

"Circulation Books Open to All."

"Circulation Books Open to All."

NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1903.

PRICE ONE CENT.

PRICE ONE CENT.

GRIP HERE AGAIN, BUT IS Milder

Business and Professional Worlds Crippled by the Insidious Winter Visitor, and Many Patients Are Laid Up.

HOW YOU WILL KNOW YOU HAVE THE GRIP.

- Pains in the back?
- A chill down your backbone?
- Then an aching fever?
- A running nose?
- An intermittent headache?
- Stiff and aching joints?
- A lazy, sleepy feeling?
- Eyes that feel swollen?

HOW YOU CAN DODGE THE GRIP.

- Don't take alcoholic drinks. Stay out of draughts.
- Keep your feet warm and dry.
- Beware of unventilated rooms and cars.
- Eat regularly.
- Eat no fancy or fat things.
- Sleep regularly.
- But, above all, don't booze.
- And you may dodge the grip.

New York is undergoing a stage of the grip, more widespread than any in several years. While the doctors say that a majority of the cases are lighter than in previous years there seem to be just as many, if not more of them.

The Health Department reported twelve deaths from grip last week, 100 per cent. increase on the week before. But it is said that the proportion of deaths to the number of persons who are now afflicted and who are yet to fall to the ubiquitous bacilli will be comparatively small.

Doctors have more than they can do now in visiting patients who are home with the grip. It is said there is hardly a business office in New York City where 20 per cent. are not absent on sick leave.

Dr. William Guilfoyle describes the conditions which make the grip prevent. He says that the foggy days of two weeks ago, with the assistance of a thermometer which was jumping up and down every few hours and the alternate sunshine and rain, hatched out the influenza germs, and that since then they have fairly filled the air, seeking for some old, worn-out and susceptible bulk of a human being whom they could lay on his back.

When Grip Strides. "You will always find," said Dr. Guilfoyle, "that when a cold wave or a term of irregular weather strikes a locality there is a great increase in pulmonary diseases. And by pulmonary diseases I mean grip, or influenza, pneumonia and bronchopneumonia.

"The ordinary rules of health are the proper preventives for every one to take. These do not need the supervision of a physician, but consist of a substantial and nutritive food and sleep long and soundly. That is my advice to persons fearing grip."

These grip germs only attack, it would seem, the system which is run down or improperly nourished. The doctors say that the person who has the grip can lay it to some transgression on the ordinary rules of health. He has been staying up too late at night; he has been eating pies and cakes instead of bread and meat, and he may have been drinking alcoholic beverages. It is said that the grip usually takes hold first when the intended victim gets a good cold by sitting in a draught. After that it is easy work for the germ.

Dr. Thomas L. Riley, of No. 45 Charlton street, said today:

"There is much more grip than usual, but it seems to be slight. The attack is not so vigorous this year as in former years and while the death rate will increase, I do not believe that it will reach the appalling figures it attained twelve and fourteen years ago."

The Health Department was asked to estimate the number of persons in New York who are suffering with the grip and while the officials declined to venture into figures they remarked:

"Just say nearly everybody, more or less."

And to add to all this, the Weather Bureau announces the prospect for rain and fog to-night with a partly cloudy day to-morrow.

The Weather Bureau believes that with the partly cloudy weather to-morrow it will become colder in the evening and that brisk westerly winds—grip winds—will set in.

PASSED BILL OPPOSED BY ROCKEFELLER

Senate Puts Through Department of Commerce Measure with Publicity Clause Which Hits at Trusts.

ROOSEVELT WILL SIGN IT.

Commissioner of New Bureau Empowered to Call Witnesses in Investigating the Doings of Big Corporations.

(Special to The Evening World.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—The Senate has agreed to the conference report on the Department of Commerce bill. This passes the measure, the report having previously been agreed to in the House.

The Nelson publicity amendment to the bill gave it exceptional promise, President Roosevelt declaring that John D. Rockefeller had telegraphed Senators to stop its passage.

Mr. Roosevelt will sign the bill as soon as it reaches him.

The clause in the Nelson amendment to which the trusts are said to strongly object reads:

"There shall be in the Department of Commerce and Labor a bureau to be called the Bureau of Corporations, and a Commissioner of Corporations, who shall be the head of said bureau, to be appointed by the President.

"The said Commissioner shall have power and authority to make, under the direction and control of the Secretary of Commerce and Labor, diligent investigation into the organization, conduct and management of the business of any corporation, joint stock company or corporation combination engaged in commerce in the several States and with foreign nations, excepting common carriers, subject to 'An Act to Regulate Commerce,' approved Feb. 4, 1887.

"Also to gather such information and data as will enable the President of the United States to make recommendations to Congress for legislation of such Commerce and to report such data to the President from time to time as he shall require, and the information so obtained or as much thereof as the President may direct shall be made public.

"In order to accomplish the purposes declared in the foregoing part of this section the said Commissioner shall have the same power and authority in respect to corporations, joint stock companies and combinations, subject to the provisions hereof, as is conferred on the Interstate Commerce Commission, including the right to subpoena and compel the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of documentary evidence and to administer oaths."

Dr. Clarke, who is sixty years old, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., against Horace G. Stripe, a promoter and publisher of the Banker and Investor, a Wall street publication, to recover $5,000 damages for alleged breach of contract and fraud in connection with an invention.

Dr. Clarke, who is sixty years old, is one of the most distinguished women physicians in Pennsylvania. Several years ago she patented an electrical device to be used for certain medical purposes. According to her complaint Stripe induced her to sign a contract in which he inserted a provision transferring her rights in the invention to him. She alleges that she had no knowledge of this provision when she signed the paper. She says she understood that he was going to exploit her patent for her and bring it before the public.

In the course of the negotiations leading up to the contract Dr. Clarke says she received the following extraordinary letter from Stripe:

"So busy the other day that I did not answer all your inquiries, and especially the one as to handling the telephone mouthpiece. Of course, and I saw this with a big 'O,' I shall want to handle it. Sold two patents within the past ten days and am doing exceedingly well.

"I have this day written Mr. Collins, of Scranton, reference to the electrodes. As I also have figures from others, but really must have the full set before I can get at just what we want.

"Glad to hear your niece is 'charming.' Of course she is, else why should she be your niece. I remember you spoke charmingly of her. The world needs smiles, all nature smiles and we should always be in harmony with nature and with nature's God. I only wish I had understood so much about the value of a smile years ago as I do now, though I have never seen much on the town. We don't need frowns, smiles, or as Ella Wheeler Wilcox says:

"Weep and you weep alone,
For the sad soul needs a word of cheer,
But his trouble is his own,
'Tis not that you have seen one of her latest:

"Thought is another name for fate,
Choose, then, thy destiny and wait;
For love brings love, and hate brings hate,
Mind is the master of the sphere;
He calm, he steadfast and alert,
Fear is the only thing to fear.

"Thought, like an arrow, flies where sent,
Aim well, be sure of thy intent,
And make this thy own environment.

"Nothing can bid thee purpose pause,
Mind is the great primeval cause,
Lord God thought, and he was.

"Let the God in thee rise and say
To adverse circumstances, 'Obey!'
And say with shall have its way.

"This would be a pretty thing for you still more pretty niece to commit to memory and hypnotize and charm her patients.

"The Irishman's little joke is good. The young lady should be very careful in telling a man that it is a grave case, as in doing so she places herself in the same category as a physician, or so-called M. D. The term originally meant Money Down, and a good term for this class of individuals. Yours sincerely,
H. G. STRIPES.

"It is impossible that you should see within the next ten days or two weeks, as I shall be in Wilkesbarre, I think, soon."

CROWN PRINCE GETS A DIVORCE.

Saxony Court Decides Against Crown Princess Louise After Short Secret Hearing.

DRESDEN, Feb. 11.—The suit for divorce brought by the Crown Prince against the former Crown Princess of Saxony was resumed in camera to-day, and after several doctors had furnished expert testimony a decree of divorce was granted.

The decree reads:

"The ties of the marriage of the parties are dissolved on account of the relations of the respondent with M. Giron, a teacher of languages. The blame attaches to the respondent, who is ordered to pay the costs of the proceedings."

VIENNA, Feb. 11.—An interview with Dr. Zehme, of Dresden, the lawyer of the Crown Prince, is published here to-day. After denying that Prof. Giron had been paid for his services, Dr. Zehme said M. Giron was mainly actuated by personal vanity.

The Princess, he added, was quite free at the sanatorium at Nyon, Switzerland, and was allowed to go on excursions to various places in the neighborhood.

Forecast for the thirty-six hours ending at 5 P. M. Thursday for New York City and vicinity: Rain, with fog to-night; Thursday partly cloudy; colder Thursday evening or night; fresh to brisk east to south winds shifting to westerly Thursday morning.

When the Map of Affairs Travels

From New York to Sunshine.

The Pennsylvania Limited because it offers the service and unequalled appointments.

CAPT. MILES O'REILLY, WHO ESCAPES A SHAKE-UP BECAUSE COMMISSIONER GREENE SAYS HE IS AN HONEST POLICE OFFICER.

WOMAN DOCTOR SUES PROMOTER

Marion N. Clark, of Wilkesbarre, Claims $5,000 from Horace G. Stripe, Who Wrote Her Remarkable Letters.

POETRY FOR PRETTY NIECE.

Clothed in clean apparel and, apparently, in his right mind, W. Hooper Young, the "medically insane" murderer, gave out an interview in the Tombs today in which he denied that he was insane and also denied that he had murdered Anna Pulitzer. From the unkept, drooping, repulsive object that answered to the name of W. Hooper Young in the courtroom, the murderer had been transformed into a crafty, logical conversationalist.

Secure in the provision of the law that forbids putting a man in jeopardy of his life twice, Young concluded to send for the reporters to-day and show how he had fooled the District Attorney and the distinguished stenographers. He was weak from the strain he had undergone in the simulation of insanity, but he was cheerful. Since his conviction and during his trial he has not let escape a detail of his case as it has been recorded in the newspapers, and he showed an astonishing familiarity with the way in which each of the publications of the city had treated him.

He did not cry to-day for "the rabbits' foot that Molinoux had." He did not curse the newspapers and the reporters, accusing them of his downfall. To-day he was the W. Hooper Young who succeeded in doing what few murderers have done in New York—getting a corpse out of a big flat-house and a disposal of it in another State without arousing the suspicion of a person who met him on the way.

"I am not insane," he began. "There was never any insanity in Brigham Young's family. I am innocent of this crime, and some day the whole world will know it. That will be when the right man is captured.

Expected to Be Free. "Yesterday I said farewell to my mother and my brother. I expect to see my mother again. She will see me free, too, if I live long enough.

"They say that I feigned insanity; that I was shamming. I want, I was weak, as every one knows. I am now, although I am better than the day that I was first taken into court. I am going to have my beard shaved and my hair cut.

"As God is my judge I did not kill Anna Pulitzer. Murder will out, and this murder will surely be brought to the door of the guilty one.

Pleading Guilty to Save Family. "Why did I plead guilty to the crime? Because I wanted to save my family from the disgrace of having a member of it sent to the electric chair. The plea that I made was an act of my own volition. I am neither medically nor legally insane.

"It was never considered by me that such a defense should be put in. It was a remarkable conception fixed up, but it seems to have come out all right."

Despite this the Tombs authorities declare that Young is ill. Dr. Campbell, in speaking of his condition to-day, said:

"Young is suffering from a general breakdown. He is far too ill to be removed to Sing Sing, and we won't permit his removal to-morrow, as was planned. Of all the twelve aliens who came over here to examine him, not one, with the exception of Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton, took enough care to examine the man's physical condition."

YOUNG NOT TO BE TAKEN TO SING SING TO-MORROW

All Pretense of Madness Gone, He Presents a Very Different Appearance from the Abject Wretch Who Shocked Judge and Jury Last Week.

SEEN IN TIME TO STOP CARS.

Police Accuse Miss Bessie Milton, of Ronkonkoma, of Placing Obstruction in Front of Long Island Express.

Her desire to see the Greenport express on the Long Island Railroad stop at Ronkonkoma led Miss Bessie Milton, of that place, to put obstruction on the track, according to the Long Island police, and has involved her in more trouble than she probably dreamed of.

Her curiosity was not satisfied, but she has been held by Justice Hawkins for a hearing on Friday on the charge of trying to wreck the train.

Had the obstructions not been discovered in time the express, which is the fastest train on the road and is extensively used by wealthy men of New York and Brooklyn, would have been wrecked and many persons killed or injured.

The girl was betrayed by her sweetheart, whose name will not be made known until it comes out at the hearing. Miss Milton, who is sixteen and consequently is the daughter of a farmer at Ronkonkoma. On the evening of Feb. 2 the express was brought to a sudden stop at the town with the long name. Big stones had been piled on the track and between the ties. The engine struck the stones, which worked their way up into the steam pipe, bending and twisting it. The locomotive was finally repaired, the track cleared, and the train went on.

Capt. Sarvis, of the Long Island Railroad police, says he found a young man who admitted he was Miss Milton's sweetheart, and who finally confessed that she told him she had put the stones on the track and that she might see the express stop at Ronkonkoma. According to Capt. Sarvis, who arrested the girl, she had been told by her brother Charles that her father and her father that his sister said: "I am going to stop the Greenport express, whereupon she piled the stones on the track and ran home."

Local trains stop at Ronkonkoma, but the express doesn't. Miss Milton evidently thought it ought to. There she made her mistake. She has never been in trouble before, and the only explanation given for her act is her wish to see the fast train stop at the little town.

Local trains stop at Ronkonkoma, but the express doesn't. Miss Milton evidently thought it ought to. There she made her mistake. She has never been in trouble before, and the only explanation given for her act is her wish to see the fast train stop at the little town.

Local trains stop at Ronkonkoma, but the express doesn't. Miss Milton evidently thought it ought to. There she made her mistake. She has never been in trouble before, and the only explanation given for her act is her wish to see the fast train stop at the little town.

Local trains stop at Ronkonkoma, but the express doesn't. Miss Milton evidently thought it ought to. There she made her mistake. She has never been in trouble before, and the only explanation given for her act is her wish to see the fast train stop at the little town.

Local trains stop at Ronkonkoma, but the express doesn't. Miss Milton evidently thought it ought to. There she made her mistake. She has never been in trouble before, and the only explanation given for her act is her wish to see the fast train stop at the little town.

Local trains stop at Ronkonkoma, but the express doesn't. Miss Milton evidently thought it ought to. There she made her mistake. She has never been in trouble before, and the only explanation given for her act is her wish to see the fast train stop at the little town.

Local trains stop at Ronkonkoma, but the express doesn't. Miss Milton evidently thought it ought to. There she made her mistake. She has never been in trouble before, and the only explanation given for her act is her wish to see the fast train stop at the little town.

Local trains stop at Ronkonkoma, but the express doesn't. Miss Milton evidently thought it ought to. There she made her mistake. She has never been in trouble before, and the only explanation given for her act is her wish to see the fast train stop at the little town.

DID GIRL TRY TO WRECK A TRAIN?

Police Accuse Miss Bessie Milton, of Ronkonkoma, of Placing Obstruction in Front of Long Island Express.

SEEN IN TIME TO STOP CARS.

Police Accuse Miss Bessie Milton, of Ronkonkoma, of Placing Obstruction in Front of Long Island Express.

Local trains stop at Ronkonkoma, but the express doesn't. Miss Milton evidently thought it ought to. There she made her mistake. She has never been in trouble before, and the only explanation given for her act is her wish to see the fast train stop at the little town.

Local trains stop at Ronkonkoma, but the express doesn't. Miss Milton evidently thought it ought to. There she made her mistake. She has never been in trouble before, and the only explanation given for her act is her wish to see the fast train stop at the little town.

Local trains stop at Ronkonkoma, but the express doesn't. Miss Milton evidently thought it ought to. There she made her mistake. She has never been in trouble before, and the only explanation given for her act is her wish to see the fast train stop at the little town.

Local trains stop at Ronkonkoma, but the express doesn't. Miss Milton evidently thought it ought to. There she made her mistake. She has never been in trouble before, and the only explanation given for her act is her wish to see the fast train stop at the little town.

Local trains stop at Ronkonkoma, but the express doesn't. Miss Milton evidently thought it ought to. There she made her mistake. She has never been in trouble before, and the only explanation given for her act is her wish to see the fast train stop at the little town.

Local trains stop at Ronkonkoma, but the express doesn't. Miss Milton evidently thought it ought to. There she made her mistake. She has never been in trouble before, and the only explanation given for her act is her wish to see the fast train stop at the little town.

Local trains stop at Ronkonkoma, but the express doesn't. Miss Milton evidently thought it ought to. There she made her mistake. She has never been in trouble before, and the only explanation given for her act is her wish to see the fast train stop at the little town.

Local trains stop at Ronkonkoma, but the express doesn't. Miss Milton evidently thought it ought to. There she made her mistake. She has never been in trouble before, and the only explanation given for her act is her wish to see the fast train stop at the little town.

CAPT. O'REILLY COULD NOT HOLD DOWN GRAFTERS

—POLICE COMMISSIONER GREENE.

And Accordingly the Head of the Department Declares that the New Captain of the Tenderloin Will Not Be Transferred, Although There Were Rumors that He Was to Go.

Four of the Wardmen and Two of the Roundsmen in the Precinct Have Been Shifted to Less Important Stations, and the End of the Eruption Is Not in Sight.

"Capt. O'Reilly is an honest man and will not be transferred. He has been doing the best he can, but he has not been able to hold down the grafters."

Two roundsmen and every plain clothes man in the Tenderloin precinct were transferred this afternoon by Police Commissioner Greene with the announcement that he had just begun the work of renovating the conditions that obtain there.

He said, too, that he would not transfer Capt. O'Reilly, who was an honest man, but unable to control the grafters who were all about him.

The changes came after a long conference at Police Headquarters between the Commissioner, Chief Inspector Cortright, Inspector Brooks, Acting Inspector Walsh, in whose inspection district the Tenderloin lies, and Capt. O'Reilly. While it was in progress there were many rumors afloat as to what would be the result. It was stated positively that O'Reilly was to go, but this was a grave error.

Has More Trouble in Store. At 1:30 o'clock the Commissioner came out and made his announcement. He had little to say in explanation of the changes, because, as he remarked, he had so much more of the same kind of work to do before the day was over.

The plain clothes men transferred are W. M. Bacon, Fred C. Groebler, Edward Cooke and Daniel Kerr. The first two go back to patrol in the Church street precinct and the other two to patrol in the Union Market precinct.

Three of the four new wardmen were announced as follows: Henry J. Standish, of the Oak street station; E. O. Scheibles and George McKay, both of the Tenderloin. The fourth man has not been selected yet.

The two roundsmen transferred are John D. Ormstead, who is sent to Flushing, and Eugene C. Casey, who is sent to Bedford avenue, Brooklyn. Their places are taken by Roundsmen Alfred Anderson, of Flushing, and John J. Cooney, of Bedford avenue.

Commissioner's Own Appointees. When the Commissioner's attention was called to the fact that he recently appointed the wardmen who are now set down to walking a beat he said:

"Yes, they were my appointments, but they had been in the Tenderloin for years. Capt. O'Reilly is an honest man and will not be transferred. He has been doing the best he can, but he has not been able to hold down the grafters. Further changes will be announced before the afternoon is over. This is only the beginning."

It has been well known for some weeks that the Commissioner has been dissatisfied with the conditions in the Tenderloin, and it was supposed that O'Reilly's head was in danger, but today's developments show that the Captain still holds the confidence of his superior.

DEAD AND HEAP OF DIAMONDS. BONNERS WIN $100,000 SUIT

Salesman for L. Adler & Son Found in Hotel Room in New Orleans Surrounded by Samples of Jewels.

SHOCK FOR EMPLOYERS. CARED FOR FAMOUS HORSES.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 11.—I. L. Friedman, a salesman, employed by L. Adler & Son, of No. 57 Maiden lane, New York, was found dead to-day in his room in the Cosmopolitan Hotel. He had committed suicide.

Scattered around the apartment were diamonds and jewelry worth $30,000.

Adler & Son told an Evening World reporter this afternoon that the report that Friedman had committed suicide had reached them, but that they could scarcely credit it.

"Mr. Friedman left here a month ago," they said. "To make the Southern circuit. It is true that he had as much as $30,000 worth of jewelry with him.

"He had been in our employ for three or four years. His home was in Cincinnati, where his father lives, and he has relatives in New York.

"Friedman was a reliable man and a good salesman. He came to us well recommended from the jewelry house of Odenheimer & Zimmerman, which has since retired from business. We can't believe that his death was due to other than natural causes, and feel sure his accounts will prove to be all right."

To Cure a Cold in One Day. Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All drug stores sell the money if it fails to cure. 25-cent bottles.

Agust Dr. Roberge's claim the Bonner boys, Robert E. and Frederick, presented a long line of horse experts as witnesses. They included David Bonner, Hamilton Busbee, John Haggerty, Captain N. Priest and John F. O'Sullivan.

The verdict was for the defendants, and on Judge Cohen's motion, $25,000 was ordered to pay an allowance of $2,500 for expenses.

Agust Dr. Roberge's claim the Bonner boys, Robert E. and Frederick, presented a long line of horse experts as witnesses. They included David Bonner, Hamilton Busbee, John Haggerty, Captain N. Priest and John F. O'Sullivan.