

EGG-THROWERS PAROLED

"McFadden's Row of Flats" Mobbed by Angry Audience That Objected to Coarse Caricature of Celtic Race.

FIVE ARRESTS WERE MADE.

Lively Time at the Star Theatre in Harlem, at Which the Police Reserves were Called Out Over the Disorder.

Five well-known Irish citizens, who had been intent upon avenging what they considered an insult to their race in the way of exaggerated stage Irishmen, were paroled to-day in Harlem Police Court, where they were arraigned to answer a charge of riotous conduct in the Star Theatre.

Eggs which wouldn't keep until Easter—which had, in fact, already fallen into decline—were carried to the theatre last night by members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and Clan-Na-Gael and presented to dramatic dwellers in "McFadden's Row of Flats."

The actors were completely surprised. They were aware that the celebration of Easter was apt to begin a little early on the east side and sometimes to last over night, but they hardly looked for it to start two weeks ahead of time.

Stage Cop a Target.

The first to discover the enterprising and generous spirit in which the east side recognized Easter was a stage policeman in three colors and a hydraulic style of speech. He was just getting ready to say "Clear the stage, please, try, but kape off the grass," when a man sitting near the German clarionet player in the orchestra leaped to his feet and blew a whistle.

At this signal dozens of other men all over the house sprang up with vengeance in their eyes and eggs and vegetables in their hands.

A second later the egg with a past whizzed through the air and ended a beautiful orange to the green of the stage policeman's whiskers.

A loud cry of victory rose from the egg-throwers and, with "More eggs" as their battle cry, they began a general bombardment.

Aimed at the Green Whiskers.

There were a lot of people on the stage, but the green-whiskered policeman seemed to be the favorite. Almost before the shrill notes of the alarming whistle had died away he was a walking comet. He carried a full line of eggs in all styles and of all ages.

A wild scramble for cover on the part of the dismayed stage folk followed. All carried more or less marks of the audience's esteem. A large lady, with green stockings, received a double-yolked souvenir with her hair turned to the door. As a result the pattern of her polonaise was greatly complicated. She uttered a cry of "More eggs!" and a donkey's first appeared to take a more cheerful way of showing the proceedings. Hope died, however, with the first snuff of an egg which had struck his head, and he was found dead, and then dropped at his feet. He gave expression to his feelings in prolonged and wailing braying, then broke for the alley.

Tried First to Brave It Out.

Some of the actors tried to go on with their lines, just as though nothing had happened, but they were soon forced to the aim of the attacking force was getting truer every minute, while the quality of the missiles showed no sign of improvement.

Great excitement existed in that portion of the audience which sided with the long to the army and many of whom were hit. Women shrieked and fainted with nervousness, and several men held their fingers to their noses. To make matters worse, a hoodlum in the gallery shouted "Fire!" and a panic was narrowly averted.

When the stage was deserted by the egg-throwers, the manager started to leave the theatre in a body. But the doors were closed, and the police arrested five men, and the managers were ready to wear had thrown eggs.

The prisoners were John O'Flynn, No. 160 Second Avenue; Bernard Kavanaugh, No. 48 West Thirty-ninth street; James Cooney, No. 44 West Sixty-first street; Martin Brennan, Charles street, and Michael O'Brien, No. 121 East One Hundred and Twenty-first street.

Boadmen Were Ready.

At the station-house Lawyer Sullivan was on hand to meet the prisoners. With him, to furnish bail, were James and William Bradley, Vice-President of the Clan-Na-Gael of this country; Major Edward T. Crystal, formerly of the Sixty-first Regiment, who served with the A. O. H.; Peter J. Conway, President of the Greater New York Irish Athletic Association; ex-Alderman Tom Campbell, Alderman John W. Cogan, Stephen McPartland, John J. Daly, Harry G. Bannister and others.

James J. Biarty, a foreman for the Bradleys, admitted he was one of the leaders of the egg-throwing and declared that "McFadden's Flats" and similar plays would be rotten-egged here and all over the city until they were driven off the boards.

When the prisoners were arraigned before Magistrate DeLoe to-day they were defended by former Police Magistrate Henry A. Brann, Capt. Daniel F. Sullivan, ex-Alderman Tom Campbell, and Daniel F. Cahalan.

It was insisted that O'Flynn, Kavanaugh, Cooney and Boyle had not participated in the disturbance, and that they were merely onlookers.

The fifth prisoner, Michael O'Brien, was charged with resisting an officer, as well as riotous conduct. Roundman Miles told the court that when he attempted to arrest O'Brien the man resisted, and declared:

All the Prisoners Paroled.

"This is a free country. I have a right to avenge an insult to my race." All the prisoners were paroled until 9 o'clock next Thursday afternoon.

Last night's demonstration was the result of an unprovoked attack on the "McFadden's Row of Flats" company when it was playing at the Fourteenth Street Theatre last night. When the police arrested the Irish were sent to the station-house.

A similar crusade has been started throughout the country, and in the West Irish societies are sending their own co-operation of Jewish and German organizations.

State Secretary Farley, of the A. O. H., who is the Police Commissioner of the County, sent a telegram to-day to the County President of the A. O. H., commanding the work last night.

Will Sing Meditation.

Under the direction of Frank P. Hoffman, Sir John Trainers' "Meditation" was sung at the church of St. John's Church on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

GARIBOLDI LION A PROUD FATHER

Jungle Stork Visits the Lion-House in Bronx Park and Leaves Three Fuzzy Little Barbary Cubs.

HANNIBAL GOT TOO GAY.

Miss Carnegie's Big, Hairy Lion Behaves Separation from His Spouse, Cleopatra, and Their Offspring.

Hannibal, the Barbary lion with the hairy mane, which little Miss Carnegie gave to the Bronx Zoological Gardens, is pacing his cage with regal stride, lashing his long tail with fierce aggressiveness and purring like a sawmill.

Every now and then he stops and raises his great shaggy head in an attitude of acute attention. He stops but a moment until he catches the soft growl that issue from three little balls of yellow fur that cuddle up under Cleopatra, the spouse of the hairiest of lions. Then he resumes his stride, every now and then tossing his mane and emitting triumphant roars.

When Hannibal was brought to the Zoo he was placed in a cage by himself, adjoining that of Cleopatra, a young lioness that has been pronounced by experts as a perfect specimen of the great beasts of the Barbary coast.

It was not long before the keepers discovered that Hannibal and Cleopatra were constantly calling for each other through the partition that divided them, and after the jungle fashion the two were made one.

Hannibal has since comported himself with kingly dignity. He is not a young lion and was never given to frolicking, and the pair arranged it so that those who came to see them were struck with wonder at their seemingly studied attitudes. Hannibal stretched out in the pose of the carved lion, with head erect and one of the cubs, and Cleopatra occupied the opposite end with sculptured dignity.

A few days ago, however, Hannibal began to bristle in a strange manner and became actually frisky. Every now and then he would go over to his spouse and rub his nose against hers and then, stricken with a sudden ecstasy, roll about the floor like a kitten.

The keepers knew then that the stork of the jungle was about to arrive and Hannibal's friskiness increased and it was feared in a moment of feline effervescence he might injure the gentle Cleopatra, she was removed to an adjoining cage. At first the big fellow was enraged at this untoward separation and his food had to be passed to him on the end of a great pole. He quieted down, however, and accepted the situation philosophically.

Early to-day Keeper Conrad Castor was aroused by a series of roars from Hannibal's cage. He found that the stork had arrived with three husky little cubs which the children are doing very nicely, thank you.

FIRE CAPT. COONEY DEAD.

Succumbs to Blood Poisoning at His Home in the Bronx.

Capt. John J. Cooney, of Engine Company No. 46, died to-day at his home, No. 249 Arthur avenue, from blood poisoning. He had been in the fire department since 1882.

A few years ago Capt. Cooney was working at a downtown fire when he fell from the fourth story, injuring himself severely. He was confined to his home for several months. Subsequently when acting Chief of the First Battalion, he was thrown from his carriage, injuring his head. After his recovery he was sent to the Bronx.

Capt. Cooney will be buried on Monday from the Church of St. Martin, Tours, Kingsbridge Road and Monroe avenue, the Bronx. Interment will be in St. Raymond's Cemetery.

FADED LETTER GAINED FORTUNE.

Established Children's Relationship and Their Claim to Father's Estate.

(Special to The Evening World.) WHITE PLAINS, March 28.—A faded letter written twenty years ago, establishing the relationship between father and daughter, resulted to-day in Mrs. Stegman, wife of Frederick Stegman, a mail-carrier of Mount Vernon, and her brother obtaining the $40,000 estate, left by their father, George Lea.

Mr. Lea died last August in Port Jervis. His second wife died two weeks before he died. Mrs. Stegman and her brother, George Lea, of Manhattan, who are declared the lawful heirs to the estate, are the children by their father's first wife, who was estranged from her husband.

After Mr. Lea's death a will was found in which he left his entire estate to his second wife. When the will was offered for probate several copies of a faded letter, almost illegible because it had faded, written by Mr. Lea about twenty years ago, were procured. Mrs. Stegman as his daughter, and her brother, the latter the fortune which will make them comfortable for the rest of their lives.

Little Girl Fatally Burned. Mrs. Macgregor, of No. 223 India street, Williamburg, left her three-year-old daughter Mary alone in the house when she went to the grocery to-day. In her absence the child tried to light the kitchen fire and ignited her dress. She was in flames when the mother returned. Now she is dying in the Eastern District Hospital.

THE CARNEGIE LION AT THE ZOO, WHO IS THE FATHER OF THREE NEW LITTLE LIONS.

GUESTS TO RIDE WOODEN HORSES.

C. K. G. Billings Will Have a Series of Surprises for His Many Friends at His Stable Banquet.

ALL WILL BE WHEELED IN.

Guests who were doubtful about congratulating themselves on being invited to C. K. G. Billings's dinner on horseback this evening were relieved of a great deal of apprehension to-day on learning they would be mounted on wooden horses. So the Chicago gas millionaire's equestrian dinner is to be a "hobby horse" affair. The pace will not be slow for all that.

Mr. Billings is sorry that the equestrian feature of his banquet leaked out. He intended the entire evening to be a series of surprises for his thirty-six fortunate guests. Now that one of its features has been given publicity he allays the trepidation of his guests by acknowledging that he will not expect them to dine while trying to handle a prancing steed.

The thirty-six guests of Mr. Billings will assemble in the Hotel Nederland and be conveyed from there in automobiles to the palatial Billings stables at One Hundred and Eighty-fifth street and Washington Heights. In the big driveway of the stable thirty-six wooden horses gayly caparisoned will await them. Each steed will gladden with cloth of gold and fancy harness. Over the side saddles for the ladies will be thrown a panner of white satin. Beside each horse will stand a liveried attendant and when the guests are mounted they will be wheeled into the main hall of the stable, where the banquet will be served.

This room has been converted by decorators into a representation of a wooded dell in a forest to give the feast an all the more effect. The dinner is to be served in a secret which Mr. Billings will not reveal, but he promises that every course will furnish a fresh surprise. His guests say they will ride through the courses with him to any old kind of a finish unless he asks them to take their wooden mounts over a water jump.

Mr. Kohler deposits his money with the Nineteenth Ward Bank. He entrusted $152 to Spitzer yesterday morning to deposit in the bank. Spitzer did not return in a reasonable time and Mr. Kohler began to worry. Three hours after Spitzer had left the place Mr. Kohler received the bank book in an envelope with a special delivery stamp. It had been mailed at Station J, which is downtown.

There was no note with the bank book by way of explanation. Mr. Kohler notified the police of the East Thirty-first street station. Detective Healey and Mr. Kohler went to No. 245 East Fourth street, where Spitzer lived with his aunt, Mrs. Schwartz. She said that she had not seen Spitzer since early in the morning. She knew of his infatuation for an actress, but did not know who the woman was. She said she had often heard him speak of eloping with her and had tried to dissuade him.

Spitzer is about 5 feet 6 inches tall and has black hair and a smooth face. He wears glasses and when last seen wore a dark suit of clothes and a black hat.

DAUGHTER OF ROSEBERY WEDS.

LONDON, March 28.—The Earl of Rosebery's eldest daughter, Lady Sybil, was married at Epsom this forenoon to Lieut. C. J. Grant, of the Coldstream Guard. The wedding was quiet, only near relatives and intimate friends of the families being present.

Lord Rosebery gave away his daughter, who was attended by eight bridesmaids, including Miss Muriel White, wearing the Earl's wedding colors, primrose and pink. A racing luncheon was afterward served at The Durians, Lord Rosebery's seat at Epsom.

The display of gifts has rarely been equalled since Edward, Queen Alexandra, the Prince and Princess of Wales and other members of the royal family turned up. The bride received a diamond bracelet and brooches. Lord Rosebery's gifts were a large fortune in diamond and pearl jewelry, necklaces, sprays, bracelets, etc. The Rothschilds and Sassoons sent the bride numerous costly jewels.

KEPT GIRLS FROM SCHOOL.

Two Italians Arrested for Violating Compulsory Education Law. Michael De Puppio, of No. 31 Crosby street, was arrested to-day on complaint of Truant Officer Springmeyer. Springmeyer told Magistrate Pool that the prisoner had refused to send his eleven-year-old daughter to school. De Puppio was held in $200 bail on a charge of violating the Compulsory Education Law.

Angelo Pasquale, of No. 229 Grand street, was arraigned before Magistrate Pool for having violated the same law. He promised Magistrate Pool that he would send his daughter to school and was paroled in the custody of the truant officer.

RECEIVER FOR GEORGE BLAIR

He Was Formerly Superintendent of the Out-Door Pool.

John Burt, Jr., of No. 61 Wall street, has been appointed receiver in supplementary proceedings for George Blair, by Justice Greenbaum, of the Supreme Court, to act upon a photographic plate much as sunlight does.

The picture-making mechanism consists of a sensitized plate and the little box of medium, the article to be photographed being placed between them, either in direct contact or with an intervening space of a few inches.

As with the X-ray the power of redium varies with its distance from the object photographed; the nearer the metal is held to the object, the clearer is the impression, and the shorter the time necessary to assure good results.

SENT TO BANK, DRUG CLERK FLED.

Young Man Who Ran Off with $152 Confided to Friends that He Intended to Elope with an Actress.

DETECTIVES SEEKING HIM.

Detectives to-day are scouring the city for John Spitzer, a young clerk, who yesterday disappeared simultaneously with $152 belonging to his employer, Carl Kohler, who has a drug store at No. 893 Third avenue.

It is thought that the young man has eloped with an actress, with whom he was infatuated. He had made the remark to fellow clerks that he would run away with the actress as soon as he got enough money. It is not known who the actress is.

Six weeks ago Spitzer entered the employ of Mr. Kohler. He had recommendations of the highest character and in addition to his native tongue, Bohemian, he spoke excellent English, German and French. He is twenty-two years old and was employed as a prescription clerk.

Mr. Kohler deposits his money with the Nineteenth Ward Bank. He entrusted $152 to Spitzer yesterday morning to deposit in the bank. Spitzer did not return in a reasonable time and Mr. Kohler began to worry. Three hours after Spitzer had left the place Mr. Kohler received the bank book in an envelope with a special delivery stamp. It had been mailed at Station J, which is downtown.

There was no note with the bank book by way of explanation. Mr. Kohler notified the police of the East Thirty-first street station. Detective Healey and Mr. Kohler went to No. 245 East Fourth street, where Spitzer lived with his aunt, Mrs. Schwartz. She said that she had not seen Spitzer since early in the morning. She knew of his infatuation for an actress, but did not know who the woman was. She said she had often heard him speak of eloping with her and had tried to dissuade him.

Spitzer is about 5 feet 6 inches tall and has black hair and a smooth face. He wears glasses and when last seen wore a dark suit of clothes and a black hat.

SUED FOR $10,000, BUT GOT ONLY $1.

Small Verdict Awarded Simon Hesselson, Who Was Knocked Down by a Car.

Justice MacLean, of the Supreme Court, twelve jurymen, fourteen witnesses, an "eminent counsel" and Judge Daly, of the Supreme Court, spent two days in trying the case at an expense of about $1,000, and the jury deliberated three hours, arriving at the sealed verdict opened to-day, awarding $1 damages to Simon Hesselson against the Metropolitan Street Railway Company for being knocked down by a Broadway car.

Hesselson sued for $10,000. He said he was knocked down and dragged in the dirt of Broadway by an uptown car on Aug. 4, 1899.

There were plenty of people ready to lynch the motorman, and these appeared as witnesses for Hesselson, who said he had no broken bones, but was bruised and suffered great mental anguish, besides paying a $5 doctor's bill.

For the company other witnesses testified that Hesselson got off a downtown car and stepped immediately in front of the uptown car, giving the motorman no opportunity to stop.

RECEIVER FOR GEORGE BLAIR

He Was Formerly Superintendent of the Out-Door Pool.

John Burt, Jr., of No. 61 Wall street, has been appointed receiver in supplementary proceedings for George Blair, by Justice Greenbaum, of the Supreme Court, to act upon a photographic plate much as sunlight does.

The picture-making mechanism consists of a sensitized plate and the little box of medium, the article to be photographed being placed between them, either in direct contact or with an intervening space of a few inches.

As with the X-ray the power of redium varies with its distance from the object photographed; the nearer the metal is held to the object, the clearer is the impression, and the shorter the time necessary to assure good results.

CLERGYMAN BANS RACING DRAMA.

Comes Out of the West and Objects to the Realistic Gambling and Race-Track Scenes in "The Suburban."

THINKS MORAL EFFECT BAD.

Among the spectators at "The Suburban," the racing play at the Academy of Music, last night, was the Rev. Elmer T. Hollen, of Marshall, Ia. The last time Mr. Hollen was in New York he saw "The Old Homestead" at the Academy. He thought "The Suburban" was the same kind of a play, and when he found out it was not he took his pen in hand.

He complains of the gambling-house scene in the first act and the betting scene. It is his opinion that these representations are injurious to the morals of the community.

"When I saw that gambling-house scene," he writes, "I fairly gasped. Certainly there never was a more realistic representation of an abode of evil."

"I am led to understand that your District-Attorney has succeeded in closing many of the gambling-houses of the city. Why, then, does he allow roulette tables and faro tables and card games to be played on the stage of a theatre?"

"How do you expect this great work is to be kept up when the practice of gambling is made fascinating by the glare of the footlights? Men in evening dress and beautiful women in low cut gowns move about the tables in this gambling scene. Apparently all are happy and contented. I consider it a bad thing for the youth of New York."

Mr. Hollen admits that even he was thrilled by the realism of the racing scene, but he does not favor it. The fact that through the race course the dramatist has contrived to make virtue triumphant makes the play all the more dangerous, according to his ideas. It is believed that the play will continue, however, notwithstanding the protests of the Rev. Mr. Hollen.

THE WHOLE FAMILY Benefits by Pure Food.

It has happened in a great many cases that one member of a family has begun the use of the scientific food Grape-Nuts, and some of the other members have taken up the food, and, while enjoying its delicious flavor, have been cured of various ailments and diseases which had sprung from the use of improper food. A lady of St. Paul, Minn., gives an instance of this. She says: "Our year-and-a-half-old baby has been changed by Grape-Nuts from an ill-nourished child, suffering constantly from colds and general weakness, to a fit subject for a baby food picture."

"When we began to give her Grape-Nuts and milk we stopped all other foods, and the improvement was so rapid that we could note the change from week to week. Baby was made well and strong."

"But when I suggested it to my husband, who had chronic dyspepsia terribly, he said: 'I have dieted enough. A man may as well die as live on health foods.' But I persisted, and one morning I served Grape-Nuts and cream to him. When he tasted it he was so agreeably surprised. For the first time in months his stomach and food agreed with each other, and since that time he has improved until he is a staunch advocate of this delicious food."

"From our family the use of Grape-Nuts spread to our friends, and one of our best friends was very delicate and always sick. One day our physician, Dr. Ball, said to her: 'Go home, and make it your business to eat Grape-Nuts. Eat it morning, noon and night.' She followed the doctor's order literally, and frequently made Grape-Nuts into puddings and other dishes. The results have been a surprising gain in flesh, and she is now entirely free of all illness, nervousness, and is rapidly getting stronger again." Name furnished by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There are as many reasons why this food is as valuable to one member of the family as to another. It is perfect for athletes, yet at the same time is pre-digested, and no stomach is so weak it will not relish the food.

OUR RULE Perfect Work Painless Process Popular Prices

QUAKER DENTAL SOCIETY, 44 East 14th St., NEAR B'WAY, N. Y. 171 Broadway (COR. CORTLANDT ST.), N. Y.

COULDN'T HELP SHOOTING BOYS.

Aged Mrs. Lorenzo Says that They and Their Fathers Had Annoyed Her for Thirty-eight Years.

WARNED THEM TO GO AWAY.

But They Came Back and She Feared the Missiles They Threw Might Accidentally Hit Her Sick Husband.

Mrs. Margaret Lorenzo, the aged woman who discharged a shotgun at some boys who were annoying her at her home, at Eighth and Jackson streets, Hoboken, yesterday, wounding three of her tormentors, was arraigned before Recorder Stanton to-day and held in $100 for the Grand Jury. Bail was furnished by a neighbor.

Mrs. Lorenzo told the Recorder that she could not help shooting at the boys. She said that the annoyance began thirty-eight years ago, and that when the boys who first sought amusement by tormenting her grow up they were succeeded by other boys, who continued the "sport," so that her life was a burden to her.

She said she told the boys yesterday when they first visited her home and began to throw stones at the house that if they did not stop she would "blow daylight through them." Her husband was very sick, and she feared he would suffer from the boys' conduct, and might possibly be injured by a missile.

The boys went away, but subsequently returned and renewed the bombardment. Then she got down the old muzzle-loading shotgun and blazed away.

The Recorder asked her how she would like some one to shoot at her children, if she had any, because he "couldn't help it." Mrs. Lorenzo replied that if a son of hers had acted in such a way she would think he deserved to be shot. Mrs. Lorenzo is sixty-eight years old and her husband is seventy-eight. The three boys who were shot are Louis Hanna, Charles White and Louis Gobbioli. They are not dangerously wounded.

ADA PALMER WALKER, A PRIMA DONNA, SUES N. Y. CENTRAL FOR ACCIDENT IN BUFFALO STATION.

Ada Palmer Walker, prima donna of the Lulu Glaser "Dolly Varden" company on the road, has sued the New York Central for $10,000 for a broken kneecap.

The complaint, filed by Leon Leski to-day, says that Miss Walker was descending the stairs from the elevated platform in the depot at Buffalo the evening after Christmas last, the stairs were icy and she slipped and rolled to the bottom of the flight. She says she sustained a fracture of the patella of her left leg, was seriously shocked and her nervous system shattered. Up to this time she had always been well and strong, but the accident wholly incapacitated her, and ever since she has been confined to her room and is still in great pain, suffering constantly from neuralgia and other ailments, and she is unable to get about for some time.

GIBBONS TO PRAY AT FAIR.

BAITIMORE, March 28.—Cardinal Gibbons accepted an invitation to attend the inaugural ceremony of the Louisiana Exposition and will offer the opening prayer.

The complaint, filed by Leon Leski to-day, says that Miss Walker was descending the stairs from the elevated platform in the depot at Buffalo the evening after Christmas last, the stairs were icy and she slipped and rolled to the bottom of the flight. She says she sustained a fracture of the patella of her left leg, was seriously shocked and her nervous system shattered. Up to this time she had always been well and strong, but the accident wholly incapacitated her, and ever since she has been confined to her room and is still in great pain, suffering constantly from neuralgia and other ailments, and she is unable to get about for some time.

The complaint, filed by Leon Leski to-day, says that Miss Walker was descending the stairs from the elevated platform in the depot at Buffalo the evening after Christmas last, the stairs were icy and she slipped and rolled to the bottom of the flight. She says she sustained a fracture of the patella of her left leg, was seriously shocked and her nervous system shattered. Up to this time she had always been well and strong, but the accident wholly incapacitated her, and ever since she has been confined to her room and is still in great pain, suffering constantly from neuralgia and other ailments, and she is unable to get about for some time.

The complaint, filed by Leon Leski to-day, says that Miss Walker was descending the stairs from the elevated platform in the depot at Buffalo the evening after Christmas last, the stairs were icy and she slipped and rolled to the bottom of the flight. She says she sustained a fracture of the patella of her left leg, was seriously shocked and her nervous system shattered. Up to this time she had always been well and strong, but the accident wholly incapacitated her, and ever since she has been confined to her room and is still in great pain, suffering constantly from neuralgia and other ailments, and she is unable to get about for some time.

The complaint, filed by Leon Leski to-day, says that Miss Walker was descending the stairs from the elevated platform in the depot at Buffalo the evening after Christmas last, the stairs were icy and she slipped and rolled to the bottom of the flight. She says she sustained a fracture of the patella of her left leg, was seriously shocked and her nervous system shattered. Up to this time she had always been well and strong, but the accident wholly incapacitated her, and ever since she has been confined to her room and is still in great pain, suffering constantly from neuralgia and other ailments, and she is unable to get about for some time.

The complaint, filed by Leon Leski to-day, says that Miss Walker was descending the stairs from the elevated platform in the depot at Buffalo the evening after Christmas last, the stairs were icy and she slipped and rolled to the bottom of the flight. She says she sustained a fracture of the patella of her left leg, was seriously shocked and her nervous system shattered. Up to this time she had always been well and strong, but the accident wholly incapacitated her, and ever since she has been confined to her room and is still in great pain, suffering constantly from neuralgia and other ailments, and she is unable to get about for some time.

The complaint, filed by Leon Leski to-day, says that Miss Walker was descending the stairs from the elevated platform in the depot at Buffalo the evening after Christmas last, the stairs were icy and she slipped and rolled to the bottom of the flight. She says she sustained a fracture of the patella of her left leg, was seriously shocked and her nervous system shattered. Up to this time she had always been well and strong, but the accident wholly incapacitated her, and ever since she has been confined to her room and is still in great pain, suffering constantly from neuralgia and other ailments, and she is unable to get about for some time.

The complaint, filed by Leon Leski to-day, says that Miss Walker was descending the stairs from the elevated platform in the depot at Buffalo the evening after Christmas last, the stairs were icy and she slipped and rolled to the bottom of the flight. She says she sustained a fracture of the patella of her left leg, was seriously shocked and her nervous system shattered. Up to this time she had always been well and strong, but the accident wholly incapacitated her, and ever since she has been confined to her room and is still in great pain, suffering constantly from neuralgia and other ailments, and she is unable to get about for some time.

The complaint, filed by Leon Leski to-day, says that Miss Walker was descending the stairs from the elevated platform in the depot at Buffalo the evening after Christmas last, the stairs were icy and she slipped and rolled to the bottom of the flight. She says she sustained a fracture of the patella of her left leg, was seriously shocked and her nervous system shattered. Up to this time she had always been well and strong, but the accident wholly incapacitated her, and ever since she has been confined to her room and is still in great pain, suffering constantly from neuralgia and other ailments, and she is unable to get about for some time.

The complaint, filed by Leon Leski to-day, says that Miss Walker was descending the stairs from the elevated platform in the depot at Buffalo the evening after Christmas last, the stairs were icy and she slipped and rolled to the bottom of the flight. She says she sustained a fracture of the patella of her left leg, was seriously shocked and her nervous system shattered. Up to this time she had always been well and strong, but the accident wholly incapacitated her, and ever since she has been confined to her room and is still in great pain, suffering constantly from neuralgia and other ailments, and she is unable to get about for some time.

The complaint, filed by Leon Leski to-day, says that Miss Walker was descending the stairs from the elevated platform in the depot at Buffalo the evening after Christmas last, the stairs were icy and she slipped and rolled to the bottom of the flight. She says she sustained a fracture of the patella of her left leg, was seriously shocked and her nervous system shattered. Up to this time she had always been well and strong, but the accident wholly incapacitated her, and ever since she has been confined to her room and is still in great pain, suffering constantly from neuralgia and other ailments, and she is unable to get about for some time.

The complaint, filed by Leon Leski to-day, says that Miss Walker was descending the stairs from the elevated platform in the depot at Buffalo the evening after Christmas last, the stairs were icy and she slipped and rolled to the bottom of the flight. She says she sustained a fracture of the patella of her left leg, was seriously shocked and her nervous system shattered. Up to this time she had always been well and strong, but the accident wholly incapacitated her, and ever since she has been confined to her room and is still in great pain, suffering constantly from neuralgia and other ailments, and she is unable to get about for some time.

Write for my Help And Get Well at my Risk.