

BOWERY VOTE OUT IN FORCE

Army of Hoboes Consumes All It Can of Eatables and Drinkables.

"LITTLE TIM" ON DECK.

Sullivan Refuses to Stand for a $2 Breakfast for an Enormously Hungry Voter.

The Bowery had another one of those fine times to-day. The hoboes rody in hansom and every man had plenty to eat and drink. That is saying that they had all they wanted.

Both sides were mighty active in the lodging-house district, but in the early hours there was no trouble. In the Sixth and Eighth Assembly Districts the McCullagh deputies and the fusion watchers challenged industriously, but the Tammany men were in their voices with great regularity.

There were a lot of arrests, and the Police Courts were kept busy, but most of the suspects were discharged by the magistrates. About the same proportion of the vote was polled in these two picturesque districts at 10 o'clock as in those higher up.

The busiest spot south of Fourteenth street was the headquarters of the Timothy D. Sullivan Association, at No. 207 Bowery. "Little Tim" Sullivan was in charge and he had seven handom cabs in front of the place. They were kept busy hustling out the votes of the men who stay 24 days in the vote are lucky to get a street car ride.

No High-Prized Meals. In a brief breathing spell "Little Tim" was standing in front of the place when a pink-whiskered individual with a tramp make-up approached him as a friendly yellow dog might approach a stranger. Figuratively speaking his tail was wagging.

"Bill Collins," said the pink-whiskered man, with what he meant to be an introductory smile. "Voted yet?" asked Tim.

"I ain't had no breakfast yet," said the man, "and it don't go well on an empty stomach."

"What do you want?" asked Tim. "A couple of dollars." "Two dollars for a breakfast on the Bowery? G'wan," roared Tim. "Here," he said to one of his helpers, "fix this man out."

The helper threw him into a hansom and drove him first to a polling place, where he voted. "McCollagh's catenmen gave him a quarter, and the hobo made for the nearest saloon."

"That's what I been getting all morning," mused Tim, "but the vote is coming out. We haven't had any trouble, but them fellers have been challenging every third voter. Every tenth man they arrest, it don't make no difference who it is."

Hooks Both Ways. Martin Engel was just as active over in the Eighth. His headquarters are over a saloon at Grand and Ludlow streets. They are placed so that Martin can sit in the front window and watch two polling places—one in Grand street and one in Essex street. He sat there this morning and gazed on the waiting line of voters with apparent pleasure.

"See 'em vote. See 'em vote for Sheehan," he croaked. "McCollagh can't stop 'em. They'll have the cover of the book worn off before noon swearing in all them votes, but they can't stop 'em."

By 9:30 twenty-seven men had been arrested charged with attempting to vote fraudulently and arraigned in the Essex Market Police Court. They were all Tammany men. "Abey" Levy was in court to defend them. Every time an arrest was made, Martin Engel ran around to the court to see about it. He wore a path between his office and the court and between him and Levy. All but three of the men escaped. These three were held for trial.

It was reported on the Bowery this morning that none of the inmates of the lodging houses was permitted to leave any of them before 6 o'clock. Then they left in charge of Sullivan's men, so that none of them would have a chance to get away before they had deposited their ballots.

Some of Senator Sullivan's supporters took a little time off after they had voted to exercise their nimble fingers. One of them took his station in front of the Senator's headquarters on the Bowery and opened a shell game. A crowd of 500 persons blocked the street on the east side of the Bowery while the thimble-rigger skinned an innocent customer.

Meanwhile the Senator, Coroner Egan, "Little Tim," Harry Oxford, the Tammany candidate for Alderman in the Sixth District, and a number of other shining Tammany lights, who say that such things do not exist in New York, sat upstairs and talked over the defamers of the city.

The only trouble that was reported to Police Headquarters in the morning was from No. 124 Bowery, where Inspector Brooks who was at Headquarters with a special detail of 200 men, was informed that there were a lot of men out at the precinct who were making trouble and he sent a roundsman with five men to the scene. They had no trouble in keeping order. The other 195 men sat around Headquarters and did nothing.

WELLS HOPES TO BEAT OUT HAFKEN.

The friends of James L. Wells, the Fusion candidate for President of The Bronx, were confident at 10 o'clock that their man was giving Louis Hafken, the Tammany candidate, the hardest kind of a fight.

The Thirty-third Assembly District is normally Democratic by a large majority.

Wells was nominated on account of his great personal popularity, and Hafken has made enemies in his own party. Wells' friends say that he is being out. The vote in the Bronx is very heavy.

Her First Football Game.

(From the Toledo News.) She—it is a rough game, isn't it? He—Why, yes; but you didn't expect to see it settled by arbitration, did you?

PRETTY GIRLS PULL VOTERS OUT OF BED

FAIR CAMPAIGNERS WORK FOR ENGEL'S CANDIDATE.

Jennie and Sarah Lazarus Drive Men to the Polls to Vote in "De Ate."

Two pretty young girls took an unusual method this morning of gaining votes for Isidor Cohen, Martin Engel's candidate for the Assembly in "De Ate" District. The girls were Jennie and Sarah Lazarus, sixteen and eighteen years old respectively, who live at No. 24 Eldridge street.

As soon as the polls were opened the girls began a canvass of the Third Election District, in which they live. They went through the tenement-houses, knocking at the doors. If opened to them they entered and made all voters get out of bed and then tried to induce them to go with them to the polling booth.

Frequently their advances were objected to by wives and sisters, particularly when they happened to be adherents of Cohen's opponent, Charles Adler, but the two campaigners invariably stood their ground, at times threatening and again coaxing the men to get out and vote for Cohen.

When last seen Jennie and Sarah were canvassing Allen street and were frequently seen driving unwhipped and uncombed voters to the polls like cattle. As the girls alleged that it was a scheme of Martin Engel to defeat the Republican candidate, and commended it roundly. They assert that nothing like it was ever seen before, even in "de Ate."

VOTING MACHINE WAS A SUCCESS.

DADY THE FIRST TO VOTE AT THE ONE USED IN BROOKLYN.

Total Vote Expected to Be Counted Five Minutes After Poll Closes.

The voting machine which is in use to-day in the Eighteenth Election District of the First Assembly District, Brooklyn, worked without a hitch. The voting place is in Atlantic avenue, between Hoyt and Bond streets.

Chairman John Voorhis and Michael J. Dady, of the Board of Elections, vote in the same precinct at No. 36 Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn. For that reason probably they had the new voting machine placed there to-day for experimental purposes.

Both used the machine, one casting a straight Democratic, the other a straight Republican ticket.

"I cast the first vote in Greater New York," announced Mr. Dady on reaching Police Headquarters. "That is, if all the clocks are right."

"I was first in line when the polls opened, and stepping up to the machine I pulled down the lever under the Republican column. It was all over in the fraction of a second. For speed in voting straight tickets the voting machine is a wonder and its accuracy is unquestioned."

Mr. Dady's enjoyment of the experience was somewhat spoiled by the man next in line, who yanked down a different lever and voted the straight Democratic ticket.

For a week a dummy machine has been on exhibit in the polling place and the voters have been instructed in its use so that those who voted early to-day asked no questions but went into the booth and pulled the necessary levers without any delay.

The result of the vote for each candidate will be known within five minutes after the polls close as the machine automatically records the vote cast for each candidate.

Twenty-three voters used the machine during the first fifteen minutes that the polls were open and sixty-seven voted in the first hour.

The early voting throughout Brooklyn was quite heavy, in most districts from 25 to 75 voters being polled before 7 o'clock.

Quick service through Sunday World Wants. If you've got all summer, don't use World Wants. If in a hurry, do.

M'AVOY—M'KEE FIGHT IS CLOSE.

Ex-Police Inspector McAvoy, who is the Tammany leader in the Twenty-third Assembly District, and Moses McKee, his Republican rival, were at it by dawn, and the indications were late this forenoon that they were holding each other pretty close.

McAvoy has had trouble in his organization, and McKee was making the most of it to-day. Both the leaders were well supplied with funds, and they were spending money like water in getting their adherents to the polls.

They succeeded so well that between the hours of 8 and 9 o'clock, when there is usually a lull in the voting, there were still lines of men in front of all the polling places waiting to deposit their ballots.

By noon the larger part of the district had voted, and the work of rounding up the stragglers began in earnest.

THE ECLIPSE "Elastic" Felt Mattress. GUARANTEED BY SIEGEL-COOPER CO. 6th Ave., 18th and 19th Sts. NEW YORK.

If other Mattresses fail to give you the sound, refreshing sleep you need just try Our Eclipse Elastic Felt Mattresses.

These are, we firmly believe, the mattresses of the future. They are pure, non-absorbent and elastic, and will last a lifetime. They are guaranteed not to mat or pack—form in lumps or hollows like hair, and, being softer and more elastic than hair, they will retain their shape and not have to be remade from time to time, as in the case of hair mattresses. Best of all, they are absolutely dust proof, moth proof, vermin proof and germ proof—therefore healthy, wholesome, hygienic and aseptic. And as they are fully a third cheaper than hair mattresses, the demand for them is great and constantly increasing. Try them once and you'll use no other kind in future. We are prepared to furnish them in the following sizes and prices:

- Width 3 ft., weight 30 lbs., 8.75
Width 3 ft. 6 in., weight 35 lbs., 9.50
