Police Searching for Servant Who Took Little Freda Lauroesch for an Airing, and Is Supposed to Have First Robbed Child's Mother.

What may prove to be another kidnapping case like that of little Marion Clark, stirred up the police of the entire city this afternoon. They are searching for a servant, Emma Lang, who disappeared from the home of her employer, Mrs. Minnie Lauroesch, at 269 Columbus avenue, at 7 o'clock this morning with Mrs. Lauroesch's three-year-old daughter Freda.

J. B. Brown, West Brighton S. I. Mrs. Lauroesch is a widow and lived in the rear of her store with her eleven-year-old son Otto and little Freda. Early this morning Mrs. Lauroesch was awakened by Emma Lang, who said burglars were about.

The $5 Mrs. Lauroesch had under her pillow was gone. Policemen were called. They said it was impossible for burglars to have been about, for all the doors and windows were locked on the inside. At 7 o'clock this morning the servant said she was going on an errand and offered to take the baby in hergo-cart. Nothing has been seen of woman, child or go-cart since.

THE DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION. GAG RULE OVER AN ICE TRUST MOTION.

Prof. Lee's Resolution Sent a Cold Blast Over the Bosses and Lesser Lights Assembled.

Croker, Murphy, Carroll and other delegates to the Democratic Convention were thrown into confusion to-day when Delegate Lee, of Tompkins, sprang a resolution condemning the Ice Trust. Gag rule was quickly applied, and the motion, before it could even be read to the Convention, was smothered by laying it with a bang on the table.

THE CONVENTION. Ice Trust Motion Tabled—Cheers for Murphy, Croker and Hill—Adjourned. CONVENTION HALL, SARATOGA, Sept. 11.—The opening session of the Democratic State Convention to-day by its undeniable enthusiasm, partly machine made though it was, declared beyond expression of doubt that ex-Senator Edward Murphy, of Troy, has replaced as the party's leader in the State his former political side partner, David B. Hill, of Albany.

fail of Hill and the triumph of Croker and Murphy. It was a moment of supreme happiness for the great white chief of Tammany. Throughout the session he sat with his jaws firm set, a grim look upon his face. Only once did his expression relax. That was when the convention led by Tammany arose to cheer the name of Murphy, exalted by some other than Croker himself. The face of the boss at that moment, relaxed.

came together with a hearty whack, thereby setting the official approval of Tammany Hall upon the proclaimed ascension of the "silent" Murphy to the chair of Hill. Murphy, seemingly oblivious to his honor, sat with bent head, a newspaper in his hands. It was perhaps the happiest moment of his political career. MARTIAL LAW HAS BEEN PROCLAIMED. DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 11.—A bulletin received at noon states that Gov. Sayers has placed Galveston City and Island under martial law.

HOW TO GET SUPPLIES TO WORLD RELIEF TRAIN. Do you wish to contribute to The World's Special Relief Train for the Galveston sufferers? If so, send your contributions of clothing, food supplies, etc., to the New York Central Railroad's freight depot at St. John's Park, Hudson and Light streets. Address packages to "World Relief Special No. 1."

MERCHANTS TO ACT. A call for a special meeting on next Thursday has been issued by the Chamber of Commerce to provide relief for the residents of Galveston and other places on the Texas coast swept by the recent hurricane.

As it was impossible to reach the Mayor of Galveston by wire yesterday, the Merchants' Association sent a message to Joseph D. Sayers, Governor of Texas, at Austin, and this morning received the following reply: "Telegram of this date received. Any contributions received from New York will be fully appreciated and continually remembered by the people of Texas. Please make all remittances to me."

MAYOR VAN WYCK'S APPEAL FOR AID. Mayor Van Wyck to-day issued the following appeal for aid for the Galveston sufferers: City of New York, Office of the Mayor, Sept. 11, 1900. To the People of the City of New York:

All reports from Texas show that an appalling disaster has befallen the city of Galveston and adjacent towns; that hundreds, if not thousands, of lives have been lost; that a multitude of people have been reduced to privation and want; that industry has been paralyzed and that a condition of the utmost distress prevails as a result of the fearful work of the cyclone and the sea. No word has yet been received at this office from Galveston itself, but I have the following telegram from Mayor S. E. Brashear, of the nearby city of Houston: "Galveston cut off from all communication; great suffering and loss of life known to exist there; damage beyond description. Aid should be sent to Houston, which is the nearest base of supplies, and for furnishing help have good organization effected." This further corroborates the details of the calamity. The need for help is most urgent. I therefore appeal to the ever kind and charitable people of the city of New York to respond generously and with that promptness which the enormous demands of the situation seem to require to aid the sufferers by the Galveston disaster in every way that lies in their power. Contributions may be sent to this office, and they will be acknowledged and promptly forwarded through the proper channels to the relief of the afflicted. In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my seal of office, this 11th day of September, A. D. One thousand nine hundred. ROBERT A. VAN WYCK, Mayor. The following telegram was sent to the Mayor of Houston: "Sept. 11, 1900. Hon. S. E. Brashear, Mayor, Houston, Tex.: "In response to your telegram I have issued a call to the people of New York to contribute to the relief
