

HIGH PRIESTESS OF THE YAQUIS IN TOWN

SANTA TERESA DE UREA.

Santa Teresa, Exiled, Says Her Beloved People Surely Will Be Free.

Exiled from her home by order of the Mexican Government, because of her life-long fight for the independence of the Yaqui tribe of Indians, Teresa de Urea, magnetic healer, has come to New York.

She is known throughout the West and Southwest as "Santa Teresa," patron saint of the fierce Yaqui, and around her name has been built romance and fiction and apocryphal stories.

For twenty years "Santa Teresa" has been advocating the cause of the Indians of Sonora, and ever since she went into a trance, lasting three months and eighteen days, she has been credited with wonderful power and has been worshipped and followed as a saint by the Yaqui tribe.

Her word has been supreme law. Her order can bring peace or declare war, and although she has been an exile from Mexico for eight years by decree of President Diaz, her name is still the battle cry of the tribe, and her followers obey implicitly the wishes of their absent priestess.

Beginning of Her Power. Santa Teresa was born in Sinaloa, a State of Mexico, a declining State, the home of the Yaquis, twenty-eight years ago. When she was young her father purchased the Cabeza Ranch in Sonora and there the girl developed her alleged power as a magnetic healer, and quickly became the patron saint of the Indians, who treated her as a high priestess sent to deliver them from their Mexican oppressors.

It was in the Ten Years' War which the Yaquis waged against the cruelties of Mexico that Santa Teresa became known. Ever since then there has been the gubruk hand and her counsel has been the supreme law of the tribe. The strange magnetic power which she possesses and with which she claims to have wrought many remarkable cures worked an influence over the superstitious Indians which amounts to worship.

Although absent from Mexico by Governmental order during the most recent war of the tribe against the whole power of the Mexican administration, Santa Teresa was still its guiding spirit. Her name, in letters of gold on a silver flag, was the standard of the Chief, and "Santa Teresa" was the rallying cry of the fighting warriors.

Her Strength at Home. "You may go to Sonora now," said Santa Teresa to-day in the parlor of her apartments, at No. 110 East Twenty-eighth street, "and speak disparagingly of me. But you would never return alive. You would be killed by my Yaquis before the words were out of your throat!"

"My poor Indians!" she added. "They are the bravest and the most persecuted people on earth. They have fought for liberty and independence, and their homes until few of them are left. But they are not whipped; they are not cowed. Mexico, with all its resources, had to treat with them before it could end the recent war."

"It would make the blood run cold to tell here in New York of the cruelties inflicted upon the Yaquis by the soldiers of Mexico. They shot men and women indiscriminately, or hanged them from trees. Babies were taken from their mothers' arms and their brains dashed out against trees.

CAPTAIN IS BLAMED FOR LOSS OF SHIP. TIMELY SNAPSHOTS BY CAMERA OWNERS.

Anxious to Reach Port and Ran Rio Janeiro Through Fog—Victims Number 122.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22.—The total number of lives lost in the wreck of the Pacific Mail steamer City of Rio de Janeiro is 122, most of whom were Chinese and Japanese.

As near as can be learned there were 201 people on board as follows: Cabin passengers, 23; steerage (Atlantic), 65; second cabin, 7; white officers, 30; crew, 72.

The saved number 73, classified as follows: Cabin passengers, 12; white officers, 11; steerage (Atlantic), 15; crew (Chinese), 35.

The lost number 122, classified as follows: Passengers, 24; officers, 19; crew (Chinese), 79; steerage (Atlantic), 41.

Among those who perished were United States Consul Wildman, Mrs. Wildman, two children and a nurse.

Died Like a Hero. The cause of the disaster was the anxiety of Capt. Ward to reach port. His vessel was three days overdue.

Every hour meant financial loss to the owners and loss of reputation to Capt. Ward himself. This is the story of the pilot, who says he warned Capt. Ward that in the fog which hung over the water it was dangerous to proceed.

The captain went down with his ship, dying a hero's death. He made no effort to save himself, devoting all his time trying to save the women and children. He managed to restore order on board and many owe their lives to his work.

When the vessel went down he stood on the bridge directing the lowering of the last of the boats.

Lost in the Wreck. Those known to be lost are: Rounsavell Wildman, United States Consul-General at Hongkong; Mrs. Rounsavell Wildman, wife of the United States Consul; Rounsavell Wildman, Jr., son of the United States Consul; Dorothy Wildman, daughter of the United States Consul; Miss Kate Reddy; of San Francisco, governess of the Wildman children; Mrs. Sarah W. Wakefield, of Oakland; Mrs. Margaret Wakefield, daughter of Mrs. Wakefield; Miss Roseana Jelu, of Alameda; Alfred Hart, jeweler of Manila, formerly of San Francisco.

Mrs. Alfred Hart, William A. Henshall, attorney, of Honolulu; Harry Guyon, painter, of Petaluma; Dr. William E. Dodd, oculist, Butte, Mont.; Angelo Guarnati, foreman, Lowry sugar plantation, Kauai; Charles Dowdall, barrister, of Shanghai, with family, residing in Santa Barbara; William McPherson, San Francisco; W. A. Woodworth, Denver; Capt. W. Ward; J. C. C. Brown, of Honolulu; John Rooney, publisher, R. T. McCoun, first assistant engineer; T. H. Brady, second assistant engineer; W. A. Munro, third assistant engineer; Harry A. Scott, steward; Mrs. J. L. Goodman, stewardess; Mr. Matheson, quartermaster; Edward Barwick, butcher, A. Malcolm, antoon watchman; John A. A. Cox, steamer passenger; Honolulu; W. A. O. A. Honolulu; Mr. Bakun, Honolulu; Mr. S. S. Takatsi, Honolulu; F. S. S. Takatsi, Honolulu; Mr. Dika, Honolulu; Yokohama; Miss

Denver People on Rio de Janeiro. DENVER, Feb. 22.—Mr. and Mrs. William Woodworth, of Denver, who are mentioned as among the missing passengers of the wrecked Rio de Janeiro, left here in January last for a visit to Honolulu, and were returning home on the Rio. Mr. Woodworth was one of Denver's best known business men.

DEAD IN GIBSON STUDIO. Alexander B. Hodge, janitor and engineer in the five-story building at No. 112 East Twenty-third street, known as the Gibson Studio, was found dead on the floor of the elevator early to-day, thrust through the window of the fourth floor last night. Some time through the night he got up, opened the elevator door and fell down the shaft. The elevator was on the ground floor, and Hodge crashed through the network on top. He was found lying there by David Smith, an artist.

THREE SHOTS FOR $30. Man Took Strange Way of Paying an Old Debt. Guido Carozzi was arrested today by Detective Petrosini at Hudson and Macaulay streets. In September, 1888, he disappeared after collecting $30 due his employer, Damiano Marretti, of No. 31 Macaulay street. Word came that he had come back from subsequent employment in Philadelphia and Charleston, S. C.

Three days ago he returned to New York and went to work at the union quarry. The first man he met was an Italian, who asked him for $30. Carozzi had saved up for four years he drew a revolver and fired three shots. The police were notified and his arrest followed.

WOMAN'S KIDNEY TROUBLES

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Is Especially Successful in Curing This Fatal Woman's Disease.

EDNA FREDERICK.

Of all the diseases known with which the female organism is afflicted, kidney disease is the most fatal. In fact, unless early and correct treatment is applied, the weary patient seldom survives.

Being fully aware of this, Mrs. Pinkham, early in her career, gave exhaustive study to the subject and in producing her great remedy for woman's ailments—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—was careful to see that it contained the correct combination of herbs which was sure to control that fatal disease, woman's kidney troubles. The Vegetable Compound acts in harmony with the laws that govern the entire female system, and while there are many so-called remedies for kidney troubles, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the only one especially prepared for women.

The following letters will show how marvelously successful it is:

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I am failing very fast—since January have lost thirty-five or forty pounds. I have a yellow, muddy complexion, feel tired, and have bearing down pains. Menstrues have not appeared for three months, sometimes I am troubled with a white discharge, and I also have kidney and bladder trouble.

I have been this way for a long time, and feel so miserable I thought I would write to you and see if you could do me any good.—MISS EDNA FREDERICK, Troy, Ohio.

Sept. 6, 1899. DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound according to directions, and can say I have not felt so well for years as I do at present. Before taking your medicine a more miserable person you never saw. I could not eat or sleep, and did not care to talk with any one. I did not enjoy life at all. Now I feel so well I cannot be grateful enough for what you have done for me. You are surely a woman's friend. Thanking you a thousand times, I remain, Ever yours, MISS EDNA FREDERICK, Troy, Ohio.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have taken five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and cannot praise it enough. I had headaches, leucorrhoea, falling of the womb and kidney trouble. I also had a pain when standing or walking, and sometimes these would be the matter of five or six minutes. I could not sit for about twenty minutes. Felt as if I had had no sleep for two weeks. Had fainting spells, was down-hearted, and would cry.—MRS. BERTHA OBER, Second and Clayton Sts., Chester, Pa.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot find language to express the terrible suffering I have had to endure. I had female trouble, also liver, stomach, kidney and bladder trouble. I tried several doctors, also quite a number of patent medicines, and had despaired of ever getting well. At last I concluded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now, thanks to your medicine, I am a well woman. I cannot praise your medicine too highly, for I know it will do all, and even more, than it is recommended to do. I tell every suffering woman about your Vegetable Compound, and urge them to try it and see for themselves what it will do.—MRS. MARY A. HIPPLE, No. Manchester, Ind.

$5000 REWARD—We have deposited with the National City Bank of Lynn, $5,000 which will be paid to any person who can find the person or persons who have stolen the above described property, and who will give information leading to their apprehension. LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO.

READ "THE RED SPELL." A story of a man who was cured of his troubles by the use of the "Red Spell" medicine.

An Authoress Cured of Consumption.

Josephine Winfield Brake, author of "How It Happened," the patient who was sent by Mr. William Freeman, of the New York Journal, makes the following statement:

I consider it a privilege to proclaim to the world through the columns of your paper what the Koch lung and throat cure has done for me, and I thank you for the fact that you have done a great wrong if I should, through false pride, or the fear of pointing out the mistakes of other physicians, hold back the truth or any part of it, from the thousands of consumptives whose words will reach. I have had demonstrated to me that consumption can be cured, but not through the regular routine treatment prescribed by physicians.

Intelligent people must admit that there is but one method through which the lungs can be successfully treated, and that is by the original inhalation of Dr. Koch's tuberculin at 45 W. 22nd St., N. Y., but from a lack of knowledge of how to apply this method the ordinary physician makes all sorts of drugs; they are, as a rule, will produce dangerous complications by disarranging the digestive organs.

My experience covers a period of ten years, and for the benefit of my fellow creatures I give it here: I inherited asthmatic trouble and had been told by eminent physicians that my case was a hopeless one. I had lost two sisters with consumption, and in view of their condition I felt that I should do something for myself. I decided to try the fact of other patients to go to the miasma districts of the world for healing.

Acting upon this man's advice, I proceeded to Denver, Col., and from there to Colorado Springs and Pueblo, but still I could not get any relief. In this last-named place I was told that the altitude was too high for me, the truth of which I soon had thoroughly demonstrated, but was assured that in Minnesota I would find the climate which would give me the life and health I was so diligently seeking. I started on my way, hoping for what I did not find. I remained in different parts of the State for nine months, receiving for my reward that which has been given to others—relief for the time being. But with the approach of the next winter my asthmatic trouble reappeared, producing incessant coughing, which, in turn, brought on more severe hemorrhages. In despair I travelled a great distance to consult a man of renowned reputation on lung and throat trouble. He subjected me to a most careful examination and by using his own language I can best describe the encouragement he gave me. Said he: "My little woman, the mountains of North Carolina will do more for you than I can do. My advice is to make haste to Asheville and spend the winter there, but you will never be well." Inside of three hours I was on my way to Asheville, where I found Nature had provided for her afflicted children majestic mountains and glorious scenery to divert their minds, but still they could not stay the progress of my disease.

My heart sickened as I looked around me and saw the hundreds of plague-stricken creatures there on the same fruitless errand, and at the close proximity to them so depressed me that I abandoned the thought of making haste to Asheville and spent the winter there, but you will never be well." Inside of three hours I was on my way to Asheville, where I found Nature had provided for her afflicted children majestic mountains and glorious scenery to divert their minds, but still they could not stay the progress of my disease.
