CHESTER'S STORMY VOYAGE.

Faced a Succession of Gales on the Run from Southampton.

The Cheever American line steamer Chester arrived at the harbor late night from Southampton, from which port she sailed on Nov. 4, after a stormy voyage.

She met with a succession of westerly gales, accompanied by high head seas, throughout the run across the Atlantic. On Nov. 14 and twenty other miles southwest of Northport, Long Island, a vessel's mast was seen striking the cutter and apparently attached to a whaling vessel.

Among the passengers on the Chester were Master H. C. Davis, Col. Thomas W. Weatherford, Major O. H. Koster, E. E. Crane, Capt. J. P. Pappalardo and child and Lawrence Fortescue.

The Chester was to have sailed for Southampton yesterday, but her departure was indefinitely postponed by a westerly gale.
