

DISHONOR.

A Story of Two Women's Love for One Man.

From "The Dishonor of Frank Scott."

Barbara Ford, daughter of a dead army officer, is on her way to India to marry a wealthy...

CHAPTER II. Temptation! "Well, said Frank, 'It's over—I've seen her—and I feel a beast.'"

Barbara had stood a little aloof from her husband, holding herself away from his caressing arms, but she could not resist him long.

When he said "Darling, you are not going to be unkind to me," she yielded and kissed him passionately.

There was no question of telling her anything," he said; "you don't know, and I don't realize, how ill she is, she looks like death, poor little thing, she had to be half lifted into the carriage, and fainted as we were helping her out."

Frank was distressed and shaken; he had the experience of illness, and Violet's little weakness had come as a shock to him.

"I had no idea anybody could look so ill," he said.

A month had passed since Barbara came to Rahore.

The story of her marriage was yet untold, though scandal had begun whispering in low tones of the handsome, unexpected woman at Gray's Hotel, whom "Fluffy" Scott visited so often.

Meantime Violet Cooke, who had been travelling in a vain attempt to check the ravages of consumption, had come home, remaining there every day.

Scott had promised Barbara to tell Violet all their love affair—his and Violet's—she said, but a mere boy and girl understanding did not amount to a real engagement.

It would be easy to explain matters to her and to hearts would be broken.

"I'll tell you, but I'll tell you in a way that will not hurt you," said Barbara, "and I'll tell you in a way that will not hurt you."

"I'll tell you, but I'll tell you in a way that will not hurt you," said Barbara, "and I'll tell you in a way that will not hurt you."

"I'll tell you, but I'll tell you in a way that will not hurt you," said Barbara, "and I'll tell you in a way that will not hurt you."

"I'll tell you, but I'll tell you in a way that will not hurt you," said Barbara, "and I'll tell you in a way that will not hurt you."

"I'll tell you, but I'll tell you in a way that will not hurt you," said Barbara, "and I'll tell you in a way that will not hurt you."

"I'll tell you, but I'll tell you in a way that will not hurt you," said Barbara, "and I'll tell you in a way that will not hurt you."

"I'll tell you, but I'll tell you in a way that will not hurt you," said Barbara, "and I'll tell you in a way that will not hurt you."

"I'll tell you, but I'll tell you in a way that will not hurt you," said Barbara, "and I'll tell you in a way that will not hurt you."

"I'll tell you, but I'll tell you in a way that will not hurt you," said Barbara, "and I'll tell you in a way that will not hurt you."

NELL GWYN'S SUDDEN LEAP TO FAME SURPRISES ALL BROADWAY.

MISS HENRIETTA CROSMAN.

Latest Star in the Theatrical World—After Years of Struggling on the Road Puts All of the Old Favorites in the Shade.

The theatrical history of New York is probably not destined to show any happy results. When an unknown woman can go into a dark house, like the Bijou, and win such a clientele as did this frail actress, failure can never be hers.

She wrote to Mr. Elliser and asked for an appointment and this resulted in a meeting in Pittsburgh, Miss Crosman coming from Youngstown, O., where she was then living.

When she arrived in Pittsburgh she was introduced to Mr. Elliser, and after a short conversation the manager asked her to recite something. She was not prepared for this, so Mr. Elliser took her to his home and studied "something" for her.

Three years ago Miss Crosman played devoted herself to emotional work, and it is Charles Frohman Miss Crosman that must thank for showing her the way to success.

Then came several years of varied experience and at last an engagement in New York. First at Daniel Frohman's Lyceum Theatre for a season and then at the late Augustin Daly's.

It was on June 3 of this year that she produced "Gloria," which was announced with Miss Crosman in the title role. It is not necessary to remind one of the success that was made in this comedy, for it ran for months in New York.

She was possessed of an exceptional talent, her voice and her acting were of the highest order, and her earnestness to forge ahead she ruined her voice.

Miss Crosman herself her mother say that her uncle, Morrison, a brother of Stephen C. Potter, the famous actor, who was a friend of her father's, had seen her in a play and was then managing the Grand Opera House in Pittsburgh.

And that very same night—Tuesday, it was the treasurer of the Manhattan Theatre, who had seen her in a play and was then managing the Grand Opera House in Pittsburgh.

Several years ago I met a former slave-owner at the principal grocery store of Newport News, Va. The evening previous he had attended a performance of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at the Soldiers' Home, at Hampton.

Looking at it calmly and dispassionately, why is it hard-working persons who want to get a play-house when they can buy an entire volume devoted to septuaginta, or some other poisonous ill, for a cent at a bargain sale in a department store?

These French farces appear to be all alike. I had occasion several weeks ago to call "The Husbands of Leontine" unclean and unwholesome. Dr. Murphy and his Board of Health took no official action, and the corrupt Leontine remained in the crowded district of Twenty-fourth street any of these days.

And I fancy this gentleman would have felt the same way had he seen "Self and Lady" at the Madison Square Theatre last night. It is one of those plays where you give devout thanks you are weaklings.

There are a number of plays in the catalogue of the programme of the Madison Square Theatre which I purposely refrain from naming any of them.

Found with Another Woman, He Answered Proteus with Blows. Jacob Nabel, of Manhattan, was fined $50 in the Court of Special Sessions at New Brighton, S. I., last evening for assaulting his wife, from whom he is separated.

Killed by a Train. James L. Backrider, twenty-six years old, of 265 Fifth street, Jersey City, a brakeman in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, was run over by a freight train and killed in the railroad yard in Jersey City early this morning.

She wrote to Mr. Elliser and asked for an appointment and this resulted in a meeting in Pittsburgh, Miss Crosman coming from Youngstown, O., where she was then living.

When she arrived in Pittsburgh she was introduced to Mr. Elliser, and after a short conversation the manager asked her to recite something. She was not prepared for this, so Mr. Elliser took her to his home and studied "something" for her.

Three years ago Miss Crosman played devoted herself to emotional work, and it is Charles Frohman Miss Crosman that must thank for showing her the way to success.

Then came several years of varied experience and at last an engagement in New York. First at Daniel Frohman's Lyceum Theatre for a season and then at the late Augustin Daly's.

She was possessed of an exceptional talent, her voice and her acting were of the highest order, and her earnestness to forge ahead she ruined her voice.

Miss Crosman herself her mother say that her uncle, Morrison, a brother of Stephen C. Potter, the famous actor, who was a friend of her father's, had seen her in a play and was then managing the Grand Opera House in Pittsburgh.

And that very same night—Tuesday, it was the treasurer of the Manhattan Theatre, who had seen her in a play and was then managing the Grand Opera House in Pittsburgh.

Several years ago I met a former slave-owner at the principal grocery store of Newport News, Va. The evening previous he had attended a performance of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at the Soldiers' Home, at Hampton.

Looking at it calmly and dispassionately, why is it hard-working persons who want to get a play-house when they can buy an entire volume devoted to septuaginta, or some other poisonous ill, for a cent at a bargain sale in a department store?

These French farces appear to be all alike. I had occasion several weeks ago to call "The Husbands of Leontine" unclean and unwholesome. Dr. Murphy and his Board of Health took no official action, and the corrupt Leontine remained in the crowded district of Twenty-fourth street any of these days.

And I fancy this gentleman would have felt the same way had he seen "Self and Lady" at the Madison Square Theatre last night. It is one of those plays where you give devout thanks you are weaklings.

There are a number of plays in the catalogue of the programme of the Madison Square Theatre which I purposely refrain from naming any of them.

Found with Another Woman, He Answered Proteus with Blows. Jacob Nabel, of Manhattan, was fined $50 in the Court of Special Sessions at New Brighton, S. I., last evening for assaulting his wife, from whom he is separated.

Killed by a Train. James L. Backrider, twenty-six years old, of 265 Fifth street, Jersey City, a brakeman in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, was run over by a freight train and killed in the railroad yard in Jersey City early this morning.

Found with Another Woman, He Answered Proteus with Blows. Jacob Nabel, of Manhattan, was fined $50 in the Court of Special Sessions at New Brighton, S. I., last evening for assaulting his wife, from whom he is separated.

Killed by a Train. James L. Backrider, twenty-six years old, of 265 Fifth street, Jersey City, a brakeman in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, was run over by a freight train and killed in the railroad yard in Jersey City early this morning.

T. KELLY. 263 SIXTH AVE. (Entrance through Furniture Store.) Men's Nobby Fall Suits.

We are offering a special for Saturday in Men's Sack Suits for fall wear. They are made of Worsteds, Cheviots and Cassimeres, finished as excellently as custom made, nicely lined, all splendid patterns, single or double breasted, well worth $22.00, special for cash or on credit.

16.00

Liberal CREDIT System. PAY A LITTLE EACH WEEK. LADIES' NEW FALL GARMENTS.

Our stock of Ladies' Suits, jackets, Silk Waists, Skirts, etc., for Fall wear is now ready. You will find our prices to be as low as any house in New York or Brooklyn, besides the convenience of buying on credit the same as for cash.

468-470 FULTON ST., BROOKLYN, UPSTAIRS.

Daniell's. BARGAINS IN Men's Underclothing. Made to wear well, every detail of finish being carefully attended to.

At 75c. each; Usually sold at $1.25.

200 dozen heavy silk finished Balbriggan Shirts and drawers, salmon color, 85c. each; Usually sold at $1.35.

300 dozen medium weight fleeced Shirts and Drawers, in camel's hair and grey color, At 39c. each; Usually sold at 50c.

COUPLE PARTS AGAIN. Married and Divorced and Then Wed a Second Time.

After two weddings and two marriages there is now to be a second divorce between William H. Parsons, a former stock broker of this city, and his wife, Sophia B. Parsons.

A report recommending a decree is now in the hands of the Supreme Court from Thomas M. Adams, who heard the case as referee. The suit was brought by Mrs. Parsons.

The couple was first married on April 1, 1888, at Northampton, Mass. Mrs. Parsons alleges that several years later her husband had a love affair with a girl who could find no trace of him in the 1892.

On Thanksgiving Day, 1896, while at the home of her mother, Mrs. Parsons received a telegram, bearing her husband's name, in which he stated that he was on his way to New York.

At the time the woman went to live in Hartford, but several months later there was further trouble, and they separated in April, 1897. Mrs. Parsons brought suit for a separation, alleging that her husband had treated her with cruelty, and later Mrs. Parsons sued for an absolute divorce.

Girl Whose Disappearance Caused a Stir Worked as Servant. Pretty Lottie Richter, seventeen years old, of Hudson avenue and Fourth street, Guttenberg, N. J., whose disappearance caused a stir in Northern New Jersey two weeks ago, returned home today.

Lottie Richter, today, "I went away just because of a little quarrel I had with my parents. The girl was charged, and she was a innocent family, she was located by her father, who took her home.

MURPHY HAD SUCH A DREAD OF SARGENT'S KNIFE THAT HE COMMITTED SUICIDE. CORTELAND, N. Y., Oct. 12.—William Murphy, of Homer, twenty-three years old, took poison last night and died within fifteen minutes.

He had been a physician's care for a few days and was somewhat better, but he had expressed great dread of an operation and it is believed committed suicide to avoid it.

WIFE BEATER FINED. Found with Another Woman, He Answered Proteus with Blows. Jacob Nabel, of Manhattan, was fined $50 in the Court of Special Sessions at New Brighton, S. I., last evening for assaulting his wife, from whom he is separated.

Killed by a Train. James L. Backrider, twenty-six years old, of 265 Fifth street, Jersey City, a brakeman in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, was run over by a freight train and killed in the railroad yard in Jersey City early this morning.

Found with Another Woman, He Answered Proteus with Blows. Jacob Nabel, of Manhattan, was fined $50 in the Court of Special Sessions at New Brighton, S. I., last evening for assaulting his wife, from whom he is separated.

Killed by a Train. James L. Backrider, twenty-six years old, of 265 Fifth street, Jersey City, a brakeman in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, was run over by a freight train and killed in the railroad yard in Jersey City early this morning.

Found with Another Woman, He Answered Proteus with Blows. Jacob Nabel, of Manhattan, was fined $50 in the Court of Special Sessions at New Brighton, S. I., last evening for assaulting his wife, from whom he is separated.

Killed by a Train. James L. Backrider, twenty-six years old, of 265 Fifth street, Jersey City, a brakeman in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, was run over by a freight train and killed in the railroad yard in Jersey City early this morning.

Found with Another Woman, He Answered Proteus with Blows. Jacob Nabel, of Manhattan, was fined $50 in the Court of Special Sessions at New Brighton, S. I., last evening for assaulting his wife, from whom he is separated.

Killed by a Train. James L. Backrider, twenty-six years old, of 265 Fifth street, Jersey City, a brakeman in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, was run over by a freight train and killed in the railroad yard in Jersey City early this morning.

Found with Another Woman, He Answered Proteus with Blows. Jacob Nabel, of Manhattan, was fined $50 in the Court of Special Sessions at New Brighton, S. I., last evening for assaulting his wife, from whom he is separated.

Killed by a Train. James L. Backrider, twenty-six years old, of 265 Fifth street, Jersey City, a brakeman in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, was run over by a freight train and killed in the railroad yard in Jersey City early this morning.

UNLUCKY THIRTEEN IN "SELF AND LADY."

Several years ago I met a former slave-owner at the principal grocery store of Newport News, Va. The evening previous he had attended a performance of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at the Soldiers' Home, at Hampton.

Looking at it calmly and dispassionately, why is it hard-working persons who want to get a play-house when they can buy an entire volume devoted to septuaginta, or some other poisonous ill, for a cent at a bargain sale in a department store?

These French farces appear to be all alike. I had occasion several weeks ago to call "The Husbands of Leontine" unclean and unwholesome. Dr. Murphy and his Board of Health took no official action, and the corrupt Leontine remained in the crowded district of Twenty-fourth street any of these days.

And I fancy this gentleman would have felt the same way had he seen "Self and Lady" at the Madison Square Theatre last night. It is one of those plays where you give devout thanks you are weaklings.

There are a number of plays in the catalogue of the programme of the Madison Square Theatre which I purposely refrain from naming any of them.

Found with Another Woman, He Answered Proteus with Blows. Jacob Nabel, of Manhattan, was fined $50 in the Court of Special Sessions at New Brighton, S. I., last evening for assaulting his wife, from whom he is separated.

Killed by a Train. James L. Backrider, twenty-six years old, of 265 Fifth street, Jersey City, a brakeman in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, was run over by a freight train and killed in the railroad yard in Jersey City early this morning.

Found with Another Woman, He Answered Proteus with Blows. Jacob Nabel, of Manhattan, was fined $50 in the Court of Special Sessions at New Brighton, S. I., last evening for assaulting his wife, from whom he is separated.

Killed by a Train. James L. Backrider, twenty-six years old, of 265 Fifth street, Jersey City, a brakeman in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, was run over by a freight train and killed in the railroad yard in Jersey City early this morning.

Found with Another Woman, He Answered Proteus with Blows. Jacob Nabel, of Manhattan, was fined $50 in the Court of Special Sessions at New Brighton, S. I., last evening for assaulting his wife, from whom he is separated.

IN WOMAN'S KINGDOM.

THE fashionable feminine lunch order is now bread and milk as the beginning, whatever may follow.

For the service are the prettiest china bowls imaginable, the edges ruffled and raised until they resemble lovely flowers.

These French farces appear to be all alike. I had occasion several weeks ago to call "The Husbands of Leontine" unclean and unwholesome. Dr. Murphy and his Board of Health took no official action, and the corrupt Leontine remained in the crowded district of Twenty-fourth street any of these days.

And I fancy this gentleman would have felt the same way had he seen "Self and Lady" at the Madison Square Theatre last night. It is one of those plays where you give devout thanks you are weaklings.

There are a number of plays in the catalogue of the programme of the Madison Square Theatre which I purposely refrain from naming any of them.

Found with Another Woman, He Answered Proteus with Blows. Jacob Nabel, of Manhattan, was fined $50 in the Court of Special Sessions at New Brighton, S. I., last evening for assaulting his wife, from whom he is separated.

Killed by a Train. James L. Backrider, twenty-six years old, of 265 Fifth street, Jersey City, a brakeman in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, was run over by a freight train and killed in the railroad yard in Jersey City early this morning.

Found with Another Woman, He Answered Proteus with Blows. Jacob Nabel, of Manhattan, was fined $50 in the Court of Special Sessions at New Brighton, S. I., last evening for assaulting his wife, from whom he is separated.

Killed by a Train. James L. Backrider, twenty-six years old, of 265 Fifth street, Jersey City, a brakeman in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, was run over by a freight train and killed in the railroad yard in Jersey City early this morning.

Found with Another Woman, He Answered Proteus with Blows. Jacob Nabel, of Manhattan, was fined $50 in the Court of Special Sessions at New Brighton, S. I., last evening for assaulting his wife, from whom he is separated.

CHILDREN AND CURLS. CANNOT understand," says a sensible woman, "why mothers who use artificial means to crimp and curl their children's hair. It is all right for the older people, who seem to need it, but I feel unhappy when I see a child tortured into unnatural curves or angles. It is quite as often angles as curves, and they show plainly that nature has not bent at all."

Children have pretty, round faces and fine skins, and do not need artificial softness to their faces which the older people seem to think we need. It is a positive disfigurement in my eyes to see a child who shows artificial crimps, and I know how the little thing must have suffered to get them.

Queer Names of Places. Wolf River, Bumblebee Lane, Turkey Ridge, Northern Lights, Beaverville and Lake Hour are localities in Douglas County, Kan.

California Lemons. After ten years of costly experiments lemon growing has become one of the most profitable industries of California.

Money for the many in Sunday's World Wants.

Money for the many in Sunday's World Wants.

ASKING TOO MUCH. Humility's stream flowed by. Not a word I got the whole of the day.

"It's weary work," said I. "I came to beg at the break of dawn."

I've begged till the sun has set, And what do I want, poor wretch forlorn? Why, more than I'll ever get."

When Fate came by, "It would seem," said he, "You have sat for a longish time, And perhaps you might, or, at least, I'll see. Our bounty is most sublime. But come, what is it, before I go?"

"I answered him, 'To forget.' "My dear good soul," he replied, "you know That's more than you'll ever get!"

Money for the many in Sunday's World Wants.

Money for the many in Sunday's World Wants.

A WOMAN'S THOUGHTS. SLEEP is a great beautifier. How do men ever get along without a nap?

Neatness is one of the most attractive of feminine attributes to a man. To be popular you must be willing to be taught a great many things you already know.

"Men," observes an up-to-date novel, "are but poor prophets in the strange country of a woman's mind."

A man who has been long in the business says that there are more cranks coming to butcher shops than you'll find anywhere else.

Many women comfort themselves with the belief that no matter how bad their children are those of their friends are worse.

Money for the many in Sunday's World Wants.

Money for the many in Sunday's World Wants.

CONCERT SEASON OPENS. Schumann-Heink, than whom there is no singer more popular with local audiences, opened the concert season yesterday afternoon in a recital at Carnegie Hall. Leonard Jackson, the violinist, was a joint participant with her.

The audience was as large as a reasonably be expected for the middle of October, and it was generous in applause. Flowers, too, were bestowed upon performers in abundance. There were a few days and nights in the singer's work, but she sang with her wonted liberality of voice and artistic skill. Miss Jackson's art does not seem to have grown since last season. Her skill in execution is admirable and her confidence marred, but she lacks feeling.

Money for the many in Sunday's World Wants.

Money for the many in Sunday's World Wants.