

BUDDENSIEK SURPASSED. No Foundations for Party Walls in the Orchard Street Death Trap.

AN EXPERT GAVE WARNING.

He Notified the Workmen the House Would Fall and It Did Two Hours Later.

PREPARING FOR THE INQUEST.

It is Stated that Inspector Ormsby Will Decline to Be a Martyr.

When the Coroner's jury begins tomorrow the investigation into the deaths of the five men who lost their lives by the fall of William T. Lennon's Orchard street tenement on Friday...

It has already been clearly established that the building laws were violated in nearly every particular, that old masonry of a wretched character was used, that the plans and specifications were not carried out, and that to such an extent the contractor is responsible.

Who is Responsible? What the public is particularly anxious to know is to what extent the officials of the Building Department are to blame...

It will be remembered, however, that for the fearful loss of life in the Park place horror and the Monroe street disaster no one was punished, nor was there any kind of investigation fixing official responsibility.

In the Orchard street tragedy no defense is offered. The criminal charges are admitted by Supt. Brady and Deputy Vreeland, so far as they apply to the contractor, and even to the young inspector, Ormsby, who has been suspended.

Brady Depends Upon Inspectors. "But," said Mr. Vreeland to an "Evening World" reporter, "don't blame the entire Department for the acts of one man."

Mr. Brady has to depend upon his inspectors, and no man can be appointed inspector unless he passes a rigid examination and swears and proves he has worked as a mechanic in the building trade for a certain number of years...

The reporter pointed out that charges had been openly made and published by Builder Kipatrick, that the Building Department officials demanded back that every building opportunity and that in one particular case he knew $1,500 was embezzled and paid to him.

"I never heard of this being paid," was Mr. Vreeland's reply, "but suppose money has been paid to inspectors, how could we know it here? It is not reasonable to imagine that they would come out and tell us."

Mr. Vreeland denied that it was the custom for men connected with the Department to draw up plans for buildings, making certain charges therefor. He admitted, however, that plans were often filed which no architect ever saw. The plans of the Orchard street houses of this kind, no name whatever is signed to them.

Can't See the Papers. Both Supt. Brady and Deputy Vreeland refuse positively to allow any of the men to be interviewed, and they will permit Inspector Ormsby's record to be examined. They admit that in the last month or more they were neglect of duty in failing to report a gross violation of the law. All the charges, however, will be laid before the coroner tomorrow.

The Board of Walking Delegates of the Building Trades Union, which has its hand in the investigation. Many of them have examined the fallen tenement and carried away specimens of the brick and mortar. Among those who made a thorough investigation is Edward J. Murray, Corresponding Secretary of the Structural Iron Setters, and he has settled to his satisfaction the cause of the collapse.

The crime of Buddensiek, he said to an "Evening World" reporter yesterday, "has been surpassed in this case. He built from bad foundations and used poor material in the Orchard street case, the builder did not think it necessary to go down for foundations and carried away specimens of the brick and mortar. Among those who made a thorough investigation is Edward J. Murray, Corresponding Secretary of the Structural Iron Setters, and he has settled to his satisfaction the cause of the collapse."

Murray Predicted the Collapse. On the very day of the accident Supt. Brady was in the office of the Building Department and he told some of the workmen at the time that the beams could never hold such a weight. Two hours later the building fell.

Mr. Murray took the reporter down to the building last evening and showed where the party walls still standing had been shored up and jacked to prevent them from falling. He is confident that the collapse of the building was due not so much to bad material as to the plans. This would bring the matter back to the Building Department.

"Naturally, I know a good deal about the building inspectors," Mr. Murray said, "and my belief is that they are not to blame, but that they are over their heads. They simply obey orders. As to the examination they undertake, any man could pass it after an hour's study."

DETROIT FIREMEN HURT. Freight Crashes Into Truck and Three Men May Die.

DETROIT, March 7.—A shocking accident occurred at Canfield avenue and the railroad tracks early this morning. Hook and Ladder Company No. 4 was crossing the Detroit, Grand Haven and Milwaukee Railroad tracks at that point...

As soon as the janitor stumbled across this very unpleasant object in the dim light of the cellar, he stopped to examine it and it was they who found the piece of brown coat with the left shoulder. Marks on the stumps indicated that the work had been done with a very fine saw. The legs and lower portion of the body had also been cut away.

On the night of March 19 one of the tenants of 517 West Thirty-ninth street found the trunk of a child's body in a coal bin in the cellar. The head had been cut off clean, and the arms had been severed within a short distance of the shoulders. Marks on the stumps indicated that the work had been done with a very fine saw. The legs and lower portion of the body had also been cut away.

Two detectives were immediately put on the case, and it was they who found the piece of brown coat with the left shoulder. Marks on the stumps indicated that the work had been done with a very fine saw. The legs and lower portion of the body had also been cut away.

Although Inspector DeLaughlin kept his best men on the case for weeks it still remains one of the blackest mysteries that the district known as Hell's Kitchen ever developed.

The detectives of the West Forty-seventh street station are quite sure they will never be able to find the parents of Susie Martin. Mr. and Mrs. Martin were dispossessed from their apartments, 656 Eleventh avenue, last April. They borrowed money from the grocer with which to hire other rooms, and with it Martin went on a debauch. Since that time all trace of them has been lost.

Watchman Assaults a Sailor. Joan Anderson, a sailor, of 54 Cherry street, went to pier 13 yesterday morning to apply for a watchman's license and to allow a doctor on the pier and an altercation followed. In the scuffle the watchman was struck and taken to the hospital. The sailor was arrested in the Police Court this morning and held for trial.

PEACEMAKER SHOT. Trivial Quarrel Among Italians Result—In Death.

A gang of Italians were employed in the dump of the Long Island Railroad, between Hillside and Long Island City, and last night Antonio Rollo blew out a torch. This was objected to by Nicola Pierre, twenty-eight years of age, an Italian-born American. They had a fierce struggle, but were finally separated and went to their boarding-houses.

When the gang of Italians went to work in the dump, the fight between Pierre and Rollo was resumed. The other Italians had taken sides in the matter. Rollo was backed by his godfather, Tony Pierre, while Nicola Pierre was backed by a relative of his, Rocco Pierre. Nicola Pierre and Rocco Pierre were both in the dump when the fight broke out. They were both armed with knives and pistols.

"HANDSOME HARRY" VERY COOL. Mr. Ransom Cannot Excite Him and Gets Angry.

Mr. Ransom Cannot Excite Him and Gets Angry. Examination into the case of Lawyer Wale F. Severance, of 32 Nassau street, a former partner of W. Bourke Cockran, for extorting various sums of money from Harry Phillips, better known as "Handsome Harry," was continued this morning before Justice Koch, in old Special Sessions court-room in the Tombs.

Phillips charges Severance with having extorted money under threats of exposing events in Phillips' career and in the life of Phillips' wife. Phillips was represented by Hugh O. Pentecost and I. D. Kennesson. Severance had for his counsel ex-Surrogate Hanson.

Harry Phillips' cross-examination was continued by Mr. Hanson. He was asked concerning his early life, and said he could not remember his twentieth or twenty-first birthday, although he was only twenty-eight last June. He asked you any memory at all?" asked the lawyer.

"Yes, oh yes," said Handsome Harry, "I remember some things." He was not sure when he came to New York from England. "Had you ever been here before?" "I am not sure, I think so."

"Were you ever out of England before you took a trip to Australia when you were about sixteen years old?" "Yes," he was in Paris, Ireland and Brussels.

"Had you been to America before you went to Australia?" "That I cannot remember." "When did you first come to America?" "Eight or nine years ago."

"Do you remember that you were arrested in London in 1883 for false pretenses?" "I cannot remember." "Is your mind an absolute blank on this matter?" "Yes, an absolute blank."

"When did you first come to this country with Mrs. Thomas?" "It may have been in 1886." "Mrs. Thomas was a governess with whom Handsome Harry eloped from his father's house in England?" "The witness acknowledged he was arrested in Brooklyn, in 1889, on a charge made by a woman who was running an intelligence office there."

Phillips was calm, and Mr. Ransom took a trip to Australia, in 1886, when he was going under the name of Taylor. He took a trip to Australia, in 1886, when he was going under the name of Taylor. He took a trip to Australia, in 1886, when he was going under the name of Taylor.

Phillips admitted he used agents of Hanson to investigate the criminal libel, for saying he was not to be trusted. He was asked if he had not been summoned to Jefferson Market Court on complaint of Mary Born for keeping the money and effects, and only paying Mary Born small sums now and then. Objection was made and the case went over until Monday morning at 10 o'clock.
