VALENTINE'S QUEER GAME.

New Street "Stock Broker" and One of His Victims Before the Investigators To-Day.

W. D. Valentine, who admitted yesterday afternoon that he was running a "fake ticker" game in the Edison Building, in New street, appeared before the Lexow Committee again this morning.

What the committee wanted to know was where the offices of the Mining Companies, whose stock was dealt in by the Stearns Commission Company, were located, as well as where the mines themselves were situated, facts of which Mr. Valentine was painfully ignorant yesterday.

Chairman Lexow, however, was horrified, and said he thought it was just as bad as the green-stocks or burn names, and that the police were guilty of criminal negligence in failing to suppress it.

Valentine Keeps No Books. Mr. Valentine was recalled to the stand as the first witness, but he had brought none of his books with him.

The principal officers of the mining stock companies in whose securities he dealt, he said, were in St. Louis, but he was not personally acquainted with any of the officers.

The quotations which appeared on the tape at intervals, the witness said, were printed by himself in his private office. Mr. Moss said he had copied 500 quotations on the roll, and Mr. Valentine stated that one such roll as this did for an entire day.

"You don't look at it that way," said Mr. Valentine. "I don't look at it that way," said Mr. Valentine. "I don't look at it that way," said Mr. Valentine.

How the Game is Played. The witness explained how the customers in his shop did business, Mr. Moss calling the quotations which they were obliged to put up at least 1 per cent margin on each transaction, and all trades must be closed out at the end of each day, if they did not close themselves out by the fluctuations of the fake market.

Don't stand around the ticker in your place and bet among yourselves on the successive quotations that come out," asked Mr. Moss.

Oh, no; I would never allow that," said Mr. Valentine, "I would never allow that," said Mr. Valentine.

Mr. Straus Goes In When It Rains.

DID HE FEAR HARRIS'S FATE? KILLED BY A RIPPER, JAY COULD GET NO CHANGE.

Ellett L. Titus's Friend Thus Explains His Suicide.

Now Claimed that He Did Not Murder Miss Duff.

The relatives of Ellett Livingston Titus at 460 Clinton street, Brooklyn, now hold to a theory which tends to solve in a measure the mystery surrounding the death of the young lover and his fiancée, Miss Mary S. Duff, whose dead bodies were found in a bath-house at Sea Cliff, L. I., yesterday.

This theory is the first advanced after the finding of the bodies and Lawyer Ellett Hodgkin, of 189 Montague street, believes, from the circumstances and the facts he learned at Sea Cliff yesterday, it is indisputable.

This theory is that Miss Duff died while walking on the beach from the effects of chloroform administered by her lover to relieve her headache, and that Titus carried the body to the bath-house and then, failing to resuscitate the girl, Titus shot and killed himself.

The bodies were found Tuesday afternoon after Titus returned from a quest after ducks, and had cleaned his revolver before the corpse came there. Another fact in support of this theory is that the bath-house, to which he had a key, the girl was found by the searching party at the corner of the house, just where a man laboring under great excitement would have hung it in his haste if weighed down with the dead body of the girl.

The position of Miss Duff, lying on her back, with her feet toward the water, showed, I think, that she had been dead before she came there. Another fact in support of this theory is that the door of the bath-house was not locked.

"Now, I think that Mr. Titus was afraid that, if he broke the news of Miss Duff's death, he would be regarded as a second Charles W. Harris. He had always been interested in the Harris case, and I have often heard him and Miss Duff discuss it."

"There is no doubt in my mind that Mr. Titus was thinking of young Harris when he shot himself." The young people will be brought to Brooklyn this afternoon, Mr. Hodgkin thinks. "Titus will be buried tomorrow noon in Greenwood Cemetery, and the mother of the dead man and his brother, Theodore Titus, a prominent business man in Thomasville, Ga., will be here to attend the funeral. The funeral services will be strictly private. Rev. Dr. Kinsolving, pastor of Christ Episcopal Church, in that city. Her body will probably be interred in Greenwood."

Her brother-in-law, E. Floyd Jones, is attending to the arrangements for the funeral. Dr. W. L. Burns, of the Board of Health, now believes that Miss Duff had used chloroform to relieve a headache, and that it had aggravated her heart trouble that she died. Then, he thinks, she was held from the Episcopal Church, in that city. Her body will probably be interred in Greenwood.

Watchdog Saved His Mistress. UPPER MARLBOROUGH, Md., Oct. 18.—Stephen Williams, colored, was jailed here yesterday by Sheriff Dove, charged with attempting to assault Mrs. Albert Handley, who resides near Washington, in Prince George's County. The prisoner was taken to the jail here, and also by her adopted daughter. The negro was jailed by the woman's faithful watchdog.

EMMA HUNT BRUTALLY MURDERED NEAR ALBION, THIS STATE.

Mutilated Body Found by Her Employer and His Family.

Suspicion Falls on a Young Farm Hand Who is Missing.

(Special to The Evening World.) ALBION, N. Y., Oct. 19.—Emma Hunt, a girl eighteen years old, who has worked for Joseph Van Camp, at Sawyer, eight miles north of Albion, for several months, was murdered in cold blood about 8 o'clock last night.

Van Camp and family went to town in the evening and were gone about an hour. When they returned they found Miss Hunt lying on her back in the sitting-room, near one corner, with both arms extended.

Her throat was cut from ear to ear, there was a bruise over one temple and her abdomen was cut across the full length. Blood was all over the room, on two folding doors, between the sitting-room and dressing-room, on both sides of the door leading into the front hall and scattered over the wall.

William Lake, a young man, about twenty-four years old, who worked for Van Camp, was the only person left in the house with the girl. He is about five feet nine inches tall, and has light complexion and hair and is good-looking. He is missing, and suspicion attaches to him. He left his horse, carriage and clothes, and the Sheriff and posse are on his track. There is talk of lynching him if found. The coroner holds an inquest to-day.

He says he was abducted. Dr. Calkins Returns to His Home at Cassopolis, Mich.

(By Associated Press.) CASSIOPOLIS, Mich., Oct. 19.—Dr. A. B. Conkling returned home last night. He says he was kidnapped on the night of Sept. 2 by two negroes and driven all night to the house of some colored people, where he was kept in confinement one week and then taken to some city unknown to him and turned over to two white men. After this he claims he was carted around by night and confined in buildings by day, always under guard. He says his captors always wore masks and he would be unable to recognize them.

He states that he was released Tuesday night and would have been an important witness for the prosecution in the trial of Dr. Anderson, in Traverston, who is charged with the abduction. He has served a term in the penitentiary for lynching a negro near Sandusky.

Killed His Baby Because It Cried. (By Associated Press.) MERIDIAN, Miss., Oct. 19.—Will T. Martin, a farmer residing in Clarke County, murdered his infant child Wednesday night because it cried too much. He then took his own life in a very dangerous condition to-day.

Hubband and Wife Disturb Peace. Samuel Neil and his wife, Catherine, of 250 Steadler avenue, Brooklyn, were fined in the late Avenue Police Court, Brooklyn, this morning, charged with disturbing the peace by calling out names in the street. When arrested, Neil carried his wife of having jumped her at a New York in a case of shipwreck, while she replied that she was in a case of shipwreck in Manchester, England. Neil paid the sum of himself and wife.

J. H. STREIDINGER DEAD.

He Was Supervising Engineer at the Blowing-Up of Hell Gate.

(By Associated Press.) SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—A body washed ashore at San Diego has since been identified as that of J. H. Streidinger, an engineer of National reputation, who had been living in San Francisco for the last few years. His friends are awaiting themselves to find out whether his death was the result of murder, accident or suicide.

Early in September Streidinger announced to some of his friends that he was going to Arizona to look after some mining interests there, and has not been heard from since.

George Smith Prevents a Suicide by a Gallant Rescue.

William J. Lawler, thirty-five years old, who lives with his parents at 352 West Thirty-first street, attempted to commit suicide by jumping from the ferry-boat Rockaway, of the Thirty-fourth street line, early this morning.

The boat was in the slip, and Lawler sprang over the rail and would undoubtedly have been drowned had not George Smith, of 105 East Thirty-fourth street, a passenger, plunged in and rescued him. Lawler was taken to Bellevue Hospital a prisoner.

He had formerly been connected with the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, and lived in comfortable circumstances. He is married and has one child. He took to drink, lost his position and parted from his wife. The latter returned to her home, while Lawler went to live with his parents.

He left home last evening, and nothing was heard from him until an "Evening World" reporter notified his friends of his attempted suicide to-day. The only reason attributed for the man's act is that he was probably under the influence of liquor at the time.

Mullen Also Wants $10,000 Damages for an Assault.

Ellsworth Johnson was arrested late yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Walker upon an order issued by Justice Stover, of the Supreme Court, in an action begun against him by Frank Mullen to recover $10,000 damages for injuries received in an assault made upon him by Johnson. In default of $1,000 bail Johnson was lodged in Ludlow Street Jail.

The plaintiff alleges that July 2 last, while he was in a restaurant in East One Hundred and Thirty-eighth street, Mullen arrested the defendant and assaulted him without cause or provocation, knocking him down and breaking two of his ribs and his collar bone.

Works of Art in Court. Men Arrested by Comstock Held in $500 for Trial.

Edouard Vallet, proprietor of the Paris Art Room, at 429 Sixth avenue, and his assistant, Alphonse Regier, who were taken prisoners yesterday when the Art Room was raided by Anthony Comstock, were arrested for indecent exposure in the Jefferson Market Police Court to-day.

Mr. Comstock produced twenty-eight pictures, which were taken in the raid, on the strength of them Justice Voorhis held the men for trial in $500 bail each.

Rubino Expected to Die. His Sister-in-Law, Who Shot Him, Arraigned and Remanded.

Marie Rubino, who shot her brother-in-law, Donati Rubino, in front of 106 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, at 6 o'clock last evening, was held in the Harlem Police Court this morning for the same offense. Rubino's injuries are not expected to live.

Mrs. Rubino lives at 180 Elizabeth street. She says she tried to kill her brother-in-law because, when she requested his divorce, he had tried to break up her home.

STABBED IN THE FACE. Smith Admits the Cutting and Says It Was in Self-Defense.

Joseph Mulhern, twenty-seven years old, of 25 Prince street, was stabbed in the right cheek by William Smith, eighteen years old, in Bleecker street, near the Bowery, about 2 o'clock this morning.

Mulhern states that he was returning home from Gansevoort Market, where he is employed. He was very tired, he said, and accidentally jostled a man who was one of a group of four standing in the gutter. An altercation ensued, which resulted in Smith stabbing Mulhern with a large pocket-knife.

Smith says that Mulhern assaulted him, and that he used the knife in self-defense. Mulhern and George Fowler were locked up, and Mulhern was detained as a witness.

TWO YOUTHS OF 19 HANGED. They Killed a St. Paul Bartender, Who Would Be Held Up.

(By Associated Press.) ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 19.—Exactly six minutes past 5 o'clock this morning the trop fell and Charles Enrich and Otto Womkehl had paid the penalty of their crime.

Enrich and Womkehl were but nineteen years of age. They shot bartender William Smith in the street by calling out names in the street. When arrested, Neil carried his wife of having jumped her at a New York in a case of shipwreck, while she replied that she was in a case of shipwreck in Manchester, England. Neil paid the sum of himself and wife.

LAST EDITION. STRAUS IS OUT: GRANT IS SHY.

NATHAN STRAUS. ONCE TAMMANY'S HOPE, BUT NOW ITS DISAPPOINTMENT.

Nathan Has Filed His Declination and Hugh J. Has Shouted His.

LEADERS CRY "GIVE US GRANT."

Declare that as He Has Caused the Emergency He Should Be Willing to Meet It.

PURROY AND GILROY ARE SULKING.

And the Hill State Ticket May Suffer as a Result of Tammany Strife.

"Nathan Straus is out!" That was the cry that carried consternation into the camp of Tammany this morning.

There was a hurried assembling of leaders in the big wigwag on Fourteenth street, and the faces of all were animated interrogation marks.

"What'll we do now?" was the query, and it was repeated from mouth to mouth until somebody said: "What's the matter with Hughie Grant?"

And then, as if in pursuit of fading hope, there was a rush for "Hughie." He was met going from the Straus headquarters, in the Union Square Hotel, to Tammany Hall, was surrounded and buttonholed and bawled for two blocks, and as he entered the hall he dashed all hopes again by almost shouting: "No! No! No!"

But the leaders were not willing to take that as an answer, and Mr. Grant was dragged into the Executive Committee room and labored with there.

He pleaded business engagements, and the Tammany leaders sent around to his business partners and received assurances from them that in this emergency they would withdraw their objections to Mr. Grant again entering the field of politics. These assurances were repeated to Mr. Grant and again he shouted: "No! No! No! A thousand times, No!"

the direction of things and to act and talk as if in a position to dictate were James J. Martin, President of the Police Board; Police Commissioner John C. Sheehan, Timothy Dry Dollar Sullivan, Sheriff John S. Sexton, Police Justice McFahon, J. N. Boyle and William Bohmer, Tammany's candidate for Sheriff.

Chairman James J. Martin read to the Committee a letter from Nathan Straus, declining to continue as Tammany's candidate, and explaining his reasons for withdrawing.

The announcement was made that the letter had been signed by Mr. Straus at 10:05 o'clock this morning in the presence of Hugh J. Grant, W. E. Stillings and Coroner John B. Shea.

To the waiting reporters who had asked for a copy of Mr. Straus's letter, word was sent out that the Committee had decided not to make it public.

This action was responsible for a rumor, which then became current, to the effect that in retreating Mr. Straus had fired some hot shot into the Hill camp and said some decidedly unpleasant things of the Democracy's candidate for Governor, accusing him, among other things, of "conduct unbecoming the leader of the Democratic party in the State."

None of the Committeemen would discuss this rumor, and some of them even denied that Mr. Straus's letter had been read, saying that the only document presented was Mr. Straus's formal declaration, which would be filed with the Police Board at once.

The meeting was adjourned at 11:30 o'clock, with an agreement to meet again at 4:30.

Straus's Formal Declination. Chairman Martin hurried at once to Police Headquarters, and there filed with the clerk of the Bureau of Elections Mr. Straus's notice of withdrawal.

This is the document: Telephone 128, Eighteenth street, Nathan Straus, Union Square Hotel, 15th st. and 4th ave., New York City.

To the Board of Police Commissioners of the City of New York. Sirs: I hereby notify you that I decline the nomination for Mayor of the City of New York, tendered me by the Democratic party of the City of New York.

(Dated) New York, Oct. 19, 1894. Then follows the affirmation, taken by William E. Stillings, notary public, who certified to the genuineness of Mr. Straus's signature.

State of New York. City and County of New York. On this, the 19th day of October, 1894, before me personally appeared Nathan Straus, to me known to be the individual signing and executing the above notice, and who acknowledged to me that he executed the same.

William E. Stillings (Notary Public, New York City. Some of the members of the Executive Committee stated to reporters that a number of names had been considered for the nomination for Mayor, among them those of Robert MacLay, ex-Police Commissioner MacLean, H. D. Purroy, Chas. H. Knox, Andrew H. Green and even that of Richard Croker. Hugh J. Grant, it was admitted, was, however, the choice of all, and the nomination would, it was declared, be tendered to him unanimously.

It was said during the time the Executive Committee was in session that Chairman Martin had received a despatch from Senator Hill asking that the choice of no faction in the Hall be put up, but that a man be selected upon whom the organization could unite, and for whom it would fight to the last gasp. One of the leaders suggested that Hugh J. Grant fitted the occasion, and that Hill had him in mind if he had sent such a despatch.
