

STRONG BOX AS MYTH.

Defaulting Bank Clerk Has No Money in Bank Vaults-- Mrs. Hart Returns.

Mrs. Anna Hart, the girl who so ably assisted in the dispersal of $105,000, stolen from the Elizabethport bank by her admirer, William Schriber, has come from her hiding place and returned to her sumptuous apartments in the Sherman, 155 West Forty-eighth street.

NO STRONG BOX.

Meanwhile it looks as though the $250,000 Schriber's credit in the New American Bank will be the sum total there. The cashier said this morning that Schriber had no strong box in the vaults, but that the box accredited to him belonged to another man of the same name.

$3,000 MORE STOLEN.

Another discovery was made today at the Elizabethport bank, which increases the stealings of defaulter Schriber to $109,716.

Several months ago an envelope containing $3,000 in the United States bonds was placed for safekeeping in the bank by a resident of Elizabeth.

When he called at the bank today for the deposit it was found the envelope had been carefully slit open and the bonds abstracted.

Judge Gilhooley, the bank's attorney, said the institution was responsible and the loss would be made good at the next meeting of the Board of Directors.

Mrs. Hart had a talk with Deputy Rinn and that gentleman immediately announced that he would not touch anything of "hers" unless the bank put up a bond to twice the value of the seizure.

That constituted Mrs. Hart's last bluff. The bankers called it. Their first direction was to Lawyer Abraham Levy, in the Pulitzer Building, to take steps to have the woman arrested for criminal conspiracy.

STOCKS WERE MORE LIVELY.

Bulls Controlled at the Opening of the Market.

The stock market was more active today and prices opened about 1 1/2 per cent. higher.

The bulls had everything their own way at the start and the figures began to mount up after the opening session.

Manhattan was strong and after opening 1 1/2 per cent. gain in four days and 1 1/2 per cent. in Northern Pacific while Baltimore & Ohio was not far behind with an advance of 1 1/4 per cent.

Railroad shares were particularly buoyant and in demand, showing gains of 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 per cent.

Government bonds were strong, the new 4 per cent. advance 1 1/2 per cent. while railroad bonds were dull.

There was a temporary hesitation because of the heavy declines in bank reserves, indicated by the preliminary estimates.

YOUNG BRIDE OF AN OLD MAN AND A WOMAN WHO FLEES LOVE

Miss Campbell, of This City, Is Wedded to Daniel K. Baker, Septuagenarian, and "Joe" Leiter, Twice Refused, Follows Mrs. Le Roy Across the Ocean.

MRS. MARION M'KAY LE ROY.

Daniel Kellogg Baker, who is seventy, won a young and pretty bride, while "Joe" Leiter, who is not yet thirty and a very desirable fellow, has having been twice refused by the lady of his heart, followed her over the ocean in the hope that he may have more success in his suit in Paris.

The fortunate Mrs. Baker, who is wealthy and connected with the National Wall-Paper Company, led to the altar of the Fifth Avenue Collegiate Church yesterday Miss Catherine Parr Campbell, the charming daughter of William Campbell, of 26 West Ninety-first street.

"Joe" Leiter wants Mrs. Marion McKay Le Roy to be his bride. But the fair divorcee is coy, and though "Joe" proposed to her all the way from Chicago to this city, when she landed in the Grand Central station her "no" was just as decided as when he first asked her.

She forbade him to take the same steamer on which she had engaged passage. But he took the next, just the same, saying to a friend: "I'll have that girl, or die in the attempt!"

All of which is very dramatic and romantic, as such things should be, even when "Philly" young "Chicago" is the actor.

Board of Estimate Favors the Plan Worked in Boston.

The future management and control of the city's libraries was the question under discussion at the meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment today. Last year a similar session was held, with the latter libraries organized into the group that branches are treated as part of the parent library, and a smaller amount allowed for books beyond a 50,000 circulation than under.

John S. Billings, director of the New York Public Library, advocated the establishment of a commission to consist of the Comptroller, the Chairman of the Board of Directors of the New York Library and such other members as might be deemed advisable to consider the question of uniting all the small libraries in the city under one head.

He was also in favor of consolidation, and the Mayor remarked that the Board could favor the smaller concerns to join the others by doing up their application for help. It was also the opinion of members of the board that an allowance of six and one-half cents a volume for all books put in circulation should be allowed each library, except in the case of the library for the blind, which will be paid the full amount (10 cents) provided by law.

Henry W. Lovell Thoughtlessly Sat on a Sky-light.

Henry W. Lovell, fifty years old, met instant death this morning by a peculiar accident at his place of business, 72 Reade street.

He was formerly a shoe manufacturer of Lynn, Mass., where his family resides. Lately he had acted as general sales agent in this city for a number of Lynn shoe manufacturers. His show rooms were on the first floor of the Reade street building under the name of the Lovell Shoe Company.

In the room a skylight 6 feet in length and over 2 feet wide, resting about 2 feet from the floor, it chanced light on a scale of wages, which remained in place for one year, thus removing the cause of strikes and lockouts.

He placed his hands on the side and swung himself up. He sat in too far, and landing in the center of one of the panes, he crashed through the glass to the floor below before Mr. Haskell could grab him.

Mr. Lovell fell through twenty feet space before he landed head foremost on the floor below. His head was crushed and in death was almost instantaneous.

Word was sent by business friends to his widow and two children, in Lynn, where the body will be removed to-day. Mr. Lovell's city address was 35 West Sixty-fifth street.

MINERS NOT LIKELY TO END BIG STRIKE.

Convention Seems to Be Bent on More Concessions--Mitchell's Speech.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 12.—When the miners' convention met this afternoon after recess the general impression that the strike would not be called off but that further demands would be made by the strikers was much stronger.

The talk of the leading spirits was all for demanding further concessions. One thousand miners' delegates met in convention here to-day to consider the terms offered by the operators and decide whether the strike should continue or not.

President Mitchell called the big meeting to order and made a speech in which he said: "In considering the proposition of the operators I want the delegates attending this convention to be calm and dispassionate, to consider the question in all its phases, to measure carefully the chances of success and the possibilities of defeat should the strike be continued."

Miners Must Not Be Hasty. "You must not reach conclusions hastily, you must not overestimate your strength, and on the other hand you should take every precaution to protect yourselves against the avariciousness of your employers, who, I regret to say, have shown no disposition to treat you fairly in the past and who have never shown any regard for the welfare of those who produce their wealth."

For the first time in many years the operators have recognized your demands for better conditions of employment, and have offered an advance of 10 per cent. in your wages.

I am well aware that this advance is not satisfactory to you. You have felt, and with justice, that a definite period of time should be named during which this advance should remain in force.

Whether it is better at this time to insist upon a compliance with all your demands is a question which you are most interested in, are called upon to decide.

Personally I have hoped that we should be able at some time to establish the same method of adjusting wage differences as now exists in the bituminous coal regions, where employers and miners meet to talk over the conditions of a new contract, and like prudent, sensible business men, mutually agree upon a scale of wages, which remains in force for one year, thus removing the cause of strikes and lockouts.

Labor Unions Here to Stay. "Labor organizations, like labor-saving machinery, are here to stay. Capital is not going to get rid of them, nor will they be because of their great power retard the growth of organizations for a time, but they will grow and they will rise again, and will give battle in the future."

Admiral Melville Exchanges Compliments Over Swift Wisconsin. WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Engineer-in-Chief Melville, whose bureau designed the engines of the Wisconsin, has received the following telegram from President Scott, of the Union Iron Works, where the big ship was located.

THE MINERS' SIX DEMANDS.

- First—Recognition of the union. Second—Powder reduced to $1.50. Third—Ten per cent. general advance. Fourth—Two weeks' pay. Fifth—Check docking box. Sixth—A contract signed by the companies agreeing to the above, to hold good for one year.

Every one seems impressed with the conviction that the end of the strike is not slight. The strikers' demands are practically in a majority. They will insist on better terms from the operators. It is certain that no operators will not give the men another concession unless driven by strong outside pressure.

Plans for ending the struggle quickly are being formulated and will be ready in the secret session. One of the first things to be done is to get the operators to force the hands of the strikers, and if no success is attained to then accept the present advance.

Another that is mentioned with more favor is to place the settlement of the strike entirely in the hands of a committee to be appointed by the convention, which will be instructed to work for a definite period of time, to be fixed by the convention and use its judgment in effecting a working compromise with the mine bosses.

It is said here that the convention was the scene of discussion at a meeting of the strikers in New York yesterday at which it was determined to give the men no further concessions than the 10 per cent. advance. The main objectors to prolonging the strike come from the districts where the pinch of hunger is already felt. Other men, however, who are in favor of the strike, are growing restive over their long wait.

Identity of the Well-Gowned Woman Found Drunk Unsolved. The identity of the well-gowned woman who was arrested near McGowan's Pass Tavern in Central Park last night while so intoxicated that she could not help herself, and who gave the name of Mrs. Mary Ann, is still a mystery.

She refused point blank to tell Magistrate Zeller her real name in Harlem Court today.

A man who said he was Mr. Maas, and who he said to be a clerk in the Court of Special Sessions, went to court with her. He is the same man who furnished a bondman for her last night.
