

LENA GETS 2 MONTHS TO REPAIR HERE

President Roosevelt When Transport Lena Case Is Referred to Him Gives Full Power to State and Navy Departments in Matter.

Admiral Goodrich, After an Official Inspection of the Vessel, Decides that She Needs Temporary Repairs in Order to Enable Her to Put to Sea.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—By direction of the President, the Navy and State departments are to handle and dispose of the entire situation arising out of the arrival at San Francisco of the Russian ship Lena.

He has been instructed by Secretary Morton to ascertain whether it will be possible for the Lena to complete repairs necessary to make her seaworthy within a reasonable time.

TWO MONTHS THE LIMIT. If not, the Lena, in the opinion of the officials here, will dismantle in San Francisco rather than accept the other alternative of putting to sea in an unseaworthy condition.

Capt. Pillsbury, of the Bureau of Navigation, Navy Department, upon the receipt of the report of Admiral Goodrich, covering a statement of Lieutenant-Commander Herliert as to the condition of the Lena's boilers, communicated the information to the President, and then held a conference with Acting Secretary Murray, of the Department of Commerce and Labor.

It was ascertained that the officials were determined in their action by Section 5,283 of the Revised Statutes, contained in circular No. 29 of the Department of Commerce and Labor, and referred to in the department's reply to the Collector's telegram yesterday.

LAW NAMES THE PRESIDENT.

It shall be lawful for the President, or such person as he shall empower for that purpose, to employ such part of the land or naval forces of the United States, or of the militia thereof, as shall be necessary to compel any foreign vessel to depart from the United States in all cases in which, by the laws of nations or the treaties of the United States, she ought not to remain within the United States.

Under the construction put upon this section, it was held that the President alone had authority to act.

When this decision was reached the matter was laid before the President, and he, as stated above, left it to the State and Navy departments.

Admiral Goodrich moved in the matter of the Russian transport Lena with an energy which has earned him the praise of the Navy Department officials here.

His report to-day was presented to Capt. Pillsbury, the Acting Chief of the Navigation Bureau.

WIG WAM WOULD SUPPORT JEROME FOR GOVERNOR

Charles F. Murphy Declares that the Tammany Organization Will Help Elect District-Attorney if He Is Nominated.

Charles F. Murphy was at Tammany Hall early to-day and appeared to be very busy.

Mr. Murphy declined to discuss the platform of the party Tammany will play in its building. Asked about a charge in a morning newspaper that he and Gov. Odell have an understanding, he replied:

"We have, it is understood between us that we will fight each other to the finish."

That Mr. Jerome expects to be regular if by any chance he is the Democratic nominee for Governor is evident by the many changes he has made in the personnel of his office.

Mr. Murphy was asked about a report that he was actively opposing the nomination of District-Attorney Jerome. He said:

"Tammany is not for any one or against any one. Whoever is selected by the Democratic convention to head the State ticket will receive the loyal support of Tammany. If Mr. Jerome is nominated you can rest assured that he will have the hearty support of our organization."

"Do you think the Democrats will carry New York State?" was asked of Mr. Murphy.

"Unquestionably," was the reply in a voice which indicated absolute certainty.

M'ADOO TO REDUCE 100 DETECTIVE-SERGEANTS

Put Into Department by Politics, He Says They Are of No Use, and He Means to Get Some Police Service Out of Them.

Police Commissioner McAdoo announced this afternoon that many transfers from the Detective Bureau are about to be made.

While there are many men in the Detective Bureau who have done valuable service, others were simply pitched into the department for political reasons and have never done any patrol duty.

"I had made up my mind to make these changes before Mr. Jerome offered his most recent criticism."

LAWYER THOUGHT BIG CROWD SAW CALLER WAS CRAZY

Had Policeman Arrest a Big Six-Footer, but Trouble Turned Out to Be a Family Dispute, Which Apology Ended.

James Armstrong, a lawyer of No. 12 Broadway, called Policeman Sharp, of the Church street station, into his office this afternoon.

After throwing Christopher Rohersen, of No. 360 Columbus avenue, from the driver's seat and crushing out his life under the wheels of the big brewery wagon and severing the head from the body, a pair of big gray horses to-day raced along Thirteenth street to Broadway and caused a wild panic at the crossings in the downtown mercantile section.

They were stopped by Policeman Rooney, of the East Fifth street station, who risked his life in checking the runaway.

Rohersen had driven a wagon of the Lion Brewery Company for many years. He was married and forty years old.

With a large load of kegs he was turning the southwest corner of Thirteenth street and Third avenue, when the horses became frightened at a passing automobile and started to run.

The wheels of the wagon caught on the curb and the driver threw the driver into the street, directly in the pathway of the front left wheels, which passed over his neck and completely severed Rohersen's spinal vein.

The rear wheel completed the decapitation of the driver.

Thoroughly frightened, the horses began to run for their stables, and gathering headway on account of the great weight of the vehicle they lumbered along knocking light rigs aside and drawing a crowd as they moved in the direction of Broadway.

Policeman Rooney, standing at his post at the Broadway crossing, saw the approaching runaway team, with the beer kegs tumbling in its rear.

Dashing into the middle of the street, he halted the runaway team and several light rigs. Then he returned to the middle of Thirteenth street, and running along with the wagon, he climbed upon the step and thence along the side, gathering up the reins.

There were wild cheers from the crowd as the officer pulled up the team in the center of Broadway.

The driver was killed almost instantly. The arrival of an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital was tardy.

The wheels of the brewery wagon were covered with the blood of the dead man. The crowd turned in and helped restore the team which had dropped from the wagon, but when the excitement was over the police looked for but could find no trace of the automobile, which was the original cause of the happening.

INCENDIARY BLAZE KILLS SEVEN, INJURES MANY

Sleeping Families in First Street Tenement Are Hemmed In by Flames and Smoke—One Whole Family Wiped Out.

Seven persons were suffocated and many others were injured in a fire of incendiary origin that destroyed the five-story tenement at No. 70 First street to-day.

THE DEAD. Anton Konnowitz, thirty-five years old, a cloakmaker. Annie Konnowitz, thirty-two, his wife. Two twin baby boys, three weeks old. Antoin Talcorry, about twenty-six. Antoin Klesovitz, about twenty-five. Unknown Pole, a boarder with the Konnowitz family.

SERIOUSLY INJURED. Berko Landman, thirty-eight, burned about face and hands; Bellevue Hospital. Miss Susie Zarger, thirty-six, broken leg and shoulder, internal injuries. Jacob Soffa, burned about face and hands. Isidore Soffa, hair singed and hands badly burned. Alfred Hurley, burns about face and body.

That the fire was of incendiary origin is proved by the fact that it started simultaneously in three places, the first floor, the fourth and fifth floors.

An abortive attempt to set the building afire was discovered last Thursday. William Shreman, the caretaker, left a broom in the hallway of the first floor, Jacob Soffa, a tenant, on coming home late, found a fire made of kerosene-soaked paper piled about the broom burning.

In No. 7, across the street, early to-day Mrs. Luois Bannow was nursing her sick child. She saw the smoke and flames across the street, and leaned out of her window, shouting "Fire!"

On the corner below stood a crowd of five young fellows including Kid Foley, a light-weight pugilist, and Charles Katz. They ran up and Mrs. Bannow told them the house across the street was on fire.

Three of the five ran to send in the alarm and get the police. Foley and Katz ran across to arouse the tenants of the burning building. The smoke was pouring out in volumes and flames were to be seen on the fourth floor.

Foley and Katz climbed up over the awning to the first floor. Foley smashed a window and crawled in, followed by Katz. Foley found a baby choking from the smoke and climbed out with it, lowering himself and the child safely to the ground.

Katz ran up the stairs to the third floor, shouting, and found Jacob Soffa's baby. He grabbed it and started for the awning again, but was stopped by Soffa, who dragged him and Mrs. Soffa toward the stairs.

The flames were eating the stairs between the first and second floors, but Katz covered the infant with his coat and dashed through. Soffa pushed his wife through the flames, which ignited her nightdress, but in doing so burned his own hands badly. He was treated by a Bellevue ambulance surgeon.

In the mean time Policemen Fitzgerald, Wynne, Auld, Scherers and Cahill had arrived, and were doing their best to rescue the tenants of the doomed building and quiet those in Nos. 68 and 72.

Policeman Auld went up the fire-escapes to the third floor and found lying near the window Mrs. Clara Hurley, who had fainted in the excitement and smoke. Her husband, Alfred Hurley, had already reached the street, although he suffered slight burns. Auld took the woman to the sidewalk.

POLICE FORM A LIVING CHAIN. No. 68 is a seven-story building, occupied by about twenty families. The cornice on the first floor up hangs two feet higher than the cornice of No. 70, and the policemen rushed through No. 68 and made their way to this cornice. They formed a living chain and passed one after another of the panic-stricken tenants of No. 70 to safety.

Some of those rescued in this way were Minnie Lipman, Harry Lipman, Max Lipman, Jacob Lipman, Harry George, Clara Hussey and Minnie Smith. Susie Zarger, thirty-eight years old, who lived on the second floor, slipped and fell while Policeman Auld was reaching for her. She fell to the ground and her left leg and shoulder were broken and she sustained internal injuries. She was taken to Bellevue.

Berko Landman and wife, who lived on the top floor, had been aroused by the cries of Katz and Foley, and had stopped to grab up a few of their belongings. They started down the fire-escape, and as they did so the flames leaped from the windows of the third floor and completely enveloped the fire-escape.

Landman pushed his wife through the flames to the second floor, where she was caught by Policeman Auld and carried down to the ground. Landman climbed down through the flames and was badly burned. He was taken to Bellevue.

Mrs. Konnowitz had been aroused by the fire and had rushed for her twin boys, born three weeks ago. She had fallen suffocated as she reached their bed, but her last thought had evidently been of them, for her body was found lying across them and her arms spread out as though to shield them.

The twins had been suffocated by the smoke.

Capt. McDermott said after the fire there was not the slightest doubt that it was of incendiary origin. The attempt of last week to burn the building and the fact that the fire of to-day started in three different spots at the same time, proved this conclusively. He reported the facts to the Fire Marshal and a searching investigation will be made to-day.

WRECK BLOCKS TRAFFIC. METUCHEN, N. J., Sept. 13.—Traffic over the Pennsylvania Railroad was blocked for two hours this afternoon by a small freight wreck just west of here.

The wreck caused the officials of the road considerable inconvenience, and until the tracks were cleared all trains had to be sent around by way of the Amboy Division.

Four freight cars of a long train jumped the track and were overturned. No one was injured.
