POLICE KEEP ANGRY CROWD FROM SLAYER

Shooting in Front of Mount Vernon City Hall Followed by Attempt of Murderer to Kill Detective Who Pursued and Caught Him.

"LYNCH HIM!" CRIED CROWD SURROUNDING PRISONER.

Six Officers Escorted Him on Turbulent March to Station—Shooting Prompted by Jealousy and Victim Had Been Warned by Assailant.

(Special to The Evening World.) MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., July 13.—Ferry Griffin, twenty-three years old, a negro coachman employed on Chester street, here, shot and killed Ell Brown, twenty-five years old, also colored, in front of the Mount Vernon City Hall late this afternoon.

Griffin also fired at a detective, but the bullet missed the mark and he was disarmed and placed under arrest.

While the player was being taken to the station house a crowd surrounded him crying: "Lynch him." The throng pressed about in a threatening manner, and six policemen had all they could do to get the prisoner to the station house.

Griffin told the police that Brown had been unduly attentive to his wife and although repeatedly warned to keep away paid no attention to the threats and continued his calls.

Shortly before 3 o'clock this afternoon, while crowds of people were entering and leaving the City Hall, Griffin met Brown coming across the street. Without a word Griffin whipped out his revolver and fired three shots at him.

The bullets all took effect in Brown's head. Brown cried:

"Now, you have killed me!" and then fell dead.

Griffin started to run and was followed by Detective Eugene Fisher. Being overtaken by the officer, the murderer turned the revolver on him and fired. The detective was too quick for him. Fisher striking the weapon with his hand and the bullet going wide of its mark.

The negro fought desperately, though, until overpowered, some of the people in the crowd that gathered behind Fisher. Griffin was dragged still resisting to the City Hall, where he was held for a time.

Later, under guard of six policemen, he was led through the clamoring throng to the station-house, the crowd on several occasions growing so threatening that the police had to make a show of force.

Griffin and his victim were both quite well known in this city.

HIS CLOTHING SET ON FIRE, BOY IS DYING

Playmate's Joke, Father's Blunder and Alleged Police Brutality in Fatal Combination May Cause Life of Little Louis Skoloff to Flicker Out.

CANDLE HELD TO COAT IN SPIRIT OF MISCHIEF.

In Eldridge Street Station Sergeant on Duty Is Said to Have Refused to Send for Ambulance, Ordering Neighbor and Frantic Father Out.

A boy companion set fire to the coat of Louis Skoloff, seven years old, for a joke, yesterday, and to-day the child is dying at Gouverneur Hospital from the burns he received.

Young Skoloff lives at No. 62 Essex street. Yesterday he and his four-year-old brother were in the apartment of a family friend named Saltzman, on the second floor of No. 64 Essex street, which is over the saloon formerly owned by the late "Silver Dollar" Smith.

Several little boys were there and one of them, in a spirit of mischief, held a lighted candle under the coat of young Skoloff while the boy was leaning out of a window.

The lad's clothes blazed up and he called to his little brother to run and tell his father. The boy obeyed, but meantime David Marks, known in the neighborhood as "Big Dave," and Michael Rosenblum heard the boy's screams and carried him out of the house. After extinguishing the flames they carried him to a drug store, intending to telephone for an ambulance.

The druggist refused to allow them, however, saying it is alleged:

"I don't want any doctors here. They use my stuff and don't pay for it."

Father Sent Ambulance Away.

The men disregarded the druggist's refusal to let them use the telephone, and sent word for an ambulance. When one arrived from the Gouverneur Hospital the father of the boy refused to let him go to the hospital, although the ambulance surgeon advised him that his son was in a critical condition.

The boy was taken home and attended by the family physician. To-day the physician told the father that the only chance for life his son had was to be treated in a hospital.

A neighbor named A. Goldman, at the father's request, went to the Eldridge street station and asked the sergeant at the desk to send for an ambulance. After putting a lot of questions to Goldman the sergeant, he says, said to him with an oath:

"Why don't you mind your business? Get out of here and go to work!"

Goldman returned and told the father, Skoloff went himself to the police station, he says, and met with a similar reception from the sergeant, who ended by saying, Skoloff says:

"Go and find the man on post. You can't get an ambulance here."

Couldn't Find Policeman.

The father, nearly frantic, ran back to the street where he lives, but could not find a policeman. In desperation he went to the office of Joseph Levy, a lawyer, at No. 62 Essex street. One of the clerks went to the Essex Market Court, opposite, and Sgt. McCarthy sent for an ambulance. Skoloff says that nearly an hour's time was lost in getting the ambulance because of the treatment he and Goldman had received in the Eldridge street police station.

At the Gouverneur Hospital it is said that the boy will probably die. At the Eldridge street station all knowledge of the case was denied, and it could not be learned whether the police are making any effort to learn who the boy was who set young Skoloff's clothes on fire.

(Special to The Evening World.) BRIGHTON BEACH RACE TRACK, July 13.—Possession was an added starter in the Distaff Stakes at Brighton this afternoon, and was returned the winner. She was the last of a field of ten to get away from the post, but Bullman took her right to the outside and, reading there all the way, managed to collar the favorite, Monsoon, in the stretch and won by three-quarters of a length. The Belmont entry, Bekame and Bridlepath, were withdrawn on account of the mud. The mud caused quite a number of scratches during the afternoon, but the racing was good.

Sailor Knot and two two-year-olds with appropriate names for a wet day fought it out in the first race, Sailor Knot winning in a hard drive. The steeplechase was an easy victory for the favorite, Walter Cleary, who for once in his life ran straight and true to the end.

Himself and Bonmot had a red-hot drive in the handicap, and Bonmot, who was favorite, won by a few inches.

(Special to The Evening World.) Baseball Grounds, Cincinnati, July 13. If John J. McGraw had lived about twenty centuries ago you would find his life written by Plutarch. The little turned-up nose, hard head and close ears indicate a certain talent for generalship the like of which one seldom sees.

He took his baseball team out to the grounds here this afternoon, hunched himself on the bench and reckoned on another game by putting Taylor in the box. Excepting Ned Hanlon, no other manager would have the nerve to take a chance like that, for Taylor nearly lost the game yesterday by his fighting with the umpire and continual gifts. But that is where McGraw shines as a general. He recalled Joe McGinnis on Saturday because the "Iron Man" showed weariness and substituted Mathewson, dragging out a hard-earned game. Yesterday he did the same with Taylor and put in Jack Cronin.

This afternoon Taylor was milled with remorse and determination to beat the Reds, who once upon a time were easy for him. So McGraw told Taylor to go in and with the threat that if he acted peevishly again more disgrace would fall upon his head.

Roger Bresnahan arrived from Michigan in time for the game and looked like a different person. His leg bothered him hardly any and he awaited the ball with all his former vigor. Warner and Van Halten have been playing such star ball that McGraw decided to remove either one of them for Bresnahan.

Warner, though, was just as well satisfied to take a rest and nurse his broken finger. Jack has been catching errorless ball with his pointing digit wrapped in line, another testimonial to the Giants' remarkable game.

Cincinnati came in force this afternoon, 4,000 rosters being hungry to see "Noodle" Hahn, the left-handed wonder, wipe New York out of the map.

Joe Kelley arrived with fire in his eye. He cannot understand how McGraw has landed two victors in an afternoon, and for that matter it is a puzzle in every fan in this holy temple of baseball.

The Giants cannot do it out themselves, but John T. Brush, who left for Indianapolis last night, attributes the "J. McGraw" to the Baltimore spirit. "The local newspaper men stay up all night trying to figure how this 'crucial' team holds second place, when other clubs are made up of so much more seasoned material. They ascribe the miracle to the phenomenal fielding of Babb, Gilbert and Lander. Three infielders who were little known before this year, and the Giants' great pitchers, 'Matty' and McGinnis."

The record thus far in six games out of nine with two more to be played here and four in Pittsburg. The team when it went in this afternoon was in better shape than it has enjoyed since leaving home.

The thermometer had dropped to pleasant summer heat and cool winds braced up the lads and they jumped about like two-year-olds. The ground was still a little soggy from yesterday's rain, but the New Yorks did not seem to mind it and gave rattling practice.

Lander was feeling ill when the game started and Dan McGinnis had recovered from his attack of cramps, so Bresnahan was sent to third. As usual, the visiting team batted first.

First Inning.

Browns batted a poke that Daly got without moving and Van Halten under it. Hahn, crooked handed, McGinnis had the same now runs.

Taylor now twirled a few preliminaries and endeavored to reduce his defeat yesterday. The Silent Man seemed to have good control this time. Donlin scraping a slow one that Babb handed in a romp. Zimmerman fared no better, sending a clip that McGinnis took care of unassisted. A hot one from Doan was picked up by Babb, who pulled McGinnis off the base with his throw. Then Beckley pounded out a two-bagger, advancing Doan to third. Steinfeld warmed Brown's finger, but Charley got it over just in time. No runs.

POPE IS SINKING AND END IS NEAR

Weaker To-Day After Early Morning Hours of Agitation Followed by an Attack of Dizziness with Hallucinations that Indicate the Marvellous Intellect Is at Last Giving Way.

DOCTORS OBSERVE CHANGE AND ARE MUCH CONCERNED.

Consultation Will Be Held Earlier Than Usual This Afternoon—Pontiff Pleads in Vain for Permission to Leave His Bed—His Kidneys Are in Bad Condition.

LATEST BULLETIN.
Rome, July 13, 8.45 P. M.
The following bulletin has just been issued: "The depression in the Pope's strength persists. The frequency of respiration is slightly augmented, Respiration, 36; pulse, 92; weak; temperature, 37 centigrade; general condition, always grave. No immediate danger."
ROSSONI, LAPPONI, MAZZONI."

ROME, July 13—7 P. M.—The Pope's condition is becoming worse. Contrary to the arrangement made for a daily reception of three Cardinals, none was permitted to enter the sick chamber to-day.

This alarming change for the worse has filled the Vatican with gloom. The doctors in attendance upon the Pontiff have just decided to hold an examination earlier than usual this afternoon, owing to the grave condition that prevails.

Hypodermic injections of salt and water were administered late this afternoon.

It is believed now that the disintegration of the physical forces which have responded heretofore so miraculously to the will of the stricken Pontiff, has begun at last.

For the first time since the Pope was stricken his request to be allowed to leave his bed was absolutely refused by his doctors to-day. It was found that his condition was so very feeble that the slightest exertion would prove exhausting, and the doctors decided to take no risk.

ATTACKED BY DIZZINESS.

The Pontiff suffered from an attack of dizziness early this morning, which was accompanied by hallucinations.

The dizziness was a kind of mental confusion, during which he seemed to lose consciousness of his surroundings, while he believed he saw a vision. He explained afterwards that he thought he saw an undefined shadow moving about the room and slowly approaching his bed, whereupon the Pontiff became agitated and called for his valet, Pio Centra, saying:

"Pio! Pio! who is it? Who is it?"

Dr. Lapponi and Centra rushed to the patient's bed and soon succeeded in tranquillizing him.

It developed during the morning, as the result of a careful medical examination, that the condition of the Pope's kidneys is worse. The diminution of certain elements of the secretions leads the doctors to fear that his system is gradually approaching a state of dissolution.

The bulletin issued at 9.30 to-day was disquieting. It shows that the patient has reached a stage where his wonderful will power fails to enable him to accept the situation with the cheerfulness that has characterized him up to the present.

The bulletin read as follows:
A DISQUIETING BULLETIN.

"Up to midnight the Pontiff remained tranquil, but afterward he experienced agitated intervals. A physical examination of the thorax shows no change since day before yesterday. The action of the kidneys continues slight, and the general condition of His Holiness is somewhat depressed. His pulse is 82, respiration 32 and temperature 36 centigrade. (Signed)

"LAPPONI, MAZZONI."

At times the flame of intellect burns as brightly as ever, and the Pontiff shows his mental alertness by unexpected inquiries. When Drs. Rossoni and Papponi made their morning call the patient inquired about Dr. Rossoni, asking:

"Why doesn't he come to see me?"

Being told that Rossoni was ill, he said:

"Tell him he must take care of himself."

PONTIFF ASKS FOR "AIR, AIR."

From Vienna have come highly perfected machines for producing artificial respiration and for making oxygen. The Pontiff, however, has not required the administration of oxygen for the last three days.

"What I need," says Pope Leo, "is air—fresh air. Besides, I should be allowed to rise. An old man of ninety-four should not be kept in bed when without fever."

Mgr. O'Connell, rector of the Catholic University at Washington, has arrived here, accompanied by Father Cornelius G. O'Keefe, of Highland Falls, N. Y., and William J. Onahan, of Chicago. Mr. O'Connell's object in coming here was to submit to the Pope's consideration the condition of the University. In view of the illness of the Pope, however, he laid his report before Cardinal Satolli, under whose jurisdiction the University comes.

FIREWORKS CAUSE A SCARE IN STREET

Truckman Drops a Case He Is Attempting to Deliver in Park Place and an Explosion Follows.

A truckman attempted to deliver a case of fireworks to the Consolidated Fireworks Company of America, at Nos. 8 and 11 Park place, to-day; but just as he tried to dump the case from his truck there was a muffled explosion. His horse took fright and started on the run for Church street.

The popping of roman candles, the bursting of the imprisoned rockets and the sputter of pinwheels attracted a large crowd in front of the place. Some one rushed to a box and turned in an alarm.

The employees of the fireworks concern appeared on the scene with hand grenades and fire extinguishers, which were turned loose on the box. One of them ne the case a blow with an axe and the spectators fled. One rocket sped along the ground toward Broadway and burst against the wheel of a trolley car.

By the time the firemen arrived the blaze was out and all danger passed. The clerks and porters of the fireworks concern were busy sweeping the debris into the gutter.

"It is impossible to say just what caused the stuff to go off the way it did. Improper packing as much as anything else may have done it."
