SULLY'S CREDITORS REFUSE HIS OFFER FOR SETTLEMENT

Hopes of the Ex-Cotton King to Resume Business Receive a Set-Back—Terms of His Offer Are Not Made Public.

The proposal of Daniel J. Sully, the de-throned cotton king, for a settlement with his creditors was turned down this afternoon. They refused to accept it, and the committee representing them adjourned to await the call of the chairman.

Sully did not attend the meeting, but had a representative there, who explained his side of the story and made known his wishes concerning a settlement to many of the creditors. The bulk of the amount of actual cash offered by Sully in settlement of the enormous claims against him was far from satisfactory to many of the creditors. The bulk of his obligations Sully sought to dispose of by six, twelve and eighteen month notes, paying to each claimant a part of his money outright.

While there were some to whom this was satisfactory, it is said that the bulk of the creditors were not satisfied.

Meeting of Creditors.
Before the proposal of Sully was received there was a meeting of his creditors at the Cotton Exchange.

President MacDougal, of the Exchange, presided. There are between 75 and 80 in attendance, among them Charles G. Gates, of Charles G. Gates & Co.; John C. Latham, of Latham, Alexander & Co.; R. J. Soles, of Dock Brothers & Co.; W. D. Springs, of J. H. Parker & Co., who are said to be the largest creditors; Henry Heitz, George Bailey, of Bailey & Montgomery, and Edward Weld, of Stephen Weld & Co. Mr. Sully was not present.

A committee of five, consisting of H. S. Clark, J. Temple Gwaltney, R. H. D. Selders, C. A. Simpson and George Chaplin was appointed by the meeting to hear what Mr. Sully had to offer.

The details of the negotiations between Sully and his creditors were kept quiet, but it can be said that the meeting did not adjourn until nearly 1 o'clock.

JAPS TURN DOWN U. S. ARMY OFFICER

Brig.-Gen. Henry T. Allen, American Military Observer, Prevented from Proceeding Nearer to the Outposts.

SEOUL, March 21.—The Japanese have stopped Brig.-Gen. Henry T. Allen, Chief United States military observer with the Japanese army at Ping Yang, requesting him not to proceed toward their outposts.

CHEFOO, March 21.—The Russians are said to have withdrawn practically all their forces from the south side of the Yalu River before the Japanese advance, which is making rapid headway under command of Lieut.-Gen. Kodama, Vice-Chief of the General Staff.

Sixteen thousand Japanese troops are now on the north side of the Chongchang River, within three days' march of the mouth of the Yalu.

The Japanese army has made surprisingly droit moves along the Chongchang River since last Thursday, moving north from Pingyang.

The road has been made clear to the Anju by the Japanese cavalry which has been working along the north side of the river for a week. At a given moment the Japanese army moved forward. So splendid was the move that the correspondents who have arrived here are lost in admiration.

CHARGED 5 CENTS FOR WASHING HANDS

Saloon-Keeper Made Visitor Pay, Got Arrested for It, and Was Fined $10 in Court for His Imposition.

saloon of Henry Piper, No. 2081 Broadway, to-day to wash his hands. As he was about to leave the saloon the proprietor demanded five cents. The Colonel refused to pay it.

"You'll pay the five cents or you won't leave the place," announced Mr. Piper. "I'll leave the saloon, sir, and I will pay you five cents for the privilege of answering the Colonel with a show of respect."

He then stationed one bartender at one entrance and he himself stood guard at the other. The Colonel paid his ticket, but returned in a few minutes with Mr. Piper to court, where he was fined $10.

EX-MAYOR GRACE PASSES AWAY

His Physicians Had Announced that the End Was Only a Question of a Few Hours and His Death Was Not a Surprise.

Former Mayor Grace died at his home, 1115 o'clock to-day. At noon the City Hall flag was placed at half staff and messages of condolence from New Yorkers prominent in politics and business began to arrive at the Grace residence.

Mr. Grace had been unconscious for some time before his death. The end was not unexpected. It was known last night that death was only a matter of a short time.

The wife of Mr. Grace, his two sons, his three daughters and his brother, Michael P. Grace, were at his bedside when he died.

The cause of the death of Mr. Grace was an attack of pneumonia that manifested itself on Dec. 7 last. It was a severe attack, but the indomitable Grace will fought it off and despite the advanced age of the victim he was seventy-two and broad that had been made upon his constitution by previous illnesses it appeared for a time that he would recover.

Although the pneumonia was routed, Mr. Grace did not rally from the attack. He struggled with all his remaining strength against the after effects of the disease, nor did the struggle cease while his mind remained active.

Dr. Edward L. Keyes and Dr. Edward L. Keyes, Jr., who attended him throughout his last illness, notified the members of the family yesterday that hope might well be abandoned.

The funeral will be held from St. Ignace Loyola's Church, Eighty-fourth street and Park avenue, on Wednesday morning. Solemn requiem mass will be celebrated by Rev. Neil McInnon, S. J. The body will lie in state in the

MURDERS CAUSE REIGN OF TERROR IN ONE PRECINCT

Surprising Statement Made This Afternoon from the Bench by Police Magistrate Flammer Calls Attention to the Wild Western Conditions in New York City.

CASES OF MURDER AND ASSAULT CROWD THE COURTS.

Suggestion that Fine of $100 Be Inflicted on Persons Who Carry Concealed Weapons—Remarkable Record in One Precinct, Showing How Many Men Go "Heeled."

"New York is getting to be like a western mining camp," said Magistrate Flammer to-day, commenting on the remarkable outbreak of shooting cases. The Magistrate made this remark to-day in speaking of the growing reign of the revolver as exemplified by the murders of the past few hours.

Cases of murder and assault in which the revolver figures are crowding the courts. The present law imposing a fine of $10 for carrying a revolver operates not even as a check. Foreigners are abandoning their knives and razors as weapons of offense and defense in favor of the more certain "gun." Magistrate Flammer estimates that half of the 90,000 Italians living in the East One Hundred and Fourth Street Precinct carry revolvers, and he is in favor of allowing Magistrates to impose a fine of $100 for carrying concealed weapons.

THREE DEAD; THREE WOUNDED.

"Since last June," said Magistrate Flammer, after he had disposed of the case of the Italian murderer and other shooting-scare prisoners before him, "there have been fourteen murders by Italians in the East One Hundred and Fourth street precinct. All of these murders have been done by men with revolvers. There are 90,000 Italians in the precinct, and I believe that half of them are armed."

Since 5 o'clock yesterday morning, when a policeman was killed and another was wounded in a fight with a burglar, there has been a succession of shootings in this city. The list of dead numbers three and three have been wounded.

IN THREE OF THE CASES POLICEMEN FIGURED IN THE TRAGEDIES AND IN TWO THE CAUSE OF THE SHOOTINGS WAS THE DETECTION OF PERSONS ENGAGED IN ROBBERY.

Just before daylight yesterday a watchman caught a burglar robbing a bakery in Third avenue near Fifty-fourth street. The man ran, and before he was caught he had killed Policeman Enright and wounded Policeman Bachman. When cornered by other policemen he shot himself in the head, but he will live to answer for his crime.

An outbreak of passion among the Italian residents of the upper east side of Harlem caused several running fights there yesterday afternoon in which two men were killed and policemen had to shoot in order to get their prisoners.

SPRING FESTIVAL BEING CELEBRATED.

A spring festival was being celebrated by the Italians living in the vicinity of One Hundred and Fifteenth street and First avenue, and an extra detail of police had been ordered to the scene. Several shooting affairs took place, but in none of them was any one injured until a row started in front of the tenement at No. 316 East One Hundred and Fifteenth street.

Lorenzo Condoni, alias John Diotti, a man fifty years old, with a wife and numerous children, living at No. 343 East One Hundred and Seventeenth street, met Jose Bevacqua, alias Joseph Ross, a young man who came from Italy a few weeks ago, in a crowd at this address. There was an argument in Italian, and then Condoni shot Bevacqua three times in the breast, killing him almost instantly.

KILLING THE MURDERER.

The murderer ran to First avenue and hid in a cellar, exactly as the murderer of the policeman had done further down First avenue earlier in the day. The similarity did not deter Policeman Levy and plain-clothes detectives Neider and Dixon from going into the cellar after Condoni.

SURRENDERED TO THE POLICE.

He threw up his hands and surrendered when the policeman appeared. No pistol was found on him, but a search of the cellar brought to light a pistol with three chambers empty. It was the one Condoni had used in killing Bevacqua.

Condoni was identified as the murderer by Vincenzo Conde, of No. 345 East One Hundred and Seventeenth street, who saw the shooting. The tragedy grew out of a happening in Italy. Bevacqua married a girl there last summer against the wishes of her people and in subsequent trouble he killed one of her relatives. Escaping to New York he took the name of Ross and went to live in the Harlem Italian colony with his cousin, Antonio Ferreri.

Condoni is a relative of the man killed in Italy by Bevacqua. Word of the crime was sent to him there, and he killed Bevacqua in revenge.

Scarce had the excitement over this shooting subsided than another affair with pistols happened at One Hundred and Fourteenth street and First avenue. Vincenzo Maresco, of No. 342 East One Hundred and Four-

THREE MONTHS FOR THREE WOODEN LEGS

Frederick Noehring Fooled the Assistant Rector of Grace Church with Them and Now Goes to the Island.

After Frederick Noehring, a dapper-looking little man, had been convicted of petty larceny in the Court of Special Sessions to-day, he made an urgent plea for clemency.

He had hardly finished when the Rev. Dr. C. N. Douglas, assistant rector of Grace Church, asked Presiding Justice Wyatt's leave to tell what he knew about the prisoner.

The clergyman, shaking his finger at the prisoner, said:

"This man tampered my beard and got my nose shaved, a falsehood of was a fraud. He came to me with a letter asking me to look a leg in a pair of trousers and to give him an artificial leg. I gave him a leg, but he did not get another leg, but that didn't matter, and he secured so many that I helped him get a third leg."

"Before he had time to complain about the fit of the third leg I made inquiries and learned that he was a fraud." The Court sentenced the prisoner to serve a month for each leg.

That day, raining cough is not necessary. Pile's ointment will relieve and cure it. 25c.

GIRL THE ACCUSER OF COP'S BROTHER

Being a Policeman in the Family appeared to justify him in his own eyes.

Being a policeman in the family appeared to justify him in his own eyes. He was charged with the murder of a girl, and his brother, a policeman, was the accuser.

The girl, who was the daughter of a policeman, was charged with the murder of a man. Her brother, a policeman, was the accuser.
