HEMMEED IN BY FIRE.
A Whole Family Carried Down a Ladder in Brooklyn.

Policeman Kelly Complimented for His Bravery.

A Pot of Fat Boiled Over in Baker Donnelly's Shop.

An entire family, numbering four persons, was rescued from a blazing building, at 187 Columbia street, Brooklyn, at 3.30 o'clock this morning.

They were hemmed in on the top floor by fire and smoke, and a policeman and several firemen carried them down a ladder to safety.

The building is a brick structure, three stories in height. The lower floor and basement were occupied by Thomas Donnelly, a baker. The top floor was the home of John Floyd, his wife, and two children—Mary, aged five years, and John, five months.

Shortly after 3 o'clock Donnelly's assistant left the cellar for a few minutes to attend to some business in the store. During his absence a pot of grease, which had been left on the stove, boiled over.

There was a flash, and then flames shot forth in all directions. An alarm was given, and the firemen responded promptly.

The fire spread very rapidly, and filled the hallways with smoke. The flames were gradually creeping up through the building.

Floyd was not awakened until the engine dashed up in front of the door. Then he jumped out of bed and awoke his family.

Clouds of smoke ascended to the top of the house, and after several unsuccessful attempts to escape, they were driven back into the room.

Policeman Kelly, of the Amity street station started up a ladder to rescue them. He was followed by Foreman Smith and Firemen Riley and Burns, of Truck No. 1. Kelly took the baby from its father's arms and passed it down the ladder to the sidewalk. Then the other members of the family were carried down.

Meanwhile a crowd gathered in the vicinity and cheered the firemen and policeman.

The flames were quickly gotten under control. The damage by fire is almost entirely confined to the lower floor, building and fixtures. Will not exceed $1,000.

Shortly before noon today Supt. Campbell sent a formal communication over the telephone to Capt. Finigan complimenting Policeman Kelly for his bravery.
