

SHE A BRIDE, HE A DESERTER

The Hopeless Plight of Poor Little Mrs. Clausen Peacock—Abandoned by Friends.

HUSBAND IN A CELL.

How Peacock Was Betrayed After Going to the Philippines on Transport Unrecognized by Comrades.

Poor Mamie Clausen Peacock, a pretty little shop girl in Brooklyn, who has tasted the bliss of married life for but two weeks, is suffering the pangs that only a wife deprived of her husband and breadwinner can understand and appreciate. Even sympathy is denied her, for her relatives and friends have all turned from her in her hour of despair because of the crime her husband is accused of.

Mamie is just eighteen, and before her wedding had been employed as a stock girl in a large Brooklyn department store. She lived with her aunt, Mrs. Henry Slevens, at No. 39 Atlantic avenue, as she had no other living relative who took any interest in her. For the past four years, however, there had been one slight ray of happiness in her life of toil and sorrow. This was the love of a youth named William Peacock. He was nineteen and impulsive. For years he had been a driver for a butcher shop at No. 73 Court street, but one day about a year ago he decided to join the regular army. He therefore enlisted in the Eleventh Cavalry, at that time quartered in Fort Myer, Va.

His Desertion.

Unfortunately for him, his father fell ill about this time and he asked for a furlough in order that he might return home and see him before he died. As he had only been enlisted three days, this was refused him. Accordingly he did what he may have occasion to regret all the rest of his days.

On his return home he found that his father had died. The knowledge appeared to break his spirit, and he tried to rejoin his comrades at Fort Myer. He heard that the regiment was going to the Philippines in a few days and he therefore sought the transport which was to carry them and engaged as a cook on board of her. His own messmates, however, did not recognize him, so much had he been changed by sorrow.

For a while he remained a cook on the transport, Croke, but after a time, on landing in New York, he left his position and returned to the butcher shop in Brooklyn.

Then matters began to assume a rosy hue for him and his little sweetheart. Every one had apparently forgotten that he was a deserter, and after resuming his courtship with Mamie, they quietly slipped away from all observation. They went to St. Charles's Roman Catholic Church, No. 21 Sidney place, where they were married by the Rev. Father Quarey. They went to live at No. 38 Atlantic avenue, and happiness reigned until last Friday night, when a boy came to the door and informed Peacock that he was sought for by the officers of the Adams street police station, charged with having stolen some money from the butcher shop where he was employed.

The Arrest.

Angered that such a false accusation should be made against him, he proceeded to the station house and asked the sergeant whether there really was such a warrant for his arrest. The sergeant looked at his mother and could not find any such charge. He was about to say so when he discovered a letter on the desk calling for the arrest of William Peacock on the charge of deserting from the regular army. Questioned by the officer about the truth of the charge, Peacock admitted everything, and was detained at the station house until yesterday morning, when he was taken down the harbor to Governor's Island to await his trial by court martial.

Mamie's Little Bride Is Almost Willing to Take Her Fate.

Mamie's little bride is almost willing to take her fate. She has sought to obtain employment at the old store, but this she has been refused, because of a rule that no married women shall be given positions. Thus, she is barred from earning her own livelihood.

ADMITTS KILLING MAN 10 YEARS AGO

Man Arrested for Being Drunk in Brooklyn Confesses to Old Crime When He Is Accused of It.

A drinking bout indulged in by Edward A. Cunningham, of No. 2493 Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, is likely to lead to worse punishment than having to stay in a police station over night. Cunningham was arrested last night by Patrolman Dunn, of the Ralph avenue station, at Manhattan Crossing. He was wildly intoxicated and resisted arrest until he was overpowered.

On examination in Gates Avenue Court this morning it was discovered that he had murdered a man in Massachusetts ten years ago and had been sentenced to ten years' imprisonment in the Charlestown Penitentiary.

When Cunningham was arraigned before Magistrate Furlong, Dunn showed a clipping taken from a Worcester paper giving a complete account of the murder of a William Baxter for whom Cunningham had worked in Holden. The prisoner confessed that he had committed the murder July 6, 1892, in a bar room where he was drinking. He maintained that he served his full term at the Charlestown Prison and was released last summer. He said that his parents spent $50,000 to have him acquitted. A Congressman John R. Thayer, of Boston, acted as his attorney. Magistrate Furlong was not inclined to believe that Cunningham had been released and accordingly had him taken to Raymond Street Jail, where he was held in default of $200 bail until the officials might have time to correspond with the authorities in Massachusetts.

PEACOCK AND BRIDE WHO FINDS HIM A DESERTER.

GIRLS ESCAPE FROM TRAINING SCHOOL, LURED BY LIGHTS OF TENDERLOIN.

Two Inmates of Brooklyn Institution Waited Till Every One Else Was Asleep and Climbed Over Back Fence.

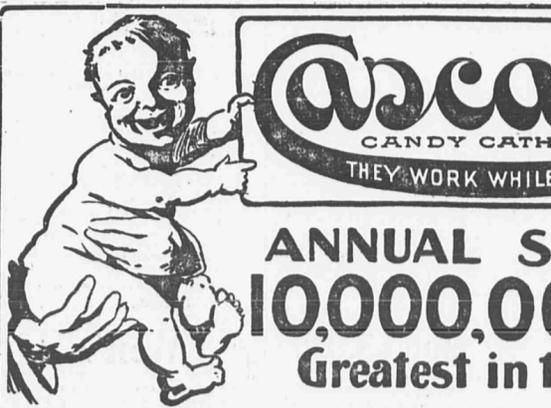

Two fifteen-year-old girls made their escape from the Brooklyn Training School, No. 1483 Pacific street, about 1 o'clock this morning. They were Inez Bruce and Emma Swasland. They had both sworn to make the attempt and after they thought every one was wrapped in the arms of Morpheus they descended noiselessly to the kitchen, clad in their street clothing, and pulling back the locks made their way across the long back yard and climbed the fence at the extreme rear.

The girls had been considered incorrigible by the matron, Mrs. Schwenck, and it is almost with a feeling of relief that she learned of their escape this morning. "I have lectured and advised them over and over again," she said to-day, "to try and be good so that they might be released the sooner, but they would not heed my warnings even though I was compelled to administer corporal punishment at times."

Inez Bruce was committed to the training school last October by Magistrate Watson, of the Gates Avenue Court, on the complaint of her aunt, who claimed that the girl was constantly running away from home. The Swasland girl had only been in the institution about three weeks. She was taken there by her father, who said that her mother had a bad influence over the child and was trying to corrupt her morals. The two girls had formed an almost immediate liking for each other's society, and it has long been suspected that they were in secret hobnobbing up some plot to escape.

Four Murder Cases Up.

Judge Foster, of Court No. 2 General Sessions, to-day fixed the trial of four murder cases, for this month in this order: Carmine De Mitter, Oct. 9; Duncan Young, 13; William Coyne, 15; Charles Cook, 22. District Attorney Jerome announced he would attend the remaining twenty-nine murder cases with all possible despatch.

AGED WOMAN DIES OF RABIES.

Mrs. Adelaide Wheeler, Bitten by Dog Eight Weeks Ago, Passes Away in Agony.

TOOK PASTEUR CURE.

Friends Believed Her Well, but Disease Developed After Treatment—Others Attacked by Animal.

Mrs. Adelaide Wheeler, an elderly widow, of No. 2721 Fort Hamilton avenue, Brooklyn, died late yesterday of hydrophobia. She was bitten eight weeks ago by a dog, and did not develop the disease until Sunday night.

Immediately after Mrs. Wheeler was bitten she was taken to the Pasteur Institute, in Manhattan, and was treated by the physicians there until last Friday, when it was thought she was safe from danger. Up to that time there had not been the slightest indication of rabies.

Was Still in Fear.

Mrs. Wheeler was still in fear, however, and these fears were shown to have good foundation on Sunday night, when she became alarmingly ill. She was put to bed, and Dr. Hynes, of Borough Park, was called to treat her. On learning the history of the case he said she had hydrophobia. He treated her steadily, but she grew worse and died in frightful agony.

Mrs. Wheeler, who was sixty-two years old, was bitten on the morning of Aug. 9, just as she was going out to take a walk. She had been preceded by her nephew, William Downing, who lives in the same house.

As Downing went down the street a little yellow cur ran up and snapped at his legs. The dog's teeth tore his trousers and scratched his leg. He kicked the animal off, and it continued on toward the house.

Mrs. Wheeler was just coming out, and Downing turned and called to her to look out. His warning was too late, as the dog sunk its fangs in her right leg, just above the shin bone, the teeth penetrating an artery. Mrs. Wheeler was thrown to the ground, and she sprang her arm in the fall.

After Dr. Hynes had treated her for a week he advised that Mrs. Wheeler be sent to the hospital at the foot of East Sixteenth street, Manhattan, where the Pasteur treatment is administered free by the city. Mrs. Wheeler took the treatment for fifteen days, and then she was discharged, as cured by Drs. Cabot and Wilson, who treated her.

Symptoms Develop.

She appeared all right until last Saturday morning, when she complained of pains in the stomach. Gradually symptoms of hydrophobia became more apparent, and Dr. Hynes and another physician whom he had called in decided Mrs. Wheeler was beyond hope. All they could do was to administer opiates to relieve her intense suffering.

Mrs. Wheeler did not froth at the mouth or bark, as is usual with hydrophobic victims, but she showed an aversion to water, her limbs twitched and she was nervous all the time. She will be buried in Greenwood Cemetery tomorrow.

The dog also bit Charles Hoff, of Greenwood avenue, Brooklyn, and several other persons whose names have not been learned. The animal was shot by a policeman the day Mrs. Wheeler was bitten.

Mrs. Wheeler's two sons are indignant that their mother was discharged as cured from the New York institution. They say the wound in her leg had not entirely healed at the time, although it appeared to be in a healthy condition.

Every mother possesses information of vital value to her young daughter. That daughter is a precious legacy, and the responsibility for her future is largely in the hands of the mother. The mysterious change that develops the thoughtless girl into the thoughtful woman should find its mother on the watch day and night. As she cares for the physical well-being of her daughter, so will the woman be, and her children too.

Case of a New York Girl of Interest to Every Mother and Daughter in the Land.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham—I hope you will publish this letter, for I want all mothers to know how much good your medicine did my young daughter. Her health broke down about six months ago, and, although she is large for her age, I did not understand what was wrong with her; the doctor did not, either, for he treated her for her heart, which pained her a good deal; but he did not do her any good, and we were afraid heart trouble would carry her off. Every day she kept getting whiter and thinner. She had no appetite, and she sat around without any ambition, and was always tired to do anything. All night long she would moan in her sleep, as though in terrible pain."

"I felt terribly discouraged; I was spending money for doctor's bills right along, but she was receiving no help. At that time I was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I read in one of your books about young girls. I decided to drop the doctor and give her your medicine. I wish you could see the change in her, and the pink cheeks Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has given her. She had taken but half a bottle when menstruation started again and her heart trouble went away like magic. I had her continue the medicine, and now she is fat, rosy and perfectly healthy. Menstruation is regular and painless and I owe my thanks to you and to your wonderful medicine for her good health."—MRS. MARGARET PHELAN, 673 Tenth Avenue, New York City.

SPECIAL ADVICE TO YOUNG WOMEN FREE.

From her vast experience in treating female ills, extending over 20 years, Mrs. Pinkham has gained a knowledge which is of untold value to every ailing young woman. Her advice never fails to help. If you need such help write her. Address Lynn, Mass.

A medicine that has restored so many women to health and can produce proof of the fact must be regarded with respect. This is the record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which cannot be equalled by any other medicine the world has ever produced.

It is well to remember these facts when some druggist tries to get you to buy something which he says is "just as good." That is impossible, as no other medicine has such a record of cures as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; so do not experiment with untried medicines, but insist upon the one you know is best.

$5,000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letter and signature of above testimonial, which will prove the above goods to be genuine. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.
