MURPHY SAYS DON'T KNOW

Commissioner Pleads Ignorance on the Stand at Deputy Devery's Trial.

HAS TO REFRESH MEMORY

By Means of Notes and Appeals to Stenographers He Remembers a Little.

SOME OF THE THINGS MURPHY DIDN'T KNOW

"I don't know how long O'Neill has been in the Department. I never saw any papers with the name of Hollander in them. I never saw any record of O'Neill's trial."

Deputy Commissioner Devery

expressed himself as weary at the delay in his hearing to-day, and objection on his part to Justice Holbrook as the presiding magistrate in the case was withdrawn. He was immediately put on trial for oppression in removing from the force Policeman O'Neill, whom he had previously transferred all over town.

"I don't care what they do with the case," said the Deputy Commissioner before the hearing. "Just go and get through with it in a hurry. I am tired of waiting around here."

At the opening of court, which was held in Justice Holbrook's library in the Criminal Courts Building, Commissioner Murphy sat near the Justice. The Deputy Commissioner was seated far back in the room. Policeman O'Neill, the complaining witness, was near to the Big Chief.

Assistant District Attorney Gans opened the hearing by asking permission to add to the complainant by defining the nature and scope of the complaint. Justice Holbrook overruled it on the ground that the case was being argued to go on with the hearing. Commissioner Murphy was examined as the first witness. He spoke of his appointment as Commissioner of Police. He said he had appointed William S. Devery his first assistant.

"Was this appointment in writing?" asked Mr. Gans.

"That I can't recollect."

"Did you delegate to Mr. Devery the power to hold police trials?"

"I did. I was too busy to hold the trials myself, and I appointed him to that duty."

"Was this appointment in writing?"

"I could not say as to that," Commissioner Murphy here turned to Mr. Blow, one of the Police Department stenographers, and asked him if the appointment was in writing or if there was a record of it. Mr. Blow thought there was, but he was not sure.

A second stenographer came up and whispered in the Commissioner's ear. Then Mr. Murphy told the Court he believed there was a record of Devery's appointment to hold trials.

"Did you ever have a conversation with Mr. Devery relating to the trial of Policeman Edward O'Neill?" asked Mr. Gans.

"Never. I made it a rule never to allow Mr. Devery or Mr. York to speak to me about the trials after they had signed the papers."

"Is it a fact that Mr. Devery never allowed to see the record of the trial?"

"Well, I must correct my former answer. The day after the trial of Policeman O'Neill Mr. Devery came to my office and said he had a conversation with this policeman. He said I would learn all the particulars from the papers. So I did not."

"How are transfers of policemen made in the Police Department?"

"Either on the order of a policeman or on application of a superior for disciplinary purposes."

"Then the transfer of Policeman Edward O'Neill occurring after York took office was made by you on some one's recommendation?"

"It might seem so, but by explaining further I can show how the transfer could have been made by me without my knowing the circumstances."

"Has any one but you the power to make transfers?"

"No one."

"During his explanation Commissioner Murphy drew from his pocket the record of Policeman O'Neill's trial and handed it to the Court. He said that it has been in the department," he said, "but this is a terrible record. It is handed to the paper to Justice Holbrook, who glanced over it and returned it to him. At no time in the trial of O'Neill was objection to every interrogation, the Commissioner said rather hotly. "I am ready and willing to answer any question."

Mr. Gans concluded with the witness without learning anything from him. Mr. Elkus took the witness.

"Are all lines imposed by you?"

"They are."

Shakes Hands with Judge.

When Commissioner Murphy's examination was concluded, he shook hands with Justice Holbrook and left the room. Assistant District Attorney Schurman escorted him from the room to the District Attorney's office, where he had a conference with Mr. Phillip. Police stenographer Pezzini was the next witness. He read from his shorthand notes the famous trial room colloquy between Devery and O'Neill in which the trial officer said to the policeman, "You are a bum, and I am your choice."

Remarks out of which grew the present proceeding.

Joseph F. Hargerty, the official stenographer of the Police Department, who took the notes of the trial of Policeman Edward O'Neill before Deputy Commissioner York, identified his notes, which were offered in evidence.

Court adjourned at 10.30 A. M. to-morrow.

STOWAWAY 15 DAYS IN PACKING CASE.

Box Breaks Open and Man Rolls Out as Stevedores Unload Liner Palatia—He Cannot Live.

While stevedores were unloading the Hamburg-American liner Palatia at her pier in Hoboken this afternoon a large oblong packing case struck against the dock. One end of it was broken open, and a man fell from the box onto the wharf.

The stevedores, badly frightened, ran away. The foreman, Max Peterson, called for help.

Dr. Depo, the ship's surgeon, was summoned. He saw that the man was still alive, although unconscious. A hurry call was sent for an ambulance, and the man was taken to St. Mary's Hospital. He is very weak and emaciated and cannot live.

The Palatia is a slow steamer and has been fifteen days on her way here from Hamburg, having arrived yesterday. There was nothing in the box to identify the man. He appeared to be about thirty-two years old, had brown hair and it is believed he is a German. It is supposed that he was boxed up by friends in Hamburg who hoped to have him smuggled across as freight.

In the box were three or four boxes of bread and a bottle of whiskey, but no water. The box was stowed away with many pieces of freight.

The man had evidently been overcome for the want of air and water. In his efforts to escape he had managed to pry out a part of one of the boards.

The case had been marked "Diamond P." after the usual manner of addressing packages by initials in sea shipments. It is believed that some one was to have received the box at the pier and release the man, but the authorities have not been able to discover any one who was expecting the man.

MISS STONE NOW SAID TO BE SAFE.

Secretary Hay Receives a Hopeful Cable Message from Spencer Eddy, Our Agent at Constantinople.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Secretary Hay received a cable this afternoon from Spencer Eddy, United States Charge d'Affaires at Constantinople, saying that he had received information, based on what he regarded as good authority, to the effect that Miss Stone and Mme. Tsilka are still alive.

Notwithstanding the flood of conflicting rumors which has reached it as to the fate of Miss Stone, the State Department has worked all along upon the theory that the woman was alive. The difficulty appears to be one of terms. It has been impossible to convince the brigands that the $66,000 in the hands of Mr. Dickinson represents every cent of money that has been subscribed toward ransoming the captive, and they are holding out for a minimum of $100,000, which is only $10,000 less than the original demand.

It is stated that not a single dollar has been subscribed to the ransom fund since the outpouring of the first two or three days following the appeal for contributions.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Dec. 2.—Perley A. Stone received news from Washington to-day that the United States Consul in Turkey believes his sister, Miss Ellen M. Stone, is still alive.

Mr. Stone was jubilant, but he intends to try and induce the Government to do something emphatic toward rescuing his sister.

"Warships, not money, are needed to rescue my sister," says Stone. "I am determined to have done with suspense, and shall appeal direct to the United States Government to send warships to Turkey and use the threat of guns instead of diplomatic appeals."

"I believe that if a fleet of warships went to the Turkish port and demanded the speedy release of my sister that it would be accomplished."

"This I shall ask our Government to do."

"My sister's abduction is not, I think, the action of irresponsible brigands, but is the result of a political plot in which Turkey and Bulgaria are involved."

"The United States should step forward in this matter. If it does not, it resists itself to the position of a second-class power, as far as the protection of its citizens goes."

"Should Turkey be called upon to demand from Bulgaria the release of my sister it would not cause her death. Let the United States peremptorily tell Turkey that it wants Ellen Stone, and Turkey will see to it that she is given up."

The State Department will be immediately appealed to by Miss Stone's relatives.

Hitherto these relatives have expressed themselves with reluctance and caution on the subject of Government forceful interference in the matter. "There are not four United States warships near Turkish waters. They are as follows: The Dixie, at Smyrna, the Chicago, at Villafranca, the Albany, and the Nashville, at Genoa. Miss Stone's mother, who lives in Chelsea, is reported to be in worry over her daughter and it is feared she will die."

NEW FERRY-BOATS IN COMMISSION.

SWIFT CRAFT RUN TO AND FROM BROOKLYN.

Made Their First Trips To-Day From Forty-second Street to Broadway.

Two new boats of the Brooklyn Ferry Company—the John Ingham and the B. Hollis—began running this morning to-day that the foot of Broadway, Brooklyn, and the new ferry house at the foot of East Forty-second street, Manhattan. Both boats have double decks and are up-to-date, having all the modern appliances for convenience and comfort. They are made of steel and will make the trip in fifteen minutes. For the present the boats will run every half hour from 5.30 A. M. to 9 o'clock P. M.

Not many persons were on the new boats this morning owing to the general ignorance of the fact that the line was in operation. The men who make up the crews have been trained under a new system by Dr. Hughes, of St. Catherine's Hospital, Brooklyn, to aid any passenger who happens to meet with an accident on the boat. Each one is supplied with a box containing bandages and medical appliances.

"You would prefer one active young man who lives in the district to someone outside the district," Perry Belmont, for instance.

"It is natural," replied the Commissioner, "to have some one you know who lives in the district."

Police Captain Diamond, who was convicted in Albany for neglect of duty and fined $1,000, was at Police Headquarters to-day.

Commissioner Murphy was asked if he had taken any action in the case of Capt. Diamond. He replied that he had not yet received the transcript from Albany.

Twentieth Century Ingenuity is constantly at work to keep the Pennsylvania Limited as near the point of perfection as possible. Electrically lighted and soundlessly heated, it especially appeals to the winter traveler.

MURPHY WOULDN'T RUN FOR CONGRESS

ADMITS HE WAS OFFERED THE NOMINATION.

Commissioner Prefers an Active Young Man in Seventh District, Not Perry Belmont.

Police Commissioner Murphy was shown a despatch from Washington to-day to the effect that he had been offered the Democratic nomination for Congress from the Seventh District, which takes in Staten Island and some districts on the lower west side of this city.

The despatch had it that he had declined the nomination on the ground that some active young man should have it, and that the nomination would possibly go to Perry Belmont.

"There have been no nominations yet. The Convention will not meet for two weeks. I believe that the nomination should go to some active young man," said the Commissioner.

"You were offered a nomination?"

"Yes," replied Commissioner Murphy. "That is true, but I still believe that some active young man should be chosen."

Newman is making these declarations from the inner side of the Harlem Police Court prison, he having been

The charges grew out of a deal in shares of Southern Pacific common and Northern Pacific.

FRANK J. GOULD WEDS MISS KELLY

Marriage Took Place This Afternoon at the Home of the Bride's Mother, Several Weeks Ahead of the Time Heretofore Announced.

Frank Jay Gould and Miss Helen Kelly were married at the home of the bride's mother this afternoon at 5 o'clock. The wedding was not expected to take place for several weeks.

At 4.45 o'clock the only carriage in front of the house was that of Mr. Gould. There were no evidences that guests were expected. The marriage took place in the front drawing-room and attracted a crowd in front of the house. The drawing-room was magnificently decorated with white roses and chrysanthemums and maiden-hair ferns.

No announcement had been made, and the news will come as a surprise to all except the intimate friends of the family.

Not Long Engaged. The young couple have not been engaged long. It was not until October that rumors of the engagement began to get abroad. Shortly after this it was formally announced.

There was considerable talk because of the fact that Miss Kelly, who is the daughter of the late Edward Kelly, is a Catholic and Mr. Gould, who is the youngest son of Jay Gould, is a Protestant. It was said that Miss Kelly had changed her faith and become a Protestant because her mother was a Protestant.

Change of Religion Denied. This was denied by members of the Kelly family and the young woman's uncle wrote a formal denial to the newspapers to this effect.

Miss Kelly is only seventeen years old. She is the granddaughter of the late Eugene Kelly, who at his death left a large fortune.

She lives with her mother at No. 17 East Thirty-second street.

Mr. Gould is twenty-four years old. He is said to have a fortune of $12,000,000. He is very much interested in yachting and has been busy with the construction of a new yacht which it was said he intended to use as a bridal gift for a trip to Europe.

This yacht will not be off the ways until the Spring, and so if he wants to use it on his honeymoon it will be necessary to postpone the trip abroad until next summer.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gould, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gould and Miss Helen Gould witnessed the wedding ceremony.

SHOT HALL BOY TWICE.

C. C. Harris Wounded Gustave Gudmansen in Tower Building.

Gustave Gudmansen, a hall boy employed in the Tower Building, at No. 50 Broadway, was shot twice in the right leg this afternoon in the Tower Building by a young man who was trying to remove some furniture from an office on the ninth floor of the building.

The assailant was arrested by a policeman from the Old Slip station and was taken to the Centre Street Court. He said his name was C. C. Harris and was remained. An ambulance was summoned from the Hudson Street Hospital, and a surgeon dressed the boy's injuries, which are not serious. Gudmansen lives at No. 62 East Fourteenth street.

Gudmansen says that on Saturday the young man who shot him called at the building and, presenting a key, said that he was going to remove the law books and the furniture of Col. Edwin T. Tallafiero, who had moved his offices from the Tower Building to No. 132 Nassau street. Gudmansen said nothing could be taken without a written order.

The young man began piling up the things. Gudmansen admits that he struck the young man. He went away saying "I'll fix you."

Gudmansen was returning from his lunch this afternoon, and while in the hallway of the first floor of the building he ran across this young man. Gudmansen says that without any warning the young man drew a revolver and shot him twice.

The shooting created a good deal of excitement, as there were many persons about at the time.

ONE MORE POINT FOR COL. MEADE.

COURT REFUSES TO STRIKE OUT TESTIMONY.

Evidence Now All in and a Decision is Likely Soon to Be Reached.

Partisans of Col. R. L. Meade, undergoing court-martial at the Brooklyn Navy-Yard, were encouraged to-day when the court denied a motion of Judge Advocate Niblack to strike out all testimony that had been presented regarding the condition of Major Lauchheimer in Boston at various times during 1897.

Major Lauchheimer was one of those instrumental in bringing the charge of drunkenness against Col. Meade, and when the same charge was brought home to him the trial became highly amusing. The court's refusal to strike it out is taken to mean that they consider it material and will be influenced by it in reaching a decision on the charges against Col. Meade.

Following the refusal of the motion Assistant Judge-Advocate Fuller was placed on the stand to rebut the Lauchheimer evidence. Then the Judge-Advocate began summing up. He will be followed by Attorney Semple for Col. Meade. The sessions of the court end to-day.
