$50,000 ON MAHER TO BEAT SHARKEY.

Irish Champion's Backers Convinced that Ex-Sailor Will Be Defeated Friday Night.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 12.—Supporters will have no difficulty in placing their money next Friday night when the sailor fights Peter Maher here. Sharkey has the odds of 6 to 5, but the Irish champion's supporters say they will cover as much as $50,000 at these odds. The latter are satisfied that Maher will win and will back their views with the long green to any figure. If appearances indicate anything Maher should win. He is looking splendid. Constant work has worn off all adipose tissue and his muscles stand out strong.

all over his arms, chest and back. His color is good and he says he was never better in his life. No trouble is anticipated on the night of the bout. The recent decision of the judges in favor of boxing does away with the possibility of interference. No referee has yet been chosen for the contest, but it is hardly probable that the men will agree upon the club's referee. Should the club management insist upon their man, it is likely that the fighters may refuse to go into the ring. Maher this morning began the final work for the night. He avoided an hour this morning and the same time this afternoon to gymnasium exercise. After punching the bag he wrestled with Joe Goldard for twenty minutes. After a few minutes' rest he tackled the horse. In company with Pete Lowry he took a fifteen-mile journey through Fairmount Park. After a cold shower bath he had a good rub down and took a rest. Lowry will not allow his charge to let up in his work. He thinks Peter will do better to work hard than to take matters easier.

JURY MAKES SHIRKING RAILROAD PAY DOUBLE.

Treatment of the Delaware and Lackawanna, Which Appealed $9,000 Verdict, Is Considered Significant for Tunnel Victims.

A verdict of peculiar interest in view of the many pending suits on account of the tunnel disaster was rendered in the Supreme Court today by a jury before Justice McLean. The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad appealed from a verdict of $9,000 damages for the death of John Frounfelker, and the case was retried to-day.

Justice Leventritt, of the Supreme Court, said with much warmth: "A verdict which puts such trifling value for the life of a child cannot be entertained by this court. It is wholly inadequate. The Appellate lately held that $200 was too small damages for the loss of a child's life."

The case was that of George Terhune as administrator of an six-year-old daughter Maudie. The testimony showed that one of the double dump wagons of the Joseph W. Cook Contracting Company racing with two others down West End avenue fell at Sixty-sixth street last June and killed the child. The suit was for $5,000. When the verdict for only $900 was rendered, J. W. Harding, counsel for Terhune, successfully moved to set it aside and for a new trial.

NO LIGHT NOR CARS ON STATEN ISLAND.

Strike in Power-House at Livingston Ties Up Electric Plant and Four Trolley Lines.

There is every prospect that Staten Island will be in total darkness to-night and that thousands of residents of that borough will have to walk home many weary miles from the ferry after the business day in Manhattan. One hundred employees in the big power-house of the New York and Staten Island Electric Company, at Livingston, went on strike at 4 o'clock this afternoon, completely paralyzing the electric lighting system of the entire island and tying up the following trolley lines: Shore Line, Brighton Heights Division, Jersey Street Line, Bull's Head system. The Evening World called up Supt. F. T. Lewis on the long-distance telephone fifteen minutes after the strike had been declared. The information he imparted is not encouraging to those Staten Islanders who may chance to read this newspaper on their way home.

It is understood that the men struck because of a grievance they have against a foreman of the name of Bain. The information of The Evening World is that Bain took charge of the Livingston power-house only yesterday, and made himself obnoxious with great rapidity. It was decided this afternoon by the employees that Bain should go or the plant would shut down. Bain remained. The entire force went out—engineers, firemen, electricians, experts, oilers, laggers and linemen. The big engines and dynamos were stopped and street cars came to a standstill all over the island. Passengers, motormen and conductors fumed at the delay and it was hours before some of the street cars were able to get away. The power house is situated in a private house. For the street lighting service alone the company collects $125,000 a year from the city. Unless enough men can be secured to start up the plant to-night Staten Island will be dark as a tomb from St. George to Tottenville. Houses in Darkness. There are many houses on Staten Island that have no other but electric light. There promises to be great scurrying for candles with the gathering of darkness. Word of the strike was sent to Police Headquarters and arrangements are being made to send out extra policemen to-night. There have been many robberies on Staten Island lately and the prospect of a night of darkness is looked upon with a feeling akin to terror. Many citizens have telephoned to the power house asking that some sort of a compromise that will allow the men to work to-night be arranged, but the company appears to be firm in its stand. J. H. Swinerton, of the New York and Staten Island Electric Company, hurried from his office at St. George to the power-house as soon as he heard of the strike. His efforts to bring about a settlement were fruitless. It was announced late this afternoon that an effort would be made to secure power from the Midland Street Railway Co., which owns the only other electric plant on Staten Island, for the movement of some of the street cars. There is little prospect of any electric light for streets or houses.

VAST INCREASE IN ASSESSMENT ROLLS.

MILLIONS ADDED TO VALUE OF TAXABLE PROPERTY.

New Machine by Which Taxes May Be Sworn OR Adopted by Mr. Wells.

SOME NOTABLE ASSESSMENTS.

Table with 2 columns: Name and Amount. Includes Richard Croker ($25,000), John F. Carroll ($5,000), John D. Rockefeller (1,000,000), Cornelius Vanderbilt (100,000), Alfred G. Vanderbilt (500,000), Met. Street Ry. ($2,000,000).

Tax books are open to-day, and Father Knickerbocker has an opportunity to count up his worldly goods. The assessed valuation is $3,122,121,669. Personal property in the same great city is assessed for $3,472,785,802.

This brings the grand total of Father Knickerbocker's wealth, both real and personal, to $6,594,907,471.

Following is a complete comparative statement of the last two assessments:

Table with 2 columns: Real Estate 1901 and 1902. Lists values for Manhattan, The Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens, Richmond.

Table with 2 columns: Personal Property 1901 and 1902. Lists values for Manhattan, The Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens, Richmond.

Total Real and Personal. 1901: $6,537,707,944. 1902: $6,594,907,471.

It is the personal assessment which the millionaires are always most desirous of "swearing off."

Perhaps the most noteworthy step in advance to be credited to the taxon administration has been taken by Commissioner James L. Wells, President of the Department of Taxes and Assessments, who has invented a praying machine.

This machine is such a time-saver and so simple in its mechanism, that the only wonder is that no one thought of it before.

During the next ten weeks each individual in the horde anxious to swear off taxes will operate the praying stamp. All he will have to do is to grab a handle and press down, and the machine will then do the swearing for him. In fact, the praying machine is merely an adaptation of the ordinary mechanical rubber stamp.
