

BURIAL HONORS FOR MISSOURI VICTIMS

List of Lives Lost on the Battle-Ship Now Reaches Thirty-one, and One Man Is Missing—President Roosevelt Starts Relief Fund with $100.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—President Roosevelt contributed $100 to-day and Secretary Moody a like amount as the nucleus of a fund for the relief of relatives of enlisted men who lost their lives on the Missouri. The President sent the following letter to the Secretary of the Navy:

"My Dear Mr. Secretary: May I send through you this contribution to be used for the dependent kindfolk of the enlisted men who have just been killed on board the Missouri? Under the conditions of modern warfare, in order efficiently to prepare for war risk must be run similar in kind though not in degree to the risk run in battle, and those men have died for their country as much as if the ship had been in action against the enemy. Sincerely yours, THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

The President also sent the following telegram to Rear-Admiral Barker:

"Am inexpressibly grieved and shocked at the terrible catastrophe. I desire to express to you and the officers and men under you my profound grief and sympathy."

PENSACOOLA, Fla., April 14.—Two more ordinary seamen who were injured in the terrible explosion on board the battle-ship Missouri at target practice yesterday are dead. One died about midnight and the other this morning, after terrible suffering.

There is also one man of the turret crew missing. It is the opinion that he was either blown overboard or escaped from the turret and jumped overboard, crazed by pain and excitement.

Expert turret officers on the vessels in port say the explosion was the result of a blow-back, known as the wind blowing the flames back from the muzzle of the gun and through the open breech, thus igniting the powder charge being hoisted. Capt. Cowles and Lieut. Hammer, the ordnance officer, had taken extra precautions against such an accident and for three days no firing with the large pieces was done on account of the wind being from off shore. Yesterday morning the wind shifted and the officers deemed it safe to resume firing.

DEEMED IT SAFE TO RESUME.

Lieut. Hammer had remained in the turret until the first string of shots had been fired in rapid succession. He thought it was safe to allow the continuation of rapid firing and left the turret to consult with the target expert on board on this matter. Only three shots of the second string had been fired when the explosion occurred. So rapidly was the gun being fired that it is thought some of the fire remained in the barrel and that the powder being hoisted ignited. Officers of the vessel differ in their opinions as to the cause of the explosion, but it is probable that the exact cause will never be known, as there were no survivors among the turret crew.

The Board of Inquiry which convened yesterday afternoon is still in session and will not come to a finding for several days.

Impressive ceremonies were conducted over the graves of the dead seamen this afternoon at the national cemetery at the Navy-Yard. The Missouri moved down the harbor this morning to a point near the yard and at noon the bodies were brought ashore. At 2 o'clock the funeral procession moved to the cemetery, where hundreds of officers and blue-jackets were present and the remains were interred. The bodies of the five dead officers are being held here awaiting advice as to burial arrangements.

MIRACLE, NAVAL MEN SAY.

That the battle-ship Missouri floats to-day instead of being at the bottom of the sea with her 600 men, is one of the miracles of the accident in which twenty-nine men lost their lives yesterday, that naval men cannot understand.

Within a few feet of the four charges of powder which caused the second explosion was the magazine containing thousands of pounds of high explosives. That a blast which literally tore men to pieces, wrecked powerful iron and brass work and melted the brass fittings of the magazine could occur within a few feet of thousands of pounds of powerful explosives and not set them off is incredible to experts. Yet that is just what happened, and the United States owes its continued possession of the big ship and the lives of its officers and men to one of those mysteries of Providence that there is no explaining.

There isn't an officer on the Missouri to-day but feels that in spite of the disaster that occurred, a much worse tragedy was barely averted. There is no doubt that the courage and coolness of Capt. Cowles and his officers and the prompt response of the men to the fire call saved the ship, for the magazine, which withstood the awful explosion, could not have long stood out against the flames, the flying sparks and the streams of molten metal that flowed in dangerous proximity.

RUSSIANS BADLY CRIPPLED BY JAPS

miral Ouktomsky's report. The Japs, evidently anxious to follow up their advantages, were sending shells at the fortifications at a terrific rate. It appears to be their determination to reduce the stronghold this time at any cost.

OFFICIAL REPORT OF RUSSIAN TRAGEDY.

TOKIO, April 14.—It was not a Russian mine, but a Japanese torpedo which sunk the battle-ship Petropavlovsk at the mouth of the harbor of Port Arthur in Wednesday's fighting. Rear-Admiral Uriu's official report on the engagement has been received and it mentions the destruction of a torpedo boat destroyer as well as a battleship of the Petropavlovsk class, by which Admiral Makaroff's sunken flagship is evidently meant.

The Japanese had no losses. One Japanese sailor was wounded, but not seriously.

Admiral Uriu's report is a preliminary one and very brief. It merely says that the disasters to the Russian battle-ship and destroyer were the result of an attack made on Port Arthur by his fleet in the morning. A detailed report of the action is hourly expected.

GREATEST NAVAL FIGHT IN HISTORY.

This full report is awaited with the greatest interest for the action was undoubtedly the greatest battle of fighting ships that the world has ever seen. The full Japanese force was engaged and every available ship that Makaroff had sailed out with him to meet the Japanese. History doesn't record another fight between such formidable craft, and the fact that Admiral Uriu has officially declared that not a man was lost and not a ship disabled, indicates a complete triumph for the Japanese.

News from other sources that is not official has it that in addition to the disasters to the Russians reported by Admiral Uriu the cruiser Bayan was badly damaged and only escaped being sunk by the assistance of the Askold and another cruiser, which covered her retreat when she was being pounded by the fire of five Japanese warships.

The Bayan was cut off after the big fight, and it is reported that she was trying to get back to the protection of the land guns, when five Japanese warships got at her. She was in pretty desperate straits when the Askold and another cruiser came to her assistance. It is not reported that the Askold or the ship that fought with her to save the Bayan was damaged.

"MONK" EASTMAN IS CONVICTED

Jury in Case of Notorious East-Side Thug Found Guilty of Assault and He May Get a Ten-Year Term.

WILL BE SENTENCED ON NEXT TUESDAY.

Jurors Were Out More than Two Hours—Convicted Man's Attorney Made a Strong Plea in Behalf of Client.

"Monk" Eastman was convicted this afternoon of assault in the first degree before Recorder Goff. The limit of sentence that may be imposed is ten years, minus three years for exceptional behavior. It is generally believed that the notorious thug will receive the full extent of the law's punishment.

The jury was out two hours and fifteen minutes. In all three ballots were taken. On the first ballot eleven men stood pat for conviction of attempt to murder. The twelfth juror was firm against this verdict being returned, and said that he would stand out all night and the next day, too, if they tried to force it upon him. The same state of affairs existed after the second ballot. Then a compromise was effected and the twelve men united on a verdict of assault.

The original charge was for attempt to murder two Pinkerton men, Rogers and Bryan. Monk Eastman and his bank made a free gun fight on the corner of Sixth avenue and Forty-second street. The Pinkerton men said they were there to protect a "drunken kid," the identity of whom was not disclosed in the trial.

When the foreman of the jury announced the verdict Monk Eastman was standing near his counsel. He took the return with equanimity and in certain bravado. He was remanded to the Tombs and will be sentenced on Tuesday.

Assistant District-Attorney Rand, who represented the State, said that the conviction would break up the notorious gang. In answering Attorney Hurbit to-day he made a scathing arraignment of the prisoner. The charge of Recorder Goff was considered very important. He told the jury that they must either acquit or convict.

EAST-SIDE JOAN OF ARC EVICTED

Bertha E. Leibson, Seventeen-Year-Old Fighter Against Increased Rents, and Her Aged Parents Put Out of Home.

Bertha E. Leibson, the seventeen-year-old girl who has won the title of "Joan of Arc" on the east side through her spirited epistles denouncing the landlords, was with her aged father and mother and her younger brother, to-day dispossessed from their home, at No. 246 Second street.

The family's household goods were dumped unceremoniously into the street by a city marshal amid the muttering of a great crowd that collected. The

FEDERAL BANK BESIEGED BY 300 DEPOSITORS

Police Summoned to Preserve Order at Grand Street Branch of Broadway Institution Closed by Order of Superintendent of Banks.

The Federal Bank, a State institution, which was started at No. 599 Broadway in 1902, and which recently opened an East Side branch at Grand and Orchard streets, was closed to-day by Bank Superintendent Kilburn. The closing of the main bank on Broadway produced no excitement. The institution had few depositors and its business was light.

The closing of the East Side branch, however, brought some 300 foreigners with bank books to the doors, and they clamored so for their money and made such a general disturbance that several policemen were sent to the bank from the Edridge street station to keep them in order. The crowd is increasing, and it is feared that there may be a demonstration.

No statement is forthcoming from the officers of the bank, their lawyers or the examiners in charge as to the reason for the closing. The notice posted on the doors of the bank is as follows:

"I have taken possession of this bank pending an examination into its condition and its affairs generally."

"F. D. KILBURN, Superintendent of Banks," State Bank Examiner Judson, who is in charge of the books of the Federal Bank, made the following statement this afternoon:

"This bank was closed because Superintendent of Banks, who is in charge of the books of the Federal Bank, made the following statement this afternoon:

crowd grew to such proportions as the clamor of the young girl's friends increased that police were hurried to the scene. Their presence prevented any outbreak.

The young woman admitted that her father was prosperous and well able to pay the rent they had been paying. She declared, however, that Henry Rosenberg, her landlord, had raised their rent from $23 a month to $25 without notice.

"We are in the habit," she said, "of having our rent every fortnight. On April 5 my father paid the landlord $12. That would leave $11 due on the 19th of the month. But without any warning the landlord came down on us and demanded $25. I told him the rent was not due until the 19th. He declared that it made no difference. If we refused to pay the $25 he would have us dispossessed immediately. He said he could have us ejected if we only owed the landlord ten cents."

Twelve years ago we came from Russia to escape oppression. My father and Mrs. Leibson became tragically elderly. "We have found a greater tyranny here," they said, "than we had in Odessa. There a landlord could not take such high-handed measures. If any man goes to confine my work in behalf of my poor neighbors and do anything in my power to champion their cause, we will have no trouble in finding shelter for a few days, as a neighbor will take us in temporarily at No. 246 Second street."

Overstocked—that's the reason in a single word. We made up entirely too many Suits, entirely too many Spring Overcoats, entirely too many Raincoats and Trousers and Vests. Too many of everything, in fact, and hence the necessity of a big, quick unloading all through the store.

Most New Yorkers know that we never do things by halves. We now take this entire new splendid stock and slash prices in a way that would be sensational even at the season's end. At greatly reduced figures you can now buy the very best goods we know how to make. We quote only a few prices. All through the stock are the same sort of reductions:

1200 Men's Spring Suits

Of splendid tested chevrons, cassimeres, worsteds, &c.; plain and fancy, cut on the strictly correct lines of our highest priced garments and extra well tailored. The custom suit at $16 or $18 is not so good; the one at $20 is no better.

We GUARANTEE these to be the BEST VALUE and the most permanently satisfactory clothes ever sold at $15; sale price.....

700 Spring Overcoats

And almost as many Raincoats. There are blacks, there are Oxfords, there are covers, there are the richest of this season's mixtures, as well as plain fabrics. There are Long Coats, Medium Coats, Short Box Coats and Small Raincoats. Coats with broad, athletic shoulders. Coats that are swagger in cut as well as in fabric. Every man's size and every man's taste. The best $12 and $15 garments that ever were shown in New York. Sale price.....

Men's Trousers

JURY FINDS WOMAN GUILTY OF MURDER

Mrs. Anna Valentine, Who Stabbed Her Victim Seventeen Times, Confesses and Says She Is Willing to Die.

(Special to The Evening World.) HACKENSACK, N. J., April 13.—Mrs. Anna Valentine, of Lodi, who stabbed Mrs. Rosie Sabza seventeen times on March 10, was this afternoon convicted of murder in the first degree in the Hackensack court.

On the witness stand the woman confessed the crime and said she was prepared to die.

"The institution owes between $400,000 and $500,000. I don't know what its assets are."

The present officers of the Federal Bank are William M. Woods, President; Robert A. Doolittle, cashier. Mr. Woods was formerly credit man in the Importers and Traders' Bank, and both he and Mr. Doolittle bought the stock.

Mr. Rothchild retired from the bank as the result of criticism aimed at him, not for his conduct of the institution, but because of his alleged connection with a money lending company. About the same time it developed that the Federal Bank was doing a general business in rug auctions in different parts of the country. It advertised that it had a lot of rugs on hand which it had taken as security for a loan and that it would sell at a great sacrifice. The bank sold many rugs in different cities.

Radium on View.

Regal Shoe Stores Displaying Tubes of the Rare and Marvellous Metal.

The twenty-two retail shoe stores of the Regal Shoe Co. in Greater New York are exhibiting tubes of Radium—imported from the Paris laboratory of Mme. Curie, the famous discoverer.

Each tube is shown encased as elaborately as if it were a splendid diamond—and with reason, for at the present time Radium is estimated to be worth about $8,000,000.00 per pound.

Interesting radiographs taken by Radium, and samples of ore—one a specimen of Bohemian Pitchblende, from which Radium comes—are also displayed.

To attest the genuineness of the Radium exhibits, the following letter is hung in the Regal windows: New York, Feb. 13, 1904. Regal Shoe Co., 109 Summer St., Boston, Mass.: Gentlemen: The material contained in the tubes furnished by the L. D. Gardner Co. for exhibition in your stores, has been submitted to me for examination.

I have made tests by the electrical method, and can state for your information that real Radium is present. Yours very truly, (Signed) GEO. B. PEGRAM, Ph. D., Prof. of Physics, Columbia University.

I hereby certify that the above is a true copy of the original letter on file at the office of the Regal Shoe Co., No. 101-111 Summer St., Boston, Mass. (Signed) Prescott I. Hersey, Notary Public.
