BIG REWARD FOR GIRL AND HER KIDNAPPER

Fund to Aid in Search for Little McCahill Child Is Started by Senator James Frawley and Merchants on the Lower East Side of Harlem.

Roused by the wide publicity given the probable kidnapping of little Josephine McCahill and following the example set by Senator Frawley in offering $1,000 for the finding of the girl and the arrest of the kidnapper, most of the merchants along Third avenue and in the lower east side of Harlem are to-day taking subscriptions to the reward fund.

One merchant started off his list with a subscription of $50 and others have done likewise. It is possible that the reward, with what has been offered by Senator Frawley, may reach $5,000.

Isaac A. Hopper, Superintendent of the Bureau of Buildings, said to-day that he would be willing to give $500 to the reward fund. He will cooperate through Senator Frawley.

"Having taken a great personal interest in the kidnapping of Josephine McCahill, I wish The Evening World would offer in my name a reward of $1,000 for the finding of the child and for the arrest of the kidnapper," said State Senator James Frawley to-day.

BELIEVES CHILD WAS STOLEN.

"I sincerely believe now that the child was stolen by some one who wanted a pretty child to raise, and who disregarded the anguish it would cause the mother."

"The McCahills are neighbors of mine and I do not want any better. I have been to see the distressed mother and her grief has appealed to me greatly."

"To the person or persons who find that child and cause the arrest of the man who stole her I will pay $1,000 in cash."

"I cannot afford this myself, but I know that in my district alone I would not have the least trouble in raising any amount I wished to name as long as it would return the child to her mother and punish the guilty."

"From now on I shall take an active personal interest in this case and, co-operating with the police, we shall see what can be done."

"No expense will be spared in the search for the child and her abductor. If she is alive she must be found. And with her must come the man who stole her. If this thing is now permitted to die out and be forgotten it would be a disgrace, not only to my district, but to the whole city. It would mean that kidnapping would become a common thing and that kidnappers would steal children without fear of detection or punishment. We will find Josephine, if she is alive, and we will also get the individual who stole her."

Since her disappearance one week ago to-day not one word has been heard from little Josephine.

Her widowed mother, Mrs. Bridget McCahill, is to-day in the throes of a nervous collapse in her home, at No. 1839 Third avenue, and the doctors say that unless the child is found soon she will become a raving maniac.

COLLISION ON THIRD AVE. "L."

heard for blocks, immediately filled the passengers of all the cars of both trains with the greatest terror. Screaming and yelling, they fought their way to the gates and open windows.

The fear of the passengers and also of the train crews was augmented when the shattered cars caught fire amid a great hissing of sparks and flames. Several of the guards were hurled over the gates in the rush of passengers. In their wild scramble to get out, both men and women disregarded the presence of the deadly third rail.

Many would have been killed on the rail had they not impeded their progress in their efforts to push by each other and thus gave sufficient time to the "L" employees to turn off the power.

FIREMEN AID IN RESCUES.

The collision was seen by a number of policemen in the street, who rushed to the telephone and sent for aid. A fire alarm was also sent in and in a few minutes ladders were thrown up on the Elevated structure and the still struggling passengers were carried safely to the street. Reserves were immediately dispatched to the scene from the East Thirty-fifth, East Fifty-first and East Sixty-seventh street stations. By the time they got there, however, all but two of the passengers were taken down safely by the firemen and the blazing cars were drenched with water.

A young man, who was caught in wreckage near the body of Motorman Cornell, was dragged out by the firemen. He is H. McDermott, of No. 502 West Forty-ninth street. He was taken to the Flower Hospital, where it was found that his left leg was crushed and he was badly bruised.

JUST ESCAPED DEATH.

H. F. Trescott, of No. 211 East One Hundred and Sixteenth street, only escaped death in the telegraph car by throwing himself out of the window when he saw the train behind bearing down upon him. He luckily landed on the wooden platform beside the tracks and only suffered a severe bruising.

So great was the force of the collision that the rear car of the foremost train was torn open for more than half its length and all but thrown off the structure into the street.

When the firemen and Policeman Snyder, of the East Fifty-first street station, climbed up on the structure to rescue the passengers they found Motorman Cornell wedged in his cab with twisted iron and wood. Though he was dead, the firemen worked frantically to cut him out of his box and were severely burned in the course of their efforts.

Upon releasing him they carried the body to the street, where Dr. Wilkes, of the Presbyterian Hospital, declared that he had been killed instantly.

It will take many hours to chop away the wreckage and clear the track for traffic. Meanwhile passengers were transferred to the Second avenue

CHECKS BEFORE WOODEND CRASH

Cashier Rumley Drew One for the Doctor for $5,500, and on Day of Failure Cashed One for $1,550 for Himself.

The failure of either Dr. William E. Woodend or his wife to appear before United States Commissioner Hitchcock in involuntary bankruptcy proceedings to-day resulted in an application to Judge Holt, in the United States District Court, for a physician to examine the couple, and to report at once on their physical condition.

Receiver Abraham Gruber informed Judge Holt that he had been badly treated by the Woodends, who had promised through their attorneys to be present to-day. He had taken the additional precaution, he said, of serving Mrs. Woodend on Saturday night, and leaving with her a subpoena for her husband, which she promised to serve.

Certificate on Way Down.

B. W. Wilson, attorney for the Woodends, said that a doctor's certificate was on the way down which would prove that the Woodends were unable to attend the hearing. Judge Holt then appointed Dr. George McClellan to examine Dr. and Mrs. Woodend and report at once on their condition. Incidentally the Court said:

"Without reference to this case, I want to say that the other day a certificate was presented here which was manifestly false. The practice of presenting doctor's certificates when there is really no illness is getting to be a very extensive one and must cease. All such certificates should be looked into, by matter what doctor's name is signed. Judge Holt referred to the case of Miss Heany, who was the cashier of the Globe Security Company. The Rothschild lawyers presented a doctor's certificate that she was unable to appear in court. The physician was appointed by the Court and reported at once that Miss Heany was in perfect health. She was ordered to appear in court forthwith and did present herself."

May Move for Contempt.

After the appointment of Dr. McClellan Col. Gruber announced that if it turned out that the Woodends were not ill he would move the Court at once to punish them for their contempt.

In the absence of the Woodends the principal witness examined to-day was Cashier R. D. Rumley, of Woodend & Co., who next to Dr. Woodend himself is credited with knowing more about the operations of the firm than anybody.

The examination of Mr. Rumley revealed many interesting things, the most important to the receiver being that two days before the collapse Dr. Woodend had Rumley draw a check in his favor for $5,500 and that the following day, April 28, Rumley drew a check to himself for $1,550. He alleged that this was due him for back salary, and when Col. Gruber asked if he was ready to turn it in with the rest of the assets he said he was not. After Rumley left the stand Col. Gruber told him he was going to attach the money.

"Won't you be satisfied with a split?" asked Rumley.

"I want it all," said Col. Gruber, said Rumley.

"Well, you'll have to collect it, then."

Bucket-Shop Charges.

Through Dr. William E. Woodend, his beautiful wife, Cashier Rumley and Mr. Donovan, Dr. Woodend's stenographer, Receiver Gruber hopes to show that the collapsed firm of Woodend & Co. was one of a string of bucket shops which covered one another's transactions by a system of interlocking orders. It is not strictly within the province of Receiver Gruber to show that Woodend & Co. bucketed orders instead of executing them, but the general belief that men of standing in Wall street, whose names have not yet come out in the case, were behind Dr. Woodend has opened the way to a more thorough investigation than is generally pursued in a bankruptcy proceeding.

Neither Doctor nor Mrs. Woodend was accessible to visitors to-day. When an Evening World reporter called at their home to ascertain the nature of the illness which prevented their appearance in court, a friend of the family who would not disclose his name made this statement:

"Mrs. Woodend has been ill since the failure. At no time has she been in condition to undergo the trial of a public examination. Dr. Woodend thought he would be able to go on the witness stand to-day but was taken ill with a stomach complaint on Saturday afternoon and has not been well since."

FOUNDLING IN HALLWAY.

As Herman Bischoff was returning to his home, No. 182 Park avenue, last night he found a male child about four months old lying in the hallway of the flat-house in which he lives. He carried the infant to the East One Hundred and Fourth street station, and it was later taken to Bellevue Hospital. The child was well dressed, all in white, the clothing being of excellent quality.

Swift & Company's sales of fresh beef in New York City for week ending Saturday, May 7th, averaged 4785 per lb.

DALNY IS CAPTURED; RUSSIANS IN COREA

Gen. Kuropatkin Sends Troops Across the Yalu River, Possibly to Flank the Japanese Forces—Next Battle Predicted for Liaoyang.

LONDON, May 9.—The capture of Dalny by the Japanese has been confirmed from various sources and the prediction is made that Port Arthur will fall within two weeks.

A despatch from Gensan, on the east coast of Corea, states that a large Russian force, accompanied by many Manchurian mounted bandits, crossed the Yalu far above Wiju, the Japanese base, four days ago, and moved southeast, occupying Chang Jin.

This place is 100 miles west of Song Jin. Nothing further has been heard of the movements of this Russian body, which was probably sent into Corea to harass the Japanese outposts and perhaps cover other movements.

It is believed that Gen. Kuropatkin may have in mind a design for flanking the Japanese along the Yalu.

NEXT BATTLE AT LIAO-YANG.

Baron Hayashi, the Japanese Minister to England, who has thus far accurately forecasted the Japanese plan of campaign, thinks that the next big battle will take place at Liao-Yang. Since the Russians have abandoned Fengwangcheng, the next place at which they could possibly make a stand is Liao-Yang. The Russians are in good position there and ought to put up a stiff defense. Baron Hayashi believes that if Gen. Kuropatkin has been able to get sufficient troops down from Siberia he will even take the offensive.

3 MEN HURT AT HOBOKEN FIRE

Ladder Falls and Charles Henderson, One of the Victims, Is So Seriously Injured that He Will Die.

Three men were badly injured, one of them so seriously that he may die, at a fire this afternoon in the pattern shop of the Fletcher Machine Works, at the foot of Thirteenth street, Hoboken.

The injured men are: Charles Hendrickson, of Paterson Plank road, West Hoboken. He was removed to St. Mary's Hospital, where it is said he will die. He is injured internally.

James Haig, of No. 210 Marion street, Hoboken, fell from a ladder; injuries not serious.

Joseph Rensland, of No. 810 Violet street, West Hoboken, and Frank Drawers, of No. 921 Garden street, Hoboken.

When the fire was discovered the employees put up a ladder alongside the building. Hendrickson grabbed one end of the hose and started up the ladder, the other three following close behind. When Hendrickson reached the top of the ladder he gave the signal to the men below to turn on the water. Immediately several of the employees ran to turn on the water and left the ladder with no one to steady it from the bottom. The sudden rush of the water caused the ladder to slip on the wall and the three men who were climbing it, throwing all four to the ground. Hendrickson was unconscious when picked up.

The city fire department soon put out the blaze.

MORE SUSPENSIONS LIKELY. Consolidated Exchange Governors Pass on Suspected Members.

The Board of Governors of the Consolidated Exchange met this afternoon to act on the suggestion of a committee that were appointed recently to investigate certain members of the Exchange who had been suspected of bucket office practices.

It is believed that as a result of this meeting additional suspensions will be announced from the Chairman's seat to-morrow after the opening of the Exchange.

LAWYER A SUICIDE.

DETROIT, May 8.—Edward A. Gott, a well known lawyer of this city, formerly connected with the Wabash legal staff here, committed suicide at his home, No. 74 Woodward avenue, to-day.

19 YEARS FOR STEALING $302

Thomas Costelloe, in Brooklyn Navy-Yard Paymaster's Department, Goes to Prison Virtually for Life.

Bent with thirty years of toil over the great ledgers of the Paymaster's Department of the Brooklyn Navy-Yard and prematurely aged through the monotonous drudgery of his labor, Thomas Costelloe was sentenced in the United States District Court to-day to serve five years' imprisonment with hard labor in Sing Sing Prison and pay a fine of $5,000, in default of which his sentence will be extended one day for each dollar, aggregating fourteen years.

Practically this is a life sentence for one of the oldest employees of the Navy Department, and according to his own confession, Costelloe stole $17,000 from the Government in the past few years. He made this confession in spite of the fact that he was charged with the theft of only $302.50.

Costelloe is fifty-two years old, though in appearance he looks fifteen years older. For more than twenty-five years he worked over his ledgers faithfully, handling great sums of money. His post was one of unusual trust, and so great a faith had his employers in his honesty that his books rarely came under their scrutiny.

SHAW FIXES THE PANAMA PAYMENT

Warrant for $40,000,000 Turned Over to J. P. Morgan & Co., Security Taken and Money Market Secured.

After a full day's work Secretary of the Treasury Shaw this afternoon transferred to the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. the $40,000,000 warrant which will enable the firm to make the final payments to the Panama Company.

Mr. Shaw arrived at the Sub-Treasury at 10:30 o'clock and was at once clothed with Assistant Secretary Fish. Soon George W. Perkins, Temple Bowdoin and Charles Steacie, of the Morgan firm, arrived, and after them Frank A. Vandervort, the representative of the National City Bank appeared.

About 11 o'clock a wagon drove from the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. to the rear of the Sub-Treasury and unloaded about $25,000,000 of cash and bonds, which were turned in as security for the payment by J. P. Morgan & Co. of the Panama Company's debt. The counting of the coin and checking of bonds proved such a big task that an extra force of clerks was called in to assist.

After J. P. Morgan & Co. had delivered the $25,000,000 in securities as its bond, and the guarantee had been approved, the warrant was issued to the firm for the $40,000,000.

In order not to disturb the money market the bankers placed $25,000,000 of their credit in the various banks holding Government money, while at the same time these banks gave checks aggregating $27,000,000 to the Sub-Treasury. Both the Morgan checks for deposit with the bank and the checks to the Sub-Treasury will pass through the Clearing House at the same time, the banks only receiving $2,000,000 of deposits. The transaction, the remaining $15,000,000 will be withdrawn from the Treasury.

MINISTERS DISCUSS SUNDAY BASEBALL

The question of Sunday baseball came up before the Methodist Preachers Meeting at No. 159 Fifth avenue, to-day. Rev. Dr. A. W. Byrt, president of the Brooklyn Preachers' Meeting, and Superintendent of the Brooklyn Church Society, said that if professional baseball is permitted in Brooklyn, it will extend to other localities.

"I have never said that I was in favor of amateur baseball on Sunday," Mr. Byrt continued. "If a young man should ask me about it, I would advise him to devote his Sundays to pursuing that which would develop his spiritual nature, even were it to cost professional training, if necessary. On the other hand, I do not try to secure the arrest of any boy I see playing ball in a vacant lot on Sunday, or any man whom I may see fishing on that day. If we should try to do that, we should probably get into a good deal of trouble. But regular professional baseball means the gathering of great crowds and the serious interruption of the peace and quiet of Sunday. The fact that a charge is made for programs, and not for tickets, is a mere subterfuge. Unless prompt and effective action is taken, such games will become a regular institution here as they are in Chicago."

It was decided that a committee should be appointed to consider the matter, and report next Monday. The committee includes Dr. Byrt, the Rev. Dr. Thomas Bond, of the New York Conference, and the Rev. M. S. Grant, of the Newark Conference.

The Wanamaker Store

Store Closes at 5:30 P. M. Linens—A New Connection and Some Resulting Profit to You

We have recently opened new business relations with one of the largest linen manufacturers in Ireland who made unusual inducements to get us started. Today the first shipment of our large initial order reaches us. We have followed the course of the maker, in setting a very low price on these handsome, pure linens.

The result is a series of offerings that, for excellence and attractiveness, will be hard to equal, in the present state of the linen market. They include Table Linen by the yard, Table Cloths and Napkins, in a variety of grades, and in great assortment of new and beautiful patterns.
