LAST EDITION ESCAPE FROM LUDLOW.

Chased by Police and Citizens for Blocks, But They Got Safely Away.

TOOK KEYS AND WALKED OFF.

The Imprisoned Keepers Were Not Found and Released Until 8 O'Clock This Morning.

Joseph Killoran, Harry Russell and Charles Allen, the three desperate men who robbed the Post-Office at Springfield, Ill., and Hoboken, N. J., escaped from Ludlow Street Jail at 8 o'clock this morning.

The men were provided with revolvers and had evidently carefully planned the escape.

They made their attempt at a time when but one keeper was in sight and catching him unarmed, levelled their pistols at him, and made him throw up his hands.

Killoran and Russell held their revolvers at the keeper's head, while Allen jerked the keys from his grasp.

Edward Schmeer, the keeper, had just entered the prison as the three prisoners were coming from their cells to take their daily exercise.

CHAS. S. ALLEN. (As he appeared when arrested and when arraigned in court.)

Night Keeper Schoen, when Schmeer was about to retire, handed the latter the keys, asking him to take charge for a few minutes.

As Schoen stepped into an adjoining room Killoran, Allen and Russell attacked Schmeer.

With the keys in their possession the prisoners had no difficulty in getting out of the building and making good their escape.

"A number of policemen with Roundsmen Colton and Detective Con Sheehan at their head came running up as the robbers reached the street and the prisoners had to make lively tracks up Ludlow street, the crowd and the police right on their heels.

"At Broome street, one block north of the Ludlow street door from which they escaped, the men separated, one keeping on, Allen going east on Broome, and Killoran taking the westerly direction.

"At Broome and Clinton streets a young man, Louis B. Ostran, of 288 Broome street, was fast catching up with Allen, when the runner turned upon his pursuer.

"Now sneak, or I'll put an air-hole through your heart!" he said.

Within a few minutes after the arrival of the police at the jail a general alarm containing a complete description of the men was sent out from Police Headquarters.

Six Innings a Full Game Because of Rain at Eastern Park.

(Special to The Evening World.)

EASTERN PARK, BROOKLYN, July 4.—Long before the hour announced for the morning game between the Braves and Boston a steady stream of rooters poured into the grounds, and by 10 o'clock the great bleachers, limited to 2,000, were already occupied, while 200 stood against the fence. The majority carried umbrellas, in order to be sure of their positions.

The fact that the weather would make a hard battle to win the game on account of their defeat yesterday did not seem to detract from the enthusiasm of the fans. When the Braves took the field for practice it began to rain. Promptly at 10:30 o'clock Umpire McDonald yelled "ball," with about 5,000 persons present.

The Batting Order.

Boston. Long, ss. Shindle, 3b. Duffy, 1b. Anderson, 2b. Schuch, 2b. Tredway, rf. Corcoran, ss. Kelley, c. Kennedy, p. Umpire—Mr. McDonald.

First Inning.

Long soaked a grounder to La Chance for an out. McCarthy's hot grounder was stopped by Kennedy and thrown to La Chance. Duffy's low line fly went to Shindle. One run.

Second Inning.

Capt. Nash was retired at first by Corcoran. Long bunted a single to center and reached second on Griffin's slow handling. Tucker, base on balls. It began to rain in this inning. Shindle made a beautiful running catch of Hanlon's fly. Griffin's short fly was caught by Griffin after a hard run. Two runs.

Third Inning.

Nichols punted a single to Long for an out. Schuch drove a beauty to right for three bases. Tredway's grounder some retired him at first. Schuch crossing the plate Corcoran filed to Bannan. One run.

Fourth Inning.

Duffy slammed a single to left. Capt. Nash singled, advancing Duffy to third. Lowe scored Duffy and put Nash on second on his single. Tucker sacrificed Bannan hit to Kennedy, who threw to Kelley. The toucher, Nash on the base line, Bannan reaching second. Game ended the inning from Schuch to La Chance. One run.

Fifth Inning.

Nichols' foul fly went to Daly. Long lunged to Anderson.

It was raining so hard that the rooters on the bleachers asked Umpire McDonald to call the game. McCarthy's bunt was thrown to La Chance by Kennedy. No runs.

Sixth Inning.

Shindle made another pretty catch of Duffy's foul fly. Schuch made a beautiful running catch of Nash's apparently safe hit over second. Long out, Corcoran out. No runs.

Seventh Inning.

Duffy filed to Bannan. Kennedy was hit on the right hand with a pitched ball, but he ran. Nichols' grounder at bat. He died. Long to Tucker. Griffin filed to Tucker. No runs.

Final Score.

Boston 7, Brooklyn 1.

THE CREWS AT HENLEY.

Cornell Covers the Full Course in 7 Minutes 25 Seconds.

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, July 4.—The change in the weather here in the last few days bodes ill for the success of the regatta. The strong wind and an occasional rain greatly incommode the practice of the crews. The coaches are at their wit's end to keep the men in good form.

The brothers Nickalls, the Canadians and the Dutchmen brave the elements and do not relax their practice, although they cannot attempt a racing speed.

The home crew were also out, but the Cornell avoided the course in the morning, doing easy work higher up in shelter from the fierce winds.

Cornell covered the full course in 7 minutes and 25 seconds.

The Canadians still require exercise in the sport. The Sports Club will give a banquet to the Cornell men and the Canadians on July 13.

THREE NEGROES HANGED.

All Confessed and Said They Were Going Straight to Glory.

VICKSBURG, July 4.—Twenty-five hundred people from all parts of Issaquena County witnessed a triple hanging at Mayorsville yesterday. The criminals were Bill Purvie, Griffin Hubbard and Grant Wilson, all negroes. Each made a speech on the scaffold, confessing the crime; but saying that he had been forgiven and was going straight to glory. The trap was sprung at 11:57 A. M., and at 12:12 P. M. all three were pronounced dead.

The negroes were convicted of the murder of Dr. King, owner of a trading boat lying at Carolina Landing.

"Oh! I'd rather they had killed me on the street side locked the door again, leaving the key in the lock. In that way they had us all locked in."

"Had you a pistol with you?" queried the reporter.

"No. I had just arrived at the jail and my pistol was in a desk in the office where I always leave it when I go off duty. I was unarmed and could do nothing."

"Oh! I'd rather they had killed me on

Five Thousand Rooters Howl at the Ludicrous Decisions of Nick Young's Latest Find.

CALLED A FOUL BOUND OUT.

Persisted in His Wretched Exhibition Despite the Frequent "Kicks" of Both Teams.

(Special to The Evening World.)

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, July 4.—Baltimore's collection of lightning ball players showed up bright and early this morning in search of several more "Joyn'ts" scalps, but after the surprising burst of speed shown by the cripples yesterday the air of supreme confidence had, to some extent, departed from the Orioles' manner. Instead, they marched upon the grounds with an air of dogged determination, and immediately proceeded to slam the sphere about in a do-or-die manner that bode more trouble for Capt. Doyle's game.

On the other hand, the local crowd seemed to have at last taken a brace for the better. In their preliminary practice they cavorted about the diamond, grabbing liners, flies and grounders in a very lively fashion.

It was originally scheduled for Meek-in to pitch the first game, but late this morning Capt. Doyle decided to send in "Daddy" Clarke. Heffer was called upon by Capt. Robinson, who said "Ben Tuttil, the umpire who made his debut yesterday, made his appearance all by himself and after a few minutes only the players, but the crowd watched his work apprehensively. His work was not so good as that of Tuttil, to say the least, is incompetent.

Droide, the Baltimore centre fielder, did not show up until the eighth inning, and Pond, the University of Vermont pitcher who joined the team in this city, took his first game.

The attendance was 5,000.

The Batting Order.

New York. McGraw, 1b. Tiersan, rf. Van Halten, cf. Clarke, 2b. Stafford, 2b. Feltner, 3b. Clarke, p. Fullinwider, offer, p. Umpire—Mr. Tuttil.

First Inning.

Murphy punted out a long fly, which Kelley took. While Tiersan was at bat he was called for a foul. He apparently split the plate, and was interviewed by the entire Oriole collection. Mike then walked and after a few minutes "balls" had flown by he "walked." A ball "popped" and received a present. The umpire called for a foul. Tiersan and Mike ambled home. "Old Lady" Van should have easily scored on this hit. But she was struck before reaching third and had to content herself with that spot.

Second Inning.

"Dad" Clarke hammered the pill back of first for a base. Fuller dropped a fly into Jennings' gloves, which he caught. Fuller's throw pushed a long fly to left, but Joe Kelley was waiting for it. Van Halten's fly was caught by Kelley. No runs.

Third Inning.

McGraw and Clarke disposed of Dave. Capt. Robinson gathered in "Bill" Clark high foul after a run. Stafford whacked a safe one over third, and promptly "swiped" second. He reached third on Gleason's muff of Robinson's throw. "Duke" Farrell led the leader for a base, and Jim crossed the plate. "Dad" Clarke contributed a single and Farrell moved up a notch. Both were hit by Fuller dying at first. One run.

Fourth Inning.

Gleason took Murphy's fly. Tiersan soaked one between Burkeville and left field bleachers for two bases. Van poked a fly into the right field bleachers, and threw wildly to first and Tiersan reached home. Dave banged a double about the right field corner and Van finished the journey. George was caught trying to stretch it into a three-bagger. Tuttil's decision on a ball and a strike had some come so "rotten" that the crowd jeered every decision. Two runs.

Fifth Inning.

Stafford tipped a foul which Robinson caught on a bound.

"Out," howled Mr. Tuttil and again was the subject of unmerciful remarks. The "kick" lasted several minutes, but Stafford had to leave the

WHO FIRED THE SHOT?

Catherine Pitts Killed by an Unknown in Williamsburg.

Sitting in Her Grocery Store and Was Hit in the Shoulder.

Doctors, Seeing No Bullet Hole, Said She Died from a "Shock"

Catherine Pitts, fifty years old, was sitting inside her grocery store at 26 Withers street, Williamsburg, late last night when a bullet, fired by some unknown person, struck her in the right shoulder.

She fell from her chair dead.

An ambulance from the Eastern District Hospital was called and Dr. Stevens responded. Dr. Small, who lives on Lorimer street near Withers street, was also called.

Both physicians said the woman died from shock. It was not until an early hour this morning when Undertaker Glennon, of 55 Herbert street, obtained the body for burial, that it was learned that the woman had been shot.

PULLED FROM A STREET CAR.

An Old Man Arrested on a Charge of Forgery.

A feeble man who described himself as Dr. Frederick Swaz, seventy years old, employed as an advertising agent for German newspapers, was committed to prison for further examination on a charge of forgery to-day in the Yorkville Court. He was arrested last evening by Policeman Ball, while riding on a Second Avenue horse car.

ALTER MAKES A SCENE.

Insists Upon Seeing a Client and Finally Succeeds.

Charles Valkenburg, of 44 Rutgers street, was held for trial by Magistrate Simms in the Essex Market Court to-day. At 6 o'clock last night, at a fire at 229 Cherry street, in the rear basement, where a mattress was ignited by a carelessly thrown match or cigar, Valkenburg entered the apartments of William Chopkowitz on the third floor and helped himself to wearing apparel.

PAPA RUPPERT NOT RECONCILED.

Jacob Ruppert, the millionaire brewer, has not become reconciled to the marriage of his daughter, Cornelia, to Nathan Frank, the business manager of the Milwaukee Journal. He was also to attend the wedding at the Hotel Newburgh, where they were to be married. It was reported that they intended to remain until Sunday, none of the bride's family has yet called to see her. Mr. Frank's father, Dr. H. D. Frank, had received congratulations from some of the family. He is filling an engagement at the Casino this week, and leaves Sunday for Chicago.

OLD DOMINION EDITOR DEAD.

AUBURN, N. Y., July 4.—William J. Mason, owner and editor of the Bulletin, and one of the most widely known citizens of this city, died suddenly at his home in Pine street at 7 o'clock this morning of apoplexy. He was also to attend the wedding at the Hotel Newburgh, where they were to be married. He was seventy-three years old. He was postmaster under Cleveland in 1848, and had held a high place in the county of the Democratic party, both State and National.

POLICE SAY IT'S DYNAMITE.

THREE MEN UNDER ARREST.

They Protest Their Innocence—An Expert Investigation Decided Upon.

What they considered as a good Fourth of July joke accounted for the appearance in the Morrisania Police Court this morning of John Crozier, thirty-five years old, a truckman; Charles Vance, twenty-three years old, a carpenter, and Edward Fehring, nineteen years old, a paper hanger.

The trio were charged by Nicholas Taral, proprietor of the "Swan's Inn" at Unionport, in the annexed district, with malicious mischief.

Taral, who is the brother of Fred Taral, the well-known jockey, said he was awakened at 2 o'clock this morning by a terrific explosion that shattered all the windows in his hotel.

He got into his clothes in time to see the three prisoners get into a buggy they had hitched under his shed.

He quickly mounted a horse and pursued the men in the direction of the Westchester village, where he attracted the attention of a policeman and the three men were arrested.

At the same moment Jacob Sohl, who keeps a road house near that of Taral, also ran up.

He said that the men had tried to blow up his house, and that the windows of his place had also been shattered by the explosion.

His wife, he said, was in a critical condition on account of the shock.

The three men deny having been the cause of the explosion.

They said they had neither dynamite nor fireworks in their possession.

The police, in making a search of both buildings, were inclined to believe that dynamite had been used, and they decided to have an expert investigate.

The three men were taken to the station, and afterwards in court were remanded until to-morrow morning for examination.

Suspicion pointed to Crozier as being the party who used the explosives. He is employed by the firm of Bowles & Ferris, who handle all such kinds of material, and he is said to have frequently "had fun" with it before.

Both Crozier and Vance were arrested at White Plains in December, 1888, and indicted there along with many members of what was known as the "Firebug crowd."

Theraig at the time was charged with prize-fighting. Crozier refereeing two fights and Vance with being a principal.

All the parties at the time were bailed out, and none of the cases ever came to trial save one, a saloon-keeper named Thomas Simmons, and he was acquitted.

Sohl has had many difficulties with a number of men, and many quarrels have taken place there. Once before the place was wrecked.

Taral's roadhouse, on the contrary, has always been quiet and neither the "Firebug" Mills nor his brother is known to have had an enemy in the vicinity.

The explosive, whatever its nature, was thrown in front of both buildings, near the stoops of each.

There seems to be no motive whatever for trying to wreck the Taral Inn.

TEXAS ANTI-FIGHT LAW.

Mr. Mills Says the Corbett Battle Will Be a Penal Offense.

WACO, Tex., July 4.—State Representative Mills was denouncing the Corbett fight and the hearing of the statutes of the State thereon, said: "The law of 1889, imposing an occupation tax of $500 on prize-fights, was repealed by the act of 1891, making prize-fighting a penal offense and providing a fine of not less than sixty days nor more than twelve months in jail."

Mr. Mills is the author of the act of 1889 prohibiting prize-fights.
