

STRIKE MOB IN POLICE BARRICKS.

Italian Rioters, 400 Strong, Make a Fierce Attack on Subway Workmen Near Police Headquarters—Driven Off.

RIOT CALL THEN SENT IN.

Italian Excavators Attempt to Drive a Dozen Laborers from Work, but Are Repulsed and Several of Their Number Locked Up.

The refusal of the contractors to take back the striking Italians resulted in riots to-day, and before nightfall, the belief of the police is, there will be bloodshed. When the Italians realized that they were beaten they began to drink, and in a few hours the lawless element was in the ascendancy. One riot occurred in sight of Police Headquarters.

All over the Italian colony in Elizabeth and Mulberry streets gatherings of excited men were to be seen consulting, moving on the men at work in the subway and at other places.

The most serious trouble was at Bleeker and Elm streets, within sight of Police Headquarters, where the strikers drove the men employed on the subway out of the trench that is being filled, and for a few minutes held the works. They were dispersed by the police, who came from Headquarters under Chief Inspector Cortright.

Two Arrests Made.

Two men were arrested after they had put up a fight. One of them attempted to kill Detective Hammond with a razor and was knocked down and beaten before he had a chance to use it. Others were beaten over the head, smashed in the face and finally put, out before the arrival of the reserves of the Mulberry and Mercer street stations.

The work at the point where the attack is made is almost completed. It is being done by Deegan & McLean, and all that remains to be done along Elm street, from Great Jones to Houston, is to fill in the trench on top and lay the sidewalk and street.

This work was progressing well to-day with a force of non-union men, when the Italians appeared. They were driven off as they gathered about Bleeker, Houston and other streets in Elm. By two and three they made their way to Bleeker and Elm and soon 400 were there.

They called upon the non-union men to quit work and threatened them if they did not. The four policemen on guard made an effort to stop them, but the crowd was too strong and they were swept aside.

The men in the trench after the first shower of rocks and stones, picked up a brick and threw it at the police. They were hit in a dozen places, left the trench, dropping their tools, picks and shovels and fled on a run.

Police Hurry to the Scene. Inspector Cortright, who had seen the trouble, ran through Police Headquarters sending out every man in the place who had a shield, to the assistance of the four policemen. In a few minutes some forty policemen, most of them in plain clothes, were at the mob hammer and tongs and the rioters were dispersed. They returned again in Mott street, and were coming back across the street.

The Elizabeth street station came up on a run. The mob broke and 100 of the men were chased into a saloon at No. 501 Mott street.

On the way to the riot the reserves of the Mulberry street station came up with a part of the mob at Elm and Jersey streets, and a fight followed. Four men were arrested there. One of them, Antonio Vintencio, drew a knife and attempted to use it. Two magistrates, one belonging to Patrolman Draebel and the other to Patrolman Bantz, came to the rescue of the men. He was sent to St. Vincent's Hospital. The others were locked up.

Attack on Workmen. Two hundred striking Italian laborers attempted to drive a dozen workmen from the excavation at the building at No. 63 Fifth street to-day, and in the general fight which resulted a riot call was sent to the reserve of the station. The mob was driven off and a riot was followed among a hundred children in a kindergarten across the street.

The trouble at the place has been continued so long that Miss Curran, principal of the school, closed it after the riot to-day and marched her charges out of the neighborhood to a public school in East Fourth street.

SAID ELEVATOR BOY THREW WATER ON GIRL.

But Miss Young Saw Only a "Pair of Brown Hands" and Crane Let Youth Go.

David K. Young, a coffee merchant, living in the Howel Apartments at No. 69 Manhattan avenue, appeared in Harlem Court to-day against Louis W. George, the negro elevator boy in the house, whom he charged with having thrown water on his daughter Edith.

Miss Young said that on Friday while standing under the window of the first floor, she was drenched by water thrown from a pail. All she saw was a "pair of brown hands" taking the pail.

Magistrate Crane thought this was not sufficient evidence and discharged the boy. Mr. and Mrs. Young were left court much incensed. The father said that George had frequently insulted his daughter, called her names, and tried to embrace her.

HORSE RUNS INTO OPEN STREET CAR.

Strikes Passenger with His Head and Breaks Man's Jaw in Two Places.

A horse attached to a butcher's cart belonging to Charles Dillard, of No. 338 Flatbush avenue, while running away along Eighth avenue, in Brooklyn to-day, crashed into an open street car in Ninth street. The animal's head went into the car so far and with such force that when it came in contact with the jaw of Herman Cohen, of No. 3 Cherry street, Manhattan, Cohen was knocked out.

When he was restored to consciousness in the St. Vincent's Hospital it was found he had sustained a compound fracture of the jaw. One of the shafts of the wagon struck Frank Henry, of the Hotel, in the breast. He refused to go to the hospital and continued on his way to Manhattan.

CHILDREN OF POET PEDDLED.

Society Agent Gathered Them In, and the Literary Parent Was Arrested and Held for Permitting Them to Do So.

A man, about forty years old, who gave his name as Byron Yates, of No. 113 East One Hundred and Tenth street, was held by Magistrate Crane in Jefferson Market Court to-day on a charge of permitting his young children to peddle in the streets.

Agent Pissaro, of the Children's Society, said the prisoner's right name was James B. Ledden and that several years ago he ran a brokerage establishment in Boston, where his wife is now living in comfortable circumstances. Pissaro said Yates claimed to make a living by writing poetry and is now engaged on a novel.

The children are Myroob, a girl, sixteen years old; Ethron, a boy, fourteen, and Breva, a girl, twelve. According to Pissaro, the children sold perfume on the streets, getting a few cents a bottle, and in many cases not being compelled to surrender the bottle.

Ethron was arrested on Feb. 6, 1902, in connection with an incendiary fire at No. 122 Amsterdam avenue, but was discharged. He has a juvenile asylum record, it is said.

Yates told the Court that the children had not been home for some time, and he was not informed as to what they had been doing. The children were sent back to the Children's Society.

Yates told the police he wanted to communicate with his publishers, so that they might not be inconvenienced by his incarceration.

GIRL IS GLAD SHE THREW ACID ON HIM.

Amelia Cooper Told Magistrate Crane John Mulraney Deserved It, but He Held Her.

When Amelia Cooper, seventeen years old, of No. 125 Third avenue, was arraigned before Magistrate Crane in the Harlem Court to-day on a charge of assault and throwing carbolic acid in the face of her former sweetheart, John Mulraney, of No. 27 West 102nd street, she said she was a "trifle defiant."

"I'm glad I did it," she said. "It served him right. He has not treated me right and he first threw the acid at me."

The acid was thrown in the hallway of Anne's house on May 19, and the girl has been missing out to-day when she was seen coming out of her house at 10 o'clock. "I took her to court," Mulraney, who has recently been released from a hospital, was in court to-day against her.

Magistrate Crane held the girl in $500 bail for examination on June 9.

CAB BILL ARREST DENOUNCED IN COURT.

"Outrageous," Says Magistrate Flammer When Broker's Wife is Arraigned for Dispute.

Magistrate Flammer, in the West Side Court to-day, declared an "outrageous" arrest of a person failing to pay a cab bill, and added that the ordinance governing the cab question was unconstitutional.

Mrs. Jessie Pierson, wife of a Wall street broker, living at No. 1845 Broadway, was arrested last night on Columbus avenue by Patrolman Gilliam, on complaint of Harry D. Barth, a cabman, of No. 228 East Thirty-fifth street. Mrs. Pierson is pretty and very diamonds in court.

The policeman told Magistrate Flammer that Mrs. Pierson had paid Barth $6 for cab hire, but the cabman had said that she owed him $7 and insisted on her arrest.

"This is outrageous," said Justice Flammer. "No person should be arrested in a case of this kind. A cabman is likely to ask a person to pay $1,000.00 for his services, and simply because that person refuses to pay the person is arrested and compelled to suffer humiliation. These cab cases are just as much wild cases as any other."

Mrs. Pierson was discharged.

The children are Myroob, a girl, sixteen years old; Ethron, a boy, fourteen, and Breva, a girl, twelve. According to Pissaro, the children sold perfume on the streets, getting a few cents a bottle, and in many cases not being compelled to surrender the bottle.
