It was agreed that with the reduced tax there would be danger of promiscuous selling of the intoxicating drug disguised as bitter and the like. A resolution was adopted, requesting the secretary of the Treasury to limit the provision regarding free alcohol to cases where the drug is used in the manufacture of medicinal compounds in which it is so changed as to lose absolutely its chemical and physical properties, which places a boycott on manufacturers and agents who furnish patent medicines to dealers who cut rates. George W. Bowers, chairman of the section on commercial interests for another year.

CONVICT OPENED THE SAFE.

Joliet Secretary Applies to Prison for an Expert Burglar. (By Associated Press.) JOLIET, Ill., Sept. 6.—One of the most remarkable safe-opening feats ever accomplished in this country was performed last night by Douglas, a twenty-five-year convict at the State prison. Douglas has a noted career as a safe burglar, and has been in the penitentiary for Douglas for several years. Yesterday he was brought to the penitentiary for Douglas to open a safe which had been broken into by a man who failed to work, and that he could not get into it. Allen sent Douglas with a resolution which places a heavy bet on the safe for three hours, but failed to get the safe open. Douglas was greatly disappointed. He had to wait until after two hours' work the doors were opened, and Douglas went back to prison having the safe open.

TORNADO IN OKLAHOMA.

Two Children Drowned and a Number of Houses Wrecked. (By Associated Press.) GUTHRIE, Ok. T., Sept. 6.—A severe storm visited the country north of here Monday night. In the eastern part of the county a number of houses were destroyed by a tornado and several people injured. At Crescent City, Marks' large general store and four houses were completely demolished and a number of farms ruined. Two children were drowned north of here by the flood of water.

A THREAT BY JAPAN.

Promise Not to Molest Shanghai May Be Withdrawn. (By Associated Press.) LONDON, Sept. 6.—A despatch to The Times from Shanghai to-day says that the warlike operations are making slow progress.

It is reported that the Japanese have threatened to withdraw their promise not to molest Shanghai if the Kiangnan Arsenal is not closed.

This threat is supposed to be an indirect motive, which may possibly prove the interference of Great Britain, as the arsenal is pronounced to be an unimportant establishment.

Kaiser Views the Manoeuvres.

(By Associated Press.) KONGSBERG, Sept. 6.—Emperor William, the King of Saxony and Prince Albrecht of Prussia were present early this morning at the military manoeuvres about South Altenberg.

A STEAMSHIP A SHORE.

The Sorrento Grounded Off Bellport, L. I. at Daylight.

About 100 Passengers and Her Crew Are Still on Board.

The Vessel Sailed from Hamburg on Aug. 22.

FIRE ISLAND, Sept. 6.—The German steamship Sorrento, Capt. Jorgensen, from Hamburg for New York, went ashore at 5 o'clock this morning at Bellport, L. I., fourteen miles east of here, and remains aground.

The passengers and crew are still on board the steamship.

The Sorrento is an iron vessel of 1,527 tons net and 2,371 tons gross. She is 220 feet long and 24 feet deep. She was built at Glasgow in 1881 by A. Stephen & Sons, and her sailing port is Hamburg.

She is owned by R. M. Sloman. Her agents in this city are Messrs. Funch, Edye & Co. They state that to the best of their knowledge the steamer has on board about 100 passengers, all steerage. It is not yet known to what extent the steamer is damaged.

Funch, Edye & Co. say that they will send a wrecking tug down to the Sorrento at once.

VESSEL SUNK OFF CHATHAM.

Unknown Schooner Believed to Have Struck the Rocks. (By Associated Press.) CHATHAM, Mass., Sept. 6.—There is a large, unknown three-masted schooner sunk off here.

It is believed that she ran on the rocks during the fog last night.

SCHOONER HITS A STEAMER.

Two Excursionists Hurt in a Collision at Cleveland. (By Associated Press.) CLEVELAND, Sept. 6.—The schooner Emma C. Hutchinson, heavily laden with ore, crashed into the passenger steamer City of the Straits last night. The City of the Straits was just leaving the dock, and had a large excursion party on board. The schooner struck the side of the City of the Straits, tearing away considerable of the light woodwork. Two passengers were slightly injured. The side of the steamer was scraped for a distance of sixty feet, and the Hutchinson lost her bowsprit.

The steamer was towed back to her dock and will go to Detroit to-day for repairs.

CAPT. STEPHENSON'S CASE.

May Be Decided at a Meeting of Commissioners This Afternoon. There will be a meeting of the Commissioners of Police some time during the day. None of the Commissioners could say this morning at what time during the day the meeting would be called.

Commissioner Kerwin said this morning that as far as he knew, the only matter that would be discussed to-day would be the decision in the case of Capt. Stephenson.

There might possibly, he thought, be some discussion as to whether any further charges would be entertained against police officials prior to the convening of the Lexow Committee, and if such charges were entertained, whether the trials would come off while the investigating committee was in session.

WHO LOST THE BAG?

Willis Holly, Mayor Gilroy's Private Secretary, Claims It. Willis Holly, Mayor Gilroy's private secretary, called at Police Headquarters to-day to claim a handbag containing trinkets and a small sum of money.

He said the bag and its trinkets, which were found in a Sixth avenue store, were the property of a lady residing temporarily at Rockaway, and that he put in the claim to save the lady the trouble of taking a journey to New York.

Mr. Holly refused to divulge the lady's name, nor would he state in what particular store the handbag was found. Mrs. Gilroy, wife of the Mayor, is said to be stopping at Rockaway.

ALLENBERGER HANGED.

Katie Rupp's Ruthless Slayer Executed in Jersey City. Katie Rupp's death has been avenged by law. Bernhard Altenberger, her murderer, was hanged in the west corridor of the Hudson County Jail, in Jersey City, this forenoon. The drop fell at 10:04 o'clock, and the murderer was pronounced dead sixteen minutes later.

Altenberger's neck was not broken, but the execution was said to have been a success by Hangman Van Hise.

Altenberger's last night on earth was passed playing pinochle with the death watch and in praying. Keepers George Shaft, George Kimball and Anthony Kelly, who had the rather doubtful pleasure of diverting Altenberger's mind from his impending fate by playing cards with him, were present.

The doomed man slept but fifteen minutes during the entire night. Sheriff Kelly remained with Altenberger until 10 o'clock last night, and left when E. A. Meury, the murderer's spiritual adviser, came to see him.

Altenberger's nerve is said to have come back to him, and he spoke himself with some confidence. He came through the early hours after midnight, the murderer sang hymns in a bush behind her. She turned and plucked them. Altenberger drew a revolver, and as she faced him, pulled the trigger, shooting her in the right breast. He then ran away, but returned almost immediately, and fired again, the bullet striking her in the neck.

After robbing her of a watch and what money she had, Altenberger left Katie Rupp for dead.

The dying girl was found the following morning near Mount Holly, where she was taken to the Jersey City Hospital. She died at 10:30 o'clock.

Altenberger was captured on a Chicago limited train at Utica, N. Y., about 10 o'clock last night, and was convicted and sentenced speedily followed.

Her Murderer, Wesley Warner, Hanged at Mount Holly, N. J. MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., Sept. 6.—Wesley Warner, the murderer of his mistress, Lizzie Peak, two years ago, expiated his crime on the gallows in the County Jail here this morning. The drop fell at 10:36 o'clock.

The crime for which Wesley Warner was hanged was the murder of his mistress, Lizzie Peak, which was committed by him near Mount Holly, N. J., in 1892.

Warner was a married man, having a wife and two children in Burlington. He had abandoned his family nearly a year before and had gone to Brooklyn with Lizzie Peak, with whom he lived for some time. He was arrested in Burlington County, Lizzie Peak going to her father's home near Mount Holly, N. J., where she was working about the country, sometimes working, but most of the time carousing.

During the week of the Mount Holly fair he learned that Lizzie was receiving the attentions of another man, so he took occasion to call on her to learn from her own lips if the story was true. She declined to give him any satisfaction, whereupon he threatened to kill her if she proved false to him. The following day he met her again and tried to have an interview with her, but she spurned him, saying under no circumstances would she hold any further conversation with him. After that he told several of his boon companions that he was going to kill Lizzie for having played him false.

The night of Sept. 11 he walked out to the Peak house, found Lizzie absent, and sat down to await her return. The girl's parents went to bed about 11 o'clock,

EXTRA. 2 O'CLOCK.

ROPES FOR TWO MURDERERS.

Bernhard Altenberger and Westley Warner Both Hanged To-Day.

EACH HAD KILLED A WOMAN.

Katie Rupp's Slayer Recovered His Lost Nerve and Unexpectedly Died Game.

SLOWLY STRANGLED TO DEATH.

Lizzie Peak's Brutal Murderer Executed in the County Jail at Mount Holly, N. J.

There were two hangings in New Jersey to-day, one of which forcibly illustrated the far-famed swiftness and sureness of "Jersey justice."

In Jersey City Bernhard Altenberger, a German tailor, paid the death penalty for the murder of his sweetheart, Katie Rupp, whom he enticed from Rome, N. Y., last May, under promise of marriage, to a lonely spot near Snake Hill, where he ruthlessly shot her down, adding robbery to his more horrible crime.

In Mount Holly, Wesley Warner, a married man with a family, died on the gallows to expiate the brutal murder of his mistress, Lizzie Peak, two years ago. In Warner's case justice was slow, his lawyers making every possible effort to save his neck.

About 9 o'clock Mr. Salinger, sent to the house of Judge Lippincott and applied for a writ of error, which, if granted, would have allowed the murderer to go free. Judge Lippincott refused to grant the writ.

Lawyer Peshal, of Hallinger notoriety, was also at the jail this morning, hinting that "something might happen" before 11 o'clock, the hour set for the execution. It was said that Peshal referred to, it evidently did not happen.

After an acquaintance of seven months, during which he played upon her affections and succeeded in obtaining most of her earnings, Bernhard Altenberger shot and killed Katie Rupp, a young German woman, in a lonely spot near Snake Hill, a few miles from Jersey City, on the evening of May 13, last.

Altenberger had been planning the crime for some time. He prepared a trap for Katie, and when she came, he calmly and deliberately executed it with the same coolness and never afterwards seemed to regret it.

He met Katie Rupp in Rome, N. Y., last Summer, at the Stanwix Hotel, where she was employed as a dressmaker's maid. He was eight years her junior. She was not prepossessing in appearance, but she had a sweet and winning smile, and Altenberger made violent love to her.

In a short time they were engaged to be married, and he gave her a watch to save, and exchanged her gold watch for a cheap silver affair which he carried about with him.

About a month before the final act in the tragedy Altenberger began complaining of the loss of his memory, and he was advised to go to Jersey City, where he said he would marry her. He was careful not to let his family know.

Arriving at Snake Hill, Altenberger obtained from the girl a photograph of herself, which he hid in his pocket. He then called her attention to a bunch of flowers growing on a bush behind her. She turned and plucked them. Altenberger drew a revolver, and as she faced him, pulled the trigger, shooting her in the right breast. He then ran away, but returned almost immediately, and fired again, the bullet striking her in the neck.

After robbing her of a watch and what money she had, Altenberger left Katie Rupp for dead.

The dying girl was found the following morning near Mount Holly, where she was taken to the Jersey City Hospital. She died at 10:30 o'clock.

Altenberger was captured on a Chicago limited train at Utica, N. Y., about 10 o'clock last night, and was convicted and sentenced speedily followed.

LIZZIE PEAK AVENGED.

Her Murderer, Wesley Warner, Hanged at Mount Holly, N. J. MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., Sept. 6.—Wesley Warner, the murderer of his mistress, Lizzie Peak, two years ago, expiated his crime on the gallows in the County Jail here this morning. The drop fell at 10:36 o'clock.

The crime for which Wesley Warner was hanged was the murder of his mistress, Lizzie Peak, which was committed by him near Mount Holly, N. J., in 1892.

Warner was a married man, having a wife and two children in Burlington. He had abandoned his family nearly a year before and had gone to Brooklyn with Lizzie Peak, with whom he lived for some time. He was arrested in Burlington County, Lizzie Peak going to her father's home near Mount Holly, N. J., where she was working about the country, sometimes working, but most of the time carousing.

During the week of the Mount Holly fair he learned that Lizzie was receiving the attentions of another man, so he took occasion to call on her to learn from her own lips if the story was true. She declined to give him any satisfaction, whereupon he threatened to kill her if she proved false to him. The following day he met her again and tried to have an interview with her, but she spurned him, saying under no circumstances would she hold any further conversation with him. After that he told several of his boon companions that he was going to kill Lizzie for having played him false.

The night of Sept. 11 he walked out to the Peak house, found Lizzie absent, and sat down to await her return. The girl's parents went to bed about 11 o'clock, stepped before the murderer and asked in a voice which trembled slightly: "Altenberger, have you anything to say for yourself?" The answer came loud and firm: "No, sir."

BERNHARD ALLENBERGER.

Those two words were Altenberger's last. Van Hise stepped forward and quickly pulled down the black cap. The rope was snapped on to the noose about Altenberger's neck and the hangman reached for the trigger-ropes, which he judged about the length of his own arm.

An instant later the murderer's body shot up into the air until his head nearly touched the cross-pieces of the gallows. Then the body fell back and hung motionless for the space of ten seconds. After that the only movement of the body was an occasional spasmodic heaving of the shoulders.

Four minutes after the weight was released, the body was lowered sufficiently to allow the doctor to note the pulse and heart action. When the pulse was cut down at 10:30 o'clock, Dr. Hurst announced that Altenberger's neck had been broken, and that he died a painless death.

This execution was not concurred in by some of the other physicians, who thought that the murderer was strangled to death. The following physicians were present at the execution: Dr. John P. Burdette, Charles K. Law, William Pyle and George W. Meury, who were seated as the Judge's jury, and Drs. James Wilkinson, George W. King, John J. Smith and Max Salinger, who constituted the Sheriff's jury.

Altenberger was buried this afternoon in the City Cemetery. His funeral expenses were assumed by Dominie Meury and Sheriff Toffey. The Judge's jury returned a verdict of guilty, and that he died a slow death by strangulation.

After the execution took place a morbidly curious crowd hung around the street opposite the jail. Inspector Lange and sixty policemen were on hand to keep the crowd back, and there was no disorder.

Lawyer Max Salinger, Altenberger's counsel, did not abandon his efforts to save his client until the last moment. About 9 o'clock Mr. Salinger went to the house of Judge Lippincott and applied for a writ of error, which, if granted, would have allowed the murderer to go free. Judge Lippincott refused to grant the writ.

Lawyer Peshal, of Hallinger notoriety, was also at the jail this morning, hinting that "something might happen" before 11 o'clock, the hour set for the execution. It was said that Peshal referred to, it evidently did not happen.

After an acquaintance of seven months, during which he played upon her affections and succeeded in obtaining most of her earnings, Bernhard Altenberger shot and killed Katie Rupp, a young German woman, in a lonely spot near Snake Hill, a few miles from Jersey City, on the evening of May 13, last.

Altenberger had been planning the crime for some time. He prepared a trap for Katie, and when she came, he calmly and deliberately executed it with the same coolness and never afterwards seemed to regret it.

He met Katie Rupp in Rome, N. Y., last Summer, at the Stanwix Hotel, where she was employed as a dressmaker's maid. He was eight years her junior. She was not prepossessing in appearance, but she had a sweet and winning smile, and Altenberger made violent love to her.

In a short time they were engaged to be married, and he gave her a watch to save, and exchanged her gold watch for a cheap silver affair which he carried about with him.

About a month before the final act in the tragedy Altenberger began complaining of the loss of his memory, and he was advised to go to Jersey City, where he said he would marry her. He was careful not to let his family know.

Arriving at Snake Hill, Altenberger obtained from the girl a photograph of herself, which he hid in his pocket. He then called her attention to a bunch of flowers growing on a bush behind her. She turned and plucked them. Altenberger drew a revolver, and as she faced him, pulled the trigger, shooting her in the right breast. He then ran away, but returned almost immediately, and fired again, the bullet striking her in the neck.

After robbing her of a watch and what money she had, Altenberger left Katie Rupp for dead.

The dying girl was found the following morning near Mount Holly, where she was taken to the Jersey City Hospital. She died at 10:30 o'clock.

Altenberger was captured on a Chicago limited train at Utica, N. Y., about 10 o'clock last night, and was convicted and sentenced speedily followed.

LIZZIE PEAK AVENGED.

Her Murderer, Wesley Warner, Hanged at Mount Holly, N. J. MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., Sept. 6.—Wesley Warner, the murderer of his mistress, Lizzie Peak, two years ago, expiated his crime on the gallows in the County Jail here this morning. The drop fell at 10:36 o'clock.

The crime for which Wesley Warner was hanged was the murder of his mistress, Lizzie Peak, which was committed by him near Mount Holly, N. J., in 1892.

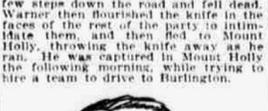

Warner was a married man, having a wife and two children in Burlington. He had abandoned his family nearly a year before and had gone to Brooklyn with Lizzie Peak, with whom he lived for some time. He was arrested in Burlington County, Lizzie Peak going to her father's home near Mount Holly, N. J., where she was working about the country, sometimes working, but most of the time carousing.

During the week of the Mount Holly fair he learned that Lizzie was receiving the attentions of another man, so he took occasion to call on her to learn from her own lips if the story was true. She declined to give him any satisfaction, whereupon he threatened to kill her if she proved false to him. The following day he met her again and tried to have an interview with her, but she spurned him, saying under no circumstances would she hold any further conversation with him. After that he told several of his boon companions that he was going to kill Lizzie for having played him false.

The night of Sept. 11 he walked out to the Peak house, found Lizzie absent, and sat down to await her return. The girl's parents went to bed about 11 o'clock, leaving him sitting in the dining-room. When they were out of the way, he secured a long carving-knife from the dining-room table, and slipped out to meet the girl on her way home. Crouched behind a clump of bushes, he saw Lizzie approaching, and he fired. The bullet struck her in the neck, and he saw her fall. He then stepped down the road and fled, but was followed by her two sisters and three young men.

When they were nearly opposite the spot where the girl had fallen, they seized Lizzie firmly around the waist and, with an oath on his lips, plunged the knife into her heart. She made a few steps down the road and fell dead. Warner then flourished the knife in the faces of the pursuers, and then fled to Mount Holly, throwing the knife away as he ran. He was captured in Mount Holly the following morning, while trying to hire a team to drive to Burlington.

WESLEY WARNER.

He was tried at the following term of the Burlington County Court in December and convicted. His counsel did not deny that he had committed the murder, but endeavored to prove that he was too much under the influence of liquor at the time to be responsible for his acts. An appeal was taken to the higher courts, but the verdict of the jury was sustained.

Lizzie Peak, the murdered woman, was a sister of Barclay Peak, who is serving a life sentence for murder.

NOEL MAISON HANGED.

He Shot a Pennsylvania Woman Who Knew a Dangerous Secret. (By Associated Press.) PITTSBURGH, Sept. 6.—Noel Maison was hanged here at 10:18 this morning for the murder of Mrs. Sophia Raes.

Noel Maison was a rather handsome Frenchman, aged thirty-four, and had been in this country for some years. He was the son of a tailor, and was engaged in the business of tailoring. He was married to Mrs. Sophia Raes, a native of the same town. They had two children. Mrs. Raes and her husband were returning to their home in Pennsylvania on the night of Sept. 25, 1893. Mrs. Raes and her husband were returning to their home in Pennsylvania on the night of Sept. 25, 1893. Mrs. Raes and her husband were returning to their home in Pennsylvania on the night of Sept. 25, 1893.

Maison attacked them with stones and a revolver, and shot Mrs. Raes in the heart. She died a few minutes later. Maison was captured by the police the following day. He was tried and convicted of the murder of Mrs. Raes. He was sentenced to hang for life. He was hanged at 10:18 this morning.

Maison was a rather handsome Frenchman, aged thirty-four, and had been in this country for some years. He was the son of a tailor, and was engaged in the business of tailoring. He was married to Mrs. Sophia Raes, a native of the same town. They had two children. Mrs. Raes and her husband were returning to their home in Pennsylvania on the night of Sept. 25, 1893. Mrs. Raes and her husband were returning to their home in Pennsylvania on the night of Sept. 25, 1893. Mrs. Raes and her husband were returning to their home in Pennsylvania on the night of Sept. 25, 1893.

Maison attacked them with stones and a revolver, and shot Mrs. Raes in the heart. She died a few minutes later. Maison was captured by the police the following day. He was tried and convicted of the murder of Mrs. Raes. He was sentenced to hang for life. He was hanged at 10:18 this morning.

Maison was a rather handsome Frenchman, aged thirty-four, and had been in this country for some years. He was the son of a tailor, and was engaged in the business of tailoring. He was married to Mrs. Sophia Raes, a native of the same town. They had two children. Mrs. Raes and her husband were returning to their home in Pennsylvania on the night of Sept. 25, 1893. Mrs. Raes and her husband were returning to their home in Pennsylvania on the night of Sept. 25, 1893. Mrs. Raes and her husband were returning to their home in Pennsylvania on the night of Sept. 25, 1893.

Maison attacked them with stones and a revolver, and shot Mrs. Raes in the heart. She died a few minutes later. Maison was captured by the police the following day. He was tried and convicted of the murder of Mrs. Raes. He was sentenced to hang for life. He was hanged at 10:18 this morning.

Maison was a rather handsome Frenchman, aged thirty-four, and had been in this country for some years. He was the son of a tailor