All Paris Laughing Over the Two-Minute Cry Which Wrung $1,600,000 from the Reluctant Goulds and Washed Out Castellane's Debts.

TEAR, n. (physiological definition)—A drop of the liquid matter secreted, normally in small amount, by the lacrimal gland, and used to facilitate their motion. Occasionally the secretion passes through the lacrimal duct into the eye, but when increased by emotion or other cause, it overflows the lids.—Webster's Dictionary.

COUNTESS DE CASTELLANE.

This house is to be let for life or years. Her rent is sorrow and her income tears. Cupid has long stood still; her bills make known. She must be dearly let or let alone. FRANCIS QUARLES, 1600.

CROKER BETS $20,000 TO $50,000 ON BRYAN

Biggest Wager of Campaign Laid with Banker L. W. Wormser.

Richard Croker's confidence in the probability of William Jennings Bryan's election is represented by $20,000 in cold cash. The Tammany leader's conviction of Democratic success is deep rooted. Even the most inveterate gambler would hesitate about separating himself from $20,000 on a basis of hope.

Says Morton Was Freed Because Friends Interceded and It Was His First Offense.

How Pretty Minnie Lee La Vay Pleaded to the Judge for Morton's Release.

As to the extraordinary action of the Court in setting free a self-confessed and convicted embezzler of $50,000, Robert B. Morton, through the pleadings of a young, beautiful and talented girl, Judge McMahon says that his disposition of the case was strictly within the law.

The statutes, he says, give him the power to suspend sentence in a case like Morton's, and he did so at the earnest solicitation of friends, including clergymen.

Miss Minnie Lee La Vay is the girl who brought about the freedom of Morton in General Sessions week ago.

Morton confessed to Miss La Vay that he had falsified the books of his employers, Edward Hill's Sons & Co., but that he did it to protect a friend, who is even now employed by the firm and who was many times more guilty than he.

Miss La Vay told Judge McMahon the story and pleaded for Morton's release.

The spectacle of a self-confessed and convicted criminal walking out of court a free man was at the time amazing and mysterious.

The District-Attorney's representative recommended that sentence be suspended, and this, with a tearful letter from the man's mother and the petitions of friends, brought about the strange result.

Morton confessed also to having been false as a trustee of a little $6,000 estate. The firm which had been mulcted of so much money were astonished at the Court's decision and Bartow S. Weeks, private counsel for the firm, was as much surprised.

BALLYHOO BEY, RIDDEN FOUL.

Sloan Won Flatbush and His Unclean Tactics Were Whitewashed.

(Special to The Evening World.) SHEPHERDS BAY RACE TRACK, Sept. 1.—The running of the Flatbush stakes, which once more brought about a duel between the powerful stables of Messrs. Keene and Whitney, drew a large addition to the usual Saturday crowd.

NOT HIS SWEETHEART.

And the strangest element in this mysterious case is that Miss La Vay and Morton are not in love with each other. Morton is engaged to a very estimable young woman who, through his trial, has worked and suffered for him.
