ANNA GOULD EXPECTS HUSBAND TO WIN DUEL TO THE DEATH!

TWO CHILDREN MET DEATH IN TENEMENT FIRE.

Two children were burned to death, their mother's hair burned off and a fireman severely injured in a fire in an old tenement at No. 40 Chrystie street this afternoon.

THE DEAD.

LIZZIE JACOBS, four years old. DAVID JACOBS, two years old.

THE INJURED.

Mrs. BETSY JACOBS, hair nearly all burned off. Fireman THOMAS CALLEN, of Engine 31, right hand and wrist severely cut.

The tenement is three stories high. It has always been regarded as a death trap.

Mrs. Jacobs, who has been separated from her husband for several years, lived on the top floor, in the rear. At a few minutes before 1 o'clock this afternoon she went to market and locked the children in.

Ten minutes later Barnet Poluski, an old man who lives on the same floor, smelled smoke. He was nearly suffocated when he went into the hall.

He tried the Jacobs door, but could not get in. Then he ran downstairs and found a policeman and tried to break in the door.

Falling in this, the policeman turned in an alarm. As the engines from White and Allen streets dashed up Mrs. Jacobs appeared. She ran up ahead of the firemen, and before they could stop her had dashed into the blazing room.

The fire ignited Mrs. Jacobs's hair and clothing, but a fireman put out the flames and she was carried to the street. Nearly all her hair was burned off.

Eirenan Callen, of No. 251 West Twentieth street, in groping his way about the room jammed his hand through a glass door, cutting an artery in his wrist and nearly severing two fingers. He fainted, and was carried to the street by neighbors.

When the fire was put out the two children were found dead in the room. Lizzie's charred body, badly burned, was under the bed. David was dead in his cradle.

How the fire started is a mystery. It is believed that Lizzie Jacobs in playing with matches set fire to the curtains.

Alfred White, of No. 110 Canal street, was one of the first persons to respond to the cries for help. He got into the room where the children were, and in trying to rescue them had his hair badly singed and his face burned.

GIRL DRUGGED BY THREE NEAR DEATH

Mary Paige Unconscious and Sinking—Charge of Murder, Perhaps.

MARY PAIGE.

A possible charge of murder faces the three Brooklyn young men who are accused of ill-treating Mary Paige, the sixteen-year-old girl. The girl may die.

A change for the worse in her condition is announced by the doctor attending her. She was unconscious all last night and remained so to-day. She has a high fever.

Dr. Gideon D. Hobart, of 125 Sand street, was sent for early. He fears that pneumonia has set in.

The doctor thought yesterday that the girl had a fair chance for recovery, but the bad turn she took during the night has lessened her chances to get well, and the prisoners, David Patterson, George Abbott and Edward Gleason, may have to answer a charge of murder or manslaughter.

LAW MAKES HIM AID OLD PARENTS

Policeman Said He Had "Other Use for His Money."

Policeman Thomas H. Harrington was brought before Judge Newburger in the Court of General Sessions to-day charged with failure to support his father and mother.

Harrington is attached to the East Fifth street station and has been on the police force three years. The complaint was made by the Corporation Counsel, who reported that Harrington's parents had applied to the Department of Charities for support. In the past three years he has given them only money enough to keep them seven weeks.

"How much do you earn?" asked the Judge.

"Twelve hundred and fifty dollars a year," answered the policeman.

"Why don't you support your aged parents?"

"I have other use for my money."

"How old are they?"

"Father is sixty-five and mother sixty-seven years."

"Well," said the Court, "you will pay them $5 a week or I'll know the reason why." Harrington promised to pay and was discharged.

FACTORY PANIC; FIRE A MYTH. SPITTERS MUST BE SUPPRESSED

Wrestling Match and Excitable Girl Caused Mad Rush.

There was a panic to-day in the big factory building Nos. 182 and 184 Grand street because of a false alarm of fire.

Two hundred girls and men fled from the fourth floor down fire-escapes and stairs.

The trouble was caused by two young men on the top floor wrestling. One threw the other and there was great applause.

A girl on the lower floor ran to a window, saw steam below and cried "Fire!" The others took it up, and immediately the fire-escapes on the front of the building were crowded with excited girls and men, all anxious to get to safety.

A policeman turned in an alarm and the charter of the engines added to the excitement.

The firemen were angry when they could find no blaze, and tried to find the policeman who had sent in the alarm. He discreetly disappeared.

TO END RUNAWAYS BY LAW.
Alderman Burrill's Far-reaching Bill Looked at as a Joke.

There was a hearing on Alderman Burrill's ordinance "for protection against runaway horses" in the Aldermanic Chamber this afternoon.

The ordinance provides that a ten-pound weight attached to a strap shall be attached to the noseband of any horse left standing in the street.

Nobody appeared to favor, or oppose, the ordinance. Chairman Bridges said it was a joke. It will probably be adversely reported.

GREAT CASTELLANE-RODAYS DUEL.

(As forecasted for The Evening World by that famous duellist expert, Col. Powers.)

FIRST—The salutation.
SECOND—Rodays wounded in little finger.
THIRD—Castellane's reception. "Vive Boni! Vive!"

De Rodays Is a Dead Shot and the Meeting Will Take Place To-morrow Morning.

PARTICULARS OF THE COMING DUEL.

Encounter will be with pistols. It will take place to-morrow near Paris. De Rodays is a dead shot; Count Boni is not. Castellane's seconds are the Comte de Dion and M. Gaston Jollivet. De Rodays's seconds are MM. Prestat and Perivier. Two shots will be exchanged at twenty-five paces.

PARIS, March 15—10 P. M.

Only a few hours remain before the Rodays-Castellane duel comes off. M. de Rodays's second says the encounter will certainly take place to-morrow morning. All preparations have been completed.

Count Boni visited the theatre this evening and M. de Rodays wrote a leader to be used in case the meeting should result fatally to him.

Two shots will be exchanged at twenty-five paces. De Rodays is a dead shot, and De Castellane is himself no mean hand with the pistol, although his favorite weapon is the sword.

No one could doubt the result if swords were chosen, for Count Boni has already run two men through, the latest being Count Orlowski, whom he pierced through the throat.

The seconds chosen by De Castellane are the Comte de Dion and M. Gaston Jollivet, the seconds of M. de Rodays being MM. Prestat and Perivier. The latter, who is co-editor of the Figaro, said to-day that the duel would be private. He said: "I will not tolerate the presence of a stranger. If otherwise, I will retire from the field."

"In my opinion, it is improper to permit persons attracted by unhealthy curiosity to be present at a duel in which two men are staking their lives."

It is said on the boulevards this evening that the Countess de Castellane (Anna Gould) is much worried over the coming duel, but fully expects her husband to win. There is not the slightest doubt that the couple are extremely fond of each other, but a friend of Castellane said to-day: "The Countess would not, of course, lift a finger to prevent the meeting. She believes her husband to be absolutely in the right. A French gentleman could never refuse to meet another under such circumstances. The fight will certainly take place and blood will be shed."

The meeting of De Rodays's seconds today with the seconds of the Count was the result of a call upon him last evening which almost precipitated another duel.

When they called on the Count he declared that he had no little expectation of a challenge from M. de Rodays that he would accept.
