

SPORTING NEWS SPECIALLY REPORTED FOR THE EVENING WORLD.

THE WIND TOO LIGHT TO RACE.

Reliance, with a Fine New Main-sail, Waited All Day Off New Rochelle for a Breeze, but in Vain—Constitution Out.

OWNERS STILL CONFIDENT.

Think They Can Beat Columbia and Constitution, but the Critics Are Not So Sanguine of Her Speed—Trials Will Tell.

(Special to The Evening World.) NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., May 6.—Excitement was here early today in the hope of seeing a race between Reliance, Columbia and Constitution...

This opinion was supported when Capt. Barr and his crew bent new canvas on the new yacht before 10 o'clock today. The Reliance was then lying at her moorings, a mile off shore, in front of C. Oliver Isaac's home, All View...

Shortly after 10 o'clock preparations were made to get under way. The yachting engine was hoisted at the peak and Capt. Barr only waited for the word from Mr. Iselin to start.

Iselin Still Has Faith.

A friend of Mr. Iselin said today: "Yesterday's few minutes' brush was nothing at all. No one could tell by that whether the Reliance was faster than Columbia. The wind was very light."

"We have every faith in Reliance. We think we have Columbia beaten, but we are a little confident about Constitution. We place all our hopes on Charley Barr. I am glad he is not on Constitution."

A little later Reliance's crew swung up the mainsail so that the fit was materially improved. In the mean time the Constitution's crew was up and doing. Capt. Rhodes set his mainmast, club topsail, staysail and jib and proceeded to work out of Glen Cove, five miles away. At that time the Columbia could not be seen in Huntington Harbor.

Wind Suits Constitution. It was a good wind for Constitution, for she has done her work against Columbia in light breezes. As she came out of the harbor she broke her baby jib. It was then 10:47 o'clock. Mr. Iselin from his home watched the Constitution with a strong glass.

Many of the old sailors along the sound are of the opinion that the Constitution is the selection of the year. Her crew is well equipped to defend the cup. They have a crew of twelve men, including a cook and a steward. They are well equipped to defend the cup. They have a crew of twelve men, including a cook and a steward. They are well equipped to defend the cup.

This defect may be remedied, but the sharp eyes of the spectators would detect that Reliance is a bit off down at the stern, and a shift of ballast, they say, would improve her. In the doubt of Reliance is shared by many of her crew.

Waiting for More Wind. After the Constitution came out of the harbor she reached along for four miles or so. When about opposite Richmond Pt. Rhodes ordered the Constitution to be hauled up. At 12:30 o'clock the Constitution gaged and worked back to the wind. She was clearly looking for a race.

The Reliance remained at her moorings, with her mainmast up. The wind was blowing about four knots an hour. It was evidently not satisfactory to Mr. Iselin or Capt. Barr. They were apparently waiting for more breeze in which to go out and tackle the rival boat.

Both Head for the Cove. At 2:45 o'clock the Reliance left her buoy and stood on the starboard tack toward Mattinecock Point. She had her mainmast, club topsail, staysail and jib set. The Constitution was then five miles away, running before the wind. When about two miles from the shore, Capt. Barr headed the new boat to the eastward. The wind freshened to six knots an hour.

Capt. Rhodes evidently saw Reliance and headed in to the westward. She fouled his sheets and took in the reach to jib. At 3 o'clock the older boat went on the starboard tack. The yachts were then three miles apart and eight miles from New Rochelle. The Constitution appeared higher in the wind than her rival. Both yachts were abed and headed for Glen Cove at 3:31 o'clock.

Challenger's Trials Again Put Off Because of Bad Weather, but Races Will Take Place Friday.

GLASGOW, Scotland, May 6.—The renewal of the trials of the Shamrock III, was again postponed to-day, owing to the inclement weather. The first set race between the two Shamrocks is expected to take place Friday, and there will be a special race over a measured course in the Fifth of June Saturday.

Mr. Thomas Lidton was much interested in the result of the Columbia-Reliance brush on Long Island Sound yesterday. He said he thought that a "winner" of a mile beating in half an hour would seem to be a large order.

It was "something to know the Columbia was ahead."

over second base. Ganzel filed out to Harry Davis. No runs.

Fifth Inning. Monte Cross hit safely to short center. Powers rolled the horsehide to Griffith, collapsing on the assist. Plank bowled to Williams and was short at first. Topsy Hartwell wound up the scene with a towering fly to Lefty Davis. No runs.

Conroy set the bleachers rocking by hitting out a three-base hit to the rocks at the north fence. Herman Long could only raise a little single to Plank, but Beville tallied Conroy by shooting the leather between the lanky pitcher's legs. Beville was forced out at the bend on Griffith's short drive to Murphy. There was no further scoring, as Lefty Davis sent up a short fly to Hart sell. One run.

Sixth Inning. Pickering walked on a liner to Conroy. Harry Davis made his namesake sprint but he gathered in his sky stabbing fly. L. Cross was patient and prominent. But he went no further, as Seybold walked out a fly to Fultz. No runs.

While Keeler made his first out on L. Cross's assist, Fultz failed to beat out a fly to Fultz. No runs.

Gilbert fondled Sheppard's grounder as he was taking candy from a child. Doyle took a base on balls. Dahien was also presented. "Put 'em over" bawled the crowd for the first time. The "Iron Man," Mac did not get over and Mr. Ritter went to the beach. Brown caught. Fultz long fly and it was all over. No runs.

Fifth Inning. Sandow Mertes went to the bat and What! Tom Sharkey a wrestler? Yes, and a good one. But one can judge that for himself to-night at Nulzer's Harlem River Park, One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street and Second avenue. There the ex-sailor, who fought big Jim Jeffries twenty-five rounds of the hardest fighting seen in New York during the Horton-law days, will tackle August Faust, the husky German, in a hand-pick wrestling match. Faust is one of the best wrestlers now before the public. He has shown great strength and ability in all of his matches, and is in line for championship honors, but Piening and the rest of them have shown a disposition to sidetrack him.

Faust has agreed to throw Sharkey three times in one hour of actual wrestling. Sharkey has trained hard and accumulated a knowledge of holds with the idea of preventing Faust from making good his agreement, and will go on the mat trained as if for ring combat. The ex-sailor has won several bouts on the mat, but all his matches took place out of town; so to-night's exhibition is considered his debut in New York. Not since the boxing game was killed here has Sharkey, stripped for action, shown himself to New Yorkers. His marvellous physique as he bows on being introduced should bring back recollections of his several ring battles.

Aside from this, to-night's bout should be interesting. Everybody knows that Sharkey is naturally aggressive and pugnacious. For the benefit of those who don't know, let it be said that Faust is gaited the same way. Then, again, Faust has several tricks of the wrestling trade that will stir up the fighting nature of Sharkey if he uses them. For instance, Faust rubs an opponent's nose up and down and uses his fingers pinching fashion while figuring for a hold. It is easy for one who knows Sharkey to imagine the result of such tricks.

Two preliminary bouts have been arranged.

GOOD CROWD IS ON HAND.

COLUMBIA VS. PENNSYLVANIA.

Gearin Pitches for Blue and White, While Hawes Twirled for the Red and Blue Jerseyed Athletes.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 6.—Big Sam McVey, the colored heavy-weight fighter of this city, met "Kid" Carter, the South Brooklyn light heavy-weight, before the Century A. C. here last night and knocked him out in the eleventh round with a vicious right hand swing on the jaw. Carter was no match for McVey, who towered over him and outweighed him by fully fifteen pounds.

From the sound of the bell in the first round until McVey gave Carter his quietus it was a foregone conclusion that the colored fighter would win out. He jabbed Carter repeatedly in the face and also sent blows into his body and to his head which made him groggy.

Carter put up a game battle, but was unable to get in any of his vicious swings for McVey's jaw. In the eleventh round McVey floored Carter three times with smashes on the jaw, and finally put him to sleep with a right-hand swing.
