NO BLACKMAIL, FOODY INSISTS.

Accused Police Officer Makes Indignant Denial When Cross-Examined.

CASE GOES OVER AGAIN.

Jerome Accuses Inspector Harley of Trying to Shield the Captain - Patrolman Says There Was No Revolt.

The trial of Police Capt. Michael E. Foody, of the West Thirty-seventh street police station, on numerous charges of failing to enforce the excise laws, was resumed before Commissioner Partridge today.

"I have had but five plain-clothes men since I have been in the precinct," he said complacently, "while my predecessor was permitted ten. I asked Col. Partridge for more men but they were denied me. When I was notified that I could not have more plain-clothes men I employed two citizens at my own expense and they secured a great mass of evidence on which I applied for warrants for a number of violators of the Excise law, but the Magistrate refused to issue the warrants, saying that the men who furnished the evidence were stool-pigeons."

"Did you ever do or say anything to impress your men that you did not mean what you said or did not want them to follow your instructions?" "I never did, and it was my intention that they should believe that I was sincere."

"How many men do you think it would be necessary to have to guarantee the effecting of enforcement of the Excise laws in your precinct?" "That would be impossible to tell."

"Well, what is your opinion?" "Five hundred and ninety-two men."

Then he gave a nice little slap at Mr. Jerome by saying that the violators whom he and his men had arrested had been held in court, while those arrested by the District Attorney and his agents had been discharged.

Jerome Cross-Examines. District Attorney Jerome cross-examined Capt. Foody, and asked him why he demanded personal reports from patrolmen.

"I was responsible for the precinct and I wanted to know the reports for my own personal information."

Mr. O'Connell objected to this line of questioning and the judge let him argue about it.

When asked about a saloon kept by a vice-president of the Liquor Dealers' Association in his precinct, Capt. Foody declared it was a "thieves' resort."

About the revolt of the plain-clothes men it was a prearranged job. "Their men were without any sense of justice," Jerome said. "They acted in a spirit of revenge, because of the abolishment of the three-platoon system."

"Did you ever take anything from a liquor dealer?" "Never in my life."

"How even a small gratuity?" "Never," replied Foody hotly.

"What about your plain-clothes men, do they make written reports to you?" "The records will show that."

Inspector Harley testified he had been frequently in Capt. Foody's precinct on Sundays and there was no evidence that the excise law was being violated.

Jerome asked Harley if he hadn't made sixty arrests in Foody's precinct, over the captain's head.

"No, sir," was the reply, "there was only one arrest, and Foody knew about it."

"He's on the stand to whitewash Foody," the District Attorney declared. "Why did you tell Foody about that warrant?"

"Because I understood Foody was trying to get evidence himself and his men were known. For that reason I took the matter out of Foody's hands."

Several sergeants from the West Thirty-seventh street station corroborated Capt. Foody's statement as to instructions to the patrolmen in regard to excise violations on Sunday.

Policeman Charles Wilson, denied that there had been any revolt among the patrolmen.

"I made the excise arrests on March 10," he said, "pursuant to the instructions Capt. Foody and sergeants received in my every Sunday."

HOPE IS INCREASING FOR "LITTLE QUEEN'S" LIFE.

The Latest Information from Wilhelmina Is Optimistic, Though Her Condition Is Still Critical—People Very Anxious for Beloved Sovereign.

THE HAGUE, May 5.—Hope is growing for the life of Queen Wilhelmina.

Unofficial information from Castle Loo late this afternoon was optimistic, thought it was well understood that the condition of the Queen remained critical.

The doctors' bulletins from the castle were extremely guarded, but confirmed the increasing hope that the Queen will survive.

A bulletin issued at Castle Loo this morning was as follows: "As has been feared, the illness from which Queen Wilhelmina is suffering put an end yesterday evening to the hopes for a happy event the realization of which was expected in September next."

"All things considered, Her Majesty's condition is satisfactory at the present moment."

A bulletin posted at Castle Loo at 2 P. M. to-day announced that the condition of Queen Wilhelmina continued satisfactory.

The more reassuring tone of the official bulletins did little to allay the apprehensions of the public regarding the condition of the Queen. The streets were dotted with despondent groups of persons anxiously discussing the exceedingly scant information permitted to leak out.

The offices of the official newspapers were besieged with inquirers and surrounded by people awaiting bulletins. Telegrams of inquiry arrived from all parts of the world. All the foreign diplomats either personally called for news or sent their secretaries to make inquiries about Her Majesty's health.

The doctors remained with Her Majesty at the Palace through the night, and neither the Queen Mother nor the Prince Consort went to bed. The premature confinement of the Queen—fearful from the time she was stricken with typhoid three weeks ago—occurred at 6 o'clock last night. She was attended by Prof. Rosenstein, Dr. Rosenberg and others. Her suffering was intense.

The people of Holland, who dearly love their youthful sovereign, are bowed with grief over the sudden and distressing news from Het Loo. One year ago the Queen went through a similar illness and there was great disappointment among her subjects, who looked forward to greeting an heir to the throne.

Should the Queen die the House of Orange will no longer be the reigning family, as her successor will be Prince Ernest Charles Alexander Frederic Grand Duke of Saxe-Weimar Eisenach, a typical German Prince, who inherits through his grandmother, the Princess Sophie of the Netherlands, a sister of Queen Wilhelmina's father.

QUEEN'S SPEECH TO HER PEOPLE ON THE DAY OF HER CORONATION.

I have now assumed the Government, and I have issued a proclamation to my well-beloved people. The hour has now arrived when, amid the faithful States general, and invoking the holy name of God, I shall pledge myself to the people of the Fatherland to maintain their rights and privileges.

On this day I draw more closely the solemn tie existing between myself and my people. The very ancient union of the Netherlands and the House of Orange is confirmed afresh.

Beautiful is my vocation. Beautiful is my task. I am happy and grateful to be able to govern the Netherlands people, a nation small in numbers but great in virtue of its strength of character. I esteem it a privilege and a pleasing duty to devote all my strength to the prosperity and welfare of our fatherland.

The House of Orange can never, yes, never, do enough for the Netherlands. I need your support and co-operation, and I am convinced you will lend me these in order that we may be able to work together for the honor and prosperity of our Netherland people. May this be the aim of our life, and may God bless you and my labors for the salvation of the Fatherland.

The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician know of what it is composed. AN HONEST FRIEND.

There is not one thing on earth that could enter a family and do as much honest good and bring as much happiness as in certain cases where coffee drinking is left off and Postum Food Coffee used in its place.

A family in Iowa Park, Texas, furnishes a good illustration. The mother says: "I want to tell you what happened in our family when we left off coffee and took up Postum. About eight months ago we made the change. I had been for quite a while troubled with rheumatism in my right hip and shoulder, swimming of the head and fluttering of the heart, so I thought I had heart trouble."

"Sometimes in walking my head would swim so that I would be obliged to sit down. I had other disagreeable feelings I cannot describe, but they will be readily understood by coffee drinkers if they will compare it."

"My family were also more or less ill and were all coffee drinkers. Well, we gave up the coffee and started in on Postum Food Coffee. I had a child, the oldest was four children, even the youngest was four years old. I had been for quite a while having the rheumatism in my right hip and shoulder, swimming of the head and fluttering of the heart, so I thought I had heart trouble."
