

TELL US WHAT YOU WANT TO WEAR FOR EASTER DAY.

The Evening World Will Make Forty-three Wage-Earning Young Women Happy by Presenting Them During Easter Week with Fine Gowns, Hats, Shirt Waists, Shoes and Gloves.

The shops are abloom with Easter finery, and thousands and thousands of working girls are scanning the displays and selecting the gowns, hats and shirt waists that they would like to have.

A CONTEST OF GOOD TASTE AND SHOPPING JUDGMENT.

$500 EASTER PRIZES $500 For Girl Wage-Earners.

THE CONDITIONS OF THE CONTEST.

Any girl wage-earner may compete for these prizes. Take The Evening World's advertising columns for your directory, go to the stores and find, if you can, an Easter outfit, a tailor-made Easter gown, an Easter hat or an Easter shirt waist like the one or as nearly as possible like the one you would like to have.

Send this letter to "Easter Prize Editor, Evening World, P. O. Box 2354 N. Y. City."

All descriptions will be submitted to a Committee of Five Working Girls selected by Mrs. Harriet Hubbard Ayer, who will pass upon the good taste and shopping judgment of the contestants and make the awards accordingly.

The contest will close at midnight of Tuesday, April 2.

The prizes will be paid in money if preferred.

Third street—You don't know what fun it is to try for this.

Miss MARY PENNEY, No. 25 West 115th street—Everybody on the car nights and mornings is talking about The Evening World's offer.

Miss L. SMITH, No. 7 Lexington avenue—Indeed all the girls are interested in the offer.

Miss KATIE KAIN, No. 35 John street—Don't believe a girl who reads street news should try for one of these dresses.

Miss LILLIE PHILLIPS, No. 37 West 101st street—I know all the girls who are not wage-earners wish they were for these dresses.

Miss DOROTHY M'GUIRE, Jerome avenue, between One Hundred and Sixty-eighth and One Hundred and Sixty-ninth—Indeed all the girls are talking about it where I live.

Miss MARTHA HANAGAN, No. 69 Wintonover avenue, Brooklyn—I didn't know any offer could be so widely known about in such a little time.

Miss MAMIE WILLIAMS, No. 1 West One Hundred and Twenty-ninth—The girls ought to be personally grateful for the opportunity.

Miss KATHERINE DOLAN, No. 418 Brook avenue—The girls ought to write and thank The Evening World for the chance it has given them.

Miss ELIZA GOFFIGAN, No. 163 Gardiner avenue, Jersey City, Heights—Nobody can find a single objection to the plan. That speaks well for it.

Miss LENA MUIZZ, No. 134 East Twenty-seventh street—The girls are all crazy about it. It's a fine offer.

Miss PAULINE M. RAYBALL, No. 234 West 115th street—It's going to be lots of fun to try. It's not matter who gets it.

Miss ANNIE M'KENNEY, No. 122 West Twenty-second street—It is really a wonderful offer. I don't see how The Evening World could do it.

Miss JOSEPHINE BRUGMANN, No. 349 East Tenth street—You ought to be with us at lunch time. Nobody talks of anything else.

Miss L. SHERMAN, No. 339 East Thirty-sixth street—The worst of it is, all the girls want to send in many descriptions, and we can't do that.

HOW TO WIN A PRIZE.

Write a Little Letter Like This, and Luck May Follow It.

The Evening World's advertising columns provide a good directory for those who wish to compete for The Evening World's forty-three Easter prizes, and they will help considerably if they are followed. Here, for instance, you will find the best way to proceed: Look over the columns of The Evening World to-night or to-morrow night and pick out a store to visit. Make a memorandum of the name of the store and the date of the appearance of the advertisement in The Evening World. Then visit the

WARRING OVER SULZER'S BODY

Beautiful Ida Wiemann, Who Was the Councilman's Companion for the Last Three Years, and His Wife, from Whom He Had Separated, Plead in Court for Custody of the Dead.

Councilman Herman Sulzer died at 12 o'clock this morning. His body is being held by Mrs. Ida Wiemann, his companion for the last three years, while his wife, Catherine Sulzer, and her lawyers demand that an autopsy be performed. They say that Sulzer was practically well at 7 o'clock last night, but he was stricken during his illness by Drs. Janeway and Curt Nicolai, and the demand for an autopsy is regarded as a move on the part of the wife to get possession of the body, from which she has been debarred by Mrs. Wiemann. The women faced each other in the Harlem Court this morning, whether Mrs. Wiemann had been summoned on complaint that she had threatened to shoot Mrs. Sulzer.

Testimony did not sustain the charge. Mrs. Wiemann testified that she had merely declared that she would not allow Mrs. Sulzer on the premises.

"All I want," declared Mrs. Sulzer, "is the body of my husband. It is my right. It is the right of my children to have the body and to enter his home."

Mrs. Wiemann's tender plea.

Mrs. Wiemann was weeping. "Why do you want the body?" she asked between her sobs. "You never cared for him alive. You never came near him in sickness. It is my place. His I. I have waited upon him in his illness. It is my place to bury him and I will."

Magistrate Mayo said he had no jurisdiction, as Sulzer might have left a will making provision for his burial. After a private consultation with the lawyers for both sides, during which the demand was made for an autopsy, the Magistrate said he would adjourn the case until to-morrow morning. Meanwhile Mrs. Sulzer is to be permitted in the Harlem River Casino premises, where the Councilman died. Neither is Mrs. Wiemann to be disturbed if she disturbs Mrs. Sulzer or the Sulzer children.

"If you cannot agree on a physician to hold the autopsy, a word to the Coroner will do it," said Magistrate Mayo. "No, no! I don't want that," sobbed Mrs. Wiemann.

Then the party left court, the lawyers conferring among themselves to decide what course would be taken.

It was finally agreed that Mrs. Janeway way and Nicolai should perform the autopsy. Both women then went to the Harlem River Casino. Mrs. Sulzer and her children ascended to the room where the body was, kissed the dead face and, coming out, took up quarters in another part of the place. Mrs. Wiemann's friends consoled her in a room near where the corpse lay.

The Separation.

Mr. Sulzer had been separated from his wife for four years and lived in handsomely furnished apartments over his office, on the One Hundred and Twenty-seventh street side of the big Casino. In the office this morning sat Mrs. Sulzer and her twenty-three-year-old son, Ernest, and her daughter, Clara, who is seventeen. There were four persons in the room, at the request of the stockholders in the concern, to guard the property. Mrs. Sulzer was accompanied by her lawyer, Moses Goodman, of No. 329 Broadway.

And while the party sat and talked in subdued tones, upstairs, alone with the dead man sat Mrs. Wiemann, who is also known as a Horoman and held with him as his wife four years—she is about twenty-eight years old, perfectly proportioned and a beautiful brunette.

Mrs. Sulzer died of heart failure, the result of a complication of diseases, beginning with kidney trouble. He had been sick for a long time.

was one of the editors of the Staats-Zeitung. I don't know where he is now. We had been married five years.

"When Mrs. Sulzer got a divorce Mr. Sulzer and I were to have been married. Now she didn't get it, but we were all the time in hopes that she would."

"They say downstairs that I am claiming all the property, do they? I do not know whether my husband left it. Will some one who has been in the room tell me that will be known in two or three days. He had no property to give me. He had only this house."

"I have driven no fast horses." It was that woman downstairs. He gave me no jewels or horses, but I loved him. I loved him. I asked to marry them. They never cared for him until they learned he was dying. When they came and I refused because my husband begged me

AFTER EFFECTS OF GRIP

Are Often More Serious Than the Grip Itself.

Physicians and grip sufferers alike are aware that the after effects of the disease are more to be feared than the acute attack, you can never be sure that the disease has left the system completely.

La Grippe naturally attacks the weakest organ and leaves it still weaker. Not only pneumonia, consumption, bronchitis and throat trouble follow the grip, but kidney, liver and stomach troubles are just as liable to result, provided any of these organs should happen to be in a weak condition at the time of attack.

To get rid of the grip germ, to get it entirely out of the system and blood, few remedies are so good, and none safer, than Stuart's Cathartic Tablets, they are not a compound of powerful and dangerous drugs, but a pleasant, palatable, convenient remedy in tablet form, composed of the whole and some antiseptic principles of eucalyptus bark, blood root and similar germicide remedies, which are perfectly wholesome and harmless to the system. But death to the germ of grip, catarrh, consumption and diseases of the throat and air passages.

Mrs. Chas. Gormley, of Memphis, says: "Last winter an attack of the grip left me with weak back, a persistent cough and loss of flesh and appetite, and after using various remedies for several months with little or no improvement, I finally bought a recent package of Stuart's Cathartic Tablets at my drug store, and, as they were pleasant and convenient to take, I used them at all times of day or night, and I was astonished to secure such fine results from a few tablets and convenient a medicine. In two weeks my cough disappeared, my appetite returned, I improved in flesh and color, and in one week more I was able to get on my feet as usual. I have used with me as my wife four years—she is now 18 years old. I met her long before that in German society."

"I was Mrs. Ida Wiemann. I got a divorce from Carl Wiemann in 1897. He and gentle to everybody, and I loved him. My daughter and I," said Mrs. Sulzer, "have been sitting in the office of my husband's property ever since 2 o'clock this morning to get admission to the place where my husband's body lay. This woman bewitched him. All the property my husband had I helped him to get—him, who had nothing. Philip Zigmer, of First avenue and one Hundred and Fourteenth street, is an undertaker hired by Mrs. Wiemann. Mrs. Sulzer considered a satisfactory selection.

Omega Oil

OLD PEOPLE—After a man or woman has lived 50 or more years the machinery of the body is pretty well worn out. Stop a minute and think how many miles you have walked in all those years—how many thousands of pounds you have lifted—how many hours you have stood on your feet—how many times your joints have moved back and forth—how many times you have overdone things in work and pleasure. Do you wonder that you have pains and aches? Isn't it about time you did something for your poor body? Get a bottle of Omega Oil at once and rub it into every spot on your neck, shoulders, arms, back, hips, legs, knees and feet where there is an ache. Rub it in good and hard, and the first thing you know you'll feel at least ten years younger. Omega Oil is good for everything a liniment ought to be good for.

Your druggist sells Omega Oil or can get it for you at wholesale prices. The Omega Chemical Co., 27 Broadway, New York, will mail a bottle prepaid for 50¢ in cash money order or stamps.
