

THE PEOPLE ARE WINNING.

Consumers Surely Forcing the Trust Bread Out of the Market.

HARVEST FOR SMALL BAKERS.

There Are 1,600 of Them and They Turn Out a Three-Cent Loaf.

THE PUBLIC PAYS FOUR CENTS.

In Brooklyn and New Jersey the Same Determined Fight is Being Made.

The people's eyes have been opened by "The Evening World" to the fact that they are paying too much for their bread. As always happens when they find that they have been imposed upon, the people have set about righting matters.

I'm an Engineer

On the Lehigh Valley Railroad. I was troubled severely with headache and frequently had to be accompanied by sick spells. I read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and decided to get a supply. After the first bottle I felt a change, and now it has effectively cured my headache. As for an appetite, I can eat at almost any time, whereas before I often fasted, but when I went to my meals I could not eat. When I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I weighed 150 pounds; now I weigh 200 pounds.

grocers the four-cent loaves which the small bakers have begun to furnish to the retailers at three cents.

It is the Wholesale Bakers' Association, composed of sixteen of the largest bakeries in this city, which is keeping up the price of bread. Its members have grown rich through the combine which they established several years ago.

Already the sales of the Wholesale Bakers' Association have fallen off to an extent which causes alarm. An instance of this remarkable reduction in the amount of bread sold by the Trust since "The Evening World" demonstrated that the consumer was being imposed upon, came to light yesterday.

The driver's attention was called to the fact that one of the grocers whom he served had returned twenty-five loaves of bread instead of the usual half-dozen or so.

"It isn't my fault," the driver explained. "The Evening World" has been printing notices, and says that he gets his supply from the small bakeries for three cents a loaf, and that the people won't pay more than four cents for it now.

The United States Bakery Company, in Hecroter street, is selling three-cent bread as fast as it can be baked, and the American Baking Company, in the same street, is doing the same thing.

George H. Weber, of 51 Bank street, is doing a rushing trade, also at the reduced rates.

Over in Brooklyn, Frederick H. Keener, of 33 Marion street, is furnishing his grocer customers with three-cent loaves as big as the combine's four-cent loaves.

Further out in New Jersey "The Evening World" which induced him to reduce his prices.

which has supplied him for years, and is now selling full weight loaves furnished by local bakers at four cents. Mr. Leckberg's action, it is said, will be followed by all the other grocers in town.

HELD UP A TRAIN.

But a Smart Messenger Saved Express Money.

MONNETT, Mo. Nov. 12.—Prison passenger train No. 1, due here at 5 o'clock to-night, was held up four miles east of Monnett by two masked men, and the express car robbed.

The robbers boarded the front end of the mail car, which was next to the train, at Verona, and after the train started, they crawled to the engine and commanded the engineer to run to a certain point and stop.

The life of the engineer, Express Messenger Chapman opened the safe, but he had succeeded in hiding all the money, save $200 in currency, which he handed over to the robbers.

The train pulled into Monnett twenty minutes late, and was running short on wood, and I requested my purchasing clerk to order in a lot more. On account of the tremendous amount of goods we make up, we must necessarily deal with more than one house.

THE STRANGLER'S WORK.

Another Denver Unfortunate Mysteriously Murdered.

DENVER, Nov. 13.—Another victim has been added to the list of women mysteriously strangled in disorderly houses in this city.

The victim was Kiku Oyama, a Japanese twenty-four years old, who came to this country to attend the Chicago Exposition, and later came here to live with a countryman, Iml Oyama. The woman was found this morning in her room with a Turkish towel knotted about her neck.

THEY MAY ARBITRATE.

Possible that Cloak Manufacturers Will Leave It to the LXX.

Philadelphia and Other Cities New Control the Trade.

Suffering Among Strikers is On the Increase.

It is hardly probable that the disastrous effect of the cloakmakers' strike has been given the consideration which it deserves, that the public may see and appreciate what one strike can do for this city.

"Here is the point," said a leading manufacturer last night, "and it is one which neither myself, my firm nor any manufacturer can afford to ignore."

John Walker, M. Brown and M. Goldsmith were elected yesterday by the Union No. 24 delegates to meet Thursday a conference which was called to discuss means and ways how to assist the striking cloakmakers.

Stabbed in a Street Fight.

During a fight on West Sixty-seventh street early this morning, Jesse Glasgow, a negro, of 24 West Sixty-second street, was stabbed in the right side by Philip J. O'Connell, a West Indian negro, twenty-one years old, of 24 East Ninth-street. Glasgow's wound is not fatal. O'Connell was held for trial in the Yorkville Court.

mark, but is going down rapidly. If it were temporary, the loss might be borne, but it is not. It represents a permanent loss, because it has gone to the cities we have been fighting for years.

Joseph Haronides, the leader of the strikers, said to-day:

The application of the strikers for aid were more numerous to-day than at any time since the distress among them began.

Emil Reibstein, a cloakmaker, of 155 Third Broadway, appeared in the Yorkville Court this morning with a complaint against three female strikers to-day.

IS ONE A MURDERER?

New York Detectives Capture Two of a "Knocker-Out" Gang.

Nicola Rossi and Marco Bonasarto were taken to the Tombs Court this morning, handcuffed to Detective-Sergets Carey and Bonnell.

Rossi is said to be implicated in the murder of Michael Santuosso, Nov. 2, in a room over a restaurant at Seventh and Fitzwater streets, Philadelphia, by an overdose of "knockout drops."

Bonasarto is a known crook, and was but recently released from prison. He is not implicated with the Santuosso murder.

"Knockout drops" were found on both prisoners when they were searched. On the way to Police Headquarters Rossi drew a glove from his pocket. The glove contained a loaded revolver. He turned it upon Carey, and but for the latter's quickness would have shot him.

Justice Ryan remanded the prisoners until to-morrow in a view of the arrival of a warrant from Philadelphia.

OLD-TIME CROOKS CAUGHT.

Police Think Doyle and Kingsley Were Working the Truck Game.

Detectives Cottrell and Evanoh, of the Central Office, arrested two old-time crooks last evening at 75 Rivington street, and at Jefferson Market Court to-day had them remanded by Justice Voorhis.

The men are "Shenny" Doyle and "Shenny" Kingsley, alias John Ward. Both have served terms in the penitentiary and both have pictures in the Rogues' Gallery.

For several weeks truckmen, whom no one could identify, have been working the wholesale districts in a wholesale manner. Turning up to the curb in front of some dry-goods or clothing house, they would pick up a bale of goods or a full box and drive away.

It is an old game, and those who make a specialty of it are well-known to the police, but yet the eight or nine Central Office men who were sent to place the responsibility, were unable to fasten the crime on any one.

Cottrell and Evanoh had been searching the Rivington street resorts of the crooks, and in that way they found a choice collection of the stolen goods. There were several hundred rolls of dress goods and a number of boxes of suspender lacings and dress trimmings for the presence of which the ex-convicts could give no adequate explanation. The goods found are valued at about $90.

The two men arrested have been driving a truck which they had rented from Barney Isaacs, who keeps a livery stable at Orchard and Hester streets. Both were liberally supplied with money, and they refused to say where they obtained it.
