CONEY ISLAND SPORTING CLUB.
Jan. 1.—The men shook hands at 5 P.M.

FIRST ROUND.

They fiddled and fidgeted for an opening. Both very cautious, McCoy suddenly led with the left and down went Maher. He was up in an instant and the men clinched. Maher just missed vicious left. Maher dazed. Maher swung right. McCoy ducked and Maher fell. In a break McCoy swung viciously for the jaw. Maher landed hard left to face and right on body. Kid grew cautious. McCoy landed hard left to body just as bell rang. McCoy's round.

SECOND ROUND.

Maher's face showed a red mark under the right eye. Maher tried left and right, but missed. McCoy landed left lightly to face. Maher roughed, fighting hard, apparently bent on making a short fight. McCoy swinging on the jaw got Maher off balance and so return. McCoy jabbed Peter hard, and Maher countered him. Maher young for McCoy's jaw after the bell rang. Maher's round.

FIFTH ROUND.

Both men tired. Maher the freshest of the two. Maher forced the fighting and McCoy sent in a hot jab. Then clinched and McCoy landed hard on the jaw in the break. He followed with a right-hand swing on the eye. This put the left and a right on the jaw put Maher in "Quaker Street." Maher staggered about and McCoy sent in left to the stomach. Maher's guard dropped. A sharp swinging hook to the jaw and Maher went to the floor. He rested on his elbow and the referee stood over him counting off the seconds.

The crowd thought that Maher was only taking ten seconds, but his massive frame was inert and nervous. He lay there until White threw up both hands, signifying that time was up. Maher was carried to his corner and the victorious "K.M." with his ever-present sneering smile, walked to his chair. The blow was as clean and pretty knockout as was ever seen. Time 1:22 1/2.

FOURTH ROUND.

Both cautious, Maher landed a hard left swing at McCoy's head. They clinched, roughing very hard. McCoy landed a lead and countered his head. Maher landed right and hard to the jaw. Maher left, pressing the "K.M." to the ropes, sent in two lefts to the stomach without McCoy getting up. Maher escaped right. Maher landed hard to the jaw. Maher was on the ropes again. Maher's round.

THIRD ROUND.

Maher dazed and blinking. "K.M." clinched, roughing very hard. McCoy landed a lead and countered his head. Maher landed right and hard to the jaw. Maher landed hard left to face. Maher roughed, fighting hard, apparently bent on making a short fight. McCoy's round.

LONG DELAY IN START.

Crowd Was Cold and Made a Big Bucket While Waiting for the Fighters.

(Special to The Evening World.)
ATLANTA CONEY ISLAND ATHLETIC CLUB, Jan. 1.

It looked for a time this afternoon as if there might be no fight.

The big crowd sauntered and stamped for an hour after the announced time for the contest to begin before the men actually appeared in the ring.

At 4:15 the fighters had not shown up. The air was full of rumors. In the story concerning the squabble about the referee, it was said that Brady had signed up the house and decided to cut down the purse.

Then Announcer Johnny Dunn jumped into the ring and as soon as order was restored he said: "Gentlemen, The delay has been occasioned by the officials insisting that the purse be put up.

The purse has been put up, and the men will be in the ring in fifteen minutes."

The real situation was this. The house only contained $16,000. Brady offered to give this sum for the fight. McCoy demurred, but Maher was willing. After some talk McCoy agreed to accept, and then another stumbling block appeared.

Then Announcer Johnny Dunn jumped into the ring and as soon as order was restored he said: "Gentlemen, The delay has been occasioned by the officials insisting that the purse be put up.

Then the referee insisted that the purse be put up for the fight. McCoy demurred, but Maher was willing. After some talk McCoy agreed to accept, and then another stumbling block appeared.
