

MRS. HANNA LONG
MRS. E. K. STALLO

Divorced Wife of Dan Hanna Wedded Lawyer-Banker Last April and Marriage is Just Announced.

NEWS SURPRISE TO SOCIETY.

The Kidnapped Children by Former Marriage and Escaped to Europe with Them, Outwitting Many Detectives Employed by Hanna.

MARRIED.—HANNA—STALLO.—April 27, 1903, by the Rev. Henry Rollins, at St. James's Episcopal Church, Seventy-first street and Madison avenue, MAY HARRINGTON HANNA and EDMUND KITTRIDGE STALLO.

This notice was handed to The World last night. It was written on paper that bore this printed inscription in the upper left-hand corner: "Edmund K.
Stallo, Hanover Bank Building, New York."

When an Evening World reporter called to-day at the apartment-house, No. 67 Madison avenue, he was told that Mrs. Stallo would not see any one.
Then he went to her rooms by a messenger boy a note, stating that he wished to see her, as Mrs. Stallo, when she was Mrs. Hanna, always was most courteous in granting interviews.

The boy returned with the message that there was no answer, and then with a second note, added:
"Gee! I wish you send me with another note to the lady. She gave me a dollar."

It is believed that Mr. Stallo is either at his office or else the couple are away on their honeymoon.

Had Fight for Her Children.

Mrs. May Harrington Hanna obtained a divorce from Daniel Hanna, son of Senator Marcus A. Hanna, on the ground of neglect and cruelty. Sensational episodes marked the separation of the two. Mrs. Hanna left her home in Cleveland to sail for Europe with her three children, all boys. Her husband declared she should not take the children. Mrs. Hanna went to the Bay Hotel, in this city, prior to boarding the steamer, and Mr. Hanna hired a corps of detectives to prevent her from taking the children with her. But she cleverly outwitted husband and detectives, and they returned to her. She and her boys issued from the hotel by this door, jumped into a carriage and got aboard the boat.

"Dan" Hanna, while a student at college, met Miss Carrie May Harrington.
While together in a boating party at Escanaba, Mich., on Aug. 9, 1887, they strolled away from their companions, sought a clergyman and were married.
Neither was of age.

Kept Marriage Secret.

For several months they kept their marriage secret. When it became known Senator Hanna said, "Boys will be boys, and he might have done worse." "Dan" but his wife to live in Cleveland in the Hanna home.

Then came stories of quarrels between young Hanna and his wife. The first open outbreak occurred at the Cleveland Horse Show in 1897. The next occurred at the Motting insurance exhibition in 1898.
Several times Senator Hanna prevented a separation, but things went from bad to worse, until in January 1901 Mrs.
Hanna filed suit for divorce, alleging neglect and cruelty.

Mrs. Hanna secured the custody of her children and an order from the court compelling Daniel Hanna to provide for their education. She took her sons to Europe, and on her return presented a bill for $3,000. After some litigation Mr.
Hanna paid the bill. Soon after this Mr. Hanna married Mrs. Daisy Gordon McMahon, and at that time called the most beautiful woman in Cleveland.

Learning that his first wife contemplated another trip to Europe, Mr.
Hanna, not wishing to pay another $3,000, applied to the court for an order to have his father, Senator Hanna, made guardian of the three children.
The order was granted, and the court issued prohibiting Mrs. Hanna from removing the boys from the State of Ohio.

Escaped to New York.

While the deputy was at her front door to serve on her the court order, Mrs. Hanna slipped out the back door with her boys, and was on her way to New York before the Sheriff knew of it. She went to Europe without further trouble, registering under the name of "Mrs. Brown." Mr. Hanna followed on the next train and obtained a writ of habeas corpus from Justice McAdam.
Private detectives were employed to find Mrs. Hanna, but despite their watchfulness she and her children went aboard the Campania. There she again outwitted the detectives, who tried to serve the writ in a box of roses. With the aid of the Baroness de Falloux she got away to Europe without further trouble.

A woman answering the description of the Baroness de Falloux was Mrs.
Hanna's constant companion on the homeward voyage on the Campania, which arrived here on Oct. 24, 1901.
Clinging to Mrs. Hanna's skirts as she walked down the gangway, she was her son, Daniel, and her daughter, Carl H.
Hanna, and her eldest son, Marcus Hanna, walked ahead and retained a lawyer, Charles E. Brindley, and a relative of the Hanna family, Mr. Bacon had ef-fectuated a settlement with their mother.

Boys were to remain with their mother.
Mrs. Hanna went to the Waldorf-Astoria, Daniel Hanna and his daughter, Carl Hanna, to the time, unknown to Mrs. Hanna No. 1. By a curious coincidence of the new arrivals, who traveled under the name of "Brown," placed them in an adjoining suite to that occupied by the Daniel Hannas, and the two "Mrs. Hannas" met several times. Then Mrs. Hanna No. 1 removed to her present apartments in Madison avenue.

Edmund K. Stallo is a native of Cincinnati. He is the son of Judge Stallo, who was Minister to Rome during the Cleveland administration. He is tall and dark. He is a widower, his first wife having been on the Standard Oil millionaire. He has two young daughters.
These are under the care of Mr. Mc-Donnell in Cincinnati.

FOUGHT WITH A BURGLAR.

Wealthy Farmer at Wayside Finally Drove Thief Away.
EATONTOWN, N. J., Oct. 29.—Edward Fary, a wealthy farmer of Wayside, had a desperate fight with a burglar early to-day. Just before daylight he awoke and found a burglar standing over him and searching the pockets of his clothing.

When he saw that Fary was awake the burglar struck him a terrific blow on the head with a club. Fary lay stunned for a moment or two and then struggled to his feet and grappled with his assailant. The men fought all around the room.

Finally the burglar broke away, leaving a part of his coat in Fary's hands.
The man had an accomplice, who was waiting outside in a wagon. Into this the burglar jumped and the two escaped.

ENDS HER LIFE WITH ACID.

Mrs. Meyer Grieved at Death of Her Daughter.
Mrs. Ida Meyer, thirty-five years old, the wife of John Meyer, committed suicide at her home, No. 3488 Third avenue, by taking carbolic acid. Two months ago she lost her six-year-old daughter, Margaret, who died in the Willard Park Hospital. Since then the woman had been constantly brooding over the child's death.

FORMER MRS. BANNA, WHO MARRIED SECRETLY IN APRIL.

MRS. E. K. STALLO.

MARRIAGE BROKER
IN POLICE HANDS.

Charles R. Van Tascher Accused of Swindling Women Out of Their Savings by Promising Them Rich Husbands.

Swindling in a new way is charged against Charles R. Van Tascher, arrested yesterday by Detective Sergeants McConville, Peabody and Clark, of the Central Office, and taken to Police Headquarters on a charge of grand larceny made by John Klinger, of No.
29 St. Mark's place, Brooklyn. Inspector McCluskey says that he has evidence that Van Tascher has swindled women out of their savings by luring them into marriages with men represented to be wealthy, for which he took large sums of money.

Van Tascher, it is charged, inserted advertisements in New York newspapers, saying that a "rich German, just arrived," would like to wed, and found many women willing to marry. The detectives say that Mrs. Gesina, who lived at No. 83 Second avenue, answering an advertisement of a "wealthy German who had just come to America with a very valuable invention, and who had many marks in bank in Germany," called at Van Tascher's office, No. 140 Nassau street, where he was President and General Manager of The Van Tascher Realty and Construction Company. Van Tascher introduced a man whom he called "Dr. Paul Peters." The marriage was arranged, and Van Tascher, it is charged, collected from the woman nearly $1,000 to be expended on that of Mr. and Mrs. Peters.

After the wedding the woman found that she was wedded to a poor man.
She soon complained of non-support and said that he had beaten her. "Dr. Paul Peters" was sent to Eastwell's island for six months, where he is now serving out his term. Mrs. Peters said, at the same time, that she had never seen
"Dr. Peters" since.

"I believe Van Tascher led 'Dr.
Peters' to believe that he was going to marry a rich woman as he led me to believe I was going to marry a rich inventor. He got nearly $1,000 from me on pretenses which were never made good. After we had married, my husband and I realized that we had not married into a fortune. He beat me and I had him sent to the island."

Another case cited by the detectives is that of Mr. and Mrs. George Hoffman, of No. 225 East Eighty-sixth street, who were married in New York city. Van Tascher $300, to be spent in fitting up a house for her, which she did not receive. She has never seen
"Dr. Peters" since.

"John Klinger charges that last August he was introduced to a man who called "Dr. Peters" and who was advertising for a manage of many houses at Hasbrouck Heights, and that some has never seen him since. He alleges that Van Tascher did not own any houses at Has-
seen him since. He alleges that Van
seen him since.

LONG WALK TO SEE POPE.

Barber Foots 400 Miles Between Venice and Rome.

ROME, Oct. 23.—Pope Pius X. has been the recipient of many touching proofs of devotion, but the most remarkable is that of Luigi Cristofoli, a barber who used often to shave the Pope when he was Patriarch of Venice.
He walked from Venice to Rome, 400 miles, to pay his respects to the Pon-tiff.

Cristofoli went to the Vatican and said he wished to see the Pope and he was not only surprised, but annoyed to find that he must formally ask for audience and even, perhaps, not get it.
The barber went in high dudgeon to the sisters of the Pope, who consoled with him and promised to speak to their brother in his behalf.

sults of Kidney Disease, and Can

WARNER'S SAFE CURE

TEST YOUR KIDNEYS.

Let some morning urine stand twenty-four hours. If a reddish-brown sediment forms or if particles float about in it, or if the least cloudy or smoky, your kidneys are seriously affected and utterly unable to carry the waste matters out of the body; and if allowed to run on without treatment the uric acid will clog the blood and poison the whole system, causing inflammation of the bladder, kidney organs, headache, backache, especially the loins, indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, rheumatic sprains, neuralgia, nervousness, neuritis, all manner of blood and skin eruptions, and, finally, a complete breakdown of the general health, with Bright's disease, diabetes and death. If you are already suffering from any of these diseases your life is in grave danger, as the kidneys rarely put forth such outward symptoms until disease has advanced to a fatal stage.

DISEASES OF WOMEN.—Besting-down sensation, fainting spells, painful periods and other female troubles are all unfailing symptoms of kidney disorders.
