

THE KNOCKER'S COLUMN. A FEW RAPS AT THE SPORTS.

"FOOTBALL FACE" VERSUS "FIGHTING FACE," COMPARED BY PHYSICAL CULTURE EXPERT.

CAPT. STARBUCK'S FOOTBALL FACE.

The Pigskin Chaser's Visage Shows as Much Physical Wear and Brutality as Does that of the Boxer.

White boxing exhibitions are forbidden by law in this State, football flourishes untrammelled. Disgruntled pugilists claim that such a thing is unfair and that boxing or fighting, for that matter, is far less injurious and brutal than are the thirty to thirty-five minutes of unrelenting, merciless slugging, ransacking, tumbling and wrestling that go to make up each football ball.

Prof. Attila Gives His Views as to the Relative Advantages and Tendencies of the Two Popular Athletic Sports.

It is almost a sin to speak of football and boxing in the same breath. In the former there is nothing, while in the latter there is everything which goes to improve a man's physical make-up. But first I will show that there are no physical advantages in football playing.

AS TO BOXING. Well, no nobler sport ever existed. It was practiced thousands and thousands of years ago. Men have grown to be heroes through it. It was not always known as boxing, but it was the same thing. It is a sport in which a man's individual ability is shown. It is mainly to be a good boxer is to attain glory. Its good effects are lasting. Those of football are not. To be beaten at boxing is no disgrace.

TERRY MCGOVERN'S FIGHTING FACE.

BOXING LESS PERILOUS.

A comparison of the casualties of the two sports shows the advantage of the former. In football there are many serious and fatal accidents, while in boxing such accidents are almost as rare as a white horse.

When Parliament meets in England it would not be surprising if a law were enacted forbidding the immigration of American jockeys.

Well, we haven't heard many laments from football training camps yet. Nearly every candidate is said to be in good condition, but it may be allowed to refer to fighting as was "Kid" McCoy up to a day before his fight with Jim Corbett.

Tom Sharkey was a very much disappointed man on Saturday night when he discovered that Tom O'Rourke, the ex-champion, had a few years of wife.

"I won't forget Tom for this near trick," said the ex-Savior, with tears in his eyes. "For when he opened his new cafe I went up there and how many money in by buying several quarts of champagne."

Tom O'Rourke is again telling of a fighting with which he is more or less acquainted. It was a fight between two men, one of whom was a veteran.

There is a degree of tolerance about the information regarding the place, but he says that the club will be situated either in Hoboken or Guttenberg. Wherever it is, it is sure to be in a place where there will be away entirely.
