

WANTS $10,000 FOR SLANDER.

Allegations of a School Teacher Who Sues Another Woman for Damages.

A suit that has many sensational features was before Justice Lawrence in Part III of the Supreme Court today. Elizabeth Foley, a teacher, is suing Helen W. Watts for slander and demands $10,000 damages.

The complaint sets forth that Miss Foley became a teacher in Grade A of the public schools in October, 1917, and subsequently a teacher in the Home for the Friendless, which is conducted by the American Female Guardian Society. Here Miss Foley taught until 1918.

Prior to February, 1918, the defendant was chairman of the executive committee of the society.

It is alleged that defendant told Mrs. Hotchkiss and others that Miss Foley was a teacher in the society school was cruel to the scholars and abused them and could not be recommended as a fit teacher for children.

Miss Foley alleges that the defendant wrote the following letter to her:

CRAMMOOR, Aug. 11, 1919.

My Dear Miss Foley:

I must thank you for the Charity Organization for assistance hereafter, as I hear they offered you work on necktie work and you refused it. Also it has come to my notice that you have either copied or written a letter yourself purporting to come from Bennett and signing her name to it, you know what that is called when taken up by the law.

My advice is to take any work offered to you by the Charity Organization, who have looked well into your case and know everything about you; otherwise, I fear there is nothing left for you but the law.

I am really very sorry for you and if I could conscientiously help you to a place I would.

Yours Truly,
HELEN W. WATTS

Mrs. Watts said she had said for thirty-three years she has been connected with the society and has been an officer for a number of years, and in 1918 became president of the society and is now. She interposed a general demurrer.

Mrs. Watts stated that the plaintiff was at various times in different schools and was out of the society schools for two and a half years as a teacher. The society helped her many times financially and bought a typewriter.

Present complaint was made against Miss Foley for the damage done. It was charged that she abused children, struck them and could not maintain order.

Q. What amount was taken? A. She was dismissed one.

Q. Was she reinstated? A. Yes; at her request.

Q. Was Miss Foley ever before the Executive Committee? A. Yes; twice.

Q. What for? A. She slandered the ladies of the Executive Committee who were at Roxbury for the summer. She was dismissed for the damage done.

On cross-examination Mrs. Watts was asked: "Have you any personal knowledge of any pupil being struck?"

A. No, sir.

Q. Was Miss Foley a capable teacher?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever know of Miss Foley abusing a child? A. Yes.

Q. Did you give her a letter of recommendation? A. No, the society did.

Q. Did you all feel kindly toward her when you said, "With best wishes for your future?" A. Yes.

Q. You knew of the alleged charges against her then? A. Yes.

Q. And when she came to you? A. Yes, I did not care to put more in black and white. Miss Foley was told in person when she came to me.

Q. Was this letter (Exhibit C) signed by you? A. Yes.

Q. Did you know that she had nothing in her mind derogatory to the plaintiff when she wrote the letter? She did not mean she had anything derogatory. She merely warned Miss Foley that she ought to be careful in making copies of letters given her by other people.

Q. What did you mean by fearing the law? A. I was afraid to get work taken any work she could or she would be sent to the law.

Thomas W. Hotchkiss, superintendent of the commercial, professional and labor departments of St. Bartholomew's Church Bureau, testified that the plaintiff applied for a position.

"One day I saw in a candy store," said Mr. Hotchkiss, "as she was greatly returned and said the work was not her liking. I learned later that the candy man did not want her."

AUTO MEN NEED NO LICENSE.

Magistrate Let 'Em Talk for Twenty Minutes, Till Exhausted.

Hereafter chauffeurs may go about the city without fear of arrest because they do not possess an engineer's license, Corporation Counsel. When today handed down an opinion to Police Commissioner Murphy to that effect.

By the law recently passed at Albany it is not necessary for automobile owners to take out licenses. All that is necessary is to pay a fee of $1 to the Secretary of State as a tax.

The Police Commissioner, in order to get a ruling on the matter, asked the Corporation Counsel for an opinion. It from its receipt the police were notified to make no more arrests on this score.

The department will, however, regulate the speed of the automobiles in accordance with the new law.

Young Woman Fatally Hurt by Jumping from a Window.

Mary Caldwell, twenty-six years old, of Flushing, attempted to commit suicide by jumping from a second-story window today. She was a domestic employed at the Arthur Bramwell home, 25 Broadway.

Both of her legs were broken and she received internal injuries. She was taken to the Flushing Hospital, where her injuries would probably prove fatal.

It is said that a love affair was the cause of the woman's act.

MRS. REYNOLDS CALLED; DEFENSE SCORES POINT.

Mother of Murdered Girl Not Allowed to Answer Questions—Osborne Crestfallen.

Mrs. Christina Reynolds, mother of murdered Dolly Reynolds, was placed on the witness stand today to prove that her daughter told her Dr. Kennedy had made money for her on the races.

She has not testified at one of the three previous trials. Her testimony was to supply the motive for which Dr. Kennedy had killed Dolly Reynolds.

Mrs. Reynolds is a little of a gray-haired woman. She sat trembling on the witness stand while the lawyers argued warily against the admission of her testimony.

Q. You are the mother of Emaline C. Reynolds? A. I am.

Q. When did you see her last alive? A. Aug. 14, 1898.

Q. Did you give her this bar? A. I did give it to her.

Q. Did you have some talk with your daughter about Dr. Samuel J. Kennedy? Objected to and sustained.

Q. Did your daughter talk to you about Dr. Samuel J. Kennedy, about his making money for her on the races? Objected to and sustained.

Talked of Dr. Kennedy.

Q. What did your daughter say to you about Dr. Kennedy? Objected to and sustained.

Q. Did your daughter draw money from the bank? Objected to and sustained.

Q. Did she tell you what she was going to do with the money? Objected to and sustained.

Q. Did she say she was going to give it to Dr. Kennedy? Objected to and sustained.

Mr. Osborne withdrew. He had not been able to extract any evidence from the witness.

Dr. Kennedy came to court all smiles this morning.

"I can see light ahead," he said today. "The State's case is almost in its hands. My lawyers have not the prosecution's case to shreds."

Mrs. Kennedy still wears a plaintive look. She has schooled herself to show no emotion except an uncontrollable anxiety. She conceals her elation when her husband's counsel score against the state.

Mr. Osborne withdrew. He had not been able to extract any evidence from the witness.

DR. STANLEY'S WIFE IN HANDS OF POLICE.

IN HANDS OF POLICE.

Dr. Stanley received a closely veiled woman in black to-day in the Tombs and had a conference of half an hour with her. She is said to be the sister of the woman under arrest.

She came to the Tombs at 12:30 o'clock, accompanied by a young man and holding a letter to the prisoner from Messrs. Levy & Unger. She gave her name as Adrienne Collins.

She was quietly but expensively dressed in black and was so deeply veiled that her features could hardly be distinguished. Her manner of speech and her carriage, however, were those of a woman of high social position.

She had an animated talk with the prisoner, during which, at times, she appeared to be celebrating a solemn anniversary. It was probably that this was the first confirmation she had received of the dual life of her sister, who had come as a terrible shock to the family. One of the brothers of the woman under arrest is said to be a well-known merchant of this city.

The veiled woman's hands trembled as she signed the document in detail. In passing out, as she arranged her veil, the keepers saw that her eyes were red with weeping. She left the Tombs at 1 o'clock and went uptown.

15,000 PERSONS AT THE FUNERAL.

AT THE FUNERAL.

(Special to The Evening World.)
PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 20.—The body of Father Edward Phillips, the "Miners' friend," who met death in New York so mysteriously, was laid to rest in the Catholic Cemetery in this city this morning with impressive ceremony.

Long before daylight thousands gathered at the great entrance of St. John's Church to witness the services. On the altar, where Father Phillips had served as an altar boy and priest, clergy from every section of the State were gathered to assist in the celebrating of a solemn funeral mass for the dead.

In less than twenty minutes after the doors of St. John's, which is the largest Catholic edifice in Northeastern Pennsylvania, were open 6,000 people filled all the available space.

The body of the deceased was carried to the altar by members of the dead priest's congregation at Hazleton. It was removed to the sanctuary shortly before 8 o'clock. After the ceremony Mar. E. A. Garvey delivered a short address.

He spoke of the Christian life of Father Phillips, who had won for himself the respect of not only the men who toil in the mines of the Pennsylvania anthracite region, but of the world. His religious work among the miners at Hazleton and his successful efforts in preventing one and setting another great anthracite strike have cost him capital and labor have made his name a synonym of peace. There was no mention of Dr. Stanley's statement.

The mines from Pottsville to Hazleton were in attendance. The National Order of the A. O. U. W., the warring factions of which were brought together by Father Phillips, sent delegates.

The floral display represents nearly 200 societies. It is estimated that 15,000 persons attended the funeral.

BOWERY HEARS CHECK TRIED.

ALDERMAN'S COHORTS CROWD SPECIAL SESSIONS.

There was a big crowd of politicians in the Court of Special Sessions today to attend the trial of Alderman Fred Plock, of the Sixth Assembly District, proprietor of the Manhattan Music Hall, on New and 10 Bowery, whose place was raided by Justice Jerome and the Committee of Fifteen April 18.

There was a good representation of denizens of the Bowery.

The case was before Justice Hinsdale, Holbrook and Jacob. When the Alderman was arraigned before Justice Jerome he defended himself in a very dramatic manner. His house, he said, was his castle and no one had a right to enter it. He said the place was conducted in an orderly manner.

Edward C. Becher, a member of the Committee of Fifteen, was the principal witness against Plock. He said he went into the music hall and was approached by several women and that the place was disorderly.

Abraham Levy, of Levy & Unger, appeared for the defendant. The case is prosecuted by Assistant District Attorney Frank B. Hendrickson, a former McCullagh deputy, testified he visited Plock's place last October.

Hendrickson said he went to the place at 11 P. M. and had several drinks. He then went out and returned an hour later. A waiter took him upstairs and introduced him to Fred Plock.

"We had two cocktails and a beer," Hendrickson testified, "and it cost me $1.50. I declined the girl's invitation to spend any more money."

Nicholas D. Collins, of No. 37 Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, also an employee of Supt. McCullagh, testified he visited the place.

"I met two girls," Collins testified, "that Hendrickson had seen."

"Ever see the defendant?" asked Mr. Levy.

"No, sir," replied the witness.

"Everything was done in an orderly manner?"

"Yes, it was."

George J. Batner, of No. 317 West Thirty-first street, testified that he had visited the music hall October 18, 1900 at about 11 o'clock in the evening. Lawyer Abe Levy, for the defendant, objected to all such testimony on the ground that the complaint only contained allegations as to the date of April 18.

"After having had several drinks," said Batner, "a woman asked him to 50,000 MACHINISTS STRIKE TO ENFORCE A DEMAND FOR NINE-HOUR DAY.

50,000 MEN OUT, O'CONNELL SAYS.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—President O'Connell estimates that about 50,000 men struck today. He bases this prediction on the telegraphic advices that have come from the machinists' headquarters in the various cities.

A general strike on the Rapid Transit tunnel is threatened.

The rock-drillers, engineers and tool sharpeners have threatened to quit work tomorrow morning unless they receive an advance in wages from $2.75 to $3.20 a day. They also want an eight-hour day.

Should the strike take place the work on the tunnel will be crippled and many thousands men may be thrown out of work.

The contractors held a meeting Saturday and voted unanimously not to grant a demand for a strike. They are not afraid of a general strike, as they had agreed some time ago to establish a board, consisting of contractors and workmen, to adjust all troubles in the tunnel construction, but the men's union conceded the demands of their machinists, and 20 men went back to work. The exception was the Hilliard, Fairman & Ely Safe Company, employing fourteen men.

Delegates William J. O'Brien and Pallas will hunt up the various contractors today to see what they can do to avert a strike.

O'Brien and Pallas do not want a strike. They say that it was strictly a test case on the prevailing Rate of Wages law in the Court of Appeals, which declared against them, and has caused workmen the loss of many hundred thousand dollars in wages.

WALLACE TO LEAVE PENNSY.

'Varsity Football Captain Resigns His Position.

Charles Edgar Wallace, Jr., of Pennsylvania's varsity football team, has resigned the captaincy of the Red and Blue eleven and announces that he will not return to college next year. His resignation was sent to Dr. Edgar F. Smith, chairman of the University Athletics Committee, and no reasons were given for the action. Wallace is a senior in the Department of Dentistry.

Next to Hare and McCracken, Wallace was easily the star of last year's team and was generally conceded to be one of the best tackles in the college ranks. He was a very aggressive player and very fast on his feet for a big man. He was equally strong on offense and defense, and for the past two years has been the mainstay of the Quakers' Penn's rush line. He played on the scrub team in '19 and on the varsity in 1920 and 1921.

Wallace's loss will be a severe one to the Quakers, as Penn will lose Hare, McCracken, McClosky, Horner, Zimmerman, John Gardiner, Hodge, Woolley and Smith by graduation and Patter has given up his college course. Texas Davidson, Graves and Will Gardner are the only varsity members of last year's team who will be in college next fall. The question of selecting a captain for next season's team will devolve upon Coach Woodruff. Baird, a substitute of last year's team, has been spoken of for that position.
