John O'Reilly Demands $2,000 from Policeman Who Arrested Him for Attempting to Enter an Alleged Pool-Room.

MANY "CLUBS" WILL HAVE SIMILAR ACTIONS BROUGHT.

Stand on Gaylor Decision

Our clients do not propose to break any law. We adhere to the decision of Mr. Justice Gaylor regarding the rights of citizens in this town...

When Schum got O'Reilly in front of the club, he was pressing charges against Sgt. McKee of unnecessary detention.

The place at which all this trouble generated is known as the Geysercourt club. It has a bar, a billiard table and a lounge in a house in West One Hundred and Twenty-second street.

Four uniformed policemen stationed themselves in front of the house on the afternoon of March 16 and stopped everybody who tried to enter.

Mr. O'Reilly was busy with another matter, so he sent his brother to see what could be done. John O'Reilly hastened to the house and was skipping up the front steps when Schum stepped in front of him, deftly applied the end of his club to the pit of his stomach and compelled him to back up to the sidewalk.

"Get 'em outta here," said the cop, giving O'Reilly another poke and forcing him into the gutter.

"Sir," said O'Reilly, "I represent my brother Dan, who is counsel for the licensee of this house, and I desire to enter and confer with the said licensee."

Just then appeared a man known variously as Murphy or Melrose. He said he was waiting for Mr. O'Reilly and would conduct him to the presence of the licensee.

On this John O'Reilly bases his claim for $2,000 damages for false arrest. Should he be sustained by the courts in his civil action, every man arrested while trying to force his way into a clubhouse racket will have leave to bring a similar suit.

SAVES HE WORKS IN A POOL-ROOM

Prisoner Amazes Magistrate Flammer by Telling Him He Is Employed Where Bets Are Made on Horse Races.

"AND I THOUGHT THE LID WAS DOWN TIGHT."

Magistrate Then Tips Off Police, but They Find the Place Is Paperhangers' Union Headquarters.

If the Tenderloin police find and raid a pool-room this afternoon they will own their discovery to an ingenious former colored man who was a prisoner in Harlem Court early in the day.

Spellman was trying door-knocks and examining flat-house letter-boxes along Lexington avenue when Policeman Lawlor, of the East One Hundred and Fourth street station, arrested him as a suspicious person.

"Unless you let me go I'll lose my job," said Spellman to Magistrate Flammer.

"Where do you work?" asked the Magistrate.

"In a pool-room at No. 116 West Thirty-first street," said the man.

"You surely don't mean a place where they bet on horse races?"

"I surely do," said Spellman.

"Blackboards and racing sheets and docket and all those things I read about in the papers?" asked the Magistrate.

"Sure; the gentlemen assemble from 2 to 6 o'clock."

"And I thought the lid was down tight," said the Magistrate, and he forthwith ordered the court sergeant to notify the Tenderloin police to look out for the pool-room.

No. 116 West Thirty-first street is the headquarters of the Paperhangers' Union. The union occupies the entire house save the basement, which is a laundry.

The members laughed at the idea that a pool-room existed there to-day. At 2 o'clock the Tenderloin police said they hadn't heard from Magistrate Flammer yet.

Margaret Houston, twenty-six years old, and her child, Mary Lindsley, twenty-two years old, owe their lives to a record run of an ambulance from the Harlem Hospital to the house at No. 102 East One Hundred and Twenty-second street.

In turning off one heater of the gas stove they accidentally turned on another. At noon to-day when the young women did not appear at the factory their employer sent to their home to learn the cause of their absence.

Word of the occurrence was sent to Dan O'Reilly, who hurried to Harlem Court and asked Magistrate Flammer to issue a warrant for the arrest of the two men to be arrested that afternoon.

On this John O'Reilly bases his claim for $2,000 damages for false arrest. Should he be sustained by the courts in his civil action, every man arrested while trying to force his way into a clubhouse racket will have leave to bring a similar suit.

REPROACHED, DRANK OPIUM.

Earl a Suicide When Wife Upbraided Him for Intemperance. Stung by the reproaches of his wife for drinking, John H. Earl, a porter at the Museum of Natural History, drank an ounce of opium last night at his home, No. 101 West Ninety-fifth street.

Dr. William Hoag, of No. 148 West Eighty-seventh street, worked over the man all night, but was unable to keep off the fatal sleep that leads to death in opium poisoning.

SULLY DECLARED TO BE BANKRUPT

pointed does not necessarily mean that Sully & Co. cannot offer a compromise and that such a compromise cannot be accepted."

Mr. Miller would not discuss his appointment, but Mr. Taft said: "I don't know anything about my appointment. I did not expect it and I don't know why I was selected. I know nothing about cotton, nothing about Mr. Sully. I understand it was appointed because the Court desired to have a lawyer act with the other receiver."

Considerable difficulty was experienced in serving the notice of the Court's action on Joseph H. Hoadley, to whom Sully made his assignment. Mr. Hoadley went to Sully's office shortly before 1 o'clock and a few minutes later Lawyer Hardy, of Boothby & Baldwin, attorney for the creditors, arrived to serve the order on Mr. Hoadley, relieving him of any further duty.

Mr. Sully's office was locked and Mr. Hardy could not get in. He waited around for an hour and then a man was sent out to accept service for Mr. Hoadley. The lawyer declined to serve any one but Mr. Hoadley, and after a few minutes' delay the assignee himself appeared and took the papers.

Rescued by the pitiful offering of settlement made at last night's conference by Sully, the bears made a raid to-day and succeeded in pounding prices down generally from 13 to 48 points. A few of Sully's friends, men who admire him and think he has been a beneficial influence in the business because his operations made money for growers and because of the added prestige the Cotton Exchange has enjoyed since he ran the price of seats from $300 to $10,000, went to his support, but they were powerless in the face of the courage of the bears, born overnight.

Later the market rallied slightly, prices rising from 5 to 14 points, but still staying well below where they were at last night's closing. Just before the noon call there was a feverish moment. A number of brokers heard from New Orleans that there were rumors that the Sully failure was to be followed by other failures. Such failures, if they occurred, would be announced at the noon call. Supt. King made no announcements, however, and everybody breathed freer afterward.

Later in the afternoon the bears made another raid and for some time the trading was fast and furious. Spot cotton was driven down from 14 to 30 points and future cotton was driven down all the way from 15 to 30 points. The fear of Sully and what he might do has kept the market up since Friday, when his suspension was first announced, but last night's conference convinced all that Sully has been stripped of his power and has no money and controls none.

While Mr. Sully was in his office this afternoon a young man came in with a very long face. He had a check for $197 in his hand, which was dated March 9 and signed with the firm name. He said he had forgotten to cash it and wanted to know if Mr. Sully wouldn't make good.

Mr. Sully told him that his creditors had tied up every cent he had in the bank and that he could do nothing. The youth was very disconsolate, and went away looking for some of the men that Sully owes millions to in order to pool his interests with them.

Farrell fell, striking his head against the bar rail. Beside says he went out and notified Policeman Robinson, whose post included it. When they got back the saloon was closed.

Robinson climbed over a rear fence and entered through a window. Farrell was found in a lavatory, the policeman says, covered with blood. They took him to his home, where he remained unconscious until to-day, when he was removed to the hospital.

William Farrell's informant as to the police assault is Neil Dougherty, of No. 34 South Portland avenue. Dougherty says that he saw a policeman hit Patrick Farrell with a club in the saloon, but he has not said, so far as known, that the policeman was Bossie or Robinson.

Only a Short Time in Board but Became Popular. Alderman Arthur Guthrie, of Brooklyn, died to-day in St. Catherine's Hospital from Bright's disease.

Mr. Guthrie was a captain in the Twenty-seventh Regiment, resided at No. 71 Lee avenue and was in business at No. 23 Front street, Brooklyn. During the short time he was in the Board he became popular with his colleagues. He succeeded Alderman Peck, the Williamsburg Statesman, whom he defeated at the recent election.

SHOOTS WOMAN, THEN HIMSELF

George Bochart and Maria Schultz Found Dead in the Man's Room, in Jersey City—Gas Was Turned On.

INSURANCE POLICY FOR $2,000 IN HIS POCKET.

Woman Was Shot in Left Side of Head and Under the Breast—Big Hole in Bochart's Right Temple.

After drinking two flasks of whiskey, a bottle of Tokay wine, another of cream de menthe and many bottles of beer, George Bochart, twenty-five years old, and Maria Schultz, thirty years old, both of Jersey City, lay down to death to-day in the furnished room rented by Bochart at No. 635 Newark avenue.

In the right hand of Bochart was a revolver, the gas had been turned on for some time before the discovery of the bodies.

The woman was shot in the left side of her head and under the breast. A big hole was bored in the right side of the man's head. When the door of Bochart's room was broken in the woman lay on his left arm, his right arm dangling over the edge of the bed.

Every evidence showed that both had made up their minds to die. There was no confusion or disarrangement of the furniture or the room's belongings. In a pocket of the man was $2,000 life-insurance policy. Several letters were also found in Bochart's clothes.

The woman's body was taken to Muller's undertaking place and that of the man to the morgue.

One of the letters found in Bochart's clothes was addressed to Miss Annie Spears, No. 111 East Fifty-sixth street. It read: "When you receive this I'll be dead, as will my sweetheart. I go to death for love. You will see that my relatives will bury me. I send love for the last time and say good-by."

Another letter was addressed to Olga Fricke, of No. 618 Ninth street. It was: "My last farewell. Forgive me. I send my love. There were many other letters in the dead man's pockets. The room adjoining Bochart's was littered with empty bottles. The signs of many cigarettes were strewn about the bedroom.

Mrs. Schultz was the wife of a saloon-keeper at No. 76 Fillmore avenue. Two years ago he recovered $3,000 for the alienation of his wife's affections. Bochart, appearing as a witness for Schultz, it was Schultz who led the police to-day to Bochart's room.

Enjoined His Wife. Ohio has come to the front with a new injunction. It was granted to a man to prevent his wife from going on a spree, and now she has got to do all the housework or be in contempt of court.

DISFIGURED WITH ECZEMA Under Physicians Five Months. Went from Bad to Worse.

CURED BY CUTICURA Wonderful Change in One Night. In a Month Face Was Clean as Ever.

"I was troubled with eczema on the face for five months during which time I was in the care of physicians. My face was in such a condition that I could not go out. It was going from bad to worse and I gave up all hope, when a friend of mine highly recommended Cuticura Remedies. The first night after I washed my face with Cuticura Soap and used Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent it changed wonderfully, and continuing the treatment it removed all scales and scabs. From that day I was able to go out, and in a month my face was as clean as ever."

THOMAS J. SOTH, 317 Stagg St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The above letter was received in 1898 and he again writes on Feb. 10, 1903, "I have not been troubled with eczema since."

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of scalp, as in scalded head; the facial disfigurement, as in pimples and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants, and anxiety of worried parents, as in milk crust, tetter and salt rheum—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy have made them the standard skin cures of the world.
