

NEW POLICE COMMISSIONER PARTRIDGE?

SAYS TO KATE CAREW IN

TO-MORROW'S SUNDAY WORLD

PLAYS BUILT ON POPULAR NOVELS TO BE SEEN AT THREE BROADWAY THEATRES.

Mansfield in "Beaucaire" at the Herald Square, "Alice of Old Vincennes" at the Garden and "Helmet of Navarre" at the Criterion Are Next Monday's Openings.

Three popular novels will be torn from their covers and translated to the Broadway footlights Monday night. Two of the products of the Indiana school of literature, which speaks rather well for the literature of the Mississippi Valley, Mr. Mansfield, at the Herald Square Theatre, will produce a play founded on Booth Tarkington's "Monsieur Beaucaire." At the Garden Theatre, the Herald Square, will produce a play founded on Booth Tarkington's "Monsieur Beaucaire." At the Garden Theatre, the Herald Square, will produce a play founded on Booth Tarkington's "Monsieur Beaucaire."

MANSFIELD'S "BEAUCAIRE."
Mr. Mansfield wishes to distinctly understand that his new play, "Beaucaire," is not a dramatization of a novel, but a drama in which the atmosphere of the novel, the characters and the incidents have been drawn upon to make a drama. The opening act is entirely original, and the concluding act is rounded off with entirely different motives and in a different manner from the book.

"ALICE OF OLD VINCENNES."
Miss Virginia Harned makes her stellar bow to a New York audience Monday night at the Garden Theatre. She will be seen in the title role of Alice of Old Vincennes, a dramatization by E. E. Rose of Maurice Thompson's famous American romance. The play deals with an episode of war in Revolutionary days in that part of the Western territory which is now the State of Indiana. The inhabitants were partly French, partly English, with a sprinkling of the heroes of the American Revolution. The play is a semi-military creature, of finer grade but full of the dash and impetuosity of the heroes of his two flags. The play follows closely the story of the book, which lends itself readily to dramatic treatment. The play is by Miss Adams, a presentation of the comedy in London during the Coronation period.

"THE HELMET OF NAVARRE."
The third of the popular novels to break from its covers and get behind the footlights is "The Helmet of Navarre," Bertha Runkle's stirring historical romance. There is love, adventure, the panoply of knighthood and the clash of steel in every line of the story, and it ought to make a pulsating play. The dramatization was made by the author in collaboration with Lawrence Marston, who is in charge of the stage presentation. The claim is made that the story has been followed with great closeness.

MISS RUSSELL'S NEW PLAY.
Lights will be out at the Lyceum Theatre Monday and Tuesday evening, but on Wednesday Miss Annie Russell will reopen the house in a new Clyde Fitch play, "The Girl and the Judge." After Miss Russell's successful work in "Catherine," "Miss Hobbs" and "A Royal Family," her appearance in a new role is a dramatic event of the greatest importance.

CURRENT ATTRACTIONS.
Maude Adams begins the fourth week of her success with "Quality Street" at the Knickerbocker Theatre. Though her season extends only over eight weeks, the advance sale already aggregates $2,000. Mr. J. M. Barrie, the author of "Quality Street," has called on Mr. Frohman and will play brief engagements for Miss Adams' presentation of the comedy in London during the Coronation period.

THE BAVARIAN PENANT ACTORS continue their successful season at Phillips' Germania Theatre. Their one hundredth performance will be celebrated on Monday with the distribution of soured chairs at the matinee and evening performances. The troupe is in progress for the holiday program, which will include "Max and Moritz," which will begin on Dec. 14.

THE SEVENTY-FIFTH PERFORMANCE of "The Liberty Bells" at the Madison Square Theatre will be celebrated Monday evening. The play, which has been running for seventy-five performances, is a pair of nimble dancers, will also make their first appearance.

DAN DALY IN HARLEM.
Dan Daly and "The New Yorkers" will entertain Harlem folks next week at the Harlem Opera-House. "The Unwelcome Mrs. Hatch" has grown in favor at the Manhattan Theatre since its first production, and a large advance sale indicates that Mrs. Hatch will continue to be popular. Mrs. Fiske's success as Mrs. Hatch is already commensurate with that achieved by her in her notable performances as Tess and Becky Sharp.

THE SEVEN SISTERS will give a recital Saturday afternoon, Dec. 1, in Carnegie Hall. The first popular concert at Metropolitan Opera-House will be given Sunday night. The concert will be given by Miss Pauline Cramer.

GRACE GEORGE'S WISCONSIN PORTRAYAL of Leticia Crofton in "Lottie Blair Parker" at the Metropolitan Theatre. "The Half-Way House" is one of the most interesting performances on Broadway. The attendance has been so great during the past week that Mr. Brady has deferred the promised presentation of the burlesque, "A Little Tragedy at Town."

KUBELIK'S FIRST CONCERT.
Intense interest is manifested in the first appearance of Jan Kubelik, the violinist, at Carnegie Hall on Monday night. The advance sale indicates a distinguished audience. Kubelik will play the Paganini Concerto in D major with which he created his European fame. His other selection will be the Spohr Concerto No. 3, and Wieniawski's Caprice. The concert will be given at Carnegie Hall on Monday afternoon, Dec. 1, in Carnegie Hall.

The Health of a Manly Man

Why will not all men insist upon having it, when it is so easy to get and to keep? Some men are eaten alive by tape-worms, others wander hopelessly for years diving slow deaths from bowel disease.
